The KIWI (49-Across) is native to China, though New Zealand was where it was first commercially planted, in the early 20th century. There are numerous classical literary references to the laughing of a HYENA (62-Across), such as in Act 4, Scene 1 of Shakespeare's "As You Like It." PALO Alto (65-Across), Spanish for "tall stick," was given its name by Spanish explorers for a tall redwood tree in the area; it still stands today at about 110 feet high.
