DURHAM, NH - Former President Donald Trump leads former South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley by 11 percentage points in New Hampshire's first in the nation presidential primary. Haley holds a significant lead among undeclared ("independent") voters, but this is not likely to lead to a Haley victory as Trump holds a wider lead among registered Republicans. Immigration is the most important issue to GOP primary voters.

2024 Republican Presidential Primary

Entering the final days of the campaign following the Iowa caucuses and the withdrawal of former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie and entrepreneur Vivek Ramaswamy, half (50%) of likely New Hampshire Republican primary voters say they will vote for Trump in Tuesday's primary, 39% support Haley, 6% support Florida Governor Ron DeSantis, 3% support another candidate, and 2% remain undecided.

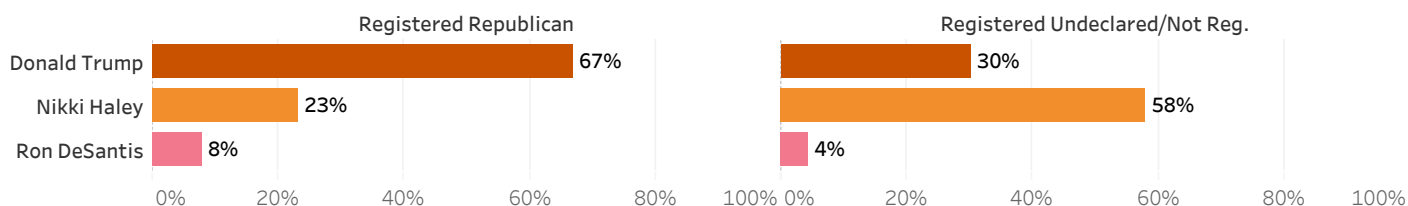

First Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

New Hampshire allows undeclared voters and voters who register on election day to choose the primary to vote in. As there is not a strongly competitive Democratic race, 60% of undeclared voters say they will vote in the Republican primary, 38% say they will vote in the Democratic primary, and 2% are unsure. The proportion of undeclared voters who plan to vote in the Republican primary has steadily increased since last summer.

Among registered Republicans who plan to participate in the Republican primary (N=655), 67% support Trump while only 23% support Haley and 8% support DeSantis. By contrast, among those undeclared voters who plan to participate in the Republican primary (N=570), 58% support Haley, 30% support Trump, and only 4% support DeSantis. In early January, 58% of registered Republicans supported Trump, 21% supported Haley, and 3% supported former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie. Among undeclared voters in early January, 43% supported Haley, 23% supported Christie, and 17% supported Trump. "It is important to note that no candidate has won their party's primary without winning the plurality of their party's registered voters," said Andrew Smith, Director of the UNH Survey Center. "It will be very difficult for the Haley campaign to convince more undeclared voters to vote in the Republican primary, and to vote for her, in the remaining days of the campaign."

There are also deep differences among Republican primary voters based on ideology. The vast majority (91%) of those who identify as liberal, progressive, or socialist, and most moderates (71%) support Haley while 71% of self-described conservatives and 61% of libertarians support Trump. Haley leads Trump among college graduates (50%-38%) while Trump leads Haley 55%-35% among those without a college degree. News sources also divide the Republican vote. A majority of Joe Rogan listeners (72%), conservative radio listeners (69%), X (formerly Twitter) users (66%), and Fox News viewers (59%) support Trump, while majorities of NHPR listeners (63%) and local NH news viewers (52%) support Haley.

First Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Likely GOP Primary Voters - by Demographics - January 19, 2024

Support for both Trump (+11 percentage points) and Haley (+7) have increased since early January. Many supporters of former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, who recently dropped out of the race, selected Haley as their second choice. Similarly, a large percentage of supporters of entrepreneur Vivek Ramaswamy, who dropped out after the Iowa caucuses, listed Trump as their second choice.

