STATEMENT

Last week, I was involved in a Facebook discussion about the 2020 presidential election and I posted something in jest about Vice-President Elect Kamala Harris that was obviously inappropriate. But now I ask myself, why? Why did I think, for even a second, that this was something to express?

I have to be honest that I was caught up in the deep political divide and the toxic rhetoric that this country has been living in for the past several years. My words were hurtful. I sincerely apologize. This is my wakeup call.
