Explaining the prophecies and the scriptures to all who desire to hear them. (Mosiah 27:35-36)

God will sweep this land clean because of injustice

I recorded a long video early Saturday morning. I have the slowest internet in the world, so it took until just now to finish uploading. You can view it on my YouTube channel.

Also, I posted this on Facebook just now. You might find it interesting.

This is a video of a naked man running through Seattle saying there will be an earthquake.

CRAZY MAN OR PROPHET?

On first watch, you might assume this is Will Farrell's latest stunt. On reflection, it's worth considering that Isaiah was sent to prophecy naked. The question worth asking is why?

Obviously this man is not the smartest person on the planet, while Isaiah was an exceedingly wise man. But are we not told God will call on the simple?

What smart person today would listen if God told them to run naked through Seattle saying there will be an earthquake? Honestly, would you do it? Could God find anyone to do this?

If God asked a fully clothed man with the trappings of modern intelligence to warn Seattle through "acceptable" means (such as a blog) that it would be destroyed by an earthquake, would they be more likely to listen?

Maybe this dude is nuts. Maybe he's on meth.

Or, maybe God sent an easily dismissible man to warn the humble--who are the only ones that might consider that he might be right. Maybe some few will search the scriptures for the reasons God destroys cities in order to evaluate whether Seattle has become just as wicked as ancient Sodom, Gomorrah, Jerusalem, etc. Maybe they will realize that Seattle has been the historic site of major calamities, and that even scientists believe it is overdue for another.

Fools mock, and they WILL mourn.

[This part isn't on facebook:]

By the way, how many people would revise their worldview if there were a massive earthquake to strike Seattle? Most would be surprised while some few would say, "yeah, but scientists knew this was a seismically active area." Remember what I've said in the past about how people cut themselves off from ways God can show them a better way? Many balk at the degree of blindness of people prophesied in the Book of Revelation. "How is it possible that things like this could happen and people STILL wouldn't wake up, and they actually get worse rather than better?" This is how. Never underestimate the effects of darkness compounding on darkness.
