

35 years of remodeling expertise

Rich Kempa, owner

Richbuilt Basements and Remodeling has been serving homeowners in the St. Charles area and surrounding communities for more than 35 years. Owned by Rich Kempa, the company has a reputation for completing projects in a timely manner with a dedication to professionalism and expert craftsmanship.

A family-owned organization built on the premise of being trustworthy, honest and reliable, Rich expects the quality of his company's work to reflect his family's nature. Its team provides free in-home inspections and count on them to keep the lines of communication open at all times, provide straightforward answers and show respect for their home and property.

"We never want our customers to have to worry about any aspect of the project from estimate to measurements to how we leave their homes," Rich said. "Working with Richbuilt means you'll get professional measurements and expert advice to turn your ideas into reality and make your space the best it can be.

"We take care of everything – from framing to electrical, from plumbing to ductwork, from floor to ceiling, from theaters to family rooms, from painting to pantries and everything in between."

Richbuilt's team of carpenters, plumbers and electricians are skilled at expertly taking their projects from start to finish, including providing all needed materials, supplies and fixtures.

"Our goal is simple: To achieve customer satisfaction," Rich said. "If you're considering a basement remodel, I invite you to give me a call and let my experienced crew take care of all the details for you!"
