

Tax Force Data To Be Inspected

Three-Year Inquiry Set By Dunlap

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap announced today he has ordered inspection of the income returns of all Internal Revenue employees for the past three years.

Dunlap said the order applied to everyone in the bureau from the commissioner on down.

Testifying before a House Ways and Means subcommittee, Dunlap declared he had been given a "free hand" by President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder to restore public confidence in the bureau.

He told the committee, headed by Representative King (D-Calif.), he had received the "personal assurances" of President Truman of White House backing in establishing "complete integrity" within the service.

Dunlap, however, objected for "psychological reasons" to the committee's suggestion that internal revenue employees be required immediately to fill out questionnaires of their net financial worth and business connections.

"FRANKLY DISTURBED" Dunlap said he felt it was the duty of the committee to issue the directive for a questionnaire "because of the psychological reaction" by employees already under public criticism as result of recent disclosure of irregularities in the bureau.

"No one would question for a moment the propriety of a request from this committee," he said. He added, however, he did not think now was the time.

The committee deferred until it hears from Secretary Snyder, a motion by Representative Byrnes (R-Wis.) to have Dunlap circulate the net worth questionnaire immediately.

"I think the public interest is more important than the views of some employees," Byrnes said. King said he was "frankly disturbed" by reports reaching him that some employees of the bureau would resign rather than sign the questionnaire, and that key employees were "inflaming" others to oppose it.

OUTSIDE ACTIVITIES King said Secretary Snyder had approved the questionnaire proposal last July, but that word had come to him since that Snyder had "changed his mind."

In discussing reasons for recent disclosures of irregularities in the service, Dunlap said that outside business activities by politically appointed tax collectors was an important factor.

He cited as one example the St. Louis district, where collector James P. Finnegan resigned under fire when his connections with American Lithofold, Inc., were unearthed by Senators investigating RFC loans.

A thorough check of the St. Louis office revealed "nothing materially wrong," Dunlap said. "Accounts were all in good order."

"But the entire revenue service is paying the penalty for the outside activities of one collector," he declared.

Dunlap, former Dallas collector, became commissioner only two months ago.

Dunlap laid primary blame for allegations of corruption and irregularities on lack of adequate supervisory personnel and funds to hire qualified people.

'Flying Ball' Reported in N.Y. HOGANSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Now it's a flying ball, not saucer.

Four residents claimed they saw a small propeller-driven, ball-shaped flying machine land in a farm field yesterday, then take off and vanish.

But authorities on both sides of the near-by Canadian border were skeptical.

Boyle Paid RFC Aide, Nixon Says Turney Gratz May Be Quizzed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) told a Senate Investigations subcommittee today Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., had a $10,330-a-year employee of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "on his payroll" in 1949.

Senator Hoey (D-N.C.), the committee chairman, promptly ordered an inquiry, to determine whether Turney Gratz, the one-time RFC employee, should be called as a witness.

Gratz told a reporter later he "rendered personal accounting services" for Boyle, helping him keep track of investments, from 1946 until last year.

He said his services to Boyle had nothing to do with either the RFC or with Boyle's party activities, and added that he has offered to explain them fully to the subcommittee's staff.

SURPRISE DEVELOPMENT

The surprise development marked a hearing at which a pretty St. Louis stenographer testified that as an employee of American Lithofold Corporation she had orders to conceal from other employees the fact that Boyle was listed on its payroll.

Miss Janet Boone, 26, the witness, swore she prepared monthly statements from Lithofold's ledger card for Boyle, long after Boyle has testified he no longer worked for them. She said she did not recall whether the statements recorded any money due him and does not of her own knowledge know they were mailed to him.

The committee is looking into charges that Boyle received $8,000 in fees from Lithofold in connection with government loans to the St. Louis printing firm. Boyle has denied it, but has acknowledged getting $1,250 as a retainer fee.

LOANS REPAYED

He has insisted that the retainer had nothing to do with the $565,000 in loans which Lithofold obtained from the RFC. The loans have since been repaid.

Miss Boone, a slender five-foot-five brunette, was the last scheduled witness in the inquiry.

Hoey recessed the Boyle hearings after her testimony, announcing the committee would turn its attention tomorrow to contacts between the RFC and Boyle's opposite number—Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson. Gabrielson, he said, would be the opening witness.

But Hoey left the door open for resumption of testimony in the Boyle inquiry later, and ordered the check into Nixon's report.

In a prepared statement to the committee Nixon said Boyle's bank account records, seized in the inquiry, show payments of $1,271 to Turney Gratz, then a RFC employee. Gratz later quit the RFC and became one of Boyle's Democratic National Committee aides.

BANK STATEMENTS

Nixon, a committee member, said the bank statements and Boyle's income tax reports show that Boyle listed $500 paid to Gratz on Dec. 31, 1949, among "fees for services and reports."

He said payments of $400 on Sept. 15, 1949, and $361, also on Dec. 31, 1949, were recorded under the heading "reimbursements to employees, agents and representatives."

Nixon told the committee "there may be some perfectly plausible explanation" of the repayments. But without such an explanation, he added, "it would seem highly improper for the chairman of the Democratic National Committee to have on his payroll a $10,000-a-year employee of the RFC."

Nixon said the diary of Walter L. Dunham, who was an RFC director in 1949, mentions that "Mr. Turney Gratz called on Mr. Dunham to arrange an appointment for Max Siskind" Boyle's former law associate, and that Dunham suggested Siskind should talk to the then RFC Chairman Harley Hise. The diary entry was dated Dec. 29, 1949.

Nixon said Boyle's bank statements also "show on Dec. 31, 1949, checks were made payable to the order of Turney Gratz in the sum of $910 and $1,220."

