FORMER MT STATE REP. TOM WINTER ANNOUNCES PEOPLE POWERED CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS

POLSON, MONTANA — In anticipation of the finalized map for Montana's 2nd Congressional District, former Montana State Representative Tom Winter announces his campaign to represent the newly formed district in the U.S. House of Representatives in the 2022 general election.

“For the first time in 30 years, we Montanans will gain another congressional district. This is a huge opportunity for the future of our home and I’m ready to do everything I can to make sure we don’t miss it,” says former Montana State Rep. Tom Winter, “Big corporations and out-of-state billionaires have broken our politics and weakened the labor laws that gave our lives stability here. We have the opportunity to undo that harm.”

Montanans have so much to protect, and so far to go. Clean elections, protected wilderness, managed elk herds, jobs with dignity and a good paycheck, a home and an education for you and your family, the freedom to make of yourself what you want. But now the Montana working people built is under attack.

“Wealthy out-of-staters and multinational corporations think they can make our home their own personal playground. I’m running for Congress not because I alone can fix these problems — but because I know we can if we work together,” continues Winter. “Together we can put outcomes ahead of ideology. Together we can bring back a Montana where we can live free, healthy, and prosperous lives. We can be what we once were — a place that values good clean work, fair play, and equal opportunity.”

Winter for Montana will be building out a people-powered campaign anchored around Tom’s roots in Montana’s communities as he will be taking his campaign on the road to connect directly with Western Montanans in the 2nd congressional district. For more details, contact press@winterformontana.com.
