Moose Lake/Willow River football wins 15th section championship

MARY ELLEN DEWEY
RECIPE@PINECOUNTYCURIER.COM

Before Thursday's playoffs in Esko against the Mesabi East Giants, Coach Dave Louzek had Coach James Bohaty come into the team meeting with all 14 prior section championship medals clanging and clinking as they hung around his neck. Bohaty has been there for all of them. The incentive to work hard proved effective in the shut-out victory to go to state.

The Moose Lake Willow River Rebels captured their 14th section title in the last 16 years. In 2020 their season ended early due to COVID. Mesabi East is no stranger to the bright lights of the section championship games, competing in each of the last three title games themselves. MLWR Rebels maintained dominance within Section 7AA, steamrolling the Giants to a final score of 63-0. The Rebel offense performed like a well-oiled machine Thursday night, accumulating nine touchdowns through 541 yards of offense. Not to be outdone, the Rebel defenders allowed only 77 yards of Mesabi East offense, winning their fifth shutout of the season. Sam Kenezivich started the game with a boom to Patrick Douglas of Mesabi East on the Giants own 28-yard line. Duane Broughton's hit gave the Giants a one-yard loss and on their second down, defensive end, JP Mesojedec, recovered Mesabi East's Jack Ribich's fumble. With only one minute off the clock in the first quarter, running back Logan Orvedahl scampered in 16 yards for the first of his four touchdowns of the night. Kenezivich was seven for eight in points after touchdowns.

In the next series, Mesabi

Turning passion and dreams into a reality is in full swing for Syra Johnson-Engle, business owner of Rusty's Rolling Rock Ranch of Moose Lake. She has dedicated her talents to a lifestyle and career with over 20 years' experience in showing and training horses.

Rusty's Rolling Rock Ranch was founded in 2018 when Johnson-Engle turned her amateur riding into a professional operation to share her love of horses and education with others. The ranch was begun in Cromwell where she was able to balance her veterinarian technician career while training individuals and horses alike in both Western and English riding disciplines. In June of 2021, the ranch relocated to Moose Lake where it provides greater ability for year-round training and facility needs. The 80-acre ranch offers external providers for horse massage, chiropractic care, veterinary support and farrier services. There's plenty of outdoor training space in addition to a heated indoor arena, boarders tack room and horse barn that is home to 15 on-site horses that are used for show, schooling/lessons and boarding for her students. The ranch currently has 21 students with skill levels ranging from first time riders to eager show competitors from age 5 to 65.

"Horses have been my go-to as a kid and played a big role in my life. It's great watching others start or grow in their experiences with horses," Johnson-Engle states.

The expansion promotes her vision to offer more equine opportunities to this community. As a veteran of the U.S. Army, she knows that support comes in a variety of ways. She learned that her relationship with her horses provides a special support that she can offer others with similar needs such as Post Traumatic Stress Disorder or other emotional challenges. Although not able to offer therapy on site, she does have an open door to other veterans who may need an outlet for special support. She's collaborated with the veteran-based program Wounded Warriors and other local organizations such as 4H.

Johnson-Engle's passion for horsemanship drives her desire to provide training for shows and competitions. She says, "I have been riding for as long as I can remember

Barnum Council addresses water quality concerns

ALANEA WHITE
EDITOR@MLSTARGAZETTE.COM

A 13 page list of Barnum residents experiencing water quality issues was delivered to the City Council by Jessica Unklehauser.

At the regular October City Council meeting resident Janet Larson approached the council with concerns about the quality of water at her home. During the meeting she told the council that several other residents of Barnum had expressed concern over similar water quality issues. The council encouraged Public Works Superintendent Brett Collier to contact the Minnesota Rural Water Association with suggestions on how to address the issues community members were reporting. A water quality survey was also created and information about participation in it sent out with monthly water bills by the Barnum City Clerk's Office.

Kurt Haakinson, a field technician with the Minnesota Rural Water Association, was present at the meeting to address some of the concerns being raised while explaining possible next steps in treatment and prevention. He explained that water in Barnum is chemically treated groundwater. "The more you do the more it costs," said Haakinson.

