Lancaster County is many things. Of course, it's the home of the Amish, a place where you can see horse-drawn buggies rolling through bucolic farmland.

But the county also contains a bustling city, with quirky shops, galleries, nightclubs and nationally renowned restaurants.

Lancaster was once known as the "Munich of America" and has recently seen that brewing heritage revived in the thriving craft beer scene.

And shoppers have plenty to do here, whether they're interested in outlet malls or antiques dealers.

For families or foodies; craft beer fans or history buffs; shoppers or music lovers, Lancaster County is a great place to visit.

Thanks for joining us!

ICE CREAM GEMS

By Caroline Beohm

With summer coming into full bloom, locals are returning to their favorite ice cream spots as a reprieve from the heat. Lancaster County is known widely for its farming—the cows, the silos, the corn growing 8 feet tall. Some of these farms produce the best ice cream in Pennsylvania. Here are my top four picks for ice cream spots in Lancaster County (in no particular order):

LITTLE DIPPER'S ICE CREAM

432 W. Main St., Mount Joy

Located on Main Street in Mount Joy, this tiny drive-through ice cream place packs an unsuspecting punch. From milkshakes, to floats, to soft-serve to sundaes, Little Dipper's truly has it all. They also carry Penn State Berkey Creamery flavors alongside their selection of Turkey Hill ice creams and Italian Ice flavors. My personal favorite is a hot fudge sundae with chocolate chip cookie dough ice cream! Their secret weapon? If you go before 1 p.m., you'll find a full service coffee bar along with doughnuts and muffins.

LAPP VALLEY FARM

244 Mentzer Rd., New Holland

Looking for an authentic Lancaster County experience? Head over to Lapp Valley to have ice cream that was made right on their farm using their own dairy cows. While enjoying your sweet summer treat, you can stop and see their dairy cows, peacocks, bull dogs, and cats. Lapp Valley boasts their own ice cream, as well as their freshly made waffle cones. But the true locals know that nothing is better than Lapp Valley chocolate milk.

FOX MEADOWS CREAMERY

2475 W. Main St., Ephrata | foxmeadowscreamery.com

Nestled away in the northern part of Lancaster County, this spot is a peaceful retreat from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. Enjoy up to 20 different flavors of ice cream, made from scratch on their farm. The creamery also serves a full lunch menu including burgers, sandwiches, salads and more.

BOEHRINGER'S DRIVE-IN

3160 N. Reading Rd., Adamstown

Step back in time by stopping at this quaint drive-in located off of 272. Boehringer's is a summertime classic with 20+ flavors of ice cream to choose from as well as an assortment of hamburgers, hot dogs and other popular grilled fare. The best part? The babbling creek that runs behind the drive-in that is home to little pools of fish and other water critters. On a warm summer day, this spot has people at every picnic table enjoying their ice cream or their burger. My personal favorite flavor is the black raspberry, but the cookies & cream is a close second.

LANCASTER CITY'S Elevated Dining Experience

Three destinations. One location. Pick from a vast array of craft and domestic beers, wines, and champagnes at our bottle shop. Enjoy casual pub fare while watching the game or indulge your palate with Greek-inspired dishes and classic American cuisine. From selecting the freshest local ingredients to sourcing the highest quality steak, seafood, and wine, we are Lancaster City's Elevated Dining Experience. Serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner. Dine-in, under the stars, or carry-out. Open 7 days a week.

TOP 5 ANIMAL EXPERIENCES

BY HOPE BROCIOUS

PHOTOS BY HOPE BROCIOUS, QUINN STALEY,
AND ANDREW ALBRIGHT

I love all animals. As someone who plans their vacations around zoos, aquariums and other places that will allow me to get up close and personal with wildlife, I understand how important it is to find the best places that allow you to do this. While you may not find a zoo packed with lions, tigers and other exotic animals, Lancaster County still offers plenty of fun and educational animal experiences. Here are my top picks, ranked, for the best places in Lancaster County for animal experiences.

1 LANCASTER FARM SANCTUARY 1871 MILTON GROVE ROAD, MOUNT JOY LANCASTERFARMSANCTUARY.COM

If you are looking for an animal experience that is fun, educational and rewarding, consider booking a tour at the Lancaster Farm Sanctuary. The sanctuary, a non-profit organization, takes in abused, neglected and mistreated farm animals that often come to them with a very low survival rate. Tours are scheduled and booked on specific days and times, so make sure to check their website for summer and fall tour availability, as the sanctuary is not open to the public otherwise.

