Letter from the Board Chair

Dear Supporters and Friends:

In the last year, there were many times I felt grateful for VPAP's community of donors, who have enabled our talented and hardworking staff to make Virginia politics less opaque.

Some were profound, like when supporters came forward with the $200,000 needed to help toward rebuilding the custom software that makes it easy for the public to follow the money. Some were small but touching, like the hundreds of readers who chipped in a few bucks for VaNews, which delivers news headlines.

But there was one encounter last year that deepened the team's appreciation of our donors' collective impact. In the spring, our expertise was sought by someone who wants to replicate VPAP in a different state. These conversations made me realize just how daunting it would be to start VPAP from scratch. Our expertise and free tools were developed and refined over a quarter century. And everything we do has been made possible by a growing and diverse community of donors.

We are grateful that in 2022 many of our longtime supporters deepened their commitment to the vision of an inclusive democracy powered by an informed electorate. And we were thrilled to add 318 first-time donors – big and small – to our list of contributors found in this annual report.

We begin our second quarter century with clear purpose and gratitude for your confidence and support.

Regards,

Bill Leighty, Board Chair

Breaking the Code

In 2022, VPAP devoted considerable brainpower and resources to unlock the geographical distribution of election results. Elevated early voting had left the public without a clear understanding of the partisan lean of newly drawn legislative districts. Our team developed a statistical model that allocated the 2021 gubernatorial results to the new districts. Later, we built web tools that show how precinct results change depending on when people vote.