Walz spends deer opener in Pine County

STAFF REPORT
NEWS@PINECOUNTYNEWS.COM

Governor Tim Walz took part in Minnesota's 2021 firearm deer hunting season opener on Saturday in Pine County.

Governor Walz hunted with Brady Crocker and Kevin Hinze and on the Hinze family's private property. The family permanently protected their land by donating a conservation easement to Minnesota Land Trust, a voluntary program that protects habitat and wildlife on private land for the benefit of this and future generations.

Following the hunt, Walz, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Commissioner Sarah Strommen, and Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Thom Petersen visited one of the state's chronic wasting disease (CWD) sampling sites in the Pine City Armory.

Walz and Strommen and Petersen highlighted the efforts to reduce the risk of CWD transmission and protect Minnesota's wild deer herd.

Governor Tim Walz and other state officials stopped by a chronic wasting disease (CWD) testing site at the Pine City Armory after spending hunting opener on the farm of Kevin Hinze in Pine County.

"Deer hunting is a treasured annual tradition that brings Minnesotans together around our shared love for the outdoors and camaraderie of the hunt," Walz said. "This is also a time to remember that hunters can play a role in preventing the spread of CWD. I ask all Minnesota deer hunters to be aware of CWD regulations and use one of the state's sampling sites if hunting in a mandatory or voluntary sampling area. As a lifelong hunter, I understand the seriousness of this disease and my administration is committed to doing everything we can to reduce the continued risk in Minnesota."

The governor then visited the CWD sampling site in Pine City, one of many sampling sites for deer hunters across Minnesota. During opening weekend for the firearms season this year, people hunting in CWD surveillance, control, or management zones must bring their harvested deer to sampling stations to be tested for CWD. Voluntary sampling options are available outside of opening weekends for deer harvested within a CWD zone.

"CWD monitoring is a critical part of the DNR's commitment to limit the spread of the disease and keep Minnesota's wild deer healthy," Strommen said. "Deer hunters are encouraged to make a plan for their season and to get details on CWD sampling options across the state on our website. We appreciate the partnership DNR has with Minnesota's deer hunters in important conservation efforts. We wish everyone a safe season."

Hinze had just one word to describe the experience: "Awesome."

More information on deer hunting in Minnesota and CWD testing is available at mndnr.gov/deerhunt.

WATER QUALITY: 'The water is safe to drink...'

Many of the issues reported by those residents present at the meeting were "secondary standards" according to Haakinson. Secondary standards have to do with the appearance of the water such as water clarity or reports of water having a sulfur smell. Minnesota Pollution Control Agency requires testing for primary safety standards in drinking water. Collier is required to submit testing to the state and meet these standards. "The water is safe to drink," said Haakinson.

At the recommendation of Minnesota Rural Water a new more precise chemical pump for the water treatment plant has been approved and ordered. Estimated arrival for this new pump is mid-December according to Collier.

The data collected on the 13 page list provided by Unklehauser will help to narrow down if the quality issues are isolated to certain areas of the city. Haakinson and Collier plan to use all the resources at their disposal to determine what is causing these water quality issues. The council determined that this would be a standing agenda item until the issues have been addressed.

OTHER NEWS

Travis and Anne Marie Thien, owners of North Country Wreath were present at the meeting to ask the council to reconsider their January 2021 decision to not allow outside dumping at the city compost site. The city notified North Country Wreath of the change in policy via letter, but neither copy of the notification was received by the Thiens.

North Country Wreath operates out of the Carlton County Fairgrounds for approximately two months each year and has been doing this for 14 years. In 2011 there resident complaints about smoke prompted North Country Wreath to discontinue burning of discarded pine boughs. A wood chipping service was brought in during the 2012 season.

Because of the green quality and size of the discarded pine branches wood chipping using a standard chipper is not a possibility. North Country Wreath has explored the possibility of hiring a drum chipping service, but no one is interested in such a small short term job.

Mayor Jason Goodwin, along with Collier made the decision to allow North Country Wreath to utilize the city compost site for one more season. This decision was based on the notification letters not being received and North Country having no advanced notice of their lack of access.