Co-founders Sarah and Jonina serve as tour guides and take visitors through the farm to introduce the animals. Each animal at the sanctuary has a story, coming from a heartbreaking situation. While the stories are sad, learning about how the animals have been rehabilitated and given a second chance, and seeing them thrive in their new environment, is truly a rewarding and magical experience. You may not expect the animals to be so loving considering the circumstances they have come from, but many are more than willing to let you pet them and pose for photos.

The superstar of the sanctuary is Jude, a cow who went viral thanks to The Dodo in June 2021. Jude was born on a local dairy farm with a cleft lip and palate. The Lancaster Farm Sanctuary stepped up to rescue Jude and get him the extensive medical treatment he needed. He now resides at the sanctuary with other goats, sheep, horses, ponies, cows and, of course, his best bud, Barbara, the chicken.

Visit Tip: Arrive a few minutes early to meet Leroy the cat. He patrols the visitor sign-in area patiently waiting for all the guests to pet him while they wait for their tour to start.

2 THE AMISH FARM AND HOUSE 2395 COVERED BRIDGE DRIVE, LANCASTER AMISHFARMANDHOUSE.COM

The historic 15-acre farm at the Amish Farm and House offers bus tours, animal tours, farmhouse tours and perhaps the most exciting – goat yoga. Over the summer months, you can do a yoga class with many of the farm's goats. But don't be surprised when you are in a plank position to find them hopping up on your back and nibbling on your shirt or hair or have them zooming past during the class, playing and head-butting each other. Yes, it is as totally cute as it sounds.

Goat yoga is a great family activity and a chance to get some quality time with these adorable animals. After your yoga session, your goat yoga admission includes access to the farm so you can walk around and visit the horses, pigs, alpacas and more. There are also other things to check out on the property.

Visit Tip: Sign up for the first yoga class of the day, if possible, and you get to help get the goats from the barn and bring them to the covered yoga pavilion. Yes, you get to pick your own goat.

If you do not make it to Amish Farm and House in the summer months, there is still plenty to do in the fall. From September – November, they still offer their tours and Amish buggy rides, but also add Farm Days in October with fall-themed activities, and Trick or Treating on the Farm to their schedule. Plus, the animals are still out and about to visit.

3 WOLF SANCTUARY OF PA 465 SPEEDWELL FORGE RD, LITITZ WOLFSANCTUARYPA.ORG

You would not expect to find an 80-acre wolf sanctuary tucked away in the countryside of Lancaster County, but for nearly 40 years, the Darlington family has been offering refuge to many gray wolves and wolf-dogs. The Wolf Sanctuary of PA serves as an educational facility that offers tours of the sanctuary and a chance to learn more about the Wolves of Speedwell and the conservation efforts that take place there.

There are a variety of tours to pick from, but they do require a reservation. The daytime public tours on weekdays and weekends include a brief history of how the sanctuary was founded and a tour of the property where you will stop at each pack to see and hear more about them. The knowledgeable tour guides will also answer any questions you may have. If you snag a spot for a full moon fundraiser, you will get to enjoy a bonfire, live entertainment and guided tours of the sanctuary.

4 OLD WINDMILL FARMS 262 PARADISE LANE, RONKS OLDWINDMILLFARM.COM

Roll up your sleeves, wear some sneakers and be ready for a fully immersive Amish experience at Old Windmill Farms. Their farm tour and hayride gets you up close and personal with the animals on this working Amish farm. Tours are led by the Amish family that works there, including their children – everyone pitches in to explain how the animals help produce much of their food.

You will learn about and feed the horses, chickens, pigs, goats and cows. You may also get to cuddle with baby chicks and bunnies and milk some cows. Your tour guide will also explain how the Amish children help on the farm with raising their own animals, and how their way of life closely relates to their faith and beliefs.

After the farm tour, you get to explore the fields and see the family's alfalfa and barley crops, beehive and garden where they grow a lot of their own fruits and vegetables. The Amish tour guides will answer any questions, and allow you to take pictures while there. Old Windmill Farms is definitely more than just your standard Lancaster County Amish attraction.

During the fall, they add seasonal activities to their schedule. This includes making fresh cider, baking bread, churning butter and then sitting down to enjoy it all.

5 CHERRY CREST ADVENTURE FARM 150 CHERRY HILL ROAD, RONKS CHERRYCRESTFARM.COM

Cherry Crest Adventure Farm offers a full day of farm fun and activities that also includes some one-on-one time with adorable farm animals. At the Animal Grove you can pet and play with goats, pigs and sheep. You can also visit the baby chick hatchery and bee barn exhibit.