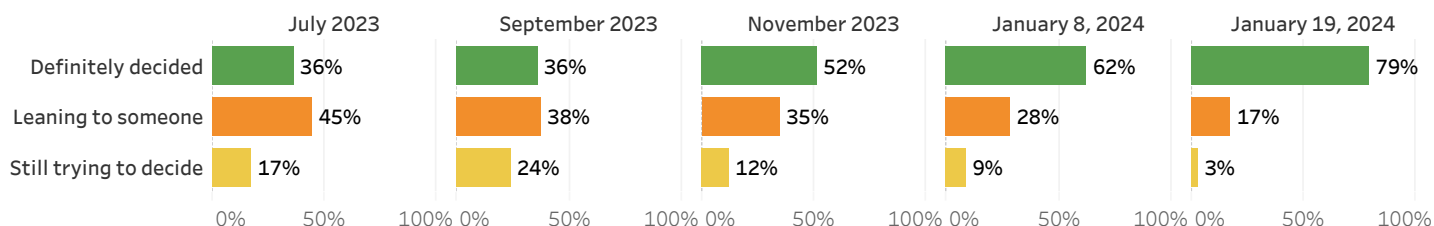

First Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Likely GOP Primary Voters

Four in five (79%) likely 2024 Republican primary voters say they have definitely decided who they will vote for, up from 62% in early January and 52% in November. Seventeen percent say they are currently leaning towards someone and only 3% say they are still trying to decide.

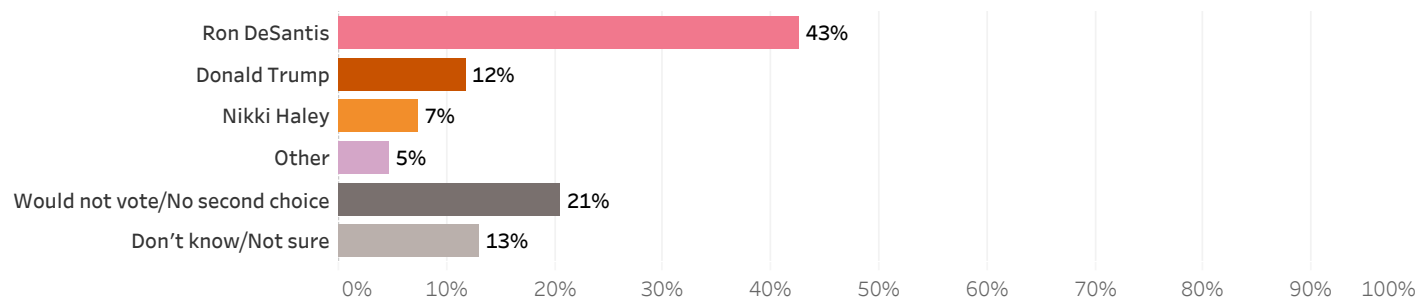

Most Trump supporters (88%) say they have definitely decided to support him while 74% of Haley supporters and 53% of DeSantis supporters say they have definitely decided.

Definitely Decided on 2024 GOP Presidential Primary Nominee Choice - Likely GOP Primary Voters

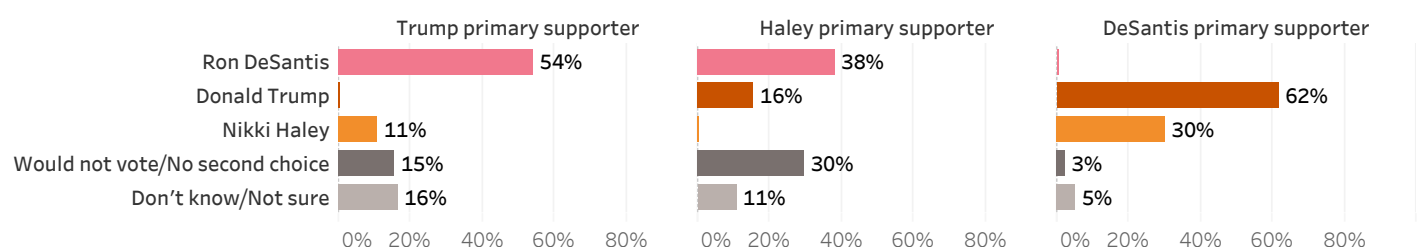

Despite garnering little support for first choice, DeSantis is the second choice of a plurality (43%) of likely Republican primary voters, followed by Trump (12%) and Haley (7%). One in five (21%) say they would not vote if their preferred candidate dropped out or say they have no second choice while 13% are unsure.

