Interview With The Vampire

Easy Rider

Blockbuster films including "A Streetcar Named Desire" (1951), "The Cincinnati Kid" (1965), "Live and Let Die" (1973), "Interview with the Vampire" (1994), were filmed in New Orleans. But after Louisiana passed tax incentives for the film and television industry, the industry soared to new heights. Louisiana has been called "Hollywood South" and more than 300 films have been shot in the state since the tax passage.
