IHSADA Announces Mandy Stoaks from Lenox as Middle School Athletic Director of the Year

Coralville, IA - The Iowa High School Athletic Directors Association (IHSADA) proudly announced Mandy Stoaks from Lenox as the Middle School Athletic Director of the Year. This prestigious award recognizes outstanding leadership, dedication, and contributions to middle school athletics.

Mandy Stoaks has demonstrated exceptional commitment to fostering a positive and enriching sports environment for students at the Lenox School District. Her passion for athletics, coupled with her dedication to the development of student-athletes, sets her apart as a role model for athletic directors across the state.

Under Mandy's leadership, Lenox's athletic programs have thrived, providing students with valuable opportunities for growth, teamwork, and sportsmanship. Her tireless efforts have not only enhanced the athletic experiences of students but have also contributed to the overall success of the school's athletic department.

"We are thrilled to honor Mandy Stoaks as the Middle School Athletic Director of the Year," said Brent Buttjer, President of the IHSADA. "Her commitment to excellence, integrity, and student well-being exemplifies the values we hold dear in the field of athletic administration."

Mandy Stoaks was formally recognized during the IHSADA Awards Ceremony last weekend in Coralville, where she received this esteemed accolade in front of peers, colleagues, and supporters.

Please join us in congratulating Mandy Stoaks on this well-deserved honor and in celebrating her dedication to middle school athletics.