They also have farm tours, bucking broncos, pedal cars, a paintball range, gem mining and so much more. They offer several different passes, so you can pick what fits your family best. Cherry Crest Adventure Farm is open through November, and has more fall-themed activities such as a Sunflower Festival, Trick or Treat and a Pumpkin Madness Festival. You can even do the corn maze by flashlight starting in the fall months.

OUTDOOR FUN

BY SALLY REYNOLDS | PHOTOS BY VINNY TENNIS AND MARK KAISER

Outdoor fun is never far away in Lancaster. I belong to a women's hiking group and every other Sunday we take our dogs out for hours on local trails. And, with two rivers nearby, Lancaster offers ample opportunities to get on the water. Here are my top 5 picks for hiking and being on the water this summer and fall:

Hiking

KELLY'S RUN

Kelly's Run is a well-known trail in southern Lancaster County in Holtwood, about 3.7 miles long in a loop. This trail has a lovely mix of terrain, including meadows, woods, and an overlook of the Susquehanna River. Half of the trail follows the tumbling waters of Kelly's Run itself. This trail is gorgeous year round. In the spring the water is high and the rhododendron and mountain laurel are in bloom, in summer it's lushly green, and in the fall the woods are ablaze with color. The trailhead has a spacious parking lot but it's best to get there early because it is quite a popular spot. There's a trail map at LancasterConservancy.org/preserves/kellys-run.

TROUT RUN

In the southern part of the county, Trout Run also offers stream-side hiking in a far less visited location than Kelly's Run. Trout Run is about 2.3 miles through mostly woods. There aren't any dramatic overlooks, but the walk is gorgeous and the sound of the water rushing over the rocks is soothing to the soul. You can extend your walk by including nearby Steinman Run trail for another 2.6 miles. Find a trail map at LancasterConservancy.org/preserves/trout-run.

NOLDE FOREST

In the northern part of the county, the trails in Nolde Forest are well-kept and many are broad enough to be accessible by wheelchair. Nolde Forest used to be the estate of the Nolde family and their stone mansion still stands as park headquarters. There is a little stream running through the center of the park and two ponds for spotting turtles and frogs. You can make your walk as long (up to 10 miles) or short as you want because the trails wind and intersect. The hushed nature of these woods make it a good spot for quiet introspection. For a trail map, go to www.dcnr.pa.gov/StateParks and search by park name.

On the Water

TUBING ON THE CONESTOGA

Grab your swimsuit and an inner tube and jump into the Conestoga River for a relaxing afternoon of drifting with the slow water. You might see wood ducks, great blue herons, kingfishers or mallards. Keep an eye out for snapping turtles. There are many access points to the Conestoga, including Conestoga Pines Park, Lancaster County Central Park, Perelman Park, Stone Quarry Road Park and many unnamed spots where you can park your car and hop in. Just make sure you've got someone to pick you up when you're ready to come home. If you'd prefer a shuttle service, Sickman's Mill Outfitters offers several tubing expeditions on the Pequea Creek: Outfitters.sickmansmill.com/tubing.

KAYAKING ON THE SUSQUEHANNA

If you have your own kayak, take it to the broad Susquehanna and explore the lovely scenery and diverse animal habitats. Bald eagles and ospreys are almost certain to be sighted, as well as wading birds in the shore areas. I've also seen muskrats and of course there are bass, pike and walleye. If you don't own a kayak, Shank's Mare Outfitters in Wrightsville will be happy to rent you one for a day of paddling, plus they offer classes, music, and guided outings. There are many access points on the river, with a complete list at SusquehannaRiverLands.com.

LIVE MUSIC & GREAT FOOD

BY JABRIL BRANCH | PHOTOS BY KEVIN STAIRIKER

Lancaster is an amazing town for music, art and of course food. In fact, Lancaster city has previously been nicknamed “Little Brooklyn” for its eclectic style. Being a city person myself, I must say that I take pride in the diverse options we have here for live music and great food, and nothing beats when those two things are combined. Here are my top four choices for live music combined with good food.

