David Cross: Building a Better Malvern

subdivision in over 40 years. That's entirely too long.

I will open up 70 acres of city property near the interstate as an incentive to build a new subdivision. This will attract metro area commuters seeking homes where they can raise their families in a vibrant hometown setting.

This will help grow our city and schools. It will also generate more revenue by expanding our middle-class income tax base.

In the movie Field of Dreams, a mysterious voice convinced an Iowa farmer to take action with this simple phrase: "If you build it, they will come."

I know one thing for certain: if we do not build it, they surely won't come! We must commit to building Malvern again.

3. Speaking of building and generating revenue, it's time to capitalize on our access to the beautiful Ouachita River.

We live in the Natural State, and we have a bountiful natural resource flowing right through our city.

We will take advantage of that proximity by constructing an RV park, a camping ground and hiking trails on 33 acres of city property. Visitors to this park will bring new revenue through camping fees and extra sales tax, which will fund projects throughout our neighborhoods.

4. I will work on bringing new jobs to our community.

We will actively advertise and promote our city, utilizing a marketing campaign and incentives to attract new businesses who will creating opportunities for people to make a good living here.

We must not sit back and hope that growth magically comes down the interstate to us. We have to be aggressive and competitive in attracting new businesses and homeowners in order to grow and thrive.

Malvern's best days are not in the past -- they're in our very near future!

Together, we can move Malvern forward.

Vote for David Cross Nov. 3rd.

Special to the MDR

I have heard my whole adult life that the city of Malvern has an abundance of potential. However, potential without purpose is pointless.

We need new ideas, goals, and strong, determined leadership to change the stagnant state of our city.

The excuse of "our hands are tied" is not good enough.

The phrase "there's nothing we can do" has been said too many times.

The days of "this is the way we've always done it" are coming to an end.

Now is the time to make a lasting change for our desperate city -- a city full of untapped potential, longing for growth.

That's the target of my plan for our city.

1. Proactive, effective and consistent code enforcement.

We will strengthen weaknesses in our ordinances, empowering us to effectively clean up nuisance properties ward by ward, street by street and yard by yard.

2. While protecting our neighborhoods, we will build new ones.

Malvern has not built a

Carmen Jones Seeks Justice of the Peace Seat in Hot Spring County District 3

Special to the MDR

Carmen Jones is running for Justice of the Peace in Hot Spring County District 3, bringing a lifetime of service, faith leadership, and a deep commitment to the people who live there.

Jones has spent her life serving others. She worked in the grocery business for 17 years, a career built on serving customers and neighbors every day. She then turned her attention to education, spending the next chapter of her career as a teacher in the Malvern School District before retiring in 2024. Her years in the classroom gave her a close look at the challenges many local families face, from tight household budgets to the need for safe, well-kept neighborhoods.

Jones is also a Christian minister, and her faith shapes the way she approaches leadership. She believes public service starts with listening and is carried out with compassion and fairness.

At the heart of her campaign is a simple goal: to be a voice for everyone in District 3, especially residents who feel they have not been heard. Jones also wants to bring a fresh new voice to the Hot Spring County Quorum Court, one shaped by real-life experience and a genuine connection to the people she would serve.

If elected, she plans to focus on improving the condition of local neighborhoods, roads, and bridges, supporting efforts to help the Malvern and Hot Spring County homeless populations, and bringing careful attention to county budgets and tax rates so that taxpayer dollars are used wisely and responsibly.
