The Sooner-Aggie Game, 1927 . . .

Editor's Note: The following being a post-mortem account of what has been termed the "most decisive victory of an Oklahoma Aggie football team over the University of Oklahoma Sooners," the same scored November 19 at Owen field, Norman.

The sun that ideal November afternoon had dropped low behind Owen stadium. Long shadows were reaching out across Owen field where two tired football eleven were bringing the 1927 Sooner-Aggie football game to a close. Oklahoma had launched a last desperate attack on the Orange and Black team and had driven to the Aggie two-yard line. It was fourth down. The score was 13 to 7. Hardly a sound broke the late-afternoon stillness as Oklahoma lined up to make the last Sooner bid for victory. The Aggie defense dug in, the forward pass and ready to hold the Crimson attack.

Over behind the stadium a train puffed lastly. One could see for miles from the stadium top. Where, in a moment, half a stadium full of delirious Aggies or Sooners would be shouting their victory cry, all seemed tranquil. Haskins, the man who beat Chicago for Oklahoma earlier in the season, was called to carry the ball. He dropped back for a sweeping play that could be either a flash around end or a pass into the end zone. The ball went into play. Haskins raced to the right. A wall of black-jerseyed Aggies swarmed across the scrimmage and cut off the Sooner's path to the goal line. He elected to pass, and whipped the ball into the end zone. The ball dropped to the ground uncaught, and eleven tired Aggies trudged back to the twenty-yard line. The Aggies had held and thereby had risen to the greatest height any Aggie team had ever touched—an Aggie victory on Owen field.

There was a bit of scrimmage after that final stand of the Aggies with their backs to the goal line, but that last stand had tested the mettle of the 1927 eleven. It proved the Aggies the superior team. A run or two, a wild pair of forward passes and the timer's gun announced that A. and M. had beaten Oklahoma. Down from the stadium came the Aggie horde that had seen A. and M. beat O. U. for the third time in 24 years of trying; shouting, pushing, slapping backs, they tumbled down onto Owen field. It had been a ball game.

By the way, it is possible that you don't get the point of all this. Understand that Oklahoma A. and M. college had moved down to Norman to play football with University of Oklahoma. No Aggie team had ever defeated the Sooners at Owen field.

Oklahoma was the favorite to take another victory from the Orange and Black. A. and M. had risen from the depths of a mediocre season of football to play the powerful Sooners, conquerors of Chicago, off their feet. Through three-fourths of the game, the fiery Aggies had forced the play deep into Oklahoma territory. Twice an Aggie had streaked across the goal line for a touchdown. At the end, A. and M. had stopped the Sooners in the shadow of the goal. That, in brief, was the occasion. It was a moment sublime. A large note, if you please. An afternoon to get sentimental about. 1917, 1924, and 1927, discounting the tie years of '22 and '28, are the seasons of plenty in Aggie land. Certainly, all is well in Stillwater until another fall rolls around, for the Aggies Beat O. U.

There had been many deeds of valor before that final stand and one should record them for posterity's sake when the dim archives of the daily office are searched for a story of the game of '27.

Much of the glory rightly goes to a long-legged, unblemished lad, a sophomore, who stepped into his first Sooner game and did many things with a football in the 60 minutes of play. It was Al Wright's good right arm and lanky legs, that stride along in seven-league fashion, that caught the eyes of the critics. At the hub of the A. and M. attack, he proved the greatest threat that Aggie land has ever seen, the gridiron since the days of the driving Guy Lookabaugh—and Guy could only run with a football—Ab throws the leather half the length of the gridiron, races across the ends . . . but why go into any more detail.

Ab's forward pass, in the third quarter, proved the winning play of the contest. Gore had raced into the open at the right of the field. Wright shot the ball to the Aggie fullback, Chivington across in front of the play came Earl Ertz who catapulted into the Sooner safety, the only defending player. Gore runs the 100 yards in something like ten seconds, but he really was running fast Saturday. Twenty yards after that 30-yard pass, and A. and M. had pushed ahead 13 to 7 and were ready to settle down and win the game.

Poole, Hendrickson, Schultz, Katzer, Kratz, Ertz, Radnich, King, Redding and Johnson played in the Aggie line. You may pick your own hero, but in so doing bring a Josie stick or two for Ertz, who sped Gore onward to a center; Schultz, who played three quarters with a broken nose; Earl Ertz, who out-punted the Sooners as well as tided his own position; Kratz, who hauled down a Sooner pass on the Aggie 10-yard line; but they all played remarkable football.

