Ivy Tech Community College this week announced a major statewide restructuring. The college structure will no longer be defined by regions throughout the state. Instead, each location will be designated as a large, medium or small campus or (in smaller communities, such as Warsaw) a large or small site. The college’s locations in South Bend and Elkhart County will be designated one campus, administered by one chancellor. The sites will have site directors and will be linked with a nearby campus.