polling places on the afternoon of election day.

In these in the Twenty-first and adjacent wards, and found, Peters said, that the voting was "slow and desultory." The next day he was surprised, he said, to read in the newspaper of the heavy vote cast in these wards.

Aside from the abnormally heavy vote in the Twenty-first Ward there was, as has been mentioned, the challenging circumstance that the registered voters was 723 in favor of the bonds, and only 13 opposed.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, accompanied by a sanitary public, has obtained affidavits, as told, from 14 qualified voters that they voted against the bonds.

The Twenty-fifth, voted 44 per cent of the vote in the precinct registered in the precinct questioned by the reporter. There were 119 who did not vote in the bond election; whether they had voted, the reporter found that 165 of those registered for that election had moved from the address given for them, before or after the election.

Six had died, and six were out of the city at the time of the inquiry.

Short of Registration

The vote in this precinct, 762, was short of the precinct's registration, as determined by counting the names on the Election Board's printed list of qualified voters. The list was a month prior to the election, and the number of voters had increased since that time.

The precinct is a residential neighborhood in which property values are relatively low. The voters are mostly of the Negro race, and many of the white property owners, who remained here, had voted.

Notice to Voters

As stated elsewhere, the Post-Dispatch is investigating the river front Jefferson Memorial bond issue election which was held in September last year to determine how much fraudulent voting there was.

A detailed report of the vote by precincts, which was made by the judges of election in the 505 precincts to the Election Commissioners, was published yesterday for the first time.

It is believed that voters scrutinizing the many long-ignored records may discover evidence of fraud, or circumstances presumptive of the same, in precincts with which they are familiar.

Anyone making such discoveries who cares to aid in the investigation is invited to communicate with the City Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