Hendrickson sent the Aggies away to a first-half lead when he topped Drake's fumble at the O. U. 18-yard line and rushed across for the opening score of the game in the second quarter. To Hendrickson goes much of the credit for Oklahoma's short punting. He came within inches of kicking Churchill's kicks on half a dozen occasions.

Tubby Schecher has been getting little enough of the praise for the Aggie line. The writer would like to see the low-headed fighter take his place as one of the greatest field generals A. and M. has boasted. Two seasons ago, Schecher played football occasionally, but no one was predicting any wide-swinging career for the former Stillwater high school flash. This season Tub runs the Aggie team. That is liberal. He takes the Aggie places when he is at the helm. It is interesting to note that only one of the carefully-prepared false plays has for the O. U. game, they were attempted at Norman. They were deception itself—they might have meant touchdowns. But they weren't called and they weren't needed. Had A. and M. lagged in the scoring, they might have been needed for an unexpected attack. Schecher was master of ceremonies. It was pretty work.

There was another star, and nobody knows about him. O. U. has a far-famed aerial attack. In fact, it came near being the equal of the startling passing of the Aggies. On the Aggie team is a hard-working player, a powerful line plunger. He is short in stature and necessarily weak on forward pass defense. He did not get into the game at Norman. The man is Captain Bowman. He sat on the sidelines while his team mates won the ball game. He might have shared part of the glory of his last Sooner game, but his misadventure better adapted to halt the Sooner aerial. If you think Captain Bowman was not a hero of the 1927 game, you don't understand the kind of spirit that Beat O. U.

We are going to let it go at that . . . not try to get statistical about a game that stimulated too much of heroic effort to warrant tiresome details of how it happened. Old Central hall has rung before and it will ring again, but it recorded a game last Saturday that will live long.

THOMAS HONORED

A surprise birthday party was given for Prof. George H. Thomas, mechanical engineering, at his home Friday night. Guests were members of Beta Theta Pi, and Prof. and Mrs. E. C. Baker, Mrs. R. G. Sarton, and Dear and Mrs. Rhodes.

Maulbetschmen To Get Rousing Send-Off Today

To give members of the Oklahoma Aggie football squad a rousing send-off before they leave Stillwater for Manhattan, Kans., for the last grid game of the season with Kansas State Agricultural college, Thanksgiving day, call has been issued by pep managers for students to congregate at the Gateway corner, 3:30 o'clock.

A pep band will be present at the rally, according to Orville Thompson, Student Senator in charge of pep arrangements. Members of the band will be given furloughs for classes missed to attend the meeting.

"Students should turn out in mass to give the team a peppy send-off for the Kansas Aggie tilt, and to show appreciation for the victory over the Sooners, Saturday," Thompson said, last night.

The Maulbetschmen are scheduled to leave the Gateway corner at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, enroute at 4:30 o'clock at the Santa Fe station.

AGGIES TO READ PAPERS AT MEET

Sixteen A. and M. Professors Prepare Discussions for Academy of Science

According to the official program of the Oklahoma Academy of Science of the Oklahoma University of Oklahoma, Norman, there will be 16 papers on the program written by Oklahoma A. and M. college faculty members on the two-day session that opens November 25.

In the general meeting to be held in the engineering department, President Knapp, Oklahoma A. and M. college, and President W. B. Bizzell, University of Oklahoma, will be the principal speakers.

Following the general meeting there will be the annual dinner and president's address at McFarlin Memorial church. Charles N. Gould, University of Oklahoma, will be the academy will talk on "Oklahoma, the Geologist's Laboratory."

In the first annual meeting held Friday morning under the head of biological sciences, two A. and M. college men will read papers to the section. They are Robert Pennington, poultry specialist, who will read "Observations on Activity and Fertility of the White Leghorn Male," W. A. Craft, animal husbandry, assisted in preparation of the paper.

"Preferential Mating of Fowls," will be the subject of Charles W. Upjohn, poultry specialist, in a ten-minute paper.

Three Biology Papers

Three college men will read papers in the second session, which meets at 9:30 o'clock, Saturday morning.