After this season the council determined that they would reassess the ability for North Country Wreath to use the site.

Demolition of the current city buildings in moving along quicker than expected. These projects are waiting on permits for utility shut offs to begin.

The permit to excavate under a portion of County Road 10 in order to address a sewer line connection issue is in question after a delay in the project due to a COVID-19 protocols. Illness in the excavation firm hired by the city to complete the work has caused a six week delay in their work schedule. Tar and asphalt plants are no longer in operation for the season.

Carlton County has concerns about the cost of leaving a section of County Road 10 as open dirt over the winter season that has put in question the ability for the city to complete this project. Collier and the home owners hope to work with the county to allow for a cold tar patch or some form of compromise that would allow the project to continue.

Celebrating a bittersweet holiday

Veterans Day in the “Minnesota White House” is a bittersweet day. My dad is a veteran and I am immensely proud of him, but for the last several years it has been a struggle to be proud while dealing with the trial that is brain cancer.

A Millennial Mile
Alanea White

Coming up in February of 2022 my family will have been living with a terminal brain cancer diagnosis for three years.

Dad is a veteran of several military campaigns in the Middle East. Waste disposal during military campaigns in the Middle East was done using burn pits. Soldiers were responsible for burning things like leftover fuel, trash, equipment and much more in giant pits. He was one of the soldiers involved in the operation of these disposal burn pits. Many of the soldiers who were exposed to these burn pits have developed a range of long term illnesses. He was diagnosed in February of 2019 with terminal brain cancer. That year he was given six months to live.

Every day, we as a family, have been grateful for the time that we have had together. When we passed six months after his diagnosis we were even more grateful for the time.

During the past few weeks things have gotten much more difficult health wise for Dad. At the same time I have been planning this edition of the Star-Gazette and struggling with how to express just some of the feelings that I have been having leading up to Veterans Day.

At the Star-Gazette there has been a practice of writing a story about a local veteran. This year I couldn't quite wrap my head around taking on another veteran's story when I was living with one every day at home. While I deeply appreciate the sacrifices of service men and women, along with their families, I just couldn't move past some of the bad feelings that were going on in my own life.

These feelings, are something that I think get lost in the celebration of Veterans Day every year. I would think that there are other family members and service members that struggle to balance the pride they feel in service and the hurt and anger they feel in illness and pain. Especially when that illness or pain is caused by something so easily avoided, like exposure to toxic smoke from the mandatory burning dangerous materials.

Every year, even before Dad's diagnosis, I have been hesitant to approach and thank veterans for their service. Not knowing where these individuals are at mentally in their struggle, has been why I have been hesitant.

I know that Dad will be reading this and I want him to know that I am beyond proud of him for his service and continued strength. The pride that I feel in his service is also extended to all members of our armed forces.

Talking family caregivers with the U of M

There are an estimated 53 million caregivers in the U.S. Additionally, the number of Minnesotans turning 65 in this decade (about 285,000) will be greater than the past four decades combined.

Talking with the U of M
Joseph Gaugler

November is National Family Caregivers Month and Joseph Gaugler, with the University of Minnesota School of Public Health, answers questions about who family caregivers are, what they do and common challenges they face.

Q: Who can be a family caregiver?

Prof. Gaugler: Caregivers of older persons are most often spouses/partners or adult daughters. According to a recent report, over 60% of caregivers are women. Close to 9 in 10 caregivers provide help to a relative, with half of caregivers providing help to a parent or parent-in-law.

Q: What do family caregivers do?

Prof. Gaugler: On average, caregivers spend nearly 24 hours per week providing assistance. Six in 10 caregivers provide help for at least one activity of daily living (e.g., getting in and out of bed or chairs, getting dressed, bathing/showering). Family caregivers also perform tasks that healthcare professionals do. Fifty-eight percent of caregivers indicate they assist with wound care, tube feeding, or similar medical/nursing tasks.

Q: What are common challenges family caregivers face?

