OKANOGAN COUNTY HISTORY

OKANOGAN COUNTY'S NATIVES were called the Okanogans, Methows, Nespelems and San Poils. They have since been joined on the Colville Indian Reservation by bands of Nez Perce, Wenatchee (Wenatchi), Lakes, Colville, Palouse, Moses and Entiat Indians.

Early non-Indians came to the county seeking furs and, eventually gold and silver. Some highlights:

July 3, 1811: David Thompson and other fur traders from British-owned Northwest Company drift into the area. They are said to be the first white men to arrive in the Okanogan.

Late summer, 1811: John Jacob Astor's Pacific Fur Company builds its first inland post on the south bank of the Okanogan River near confluence with the Columbia. Fort Okanogan was the first establishment to fly the American flag in what is now Washington state.

1821: Fort Okanogan becomes property of the Hudson's Bay Company.

1821-1846: Furs gathered from all over sprawling New Caledonia — most of northwestern Canada — come down the Okanogan River to the fort and are transferred to boats for passage to Vancouver.

1838: Hudson's Bay Company relocates Fort Okanogan about a mile away on the shores of the Columbia.

1853: Area that's now Okanogan County becomes part of Clark County under original formation of Washington Territory.

1854: Area that's now Okanogan County becomes part of Walla Walla County.

1857-58: Prospectors turn into a wild-eyed stampede headed for the Cariboo gold fields of British Columbia.

1858: Hiram F. "Okanogan" Smith settles near the foot of Lake Osoyoos as Okanogan County's first permanent white resident, plants county's first fruit orchards. Some of his apple and pear trees still bear fruit.

1860: The fur trade dwindles; Fort Okanogan is abandoned.

1860s: Ben Snipes and others push great herds of cattle nearly 800 miles from the Yakima country to Cariboo mining camps. Some prospectors dip gold pans in the Similkameen River.

1863: Okanogan County area becomes part of Stevens County.

April 2, 1872: Presidential executive order creates the Colville Indian Reservation. Four months later the northern boundary is moved south to its present location.

1886: Reservation land west of the Okanogan River opens to entry. Cascade foothills explode with activity as miners and homesteaders pour in.

1888: Okanogan becomes a county, with county seat temporarily in Ruby.

1889: County seat moves to Conconully.

1892: North half of Colville Indian Reservation becomes public domain.

1893: Price of silver collapses; boom towns fade.

1890s: Stern-wheel riverboats ply the Columbia River to Brewster and, in high water, the Okanogan River as far as Riverside.

1900s: Fledgling irrigation districts form, expanding orcharding into the county's largest economic force by the 1970s. Lumber and cattle raising grow in importance.

1915: County seat moves to Okanogan.

1916: South half of the Colville Indian Reservation opens to settlement.

Feb. 26, 1938: U.S. government approves Colville Confederated Tribes' constitution and by-laws; Colville Business Council established.

1988: County celebrates its centennial.

1989: State celebrates its centennial.

1992, post election: Okanogan County gains national prominence as the nation's "bellwether" county — the one with the longest string of correctly going for the presidential winner. Streak extends back to 1904 and Theodore Roosevelt's victory.

1996: Okanogan County loses national "bellwether" distinction by going for Republican Bob Dole instead of winner Bill Clinton.

1997: Colville Indian Reservation celebrates 125th anniversary.

2014: Carlton Complex fire burns across 256,108 acres to become the largest wildfire in state history. Homes, barns, outbuildings and fences destroyed; electrical, fiber optics and telephone lines damaged or destroyed; livestock and wildlife killed; rangeland, orchards, timber, crops destroyed or damaged; two deaths attributed to the fire, one a heart attack and the other from injuries suffered in a fall. Subsequent flooding and mudslides damaged roads, property and homes.

2015: Okanogan Complex, Tunk Block and North Star fires burn across a combined 522,920 acres. Damage is similar to that of the Carlton Complex fire a year earlier, though mudslide damage is less. Three U.S. Forest Service firefighters - Tom Zbyszewski, 20, Andrew Zajac, 26, and Richard Wheeler, 31 - die while fighting the fires near Twisp on Aug. 19. Four other firefighters are injured.

2020: The Cold Springs, Pearl Hill and Inchelium Complex fires, all of which started Labor Day weekend, accounted for 433,000 acres of land charred — 189,923 of them in Cold Springs, 223,730 in Pearl Hill and the rest in the Inchelium Complex. A 22-month-old toddler died in the blaze.

