 'Tis a fearful thing-to love what death can touch. A fearful thing- to love, to hope, to dream, to be- To be, and oh, to lose; A thing for fools, this; And a holy thing, A holy thing to love; For your life has lived in me- Your laugh once lifted me. Your word was gift to me. To remember this brings painful joy. 'Tis a human thing, love- A holy thing- to love what death has touched.

 You were there to see us take our first breath, and I was there to see you take your last. I didn't realize that morning, the pain that rainy afternoon would bring to our hearts. You instilled in us awareness of being there for every trial or tribulation we faced. In return, we reminded you daily of our presence powerless, while you fought your silent battle, never giving up. Your smile was contagious and your one of a kind sense of humor always made boring moments more entertaining. Your exit was quick. I was so scared; heaven saw you were tired and had fought a strong fight. I tried to help you that day but Mommy let me know you were with her, so we had to let you go. Often staring at your picture, just to embrace your smile, listening to videos so we don't forget your voice, is how we get by. Not a day passes we don't think of you and Mommy. I dream of the day I'll get to see your loving faces again. Until then...