Prof. Gaugler: Nearly 1 in 4 caregivers report that caregiving has made their health worse. Nearly 4 in 10 caregivers indicate that their caregiving situation is highly stressful, and 1 in 5 caregivers feel alone in addition to feeling a high financial strain due to care provision. Over 60% of caregivers also indicate that caregiving has influenced their employment due to reductions in hours, leaves of absence, going in late, and leaving early. It is important to note that not all of the feelings associated with caregiving are negative; half of caregivers report that providing help gives them a sense of purpose.

Q: What should a family caregiver do if they're feeling overwhelmed?

Prof. Gaugler: It is important for family caregivers to realize that they are not alone, and that there are a number of resources to help them navigate their caregiving journeys. The Family Caregiving Alliance has a number of important resources, including education, tip sheets, webinars and videos, online support groups, and the Family Care Navigator, which lists caregiving resources by state. For more local resources, caregivers can contact their local Area Agency on Aging, which offers family caregiving support through a number of programs. The AARP also maintains a Caregiver Resource Center, which offers a wealth of information, guidance, Kim removed dead flowers and decorated some of the pots with pumpkins, etc. which look very nice. Next step is to decorate the town with winter decorations.

We were approached by Ron Jokimaki about sponsoring a dance in December. Members expressed interest. A confirmed date has not been set.

The Santa and Mrs. Claus Event will not happen this year due to COVID. It was decided to skip the event this year, because the whole idea is to have pictures of kids with Santa.

95 years of life, 75 years of marriage a surprise to local veteran

BY JAMIE LUND
NEWS@HINKLEYNEWS.COM

"Come in," said Ray Gurske, a spritely 95-year-old World War II veteran with bright blue eyes. "Ma, we have company." Ray said to his wife of 75 years in the other room of their Wright home. "The first time you are company, the next time you are family."

Ray said he was surprised to find himself celebrating a 75th wedding anniversary with Alice, let alone living to 95-years-old.

Ray joined the U. S. Navy during World War II on his 17th birthday in 1943. A few months later he was in New Guinea.

He added that he looked so young that the captain told him he didn't even look old enough to be his paperboy.

"Our job in the 7th fleet was to take Mr. MacArthur (General Douglas MacArthur) back to the Philippines one island at a time," Ray said. "I was in 14 different landings."

He worked in the belly of a 158 foot long Landing Craft Infantry or LCI, in the engine room. "The Skipper said I had the fastest hands," Ray said proudly.

JAMIE LUND (SUBMITTED)

Alice and Ray Gurske share a laugh at their rural Wright home. The couple recently celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary.

He said there were between 30-40 people on the amphibious ship working on the craft.

"It was kind of crowded," Ray said with a laugh. "The LCI #28 was a good old bucket, but it wasn't very big." Ray said the men on the LCI did not venture onto shore and if they did, they did not go past the tree line.

"We only went to the beach to refuel," Ray explained. "In the 1940s you didn't go inland at all or you wouldn't come back. The cannibals would eat you. It was still wild down there."

He said there were a lot of rumors during the time there.

"Some of it was probably true," Ray said pragmatically. "Some of it was probably baloney."

The LCI transported hundreds of soldiers to the beach to build runways for military planes.

"They thought we could win the war with air superiority," Ray said. He said it worked well most of the time, until it didn't.

"We were all in one area," Ray remembered. "There was only one way out." The Japanese had the men cornered. The Air Force was nearby and sent two planes to save the trapped men. Ray missed seeing the action because he was working in the engine room.

"We got out of there, but they had us in a bad spot because they wanted to take over the island," Ray said. "We wanted to get in the middle so MacArthur could walk ashore."

He soon got his wish.

"We dumped him on the shore," Ray said. "He walked out into the water with his pants rolled up and he had his corn cob pipe in his mouth. Big jerk." He explained that MacArthur constantly wanted to be the center of attention including being alone in photos.

On October 20, 1944, MacArthur waded to shore on the Philippine island of Leyte, according to history.com.

In January, 1945 his forces invaded another island, Luzon. In June he announced that the offensive operations were at an end. Only one-third of the men MacArthur left behind in March 1942 survived to see him return, according to the website. "'I'm a little late," he told them, "but we finally came."