Second Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

Among Trump supporters, 54% select DeSantis as their second choice and while 11% name Haley. Among Haley supporters, 38% say DeSantis is their second choice and only 16% say Trump is their second choice.

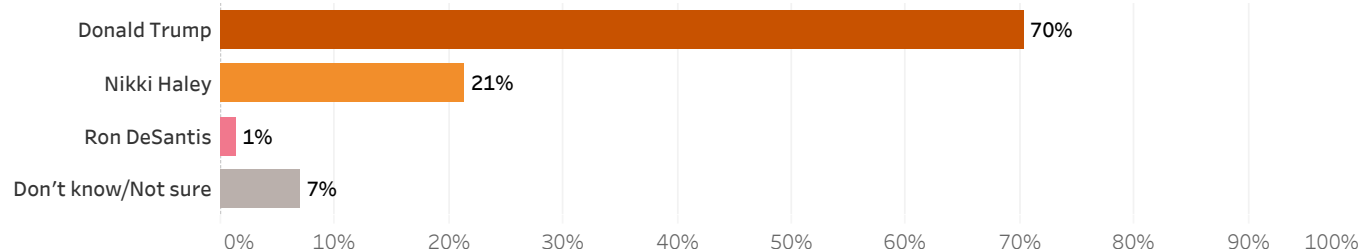

Second Choice GOP 2024 Presidential Candidate - Likely GOP Primary Voters - By First Choice - January 19, 2024

Seven in ten (70%) likely 2024 New Hampshire Republican primary voters think that Trump is most likely to win the 2024 New Hampshire Republican primary, only 21% think Haley is most likely to win, and only 1% think DeSantis is most likely to win.

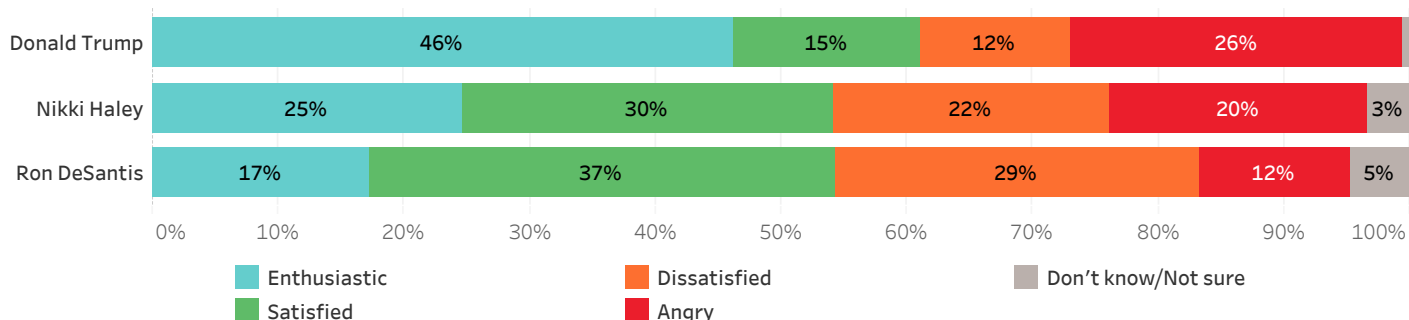

Nearly all Trump supporters (97%) and seven in ten DeSantis supporters (70%) think that Trump is most likely to win. By contrast, only half of Haley supporters (50%) think that she is most likely to win while 36% think Trump is most likely to win.

