

WAPAKONETA DAILY NEWS

Do you see a story wherever you look? Do you enjoy meeting people and learning their stories? Can you ask the tough questions when needed? Can you work both independently and as part of a team? If you can answer yes, we want to talk to you.

The Wapakoneta Daily News is looking for a full-time general assignment reporter.

We are a small community newspaper whose goal is to chronicle the current events and the lives and times of the people in our neighborhoods, warts and all. We're looking for someone who can handle a couple of beats as well as assignments, develop his or her own story ideas and collaborate with others in the newsroom to ensure we're not missing anything. If you can take your own photographs and have Indesign experience that's a big plus.

The job is full time, has health benefits, paid time off and more.