Segregation continued into the military.

Colored people ended up in the kitchen on the LCI, Ray said. There were six on board while he was there. He explained that the colored soldiers took cold salt water showers while the white soldiers were allowed to use a fresh water shower on the craft.

Ray contracted malaria while he was on the LCI. The cook made sure he took his six pills, three times a day with his meals. Malaria did not slow him down.

"You got stuff to do," Ray said matter-of-factly. "You don't worry about being sick."

Back to civilian life

The couple are now in their 90s. Ray is 95 and Alice is 92, but they still remember how

CELEBRATING 75 YEARS: The Gurskes share their secrets to a long, happy marriage

Ray was discharged on Christmas Day, 1945.

He went back to his hometown of Duluth, where he met his future bride, Alice.

"I was working as a cashier at the Lyric Theater," Alice explained. A friend met her and brought her boyfriend. The boyfriend asked Ray to come along to distract Alice so the couple could spend time alone. They eventually ditched Ray and Alice, so they went to the Blue and White Cafe on 1st Street in Duluth for a hot dog and coke.

"It was a big deal at the time," said Alice with a smile. They're favorite song on the jukebox was "Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow" by Frank Sinatra.

She said she thought Ray was a nice young man and continued to date him.

"I just liked her brown eyes," Ray said.

The couple dated for a year before spontaneously getting married at noon at the courthouse in Two Harbors on Sunday, November 3, 1946. Alice was too young and her dad signed a consent form allowing her to marry. She was miffed because she was already living on her own. Her brother, Melvin, picked up the marriage certificate.

The courthouse was eerily empty and quiet on a Sunday.

"It was very somber," Alice said. "It (the ceremony) was still very meaningful." She said she doesn't regret not having a traditional wedding ceremony.

The couple made it to the Lester River in Duluth before their 1936 Pontiac overheated. Ray brought water from the river to fill the radiator so they could continue on their way.

They moved around to several states over the next few years, including Indiana and Louisiana.

The Minnesota couple were shocked to discover signs in restaurant windows stating that they only catered to white people. They searched for a restaurant that welcomed everyone, but couldn't find one.

"Everyone breathes the same air," Ray said indignantly. "They (the cook on the LCI) saved my life by giving me my pills."

Ray and Alice shared other stories of segregation in the 1940s and 1950s during their travels.

"Those were the good old days," said Ray sarcastically. "I'm glad things have changed."

Several people told the young couple their marriage would not last.

"I can't even say anything to them because the ones that said we'd never make it are no longer here," Ray said.

They agreed a marriage is a 50/50 proposition.

"When I got married it was for good," Alice said. "When we have arguments, we solve them."

The couple have two children, a son and a daughter.

"I ordered a brown eyed boy," Ray said. "But I got a green eyed girl like my mom. I kept her anyway." The couple also have around 17 great grandchildren and a great-great grandchild, although they admit to having trouble keeping track of everyone.

They share their advice for a long, happy marriage.

"Don't get too mad," said Ray.

"Never get mad at the same time," Alice said.

and training horses since I was 16." Transitioning from an amateur rider to a professional seemed like a natural choice.

She rides and shows in everything from Western pleasure's pole bending and speed events such as barrel racing to English pleasure's hunter jumper, dressage and event showing.

Winter is perfect timing to focus on details and skills for both horses and riders. When summer arrives, it's off to the races with a variety of shows nearly every weekend for her and the students. She works closely with her students to determine skill level for what the rider hopes achieve whether it be preparation for events through platforms such as the Western Saddle Clubs Association (WSCA) and the United States Hunter Jumper Association (USHJA) or basic riding skills for recreation.

"Changing our location has taken me by surprise. Everyone has been so great." Johnson-Engle comments on her gratitude for community support helping make her business successful.

The ranch is fortunate to offer a safe outdoor space to train in addition to providing new opportunities for folks to explore. This past September, the ranch hosted their very own show, organized an open house and community volunteer day. They are looking forward to their end of year awards ceremony to celebrate the students' achievements. Plans are in place to continue with upgrades and transformations of the ranch. It is Johnson-Engle's hope to keep building a riding community with a family atmosphere; one that's inclusive and connects people to one another.

