As the teaching clinics for one of the nation's leading chiropractic colleges, Logan University Health Centers provide quality chiropractic care to individuals across the St. Louis area.

Chiropractic is a conservative, drug-free approach to patient care that restores or enhances function to the joints and supports the nervous system. Using a hands-on approach, chiropractic is safe and effective in treating a variety of neuromusculoskeletal complaints, such as back pain, neck pain and headaches, and more.

Founded in 1935, Logan University has a long history of providing chiropractic care to the community. From its first outpatient clinic at the former Normandy campus to its current locations serving the St. Louis region, Logan's Health Centers offer quality care while providing Logan Doctor of Chiropractic students the opportunity to gain practical experiences under the direct supervision of licensed and experienced faculty-clinicians. In this model of health care, Logan Health Center patients receive high quality services while aiding students' educational journey to become skilled and competent Doctors of Chiropractic.

Logan's Health Centers employ state-of-the-art technology, techniques and services including acupuncture, pediatric chiropractic and nutritional counseling as well as sports therapy, radiology and diagnostic imaging. The depth and breadth of expertise of clinicians and resources makes it possible for Logan Health Centers to assess and treat a wide range of patients with varied health and wellness needs.

In addition to its three Health Centers (on campus in Chesterfield, St. Peters and at the Stephen A. Orthwein Center in St. Louis), Logan provides chiropractic care through a number of integrated health care organizations, such as Affinia Health Care, CareSTL, Mercy Hospital's JFK Clinic, the John J. Pershing VA Medical Center and the St. Louis Veterans Administration

Medical Center. The partnerships with these organizations are important to Logan's mission of increasing access to quality, affordable care, especially for those who are underserved, underinsured and uninsured.

Logan offers a $10 flat fee at all three of its Health Center locations, which covers all services performed during most visits, including examinations, chiropractic adjustments, acupuncture and more (excluding orthotics, radiology services, lab services and any nutritional supplementation or products).
