Loras College Statewide Survey--August 2015

Field Dates: August 24–27, 2015

Completed Surveys: 1004 Likely Caucus Participants

Margin of Error: +/- 3.09% for total sample, +/- 4.37 % for Democratic and Republican Subsamples

Note on Methodology: The Loras College Poll surveyed 1,004 likely 2016 caucus participants. All results calculated at a 95% confidence interval. Both subsamples of party caucus participants include no-party registrants who passed likely voter screen (see below).

- Survey conducted with a random sample of registered voters (drawn from official Iowa Secretary of State official voter file) who voted in either the 2012 or 2014 general election or who had registered since December 1, 2014.
- Likely caucus voter was defined as those indicating they were “definitely or very likely” to vote in the 2016 Iowa Caucus. Those indicating they were “somewhat likely” were subjected to further screen question regarding their general interest in politics. Only those indicating they were “very interested” in politics were then accepted within the sample as a likely caucus voter.
- The statewide sample was balanced for gender and divided evenly across Iowa’s four congressional districts. Age was balanced to match past caucus entrance polling.
- Survey included both landlines and cell phones (approximately 70 percent and 30 percent, respectively).
- The survey was conducted using live operator interviews through a contracted professional call center.
- Script development and methodology used for the survey received input from Republican campaign consultant Brian Dumas and Democratic campaign consultant Dave Heller.