She invites anyone who is curious to learn how to ride or those seeking professional training to contact her at via her website at Rusty's Rolling Rock Ranch or Facebook.

East's Logan Schroeder, was stopped for a loss by Henry Ribich, a pass was batted down, and Ethan Burton held them for no gain. With 6:48 left, Rebels' ball, Orvedahl went 60 yards to make 14-0 Rebels.

With 4:48 on the clock, first and ten on the 22, Jackson Thompson grabbed it and kept on running for six more. Rebels led 20-0. On the next possession, Thompson clutched a shovel pass from Adam Neumann for a gain. Neumann took to the air for a 26-yard touchdown pass to Landin Kurhajetz to put the Rebels ahead 27-0.

In the second quarter, Orvedahl took it in twice on a 54-yard run and 29-yard run. The offensive line kept the Giants away from the running backs, allowing them to sail through the holes without getting touched. Thompson had a second touchdown, going 44-yards into the end zone. Broughton sacked Mesabi East's Evan Skelton twice. Luke Danelski and Kaden Robbins each batted down a pass. Rebels led at halftime, 48-0.

The third-quarter started off with Thompson's touchdown called back for a Rebels' block in the back and two more called back for holding infractions. A high snap resulted in a jump ball to Orvedahl. Nick Juscak's punt placed the ball on Giants' two-yard line. Giants' coach, Steve Grams, decided to take an intentional safety, on fourth and 12 on the two-yard line. Rebels led 50-0. With two minutes left in the third-quarter, second down and nine on the 44-yard marker, Robbins, cuts through the defense, scampers into the end zone, only to get it called back for a hold. But no problem, because Broughton, takes the pitch and waltzes into the end zone to make the score 57-0. Alex Watrin booted the kick 37-yards to Tyler Jacobson who was downed by Mossberg. Dawson Mortensen and Robbins intercepted the Giants' air attack. Watrin and Dewey led the team with three solo tackles each and several tackles for a loss.

In the running time fourth-quarter, the Rebels were on defense until 4:30 minutes left in the game. Luke Dewey, under center, gave the pigskin to Jaxsyn Schmidt on Mesabi East's four-yard line, who got through the defense, going 96-yards, with Dewey running with him, for six more on the board. Rebels got the ball back with 2:11 left in the game, Dewey took a knee three times to let the clock run out and end the game. Rebels won 63-0.

Coach Louzek is proud of all the hard work, dedication and time his players and coaches have put in. The team and coaches are appreciative of all the community support, which has been way above expectations. There will be a send-off escort parade on Thursday at 3 p.m. starting at the Moose Lake School. Come out and enjoy the ride.

The 2021 Section 7AA champions MLWR (8-0) advances to the Minnesota State High School League's (MSHSL) state football tournament on Thursday, November 11, to face the Section 6AA Knights of West Central Area/Ashby (9-1) at 7 p.m. at Don Adamson Field in Brainerd. All state tournament entrance tickets and programs are only sold online at the MSHSL's website through Vanco with QR codes. There will be no onsite ticket sales or program sales at Brainerd.

Deer River Warriors over Barnum 32-8 in Section 6A finals

MARY ELLEN DEWEY
RECIPE@PINECOUNTYCOURIER.COM

The Bombers faced the Deer River Warriors, a 44-14 winner over Chisholm, in the section finals in Proctor at Egerdahl Field on Friday, November 5, at 7 p.m. The Deer River Warriors (10-0) won 32-8.

Barnum struggled in the first half, committing four turnovers. Barnum's quarterback, Hayden Charboneau, found Joe Peterson in the first quarter, but Tygh Gullickson stripped it away from him. Deer River blocked a quick kick punt which led to a 27-yard Deer River touchdown. Charboneau threw another interception that resulted in a 35-yard Deer River touchdown. Caden Sheff scored for Barnum on a 59-yard run at the end of the first half. He also took it in for two after the touchdown.

