

What kinds of information can GIS show?

Rappahannock County is in the early stages of adapting GIS mapping – a high-tech digital program that provides government officials and taxpayers with valuable one-stop information, layer upon layer, about 911 response, real estate ownership, land values, zoning, soil types, broadband access and other data. While some county officials welcome the upgrade, others raise privacy concerns and worry it opens the door to developers.

