Notes/Narratives

NARRATIVE

On the above listed date, while on duty, working the hours of 2300 (11pm) to 0700 (7am), I was on College Ave traveling south bound toward Downtown Athens being in the area of the fire station, Hotel Indigo, and Bethel Midtown Village, when I suddenly observed the above listed vehicle approaching me over in the opposite north bound lane at a very high right of speed, being way too fast for this area, as well as too fast for the posted 30 mph speed limit. My windows to my marked patrol unit were down and when I met the vehicle in the roadway, I could hear the vehicles engine being idled up high as if the vehicles RPM's were very high, as I saw this vehicle race past me. On initial contact, I visually estimated this vehicles speed to be at least 60-65 mph in this 30 mph speed zone, and the vehicle speed seemingly continued to rapidly increase.

I quickly got turned around in the roadway and proceeded after the vehicle, having to drive at a speed that I would rather have not driven, especially on the road where there are residences (apartments and side roads), but I had to, to be able to catch up to this vehicle. I did momentarily lose sight of the vehicle, but I would estimate that the driver reached a speed of at least 70+ mph before slowing down and getting caught at the redlight on College Ave, and Dr MLK Jr Pkwy. College Ave is 30 mph the entire length of the roadway from where I first came into contact, until MLK PKWY. My patrol unit momentarily stalled, I quickly got it started again, and conducted the traffic stop on Dr MLK Jr PKWY just off of College Ave. The reason for the stop was for the exhibition of speed which was reckless to be traveling at such a high rate of speed on this roadway, where there are residences, a hotel, pedestrian traffic leaving downtown, and side streets as well as driveway, well over the 30 mph posted speed limit.

I made contact with the driver, being the vehicles only occupant, and on initial contact, I inquired to what was her hurry, the driver, which was identified as Michelle Colleen Reigner, stated that she and her boyfriend had gotten into an argument, and that she was in a hurry to get home. This statement lead me to believe that she was driving this speed because she was in an emotional and or angry state of mind. I could also detect a slight odor of an intoxicating beverage(s) coming from her person. I momentarily went back to my patrol car, called out the stop, and returned to Reigner. I had her step from the vehicle, I did ask her how much had she had to drink, she stated "2 beers", then proceeded to tell me that she and her boyfriend had gotten into a huge fight, which was followed by the spontaneous statements of " I should not have been driving the way I was", "I fucked up". She did agree to the SFST, which was not perfectly performed, but she did not give me enough of an indication that she was impaired, so I did not place her under arrest for DUI; however, based on the observed dangerous excessive speed that I observed her traveling, which was for the mere unjustified reason because she was upset from an argument, I did place her under arrest for reckless driving.

After she was arrested, an individual which said he was her boyfriend, showed up, and he took possession of the vehicle, which he said was his. Reigner started off very respectful, polite, and forthcoming, but after she was arrested, after she finished crying, she became rude, very obnoxious, directed insults toward me, and would say things such as I was ruining her life, she's a 21 yr Caucasian female, and did not belong in jail with murderers, and drug dealers, etc...On the way to the jail, she maneuvered the hand cuffs to the front of her body, while being in the back seat of my patrol car. After arriving at the jail, being in the sally port, I got her out of my patrol unit, and re-cuffed her hands behind her, as they were when she was arrested, and Reigner tried to put up a struggle, but was re-cuffed without incident. As we were walking toward the jail entrance, she tried to maneuver the cuffs in front of her body again, stopped walking and I had to pull her, basically drag her into the jail, until she started walking again. In the process, she fell because she purposefully made her body go limp, and she scrapped her foot, (a minor scrape) and broke the straps to both of her shoes. The offender was booked into the jail.

THIS INCIDENT WAS CAPTURED ON MY PATROL UNITS ARBITRATOR CAMERA SYSTEM

Notes/Narratives

On June 10, 2013 I responded to a forced burglary at [redacted] When I arrived on scene I spoke with [redacted] She stated she left her apartment this morning at approximately 0645 with it secured. Her laptop was in it bag with an external hard drive and her tablet was lying on her bed in the bedroom. When she returned home and opened the door she noticed the rear door to the apartment open and a portion of the doorframe lying on the floor. She also noticed the laptop and hard drive missing from the bag and the tablet off the bed. She said it did not look like anything else was moved or touched. I dusted the table in the living where she thought the laptop could have been sitting. I was unable to get anything off of it. The rear door looked as though it may have been kicked. There was no shoe prints but there was dried spots of dirty water around the area of the locks like it may have been done recently.

[redacted] was unable to provide serial numbers during the call but will call back when she finds them. She was given a copy of case number for future reference.
