

Tax district expiring

The expiration of Mount Pleasant's 15-year-old special tax means the Charleston School District, Charleston County, the county park system and Trident Technical College will reclaim their share of property taxes from some of the town's most valuable commercial properties. More than $10 million in yearly property taxes will shift to those entities. The town has been using the money for road and park improvements, and for construction of a new Town Hall.