In the second half, Barnum (7-3) made some adjustments and played much better defense. Willie Richardson was credited with a strip sack. The Barnum Bombers have turned things around in the football program the last two years. In 2019 they had a 1-8 football season.

Field position and Barnum turnovers were the keys to Deer River's victory. Deer River will play New York Mills in the first round of the state playoffs in Brainerd at 7 p.m. on Friday, November 12.

Rebels Cross Country runners end season with first trip to state

SCOTT OLSON
EVERGREEN@MLSTARGAZETTE.COM

On Saturday November 6, two Rebel Boys' Varsity Cross Country runners were at St. Olaf College for the Mn State Cross Country meet. I can finally say it without jinxing myself about the weather being great all season. This was one of the best seasons for racing at meets, with the exception of one hot one, that the weather was not a factor with heavy rain, soggy courses or even snow. This meet was another great day with temps in the upper 60s, a little wind and sunny skies with a course in great shape.

The AAA division started the day off in the morning followed by A than AA in the afternoon. The Rebels are A and the boys ran at noon with the girls running at 1 p.m. Congratulations to Noah Foster of Cromwell-Wright for being the top Section 7A boys finisher with a 4th place finish in 16:26.03. The top girls finisher for Section 7A was Aubree Skelton of Mesabi East with a 17th place finish in 19:55.69. There was 159 runners in the boys race and 156 runners in the girls.

The Rebels boys did extremely well for being their first time running at the State meet which has a lot of fast runners. Shawn Bailey finished 67th in 17:43.76 and Joseph Mikrot finished 111th in 18:14.34. This ends the season for the Rebels cross country team. The coaches wish to thank the kids for their hard work and dedication this last season and hope all return next season. Those seniors not returning are Joseph Mikrot, Johnny Danelski, Carl Halverson and Zach Youngs. The coaches would also like to thank the parents for coming out to the meets, when they could, and supporting the team. Have a great winter season and see you distant runners in the spring for the start of the track season.

MnDOT to install signage acknowledging 1854 Tribal Treaty boundaries

MINNESOTA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
WWW.MNDOT.GOV

The Minnesota Department of Transportation has installed the first of 12 signs to permanently mark the boundaries of the 1854 Treaty between the United States and three Anishinaabe Tribal Nations. The sign is located on southbound Highway 61, just south of the Canadian border and entrance to Grant Portage State Park.

MnDOT Commissioner Margaret Anderson Kelliher joined Tribal leaders from the Grand Portage Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Bois Forte Band of Chippewa, and Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Nov. 1 to celebrate the sign's placement and honor the Tribal sovereignty and rights of the Anishinaabe Tribal Nations in this ceded territory.

SANDSTONE, Minn., Nov. 8, 2021 — Osprey Wilds Environmental Learning Center is offering free turkey meals to go again this Thanksgiving. After serving over 200 meals last year, Osprey Wilds has decided to again offer a meal for community members to pick up on November 25. With a large kitchen, Osprey Wilds is used to preparing meals for visiting schools and large groups at their campus; they are using their resources to safely prepare a large number of meals for the upcoming holiday.

"We had a blast last year, meeting community members and cooking delicious food. This year we are excited to again offer a turkey feast to go. We hope we can reach those that need it as well as anyone that wants to skip the cooking this year and try our delicious food," says Jill Rudolph, Operations Director.

Whether you've lost a job, are facing financial troubles, are expecting a smaller gathering, or just don't feel like cooking, Osprey Wilds encourages you to sign up for their turkey feast meal.

The cost of the meal is free, but if you would like to make a payment, Osprey Wilds suggests $6 per meal. You can also make a donation when you order to help cover the cost of food and staff time.

The meal includes turkey, mashed potatoes, two sides, and a pumpkin dessert. To keep things simple and safe, Osprey Wilds will bring your food directly to your car on November 25. All meals must be ordered beforehand.

Ice anglers on Mille Lacs and Upper Red lakes can harvest walleye this winter

MINNESOTA DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES
WWW.DNR.STATE.MN.US

A four-walleye bag limit, with only one walleye longer than 17 inches allowed, went into effect on Upper Red Lake on Monday, Nov. 1.