FERRY COUNTY HISTORY

FERRY COUNTY IS RICH in a history inextricably connected to its present. Highlights of the journey include:

1807: First trading post is established on the Columbia River.

1811: David Thompson, a fur trader, explorer and surveyor, writes about the area now included in Ferry County during his trip down the Columbia River to the sea.

1840s: Canada and the United States establish the international boundary at its present location. The Army establishes a military post at Pinkney City, which became the county seat of Stevens County and included present-day Stevens, Ferry and Spokane counties.

1853: President Millard Fillmore signs a bill creating the Washington Territory, which includes today's state of Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana.

1857: A large tract of land, mostly mountainous and including all of modern Ferry County, is set aside and called the Colville Indian Reservation.

1865: First fur traders come to the Colville Indian Reservation from the Hudson's Bay Company.

1872: Colville Indian Reservation is created by executive order of President U.S. Grant. Less than a month later, another executive order reduces the size of the reservation and moves it to the west side of the Columbia River.

1883: Gen. William T. Sherman makes an inspection tour — probably over Deer Creek Boulder Pass instead of Sherman Pass, which is named for him.

1885: Chief Joseph and his people are moved to the Colville Indian Reservation.

1890s: The gold rush brings many prospectors and settlers surveyors establish range and township boundaries.

1894: Ranald MacDonald, the first man to teach English language in Japan, dies and is buried in northern Ferry County.

1896: The north half of the Colville Indian Reservation opens for mining claims. First claim is staked on Eureka Creek just north of present Republic.

1897: The town of Nelson is designated the first post office on the Colville Reservation. Its name is later changed to Danville. Also that year, Patrick H. Walsh erects the first sawmill in Ferry County, 1898: Republic's first streets and lots are platted and in two months the population increases by 2,000. A franchise is granted for building the area's first railroad.

1899: Ferry County separates from Stevens County and is named for Elisha P. Ferry, Washington's first governor. Later that year half the Eureka's businesses are destroyed by fire.

1900: The Gold Rush peaks and Eureka changes its name to Republic for one of its largest mines. The North Half of the Colville Indian Reservation, now Ferry County, is opened to homesteaders by presidential proclamation. Restrictions on logging are lifted and many small sawmills appear. Two rival railroad companies construct lines in a race to reach the Republic's gold fields. The local line was known as the "Hot Air Line" because of its shaky financing and premature, exaggerated 1903: The Ansoerge Hotel is built next to the Great Northern Railway in Curlew.

1904: Chief Joseph dies in Nespelem, Okanogan County.

1907: Colville National Forest is established by President Theodore Roosevelt.

1908: The Curlew bridge, built by William Oliver, opens. Two prior bridges were destroyed by floods.

1919: The "Hot Air Line" railroad goes bankrupt and closes. Small towns along the route sink into obscurity.

1933: Construction of Grand Coulee Dam begins. While constructing the dam and filling Lake Roosevelt reservoir provides jobs, electricity and irrigation projects, it also floods hundreds of archaeological sites and forces Keller and Inchelium to move to higher ground.

1964: Curlew Job Corps Civilian Conservation Center is built on the site of an old Air Force radar base.

1997: Colville Confederated Tribes celebrate the 125th anniversary of the reservation's creation.

1998: Flood waters wash out state and county roads in late May. Later that year, Knob Hill Mine at the head of Eureka Gulch closes after operating continuously since 1902.

2003: One of the area's largest employers, Vaagen Brothers

Lumber, closes in the spring then catches fire in November.

2004: Kinross Gold Corp. announces plans to purchase and operate the Crown Jewel gold mining project at Buckhorn Mountain in Okanogan County. Gold is to be milled in Ferry County.

2007: The Kettle Falls International Railroad removes train tracks between Torboy and Danville, ending rail service in the county.

 The 14-member Colville Business Council governs the 1.4 million-acre Colville Indian Reservation, which straddles Okanogan and Ferry counties with about half the reservation in each.

Business council members serve two-year terms, with half of the council up for election each year. The primary election is in May and the general election is in June.

Officers and committee chairs are elected from within the council, by council members, during annual reorganization in July. Newly elected council members are seated during the reorganization meeting.