Fight Set On Bowles Approval

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Republican Senate leaders agreed today to fight confirmation of President Truman's nomination of Chester Bowles to be ambassador to India.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, announced the decision after a closed-door strategy session.

"This is obviously a political appointment to take care of a lame duck Governor," Taft said, when asked why Republicans had made this a party policy issue.

The Foreign Relations Committee approved the nomination of Bowles, former Governor of Connecticut and one-time head of the World War II Office of Price Administration, last Monday.

The nomination could be called up on the Senate floor later today by Democratic Leader McFarland, but Taft said the fight probably would come tomorrow.

He forecast general opposition from Republicans.

Reds' Lend-Lease Bill Still Unsettled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Truman reported to Congress today failure to reach any "substantial agreement" in negotiations for a settlement of Russia's Lend-Lease account.

He did so in a message submitting a 32-page report on Lend-Lease operations covering the year from April 1, 1950, to March 31, 1951.

Mr. Truman noted that a "major development" in Lend-Lease activities was a renewal of talks last January on the Soviet's Lend-Lease bill. Those negotiations were broken off in May, after the period covered by the report, but resumed recently.

Power Expansion Committee Set Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Defense Production Administration (DPA) today created a four-member committee to develop and recommend a new national electric power expansion program "adequate to meet defense needs."

The action, presumably prompted by the recent curtailment of aluminum output in the Pacific Northwest because of a power shortage, reflects official feeling that the present three-year 40 per cent expansion is insufficient.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, who will fly to Montreal Monday, will return from their American tour by ship on November 17, it was announced today.

The journey back will be made in the Canadian Pacific Railway steamship Empress of Scotland, which will dock at Liverpool. The revised schedule appeared to allow time for the princess and duke to keep all the engagements arranged in Canada and Washington.

The play-by-play account follows:

FIRST INNING

DODGERS—Furillo was caught looking at a third strike. Reese walked. Snider walked. Robinson lined a single past Thomson into left field, scoring Reese and sending Snider to second. Pafko sent a dribbler down the third base line to Thomson who stepped on third, forcing Snider, but his throw was too late to double up Pafko. Robinson moved to second on the forceout. Hodges fouled to Thomson. One run, one hit, no errors, two left.

GIANTS—Pafko came in fast for Stanky's fly in short left. Dark raised a high pop to Cox. Pafko caught Mueller's drive. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

DODGERS—Cox tapped a one bouncer back to Maglie who threw him out. Walker went down swinging. Newcombe popped to Thomson. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

GIANTS—Reese went to his right for Irvin's hard grounder and threw to Hodges for the out. Lockman drilled a single past Hodges. Thomson singled sharply into left field, sending Lockman to second. Thomson, running with his head down, didn't realize that Lockman had stopped at second and headed for that bag only to find Lockman occupying it. He retraced his steps back to first, but was an easy out. Pafko to Reese to Hodges. Pafko caught Mays' long drive. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

THIRD INNING

DODGERS—It was so dark that the lights had to be turned on as the Dodgers came to bat. Maglie fielded Furillo's tap back to the box and threw him out. Reese fouled to Lockman. Snider struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

GIANTS—Westrum walked. Maglie bunted to Newcombe, who threw to Reese to force Westrum at second. Cox made a brilliant stop of Stanky's one-bounce smash inside the third base line and started a double play, the third baseman to Robinson to Hodges. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING

DODGERS—Stanley fielded Robinson's hopper and threw to Lockman to nip the runner. Pafko struck out. Hodges hit on the ground to Thomson, who threw him out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

GIANTS—Dark popped to Robinson. Hodges made a leaping catch of Mueller's liner. Irvin bounced out, Cox to Hodges. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

GIANTS—Reese made a glove-hand stop of Lockman's one-bounce smash and threw him out. Thomson shot a double inside the third-base line. Mays went down

Another A-Blast By Reds Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The White House announced today that Russia has exploded "another atomic bomb."

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told reporters: "Another atomic bomb has recently been exploded within the Soviet Union."

Short declined to give any details. Only minutes before the White House announcement, the Associated Press had received information from other but authoritative sources that the government was analyzing data which indicated Russia had made two new atomic explosive tests—one of them a fizzle.

MOSLEM MARRIAGE IN DECEMBER AFTER QUICK ENGAGEMENT: WEALTHY TEXAN, 27, TO WED EGYPTIAN DANCER

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Sheppard King, III, wealthy young Texan, said today he would become a Moslem in order to marry Egyptian Dancer Samia Gamal.

The 6-foot-3, red haired Texan said he proposed marriage to the pretty, 27-year-old dancer and movie actress "only a few hours after I met her."

King, 26, from Houston and Dallas, came to Paris with his sister, Patricia, September 18. That night they went to the Lido Night Club on the Champs Elysees, a few yards from their Claridge Hotel.

"I saw this beautiful girl dancing with another man, and I tried to figure out how to meet her and finally sent a bottle of champagne over to her table," said King.

"The man with her didn't like it a bit, and didn't want to open the bottle. She insisted, and finally invited my sister and me over to her table. I found out she was also staying at the Claridge Hotel. This was about 3 A. M.

"Back at the hotel, about 6 A. M., I guess, I proposed to her. I guess she thought I was just a wild American and a little tight, but that day I bought her a ring, and so we became engaged."

King said they would be married in a Moslem ceremony in Cairo in December and then be married again in Texas.

King said he and Samal, who has danced before King Farouk a few times, had investigated the possibility of getting married in a mosque in Paris.

"But we found the formalities would take too long. Samal is going to Cairo tomorrow to make a motion picture. And I'm going to Rome tomorrow on the rest of my vacation and fly back to the States October 17. I will go to Cairo early in December."
