

Here,
There

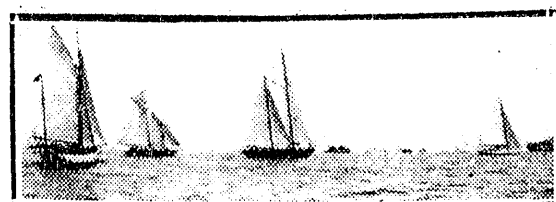

An Augury?
Star Shower;
Lures of Milk

Colt Omaha Wins Belmont Stake

Omaha World-Herald

Morning Sport Section

Yachts Start Race to Norway

NINE.

Albany Fans Cheer Pitts; Ruling Today

Warren Giles Will Deliver Verdict in Case This Forenoon

Landis May Rule

If Petition Is Denied,
High Commissioner
Will Hear Appeal

IS THERE anything significant in the fact that on the day La Moody sailed for England to attempt a comeback (that has started promisingly), La Jacobs was lashed in the French hard court tourney?

France and Australia divided their first singles matches in Davis Cup zone semifinals. Something like that is always coming up to make us think we have a chance.

University of Chicago has whittled its 1937 football program to seven games, may reduce it still further unless there is an increase in lusty male undergraduate enrollment. Some observers declare that this is the Midway's first step toward the elimination of intercollegiate competition in the sport.

But Chicago, a charter member of the Big Ten, will remain a member of that society as long as it wishes.

* * *

Star Shower.

FOR A headline attraction, Lincoln's able arrangers of big-time track and field contests thought there would be no better way to get along as best they could with what is left of the field after Cunningham, Lovelock, Bonthron and Venzke run at Princeton June 15. Now they're happily pondering an all-star card for the National A. A. U. games July 4, which, because of the newness of his exploits, will be headed by Ohio State's prodigious Jimmy Owens—unless one of that mile field takes liberties with Cunningham's 4:06.7 next Saturday.

—Nor will Jimmy Owens, Cunningham, Bonthron, Venzke, Dawson and possibly Lovelock be the only star performers. Jack Torrance, the human caterpillar, will be there, too, with his record-breaking 16-pound shot. So will sky-scraping Keith Brown, who 10 days ago set a new world's pole vault height; Bill Graber, his chief rival, and several young men who might at any time confound the efforts of this leading pair.

—Sky-scraping at the national games will not be restricted to the young men who employ a bamboo or aluminum pole to elevate themselves. The world's greatest high jumpers will also be there—Walter Marty, the Negro, Cornelius Johnson; Vince Murphy and Lynn Philson, the prize of Drake university.

—The national games' mile, of course, will be the 1,500 meters, which is the approximate metric equivalent of the English measure. Cunningham, Bonthron, Venzke and the rest of that continually warring field of runners will be just as active in a battle over 1,500 meters as over a mile.

* * *

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Waller.

UD TUNNING, the Filger, D. Neb. pitcher whom Barney Burch couldn't see, is having a tough time holding his own with the Columbus American Association club. The Cardinals sent him to their Ohio farm after seeing him in the trade that sent Ted Carleton to the Cubs. Bud made a brave start with the Chicagoans several years ago, but he was unable to control his eating. He literally wolfed himself out of the majors. His gargantuan appetite, however, was not the reason why Barney Burch couldn't see him. Barney simply didn't think he could throw, which while perhaps erroneous in theory seems to have been pretty accurate in fact.

—Early football item from dizzy Lahn Onglaze, seat of the University of Southern California, which used to be a power in college football: "U. S. C. looks as bad as it proved itself to be last year. Howard Jones needs great guards for his system and he hasn't them. He has a quarterback who is very suggestive of Jim Thorpe—like Thorpe an Indian, and again like Thorpe a young man who will not be forced. Jones' Yale methods will put the brave on the warpath."

—The foregoing information came from Norman S. Her, the football writer. He also told me that U. S. C. L. A. has the best material in its history, that Washington university may humiliate Stanford if the rumor that Hornell's pupils have succumbed to senioritis.

—The U. C. L. A. angle is interesting. The movie folk are said to have become fed up with U. S. C. to have transferred their support—which often consists of

Colt Omaha Rests After 3d Win, May Enter Detroit Race

New York, June 9 (AP).—Having completed the famous "triple crown" with a victory in the sixty-seventh running of the Belmont stakes, Omaha was back in his stall at Aqueduct Sunday awaiting the decision of his owner, William Woodward, as to when and where he will make his next start.

The chestnut son of Gallant Fox is eligible for the 25 thousand dollar Detroit derby Saturday.

He came out of the race in fine shape, said Trainer Fitzsimmons, "but I have made no definite plans concerning his next race, pending a conference with Mr. Woodward."

Broken Bow's Day at Races; Fields Large

Proprietor Is Early
Choice to Capture
Today's Feature

Two Route Tests

(Selections on Page 11.)

Large fields will go to the post in five of the seven races at Ak-Sar-Ben track this afternoon, only the distance numbers, the sixth and seventh races, having fewer than 11 entrants.

With such large fields, favorites will be difficult to determine, and there will be fine opportunities for longshots to score.

Broken Bow fans, some 150 of them, will come to the races by special train, and the fourth race will be named the Custer county purse in their honor.

The Choctaw Trials.

Proprietor likely will be established as betting favorite for the Custer event at six furlongs, because of his recent fine showing when he was a driving second to Cogay. Others certain to be well backed in the fourth are Scrip Money, Alkali and Bel Ora.

The day's closing race at one mile and a sixteenth, will give routers a spirited test. The Choctaw, fast closing second at a mile and 70 yards last week, will be a favorite. Seth's Pride, a disappointment in his previous effort here, and Moorish Amulet are considered the chief contenders.