The reservation is divided into four districts: Inchelium, Keller, Nespelem and Omak, each with representatives on the council.

HISTORIC SITES

Okanogan County

Okanogan County Historical Society helps folks enjoy history through a system of historical signs and museums throughout the county to mark unusual locations and historic sites.

All are accessible by car, and many provide scenic views.

Antoine Post Office — An early day post office near Havillah. Sign is alongside Havillah Road northeast of Tonasket.

Beaver Creek School — Sign in Twisp describes the school, which was built in 1891 and graduated its last class of record in 1942.

Caribou Trail — Sign describes travel in the Okanogan Valley in the 1860s. Located three miles south of Okanogan on Highway 97.

Chiliwist Trail — Details early travel between the Okanogan and Methow valleys. Sign is at the intersection of Old Highway 97 and the Chiliwist Road.

China Ditch — Remnants of a ditch built by Chinese miners between 1860 and 1880. Settlers later used it for irrigation until the 1948 flood destroyed part of the ditch and flume. Located on Highway 97 about a mile south of Pateros.

Circle City — Town site developed as a place for the trains to cool their brakes after the downhill run from Molson. Sign is north of the junction of Nine Mile and Oroville-Toroda Creek roads.

Conconully — Details town's rough-and-tumble history as first county seat through a mining boom, fire of 1892 and the flood of 1894. Located on Main Street.

Curtis Sheep Slaughter — A range conflict between cattle and sheep ranchers climaxed with the late-night slaughter of sheep at the site, on Highway 20 south of Okanogan.

Hee-Hee Stone — The stone, reported to be an Indian princess by legend, was destroyed by miners and dynamite in 1905. Sign is on Oroville-Toroda Creek Road between Molson and Chesaw.

Knob Hill School — The site of a school operating between 1903 and 1927. Sign is on the Molson Summit Road between Molson and Chesaw.

Loomis — Life in an early day mining town at the turn of the century. Located on the main drive of Loomis, northwest of Tonasket in the Sinlahekin Valley.

Lower Kipling — Hathorn's Store and signs of homesteading in the Okanogan Highlands. Sign is on the Oroville-Toroda Creek Road just west of Chesaw.

Lt. Goethals Slept Here — George Washington Goethals, a builder of the Panama Canal, visited Okanogan's site in 1883. Sign is in Alma Park, Okanogan.

McLoughlin Canyon — A shoot-out between Indians and a mining party in 1858. Sign overlooks the canyon south of Tonasket and just north of the Janis bridge on Highway 97.

Methow — Turn-of-the-century pioneer life and a log schoolhouse. Sign located along Highway 153 north of Pateros on the Methow River.

Methow Rapids U-Bolt — An iron U-bolt that was used to pull paddle wheel steamships through the Methow Rapids remains imbedded in rock at the confluence of the Methow and Columbia rivers.

Molson Railroad Route — An early railroad line between Marcus and Molson is remembered near Sidley Lake just north of Molson.

Okanogan Smith — Considered the "Johnny Appleseed" of Washington state, Hiram F. "Okanogan" Smith settled the county in the late 1850s and planted 1,200 apple trees. Sign is on Highway 97 north of Oroville.

Old Molson — Old buildings recreate a turn-of-the-century mining town near present-day

Molson. Sign is among Old Molson Museum buildings south of Molson.

Old Okanogan Mission — The sign, in Ellisforde on Highway 97, discusses pioneer churches and their organizers.

Ruby — During a silver boom in 1886, Ruby was a rough and tumble boom town. It died a few years later when the bottom fell out of the silver market. Foundations can be seen at the sign on Salmon Creek Road south of Conconully and east of Okanogan.

Sidley, B.C. — Sidley straddled the border. Sign is on Nine Mile Road at the Canadian border.

Silver — Site of the Methow

Valley's first town, destroyed by the flood of 1894. The site is along Highway 153 between Carlton and Twisp.

St. Mary's Mission — A Catholic mission founded in 1886, St. Mary's remains an active Catholic church and site of Paschal Sherman Indian School. Sign is on Highway 155 east of Omak.

U Bar U Ranch — The story of Wellington French's family and pioneer cattle ranch. Sign is on the Conconully Highway about five miles east of Conconully and northwest of Omak.

Winthrop — Early day Winthrop is discussed on a sign located in town.