Zoetropolis

Zoetropolis is the destination for anyone who loves film, libations, food and music. This unique location is a movie theater, restaurant and distillery. They aim to create a home for high-quality art films, spirits, food and music. This place is amazing. If you want to go to a laid-back place to have a great meal with plenty of refreshing, creative options, this is your spot. Not to mention, during the warmer months you will often enjoy vibrant live music provided by local artists. I love that it is half inside and half outside, the eye-popping décor, the great food and that there is a movie theatre within steps of your dining experience. By the way, if you want to rent the theater out for a private party, it is seamless. 112 N. Water St., Lancaster | zoetropolis.com

Long's Park Summer Music Series

The Summer Music Series, held at Long's Park, is a 13-week Sunday evening musical performance series that brings life to Lancaster during the summer. Set in a family-friendly atmosphere the series offers a diversity of musical genres that are not generally available for free. The Summer Music Series has been a top musical entertainment event in Lancaster and named one of the best outdoor venues in Central Pennsylvania. These concerts are free and held Sunday evenings, during the summer. If you are hungry during these events, there are always amazing food trucks that provide quality choices. This year's series features blues, reggae, southern rock, country and a tribute to the world's biggest charity concert, Live Aid.

1441 Harrisburg Pike, Lancaster | longspark.org/summer-music-series-1

Tellus 360

Tellus360 is a modern, hip, Irish spot, pairing craft beers and modern pub food with a mix of live music and DJs. If you want to go somewhere that makes you feel good by satisfying your need for great "food-truck" style eating and amazing local live music, you must visit Tellus360. At Tellus360, there are three floors, which all have a different element to them. The first floor bar is where you will find the Tigh Mhary Pub, equipped with a vintage bar imported from Ireland and a full sound system and stage. This space is usually where smaller live shows will happen. In addition, the first floor also brings you the legendary space called The Temple, which is where, in my opinion, all the fun happens. This room is known for great live shows, amazing dance parties and spicy salsa dancing nights. If you want to explore more, which you should, you will move up to the second floor where there is a lounge-type vibe. This is where you can just sit, drink and have fun conversations with friends or bond over a game of oversized Jenga. Finally, the main attraction: The Green Roof, a 10,000-square-foot rooftop bar that boasts beautiful gardens in the warmer months and the C Street Market, if you like great street food from a variety of food stand vendors.

24 E King St., Lancaster | tellus360.com

Phantom Power

Phantom Power is a newer venue that offers live local music and a microbrewery, which includes a tasting room. The venue features a bar on both floors, one on the ground floor opposite the stage and one on the balcony. There is also an area outside where live shows often happen during the warmer months. The Beer Garden is always a place to kick back with friends and have great conversation. This environment is so artsy and eclectic that everyone can feel at home.

LANCASTER VINEYARDS

STORY AND PHOTOS BY CARLY MCGETTIGAN

Having been born and raised in Lancaster County, I was anxious to see what I would rediscover in my charming hometown after living in the bustling city of Philadelphia. Being someone whose biggest pleasures are good food and drink, I was delightfully surprised to find that Lancaster has an abundance of places to sit back, relax, and revel in just that.

If you want to enjoy the nice weather while also immersing yourself in Lancaster's beautiful scenery, look no further than the wineries scattered throughout the county. They are the perfect combination of all that Lancaster has to offer.

Moon Dancer Winery

Moon Dancer Winery

Named after the breathtaking views of the moon's reflection off of the Susquehanna River, Moon Dancer Winery is located on a gorgeous, French-country style estate that offers a welcoming atmosphere for any occasion. Relax on the patio with a glass of refreshing wine, listen to live music and enjoy a tasty homemade pizza from their brick wood-fired oven available five days a week. The community built on this vineyard is unmatched – all ages are welcome. 1282 Klines Run Rd, Wrightsville | moondancerwinery.com

Grandview Vineyard

A family-owned vineyard in Mount Joy, Grandview is one of my favorites for a fine glass of wine. If you are planning to visit on the weekend, make sure to get there early, as the outdoor patio overlooking the vineyard fills quickly. They offer small bites to eat, or you can bring your own food with you. Be sure to check their website before you go to see if there are any events happening. They host live music, food and wine pairings and even yoga all throughout the year. 1489 Grandview Rd, Mount Joy | grandviewwines.com

Nissley Vineyards

With over 30 different wines, Nissley Vineyards offers some of the most popular wines in the county - with many of them being available for purchase at retail stores throughout Lancaster. Visit their estate and indulge in a wine tasting for just $8. Or grab your picnic blanket and enjoy an evening during their Summerfest music series. There's live music, food trucks and dancing until 10 p.m. 140 Vintage Drive, Bainbridge | nissleywine.com
