THE LONE STAR Conference men's and women's basketball schedules are somewhat confusing this year.

The Javelinas, and other Lone Star Conference schools, will play five conference games that won't count in the LSC standings.

The first of these will come this week when the Javelinas host Texas-Permian Basin and Angelo State.

The others are Dec. 18 with St. Edward's, Dec. 20 against St. Mary's and Jan. 13 with Texas A&M International.

The first conference game for the Javelinas will be Dec. 31 when Lubbock Christian comes to the Steinke Center.

THE TEXAS-PERMIAN Basin men's basketball team has seven transfers from Arkansas-Monticello.

Kyle Tolin, the new Falcon coach, was at Arkansas-Monticello for seven years before taking the UTPB job in August.

MISSOURI BAPTIST JOINED the ranks of NCAA Division II and NAIA basketball teams to defeat Division I opponents when it downed Southeastern Missouri last week.

The Redhawks won by a 71-63 score.

The Javelinas played Missouri Baptist, an NAIA school, Saturday in San Angelo and downed the Redhawks, 75-55.

EIGHT MEMBERS OF the Javelina indoor track and field team will open the season this weekend in Pittsburg, Kan.

Pittsburg State has a new indoor facility and it has become a popular site for meets throughout the winter.

It will host six meets this season and will be the site of the NCAA Division II national meet March 11-12.

ONE LONE STAR Conference player was among the eight from NCAA Division II Super Region 4 that is a nominee for the Harlon Hill Award this year.

The Harlon Hill Award goes to the NCAA Division II football player of the year.

The LSC nominee is Dillon Sterling-Cole, quarterback at Midwestern State.

Two candidates from each region will be named as finalists and the sports information directors will select the winner.

The award recipient will be announced Dec. 17, the night before the Division II national championship game. The award winner will be honored at the Little Rock Touchdown Club awards banquet Jan. 13 in Little Rock, Ark.

Javelina running back Johnny Bailey was the Harlon Hill Award recipient three times, and no other player has been so honored. He was runnerup the other season of his career.

Four of the eight from Super Region 4 are from the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference and one is from each of the remaining leagues in the region: the Lone Star Conference, Great Northwest Athletic Conference and Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference.

...The Dallas Baptist athletes granted a Make-A-Wish trip to a young man recently.

During treatments, his wish was to take a trip to Disney World with his family during the Christmas season.

The DBU Student-Athletic Advisory Committee raised more than $10,000 to make the child's wish become a reality.

He took part in DBU's homecoming parade on a float that included his favorite things: Spiderman, Captain America and his favorite colors.

The DBU SAA is now working on a campaign to grant another wish next year.

Two leagues in need of football-playing schools are the Southland Conference and the Ohio Valley Conference.

Several schools have bailed out of both conferences.

Apparently, the Southland and OVC have plans for a football scheduling alliance in 2022 and 2023.

One report said the two conferences may merge.

The Southland has seven football-playing schools in 2022. The OVC isn't settled as to which football schools will still be in the league at the start of 2022.

One website said that OVC is talking with Northwestern Louisiana and McNeese (La.) State as well as NCAA Division II schools Grand Valley (Mich.) State, Southern Indiana, West Florida and West Georgia.

Officials from Grand Valley have said numerous times that it wants to remain in Division II where all of its teams can compete for a national championship each year.