Prof. H. I. Featherly, botany, will read a paper on "Grasses of Oklahoma," R. B. Becker, dairying, will read "Waste in Feeding Whole Grains to Cattle," and Henry F. Murphy, agronomy, will read a ten-minute paper on "Studies on the Nitrogen Content of Weeds as Compared with the Cultivated Crops."

HUNT TO ATTEND ARTS CONFERENCE

After inspecting schools of engineering at Iowa State college and the University of Missouri and the University of Illinois, Prof. DeWitt Hunt, head of industrial engineering department at Oklahoma A. and M. college, will attend a national conference of trainers of manual training teachers at Chicago next week.

On his trip Professor Hunt will pay particular attention to equipment being used in college, as much new machinery will be needed for the new industrial engineering building, which will be started on the college campus within the next few days.

He is on a program to take part in the discussion of "Practice Teaching." The meeting, which is known as the Manual Arts conference, will be held at the University of Chicago.

TEAM OFF TODAY FOR KANSAS TRIP

Squad Bruised But Without Serious Injuries After O. U. Game

24 TO KANSAS

Squad Personnel to Be Named After Today's Practice

Bruised and battered, but reporting no serious injuries, the Oklahoma Aggies returned to the practice field yesterday afternoon following their 13 to 7 triumph over University of Oklahoma at Norman Saturday.

Two practice periods on Lewis field are all that will be held before the Aggies leave for their closing game of the 1927 season with Kansas State Agricultural college at Manhattan Thanksgiving day. The game will be a Missouri Valley conference affair, the third conference game of the Aggies this season.

Season's Last Game

The game will have no bearing on the conference race, as both Aggie institutions are out of the running, but a hard-fought game is in prospect as the two schools clash. Kansas Aggie took a severe drubbing last Saturday at the hands of the powerful Nebraska Cornhuskers, but are known to have a strong team this season.

No scrimmage was ordered for the Aggies yesterday, but a long drill was scheduled with the team running through dummy scrimmage and signal drill.

Another practice will be held this afternoon before the team leaves at 4:30 for Kansas. The squad, 24 strong, will go direct to Manhattan and work out Wednesday in the Wildcat stadium. Just who will make the trip will not be announced until after practice this afternoon, Coach Johnny Maulbetsch said yesterday.

INTRAMURAL GRID FINAL IS TODAY

Undefeated Commerce and Aggie Elevens Will Meet for School Pennant

Fighting for the intramural gridiron championship of Oklahoma A. and M. college, teams from schools of agriculture and commerce will meet for the inter-school championship this afternoon, 4 o'clock.

School of agriculture eleven won the right to play in the final game by defeating engineering and education school students in previous contests.

Commerce team played three games with gridmen from the school of science and literature for the right to meet the aggie students. First two contests were scoreless ties, while the third ended 7 to 0 in favor of the Office Boys.

Probable line-up for the game today:

Aggie	Commerce
Lowe	L. E. Wommack
Lowe	LT Skinner
Nicholas	LF Statton
Warner	RC Edwards
Hodges	RG Duckwell
Nicholas	RT Coffey
Mcoy	RE Kaufman
Corbin (c)	LH White (c)
Rogers	QB Tucker
Brady	QB Sullins
	FB Marshall

NIGHT EDITOR IS CRITICALLY ILL

Louis Blackburn, night editor of The Daily O' Collegian, is critically ill from peritonitis, following a case of ruptured appendix, it was learned here yesterday. He is now at the Guthrie hospital.

Blackburn became ill last Friday and left Stillwater for his home in Guthrie. He was rushed to the Guthrie hospital soon afterward where he was operated on Saturday morning. He was reported somewhat improved Monday afternoon.

Aggie Victors Sport Crimson Sweaters Now

Perhaps a new custom, connected with the annual Sooner-Aggie football game originated at the game of last Saturday.

Between the halves, members of the university pep organizations and of the Aggie pep orders wagged their brightly-colored shirts on the outcome of the game.

Yesterday, on the campus, Ag-Illo-Rio-Nex and members of Pi Epsilon Pi had put aside their orange and black jackets and sweaters. In their place were the red and white shirts of the Sooners. To the victors—The winners are strongly in favor of making the wager an annual custom.

Another unusual wager collected this year by Aggies, was a letter blanket won by local Beta Theta Pi chapter from the Beta chapter at Norman. The blanket was the second to be won from the Norman group. The other was presented after the 1924 contest which A. and M. won, 4 to 0. The custom is an annual one between the groups.