Effective Wednesday, Dec. 1, through Sunday, Feb. 27, 2022, winter anglers on Mille Lacs may keep one walleye between 21-23 inches or one fish longer than 28 inches.

The new regulation on Upper Red increases the possession limit from the three-fish limit that was in place during the 2020-2021 winter season and 2021 open water season, when mature walleye were lower in abundance. Results of this fall's walleye population assessment showed a wide range of sizes with an abundance of mature spawning walleye, which allowed the more generous bag limit while also creating conditions that are favorable for the survival of upcoming walleye year classes.

This is the sixth consecutive year of winter walleye harvest on Mille Lacs, where winter regulations are set after completion of the annual fall netting assessment. Results from 2021 showed that the walleye population has declined from recent years but remains above population lows seen from 2012 to 2016.

Mille Lacs Lake winter regulations also reduce the possession limit for cisco (tullibee) from 10 to five and forbid the harvest of burbot (eelpout).

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' website offers regulation information on both lakes.

What is a fair, profitable farm rental agreement?

BY ROD GREDER
U OF M EXTENSION

Determining a fair farm rent agreement is a challenge in today's turbulent farm economy. Landlords, farmers, and their advisors can make plans to attend a free workshop on Nov. 23 from 9-11:30 a.m. The workshop will be held at the North Pine Government Center at 1610 Hwy 23 N in Sandstone.

Negotiating a fair rental agreement that satisfies the land owner and the farmer is a challenge. Extension Educators will provide to help both parties determine a fair farm land rental rate.

Topics covered at the meetings will include local historic and projected farmland rental rate trends as well as current farm land values and sales.

For more information, contact the Pine County Extension office at 320-591-1650 or email rlorvis@umn.edu.

CAREGIVERS: Helping those who help others

and opportunities to connect with other caregivers and professionals. If a family caregiver needs a break, I would recommend seeking out respite services in their local area; for example, the ARCH National Respite and Resource Network offers a respite locator and caregivers can also use the National Adult Day Services Association's search tool to find a nearby adult day program. Many national organizations also provide family caregiving education and resources that are specific to the care recipient's condition, such as the Alzheimer's Association and the National Institute on Aging for Alzheimer's disease and related dementias and the American Cancer Society and National Cancer Institute for various types of cancer.

Q: What are you doing to advance research on family caregivers?

Prof. Gaugler: Our research team, the Families and Long Term Care Projects, is conducting a number of studies aimed at enhancing the support family caregivers receive, particularly family members of people with dementia. One study is evaluating a support program for family caregivers of cognitively impaired relatives living in nursing homes or similar residential settings. We also recently received supplemental funding to examine the impact of COVID-19 on our program as well as the lives of caregivers and residents. A second study is examining the integration of dementia family caregiver support and training in adult day services across the U.S. that is delivered by staff. We were recently named the BOLD Public Health Center of Excellence on Dementia Caregiving by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The main objective of this Center is to disseminate tools and evidence-based support to local, tribal, and other public health departments across the U.S. that support family caregivers of people with dementia. Finally, the Center for Healthy Aging and Innovation as well as the Minnesota Northstar Geriatric Workforce

Enhancement Program feature robust community engagement and educational efforts so that families themselves are kept aware of available resources and new knowledge related to caregiving.

Caregiving for older people in the U.S. is not just a personal issue; it is a public health concern. Earlier this year a book that I edited, Bridging the Family Care Gap, was published. Bridging the Family Care Gap features some of the foremost researchers and advocates in the field and outlines a series of policy, practice, and scientific innovations that can help to support families and communities that assist older people with health needs.

JOSEPH GAUGLER is the Robert L. Kane Endowed Chair in Long-Term Care and Aging, professor and director of the Center for Healthy Aging and Innovation in the University of Minnesota School of Public Health. His research interests include the sources and effectiveness of long-term care for older adults with dementia and the effectiveness of community-based and psychosocial services for older adults with memory concerns and their caregiving families.
