"My family moved to Maquoketa when I was a small child, so while my Passport indicates I was born elsewhere, and while I lived away for three decades, Maquoketa was the town of my growing up, thus it is always home to me. For this exhibit I chose to simply look around my hometown and photograph what interests me; a small U.S. Post Office I've known since I was a kid, a grandfather steadying a horse ridden by his granddaughter, a courtroom where my wife used to preside, Mt. Hope Cemetery on a flag-blowing Memorial Day, or, my own living room, where two cats hold sway. It's as simple as that."