LOOP MEET WILL VOTE ON ACTION

Nebraska to Present Propositions at Faculty Representatives Meeting

Continuing plans to discontinue the Missouri Valley athletic conference, the following matter of business will be presented by University of Nebraska at the December meeting of conference officials to be held in St. Louis, Mo., Saturday, December 3, it has been announced by W. G. Manly, secretary of the conference.

"Whereas, six schools, namely Iowa State college, Kansas State Agricultural college, Kansas university, Nebraska university, Missouri university and Oklahoma university, have severally signified their intention of forming a new intercollegiate athletic conference effective at the close of the school year 1927-'28; therefore:

"Be It Resolved: (1) that upon July 1, 1928, the Missouri Valley conference consisting of Iowa State college, Kansas State Agricultural college, Kansas university, Oklahoma university, Missouri university, Nebraska university, Oklahoma A. and M. college, Grinnell college, Washington university, and Drake university be declared dissolved and adjourn, sine die.

"Be It Resolved: (2) that the Missouri Valley conference transfer the collegiate athletic records of the participants from the first named six (Continued on Page 2)

AREA COMMANDER INSPECTS CADETS

Major-General Hinds Honored at American Legion Luncheon

LEAVE TODAY

Troops and Equipment Under Scrutiny of Inspecting Officers

Following inspection of the R. O. T. C. unit of Oklahoma A. and M. college, Maj.-Gen. Ernest Hinds, 8th corps area commander, will leave Stillwater early this morning for Norman where he will inspect the University of Oklahoma R. O. T. C. unit.

After inspection of the college unit yesterday morning on the west drill field, the inspecting party were guests at a luncheon given in their honor at the American Legion hall by the American Legion and Stillwater Chamber of Commerce. Advance R. O. T. C. officers and army officers of the military department attended the luncheon. Major-General Hinds, as principal speaker, made a short talk.

Inspection of physical equipment of the R. O. T. C. unit was made by the party in the afternoon which was followed by conferences with college officials. General Hinds left his card when he called on President Knapp who was out of town.

Included in Major-General Hinds' party was Col. G. R. Mayo, 8th corps area, R. O. T. C. officer and the general's aide.

ARTISTS TO MEET HERE NEXT YEAR

Oklahoma A. and M. college was chosen as the 1928 convention meeting place by the Oklahoma Artists' association which ended its 1927 session at Chickasha, Saturday.

All officers of the association were re-elected. Doel Reed, of the college art faculty, is president; Mrs. Hubert Ambrister, Oklahoma City, is vice-president; and Willie Basson, Law, Chickasha, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were completed by the artists at the session for a lecture course to be given in Oklahoma City in January. The course will be headed by John Thompson of Denver, modernist painter.

ENGINEERS MEET

Meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers was held last night in room 305 Engineering building at 7:50 o'clock. Feature of the program was a talk by A. R. Henry, Dallas, Tex., on "The Accuracy Requisite in Different Classes of Engineering Work."

Flivver Derby Is History; Two Prizes Yet to Be Given to Race Participants

The Daily O' Collegian's first Best O. U. Flivver Derby now is history.

After six cars had finished the grueling 92-mile course in remarkable time only to find that they were disqualified for violation of the speed-law-observance rule, Leroy Tucker, driving "The Spirit of Kow Kowage," was declared first prize winner.

Tucker arrived at the finish line on the University of Oklahoma oval at 11:01 o'clock Saturday morning, three hours and one minute from the time the dash started from the Gateway cover, here.

Close behind Tucker were "Spirit of Camphor" and "Maybe," cars which won second and third places. "Camphor" was put over the course in three hours and three minutes by Dever, Bob Fisher, while "Harriet" driven by Joe Boone, and "Henry's Greatest Mistake," driven by George Innes. Minor accidents to other cars did not keep them out of the finish, although several cars which started were reported at the finish.

All contestants in the derby have been invited to submit a 500-word theme on the subject "The Flivver Derby as a Publicity Agency." A 25 cent prize has been offered by Ramon M. Sahlan for the best article on the subject. Theme must be in the office of The Daily O' Collegian by 6 o'clock tonight. It has been announced. Winner of the prize will be announced Monday, November 28.

One More Football Battle . . .

