Inchelium delivers meals

INCHELIUM — Inchelium School District will deliver meals via bus during the state-mandated closure.

District officials said social distancing will be maintained. “We will be wearing gloves during deliveries and while packing bags,” a statement from the district said. “There has been some concern that masks will scare the kids, so we have decided not to wear them for delivery. “No one sick will be delivering meals,” the district said. “If a staff member has any symptoms, they are sent home.”