Most Likely Candidate to Win 2024 New Hampshire Republican Primary - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

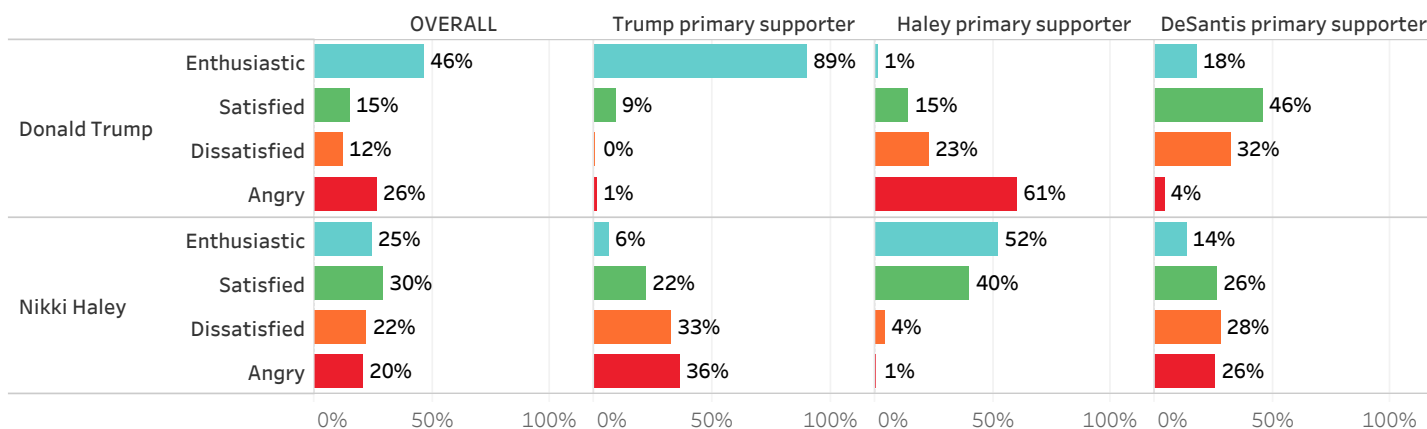

Forty-six percent of likely GOP primary voters say that they would be enthusiastic if Trump were the GOP nominee, 15% would be satisfied, 12% would be dissatisfied, and 26% would be angry. By contrast, only 25% would be enthusiastic if Haley is the nominee, 30% would be satisfied, 22% would be dissatisfied, and 20% would be angry. Only 17% would be enthusiastic if DeSantis is the nominee, 37% would be satisfied, 29% would be dissatisfied, and 12% would be angry.

Feelings if Following Candidates Were Republican Nominee - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

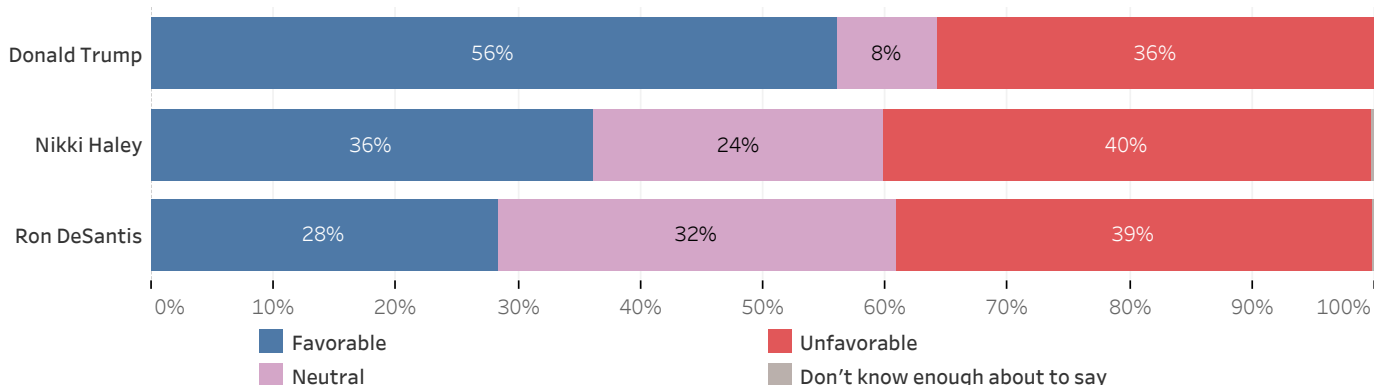

Among Trump supporters, 89% say they would be enthusiastic if he were the nominee while 36% would be angry if Haley were the nominee. Among Haley supporters, only 52% would be enthusiastic if she were the nominee while 61% would be angry if Trump were the nominee.