If it is not asking too much of a team that has done a great deed nobly, may we point out the desirability of A. and M. showing an out-standing football effort at Manhattan this week. The team leaves today, with hardly a breathing space since last Saturday's game, to play its last Missouri Valley conference game. When the Aggies beat Oklahoma, it was the first time this year a member of the so-called Big Six of the Valley had been beaten by one of the four teams left in the conference.

Should the Aggies take the Wildcats into camp, many more convincing things might be said of A. and M.'s football ability when the December meeting of Valley officials is called and the cards of the northern members are placed on the table.

Just at present, it seems that the cause of the Aggies is lost, so far as gaining admission into the new conference is concerned. But, the decision is not yet final—we hope. If we are left without a conference, it will surely not be long, because A. and M. is too well adapted to throw her fortunes with the most powerful of the present Valley organizations. We shall see. But in the meantime, how sweet that Kansas Aggies game would look with A. and M. holding a victory. Incidentally, victory would place the Aggies with the high ranking teams of the conference. Let's forget O. U. until after Thanksgiving day game.

To Show Valley Calibre . . .

We note an unusual matter of business that will be brought before the December meeting of the Missouri Valley conference when the official breaking up of the conference is expected to be effected.

It is Nebraska's resolution that athletic records of the six withdrawing members and of the four remaining members be transferred to the respective schools to be handled as such schools see fit. It marks the end of the conference, if adopted, the resolution recommending that the conference be declared dissolved and adjourn sine die.

We take it to mean that the new combine probably will adopt the name "Missouri Valley conference." Since the dissolution will take the various records to the various schools and leave nothing of the old regime, we take it the Big Six will become the Missouri Valley conference.

Upon first thought, one is prone to remark that Nebraska can never get the resolution through since the vote will be six to four in favor—one vote short of two-thirds majority. However, nothing can prevent the withdrawal of the six. University of Iowa withdraw not so many years ago, to join the Western conference. Perhaps the resolution might as well be adopted by the ten schools, and thus let the Valley be broken without further bluster.

The point A. and M. wishes to make centers around the fact that we can't see an organization in the Valley section that does not include Oklahoma Aggies. Unfortunately, some of the Big Six can't quite "see" the Aggies just at present. Well, we've got to illustrate with a few more well-played seasons in various sports. Up at Manhattan Thanksgiving day will be a rather well-scheduled opportunity to show a little more Valley calibre.

FAMOUS ETCHINGS ARE ON EXHIBIT

Cincinnati Museum Sends Art Exhibit Here; Open Tonight at 7 o'clock

Of wide interest is the art collection of etchings received by Doel Reed of the art department from the Cincinnati Museum last week. The exhibit will be open to the public from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight, at Music and Arts building, at which time Reed will demonstrate etching, it was announced last night.

Some of the finest works of such masters as Frank Duvenoch, Robert Blum, L. E. Meakin, and H. H. Wessel are included in the exhibit. All are well-known masters of etching and their works occupy prominent display at the Cincinnati museum.

Reed formerly was a student at Cincinnati. Later this year, a photographic exhibit of outstanding paintings from the museum will be placed on exhibit here.

A Modernizing Suggestion

Drifting In Aggieland

Well, thank goodness that's over, and the Sooners eat the crow meat this year . . . and to think they kicked us out of the little pet conference because we couldn't play football . . . There are two questions running rampant in O. U. minds at present: Where did Hendrickson get that ball and how far COULD Ab throw in a real passing game?

It's been a big year, footballistically speaking, even if the Aggies don't win the Valley. . . One more tilt remains . . . the battle down around Manhattan, Kan., with the other Aggie squad . . . and don't think both teams will win.

Wonder what Norman thought when the 1909th Stillwater automobile pulled into town . . . From reports the derby was a big treat. . . first man in drove the 90 odd miles in 2 hours, 15 minutes, and the second man over the finish line was No. 1's mechanic.

Returning Hell-Hounds report several, no, many, shirts bearing O. U. trade marks—you see the little logo per boys bet their Norman brothers on the game. . . And on their home-field, too. . . Wat a game!

RADIO MOTIF TO BE THANKSGIVING

Special radio program is being prepared by Oklahoma A. and M. officials for broadcasting November 24, from the college station over EVVOO, Tulsa, according to E. E. Schell, radio director.