NORTH CASCADES HIGHWAY

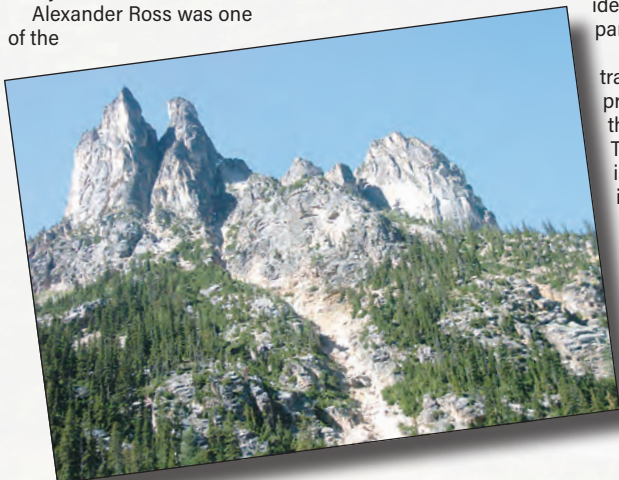

Clear lakes, wildlife and stunning peaks

The North Cascades Scenic Highway - state Highway 20 - which connects the Skagit and Methow valleys, takes travelers through a wild country of crystal clear lakes, abundant wildlife and stunning peaks.

It travels through North Cascades National Park, Ross Lake National Recreation Area and plenty of national forest land. The Pasayten and Lake Chelan-Sawtooth wilderness areas are nearby.

It was the first road proposed and the last one built through the Cascades, and is the highest and northernmost of Washington's Cascade crossings. It crosses Washington Pass at 5,477 feet and Rainy Pass at 4,860 feet.

Alexander Ross was one of the earliest explorers of the region in 1814. Miners prospected for gold, lead, zinc and platinum from 1880 to 1910, but transportation costs cut heavily into profits and most mining efforts were abandoned by 1910.

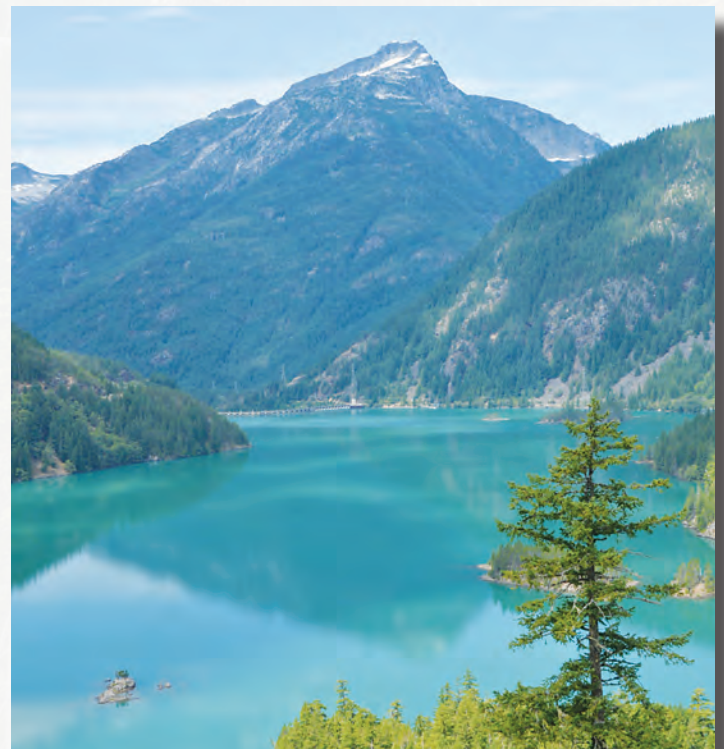

The highway opened in 1972, but usually is closed by snow during the winter - typically from late November or early December until mid- to late April. Information: www.wsdot.wa.gov.

North Cascades National Park, established in 1968, consists of more than 684,000 acres and contains more than half (318) of the glaciers in the contiguous U.S. Its eastern edge borders Okanogan Country. Along and near the highway are more than 360 miles of maintained trails available for hiking.

More than 1,500 species of plants have been identified in the park.

Hunting and trapping are prohibited in the park.

Trapping also is prohibited in Ross Lake National Recreation Area and in the Lake Chelan National Recreation Area.

When driving across the highway, travelers should start with a full tank of gas because there are no services other than restrooms and campgrounds for 75 miles between Mazama and Newhalem.