Feelings if Following Candidates Were Republican Nominee - Likely GOP Primary Voters - By First Choice - January 19, 2024

Fifty-six percent of likely Republican primary voters have a favorable opinion of Trump, 36% have an unfavorable opinion of him, and 8% are neutral. Trump's net favorability rating (the percentage who have a favorable opinion minus the percentage with an unfavorable opinion) is +20, up from +9 in early January. Haley is viewed less favorably, as 36% have a favorable opinion of her, 40% have an unfavorable view, and 24% are neutral, yielding a net favorability rating of -4, down from +4 in early January. Only 28% have a favorable opinion of DeSantis, 39% have an unfavorable opinion, and 32% are neutral, yielding a net favorability rating of -11, unchanged since early January (-12).

Favorability - 2024 Republican Candidates - Among Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

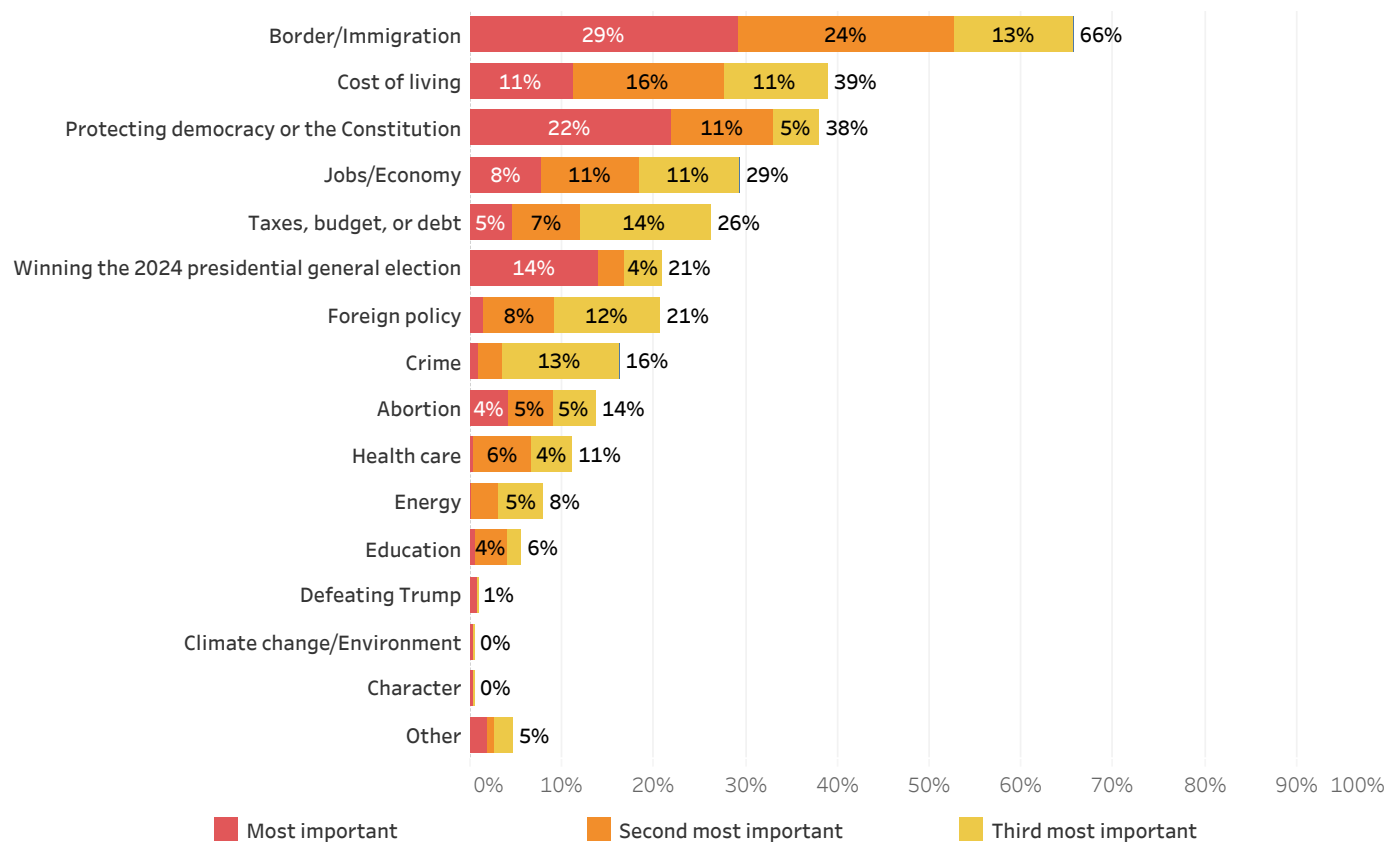

Issues in GOP Primary

Two-thirds (66%) of likely Republican primary voters say that immigration and the southern border is among the three most important issues in deciding which candidate to support, much higher than any other issue. Just under four in ten say that inflation and the cost of living (39%) or protecting democracy or the Constitution (38%) are among their top three issues, followed by jobs or the economy (29%), and taxes, budget, or the national debt (26%). Fewer likely GOP primary voters say that winning the 2024 presidential election (21%), foreign policy (21%), crime (16%), abortion (14%), or healthcare (11%) are among their top three issues.