"The Old and The New Thanksgiving" will be the topic given by Dean Nora Talbot, home economics, and "The Thanksgiving Spirit" will be given by Ernest E. Schell, director.

Special musical program to be broadcast by local talent has not been prepared for the day.

Other numbers on the program are: "Special Dairy Talks," by Prof. A. C. Baer, dairy; and "Home Entertainment for Thanksgiving" by Flora Mae Ellis, physical department. Rev. T. A. Tripp, United Brethren church, will give a special Thanksgiving address.

ELECT NEW K. U. CAPTAIN LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 21—Chief H. Cooper of Lawrence, has been elected captain of the 1928 track team of the University of Kansas. After the election last spring it was discovered an ineligible member of the squad had voted, and a ballot by mail was taken. Cooper was a member of the quarter mile relay team that set a new record of 43.8 at Drake last spring. He was also a member of the half-mile relay team that broke all records here with time of 1:28.5.

COLLEGE CLUB TO GIVE DANCE

The College club, an organization composed of faculty members, will hold its second dance of the fall, Tuesday night, November 22, in Swin's hall.

Once each month the club meets for an informal evening of dancing and playing cards; the last social function to be given was the Halloween Masquerade dance.

Bob Harper's Outlaws will furnish music for the club dance, Tuesday night.

Sunday dinner guests of Alpha Delta Pi were Charles McMullin and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Talman, of Tulsa. Sunday guests of Alpha Delta Pi were Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Cox, Shawnee, and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Herring, of Oklahoma City.

Dorothy Whitlock was called to her home in Enid Saturday by the serious illness of her sister, Ruth. Ruth Whitlock was a freshman in the Oklahoma A. and M. college last year.

Lieut. J. H. Hinds, a member of the Kappa Alpha chapter of George Washington university, Washington, D. C., is a guest of Kappa Alpha.

Opal Burford, Mary Griffin, Charline Bryant, and Elizabeth Dittler were dinner guests of Chi Beta last night.

Helen Remington was a Sunday dinner guest of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Chi Beta Monday dinner guest was Holland Fox.

Monday luncheon guest of Omega Kappa Nu was Lawson Taylor, Muskogee.

Genevieve Healey was a dinner guest of Kappa Alpha Theta last night.

Joyce and Imogene Pillingams spent the weekend in Tulsa.

Beulah Diehnol was a weekend guest in Oklahoma City.

Ruby Plinck and Cleo Harridge were visitors in Hominy for the weekend.

Charlene Hanna and Eleanora Gilbert spent the weekend at their home in Jenks.

M. Addie Proffitt, Delta Zeta house-mother, visited at her home in Yale, Sunday.

Zelma Hammond and Rosalie Bolinger were Delta Zeta dinner guests.

Mrs. Kate B. Thomas, house mother of Omega Pi, spent last weekend visiting in Oklahoma City.

Velma McIntire was a visitor in Guthrie Sunday.

Letha Bales spent last weekend at her home in Tonkawa. She had as her guest over the weekend Helen Wood.

Alean Martin and Leah Murphy, Shawnee, were dinner guests of Alpha Kappa Psi, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Allred, Ada, were weekend guests of Albert Dawson at the Sigma Mu Sigma house.

Valley Views

University of Oklahoma's decisive victory in cross-country at the annual Missouri Valley conference meet held last Saturday at Manhattan, gives the Sooners the first championship of the year in the Valley.

Cuech Max Messers was pleased with the performance of his crippled Aggie hurriers. They finished ahead of but one team, Missouri, but the race was close and the Aggies, minus Faulkner and with Joe Wilson crippled, came in well in the running.

Pleasing was the unusual running of Quentin Williams, who ran the fastest five miles he has yet completed. He was eleventh in the race, being the first Aggie across the line. Washington, Grinnell, and Drake did not send teams to the Valley meet. The Aggies were the only team among the four who are being left out of the new Missouri Valley conference, who sent a team to the event. Apparently the orange and black athletes are willing to compete with the Big Six at any rate.

Aggie sport followers were lamenting yesterday the fact that Washington university won the surprise game from the Maulbettsch men early in October. Victory in the opening game would have left the Aggie at the top of the Valley heap of percentages this week.

That is past history, however, and the Aggies are entitled to the praise that comes only to Aggie teams who conquer the Sooners. Victory this weekend over Kansas Aggies will give the varsity a presentable standing in the conference and will leave the season with four games won and as many lost. It is a tough assignment at Manhattan, however, and will take all the varsity has to win. Here's luck.

