

Built on teamwork, driven by service

At UNITS® Moving and Portable Storage of St. Louis, it's not just about containers. It's about people helping people. Owners Chris and Mike Krenning have spent the last four years building a trusted, close-knit team known for reliability, responsiveness and personalized service.

"We're not a national call center," Chris says. "We're your neighbors. Being local lets us offer dependable service tailored to the needs of our customers and community."

UNIT'S® stands out by putting people first. Their motto, "Moving and Storage from Neighbors You Trust," is more than a tagline – it's how they operate daily. Whether staging a home, between houses, remodeling, or moving from one place to another, UNIT'S® makes things simple, flexible and personal.

The company is built on trust, positivity and mutual support. This is reflected in how customers are treated. Every team member brings something unique, but it's the shared values that guide their approach.

Equally important is the quality of their containers. UNIT'S® delivers clean, well-maintained containers built for durability and weather-resistance. Each Unit is designed to keep belongings safe from moisture, dust and pests, giving customers peace of mind that their items are protected.

UNIT'S® delivers with a remote-controlled system that can place containers almost anywhere. This system also provides stability for your items by holding the container level during loading and unloading, both on and off the truck.

"At UNIT'S®, we're more than a service provider," Chris says. "We're a team focused on caring for each client and making their experience smooth and successful."

With a dedicated local team behind every delivery and call, UNIT'S® of St. Louis offers a level of service and product that's hard to match.