Meet Winners Battle.

The sixth also will be a long run, six being named for the mile and 70-yard argument. In this Bebest and Prince Ballot, winners at the meeting, will meet Delano, Dark Mist, Coalizer and Seminole Queen. The latter was a 10-1 winner against cheaper company.

Sweetest Heart, Gladys McAlister and Dad's Pet loom as choices in the first, while Dream Train, Brilliant Son and Poly Royal shape up as contenders in the second. Flying Red, Lady Torchilla and Carbine's Comet will draw backing in the third, while the fifth is headed by Brooksie, Singing River and Cloister Blues.

Although he was competing in the consolation when he made the record ride of the day, Ralph Moore of Kansas City stole the show at the motorcycle hill climb Sunday afternoon when he roared over the crest of Suicide Slope near Elk City in nine and one-half seconds to thrill more than one thousand spectators.

Moore twisted a knee cap as he broke the string at the top of the hill when his machine fell on top of him.

Bert Barton of Omaha won first money in two of the three events and second in another. Barton was tops with a 14-second ride in the Class A and B race, first in Class B with a 16-second jaunt, and second in the 80-cubic inch classic for experts.

Elmer Turner of Waterloo, Ia., was second high money winner, with first place in the 80-cubic inch event. He sent his machine over the top in 10.6 seconds for second low time of the day, and also topped seconds in two events.

Norman Sverston of Omaha was third in the B division, Cecil Waddell of Kansas City was third in the A and B event, and William Jones of Omaha was third in 80-cubic inch climb. Jimmy Lafal was second in the consolation and Ken Beckley of Omaha was third.

Although loose dirt made the slope hazardous and spills numerous, Moore's minor injury was the only one of the meet. Prize money ranged from $3 to $25. Fourteen riders from Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri were present.

Stella Walsh Beats World's 220 Record

Cleveland, O., June 9 (AP).—Stella Walsh, the Cleveland girl track star, bettered the accepted world record for 220 yards for women in a special race Sunday at the Northeastern Ohio A. A. U. meet. She ran the event in 24.3 seconds, eclipsing the mark of 25.1 set by Betty Robinson of Chicago.

In an attempt to set a new mark in the 100-meter dash, she had to be content with equalling her own recognized mark of 11.8 seconds.

Takes Four Classes in Outboard Racing

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Outriggering his opponents in every heat, Fred Jacoby of North Bergen, N. J., today won all outboard competitions in Classes A, B, C and D in the Shrine regatta on the Potomac river. The roughness of the water made fast speeds precarious and none of the times threatened records.

Baby Casanova Wins Mix with Arizmendi

Mexico, D. F., June 9 (AP).—Rodolfo "Baby" Casanova, featherweight champion of Mexico, won a decision over Baby Arizmendi, champion of New York state, in a 10-round fight here. Casanova was the aggressor throughout. A capacity crowd of nine thousand saw the set-to in the National arena.

Moore Leads Hill Climbers

Sails Up Suicide Slope in 9½ Seconds for
Mark; Barton Cops

Although he was competing in the consolation when he made the record ride of the day, Ralph Moore of Kansas City stole the show at the motorcycle hill climb Sunday afternoon when he roared over the crest of Suicide Slope near Elk City in nine and one-half seconds to thrill more than one thousand spectators.

Moore twisted a knee cap as he broke the string at the top of the hill when his machine fell on top of him.

Bert Barton of Omaha won first money in two of the three events and second in another. Barton was tops with a 14-second ride in the Class A and B race, first in Class B with a 16-second jaunt, and second in the 80-cubic inch classic for experts.

Elmer Turner of Waterloo, Ia., was second high money winner, with first place in the 80-cubic inch event. He sent his machine over the top in 10.6 seconds for second low time of the day, and also topped seconds in two events.

Norman Sverston of Omaha was third in the B division, Cecil Waddell of Kansas City was third in the A and B event, and William Jones of Omaha was third in 80-cubic inch climb. Jimmy Lafal was second in the consolation and Ken Beckley of Omaha was third.

Although loose dirt made the slope hazardous and spills numerous, Moore's minor injury was the only one of the meet. Prize money ranged from $3 to $25. Fourteen riders from Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri were present.

Close Battles Open C. Y. O. Ball League

Games were close in the C. Y. O. league Sunday, opening day. St. Philomena's won from Blessed Sacrament, 7 to 5; St. Cecilia's beat St. Wendel, 7 to 4, and Holy Angels team downed St. Mary's, 8 to 4. Leo Pezdirtz and Monaghan hit home runs for St. Philomena's. Only one team brought in the score by innings; no none are printed.

Petillo Unhurt When Racing Car Crashes

Chicago, Ill., June 9 (AP).—Kelly Petillo, victor in the Indianapolis Memorial day five hundred mile automobile race, was forced out of action by a minor accident Sunday in a 10-mile event at the Fairgrounds speedway. Petillo, making his first start since winning the Indianapolis classic, tangled with the entry of Charles Brites of Chicago, damaging his steering gear. Neither was hurt.

Scribner Loses First in Elkhorn

Elkhorn Valley Standings.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W. L. H. R. E.
Premont 100 000 012 5 11 3
Haverhill 100 000 010 0 1 3
Dawson 100 000 010 0 1 3
Batteries: Appel and Schurman; Doly and Keller.

W. L. H. R. E.
Scribner 210 200 001 7 11 2
Schuyler 200 000 000 0 1 3
Premont 115 000 520 0 1 5
Haverhill 100 000 000 0 1 5
Batteries: Chambers and Lundstrom; Mackenstedt, Blum and Hiron.

W.