

South Shore reroute

The city of South Bend has committed to spend up to $25 million to realign the South Shore Line track so it takes a more direct route to South Bend International Airport, shaving 10 minutes from the trip. The line's operator, the Northern Indiana Commuter Transportation District, has identified the general area between Oak Road and Lexington Avenue for the new route, but has not yet released an exact path.