Seth MacFarlane meets Oscar as host of 85th Academy Awards By Jay Bobbin © Zap2it

Hopefully, Oscar is ready for Seth MacFarlane, because MacFarlane sounds ready for

The "Family Guy" creator and "Ted" director and co-writer will live the dream of many a film fan by serving as host of this year's Oscars, as ABC airs the Motion Picture Academy's 85th ceremony Sunday, Feb. 24, from Los Angeles' Dolby

Theatre at Hollywood & Highland Center.

Seth MacFarlane

Since being named by first-time Oscar producers Craig Zadan and Neil Meron ("Smash") as a surprise choice for the job, Mac-Farlane has become an Oscar nominee as well: He's up for writing the lyrics to the "Ted" song "Everybody Needs a Best Friend."

"In general, we're trying to make this a more ubiquitous Oscars," MacFarlane says. "I think that a lot of times, there's pressure to keep everything about the movies that are nominated that year. While that is a big part of this, we're also trying to find ways to broaden it a little bit."

To that end, a 50th-anniversary salute to the James Bond movies will encompass Adele's first live rendering of "Skyfall" another nominee for best song - and Dame Shirley Bassey will croon the classic "Goldfinger."

Also scheduled is a tribute to movie musicals of recent vintage ... including Oscar's best picture of 2002, "Chicago," of which Meron and Zadan were executive producers. And Barbra Streisand will offer her first Oscar performance since her tune "Evergreen" (from "A Star Is Born") won in 1977.

Hollywood, and television viewers, got a taste of how MacFarlane might fare at the Oscars from his often irreverent mid-January teaming with actress Emma Stone to announce the nominations. He maintains that wasn't meant as a dry run for the main event.

"I think that's how most of the press perceived it, but it really was not that. It was something that the Academy thought would be kind of nice, to make that usually dry ceremony a little more interesting. That was