Heading over Washington Pass from the eastern side is the steepest - people should make sure their vehicles are in good condition with good fluid levels.

A park visitor center is located in Newhalem.

Information: www.nps.gov, 360-854-7200.

Besides being a federally designated scenic highway, the North Cascades Highway also is part of the state's North Cascades and Cascades Loop scenic byways. Information: www.experiencewa.com/things-to-do/scenic-byways.

Scenic Byways / Border Crossings

Scenic Byways

Okanogan Country's scenery stretches on and on Washington celebrates its scenic diversity with the Washington State Scenic Byways program, just one way you can enjoy Okanogan Country and its many beautiful highways and country roads.

Twenty-five highway corridors statewide carry the scenic byways moniker, and Okanogan Country sports five of those scenic drives.

- Cascade Loop - The loop stretches from the islands of Puget Sound across the North Cascades Highway (Highway 20) to the Methow Valley, south to Wenatchee (Highway 97 or 97A) and back across the Cascades via Stevens Pass (Highway 2).

It takes in diverse scenery from ocean views to America's Alps - the North Cascades - and high desert Columbia River fruit country.

Because the North Cascades Highway is closed during winter, the full loop can be driven only from about late May to mid-November (closure times vary, depending on snow).

Length: 400 miles.

- Coulee Corridor - The corridor takes in spectacular cliffs carved by ice age flooding and high desert that produces a variety of agricultural products thanks to irrigation waters from the Grand Coulee Dam project.

The coulee is a magnet for resident and migratory wildlife, and a paradise for the recreational traveler. The corridor includes the portion of state Highway 155 that travels through the Colville Indian Reservation, making the designated corridor run from Othello to Omak.

Length: 160 miles.

- Okanogan Trails Scenic Byway - The route begins in Pateros at the confluence of the Columbia and Methow rivers and travels north to the international border near Oroville. The byway along U.S. Highway 97 traces the fertile valleys of the Columbia and Okanogan rivers.

Native Americans were the earliest settlers; now they share the Okanogan

Valley with farming communities that turn out fruit, cattle and other products.

Length: 83 miles.

- North Cascades Scenic Highway - The route along Highway 20 begins in the Skagit River Valley and rises through the snow-capped peaks of the North Cascades. It skirts emerald waters of Ross Lake, over two mountain passes and then descends into the rugged Methow Valley.

Indians used the corridor as a trading route from the eastern plateau country to the Pacific Coast for thousands of years before white settlers arrived in search of gold, fur-bearing animals and land to settle.

North Cascades Highway is closed during winter, the full route can be driven only from about late May to mid-November (closure times vary, depending on snow).

Length: 140 miles.

- Sherman Pass Scenic Byway - The route travels along state Highway 20 from Republic to Kettle Falls through the heart of the Colville National Forest.

It crosses the highest year-round pass in Washington (Sherman Pass, 5,575 feet) and includes interpretive signs for the White Mountain Fire of 1988.

Length: 35 miles.

More about the National Scenic Byways program is at www.byways.org. More on the state program: <https://adventures.experiencewa.com/28-scenic-byways/>.

Border Crossings

Our neighbors to the north offer plenty of opportunities for outdoor recreation, shopping and all sorts of other activities.

But travelers wanting to experience the area may want to allow extra time for border crossing. U.S. and Canadian citizens entering the U.S. at land and seaports of entry from within the Western Hemisphere need to present a both proof of citizenship and proof of identity. A valid U.S. passport, passport card or NEXUS card satisfies these requirements for U.S. citizens.

The Oroville-Osoyoos border facility is the area's only 24-hour-a-day crossing and features a building shared by U.S. and Canadian officials.

Crossings with limited hours are located at Nighthawk-Chopaka, Ferry-Midway, Danville-Grand Forks and Laurier-Cascade.

Information about Canadian campgrounds, trails, outdoor recreation, activities, accommodations, festivals and maps is available at <http://www.hellobc.com>.

More information on border crossing is at www.cbp.gov or www.travel.state.gov.

Did you Know....

The Okanogan Highlands were covered by great ice sheets during the Pleistocene Epoch. As the ice sheets retreated to the north, lakes formed in the valleys of the Columbia and Pend Oreille Rivers. Along the Canadian boundary, terrace deposits indicate lake levels 2,000 feet above current sea level. — DNR
