

Dear Reader

1/28/19

I am the eldest son of Adriane Jennings, Wayne Drenas Kosaka Jr. After my parents split up, me and my brother stayed with my mom at my grandpas house. Me and my brother were pretty close with our mother when we were younger. ~~the~~ ~~used~~

Every weekend my mom would take us out to do something fun.

We were pretty spoiled at one point of time. When I was about

14, we ~~and~~ my family kicked my mom out, so we ended up in

Mangilao. I never really knew what was going on until my senior year, me and my brother ~~and~~ moved in with my dad. When I saw my mom during these times,

I couldn't believe that this is the woman who raised me. She was just out of control. In my understanding, prison is for people who are criminals or people that need help. Maybe at one point of time, my mom would look like both, but I no longer see a criminal when I see my mom.

I believe going to jail is what the 1st time is what really helped her. For the 1st time in 8 years, I can finally say I have my mother back.

Thank You

W. D. Kosaka Jr.