HOUNDS WILL PASS BLANKET FOR TRIP

Twenty members of Pi Epsilon Pi, Aggie pep organization, more commonly known as Hell Hounds, will leave Wednesday morning, 7 o'clock, for Manhattan, Kan., where they will attend the Kansas Aggie-Oklahoma Aggie football game Thanksgiving day.

Money derived from sale of arm bands at the Aggie-Somer game last Saturday will be used for the trip which will be made by bus. Total expense of the chartered bus has not been met, and the Hell Hounds will pass a blanket at today's pep meeting to help defray the expenses of the trip, it was announced last night.

DEMONSTRATIONS GIVEN WEDNESDAY

Demonstrations in household art are to be given by two senior women in home economics in the Home Economics building, Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, it has been announced.

Nellie Osburn will demonstrate "Garnishes," while Marie Nietert will demonstrate "Cake Icings."

No one is too old to learn. Columbia university educators have decided after experimenting with adult capacities for learning new subjects. Two groups of adults, one between the ages of twenty and twenty-four, the other over thirty-five, learned a language more quickly than children from twelve to fifteen years old.

AGGIES SIXTH IN HARRIER CONTEST

Williams Is First A. and M. Man in Annual M. V. Cross-country Run

Oklahoma Aggie cross-country runners made a creditable showing against the fastest field ever to enter a Missouri Valley conference five-mile run last Saturday, the orange and black hurriers finishing sixth in the annual meet at Manhattan, Kan. University of Oklahoma runners, scoring 20 points, won the conference championship, although Frazier, University of Kansas runner, was first of the distance men to cross the finish line. Quentin Williams, finishing eleventh in a field of 46 runners, was the first Aggie to finish.

The race was held as a feature of the Nebraska-Kansas Aggie football game. John Faulkner, speediest Aggie in earlier meets, was out of the race with a broken leg, injured in the meet with Central State Teachers' college a month ago.

SOCCER PRACTICE! BEGUN BY CO-EDS

Senior and Sophomores First to Start Work On New W. A. A. Sport

Sophomore and senior women's soccer teams held their first practice of the season yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the practice field in front of Old Central building. Freshmen and seniors will hold their first practice tonight.

Soccer sport leader is Ada Lee Sims, Stillwater. The teams will be coached by Miss Eleanor Troeger, sports coach.

Soccer season will last about four weeks, a tournament being held just before the Christmas holidays. In soccer, as in hockey, members of the winning team will be awarded 150 points toward W. A. A., and members of the other class teams will receive 100 points.

Line-up for soccer is the same as for hockey. In soccer, however, a large ball, almost as large as a basketball, is used, and kicked with the foot.

Freshman and junior teams will meet on Mondays and Thursdays; freshmen and seniors on Tuesdays and Fridays. On Wednesdays all four teams will meet for practice.

TWO ATTEND CONFERENCE
D. P. Trent, director of extension, and D. V. Shuhart, horticulture, are in Ardmore Tuesday and Wednesday to attend a meeting of the Oklahoma Pecan Growers association.

SAXTON RETURNS FROM ARMY DUTY

Engineering Professor Works Two Weeks On War Department Problem

Prof. R. G. Saxton, head of the department of civil engineering, returned to Stillwater Saturday night after two weeks of service with the quartermaster Reserve Corps at Ft. Bliss near El Paso, Texas.

Immediately upon his arrival at Ft. Bliss on Monday, November 7, Prof. Saxton was placed on a confidential problem for the United States war department which was completed about two hours before he was released from service Friday November 18.

Other officers working with Saxton were contractors and engineers from various places in Oklahoma and Texas. In their work they gained valuable information along military lines and other work relative to construction in quartermaster research of the United States army.

Chickasha highschool has just received two hundred dollars worth of chemical supplies and laboratory equipment.

The College Men in "THE DROP KICK" say—"Clothes make the Picture"

These ten college men are the winners in the great screen test made by First National Pictures. They were chosen from 15,000 college men to put real college atmosphere in "The Drop Kick," the great motion picture now showing here. Naturally these men are authorities on college clothes. And in this great realistic film they wear the same clothes they wear at school—Society Brand. No other clothes, they say, can give them such absolute correctness of cut. We have the same models that these men wear—now on display.