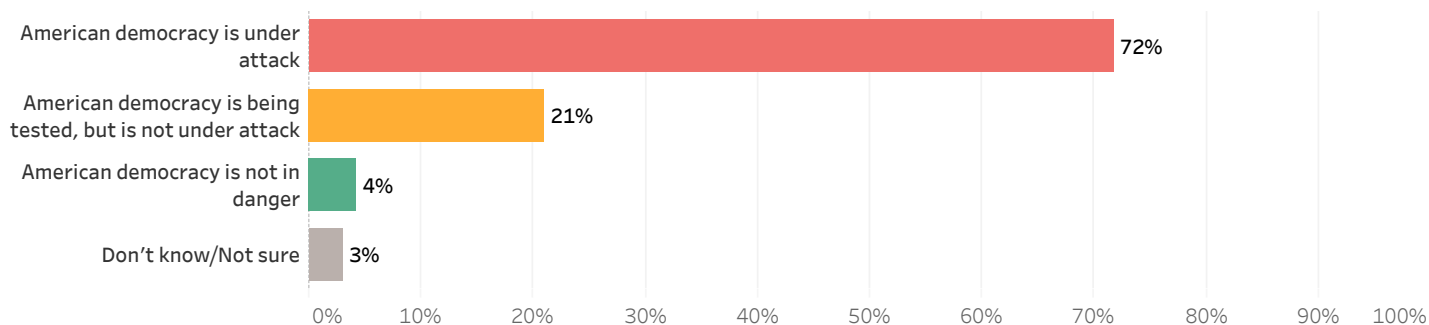

Trump supporters are more likely than Haley supporters to say that the border or immigration is among their top three most important issues while Haley voters are more likely to mention the cost of living, foreign policy, and health care.

Three Most Important Issues in Deciding Candidate to Support - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

President Biden has kicked off his presidential campaign by saying that Trump is a threat to American democracy, but most Republicans, and an even higher percentage of Trump supporters, see Democrats as the threat. Seventy-two percent of likely 2024 Republican primary voters believe that American democracy is under attack, 21% feel that American democracy is being tested but is not under attack, and only 4% feel that American democracy is not in danger. Most Trump supporters (81%) feel that American democracy is under attack, 9% believe it is being tested, and only 5% believe American democracy is not under attack. Haley supporters are still concerned but are more sanguine: 59% feel American democracy is under attack, 35% think it is being tested, and 4% feel American democracy is not under attack.

Status of American Democracy - Likely GOP Primary Voters - January 19, 2024

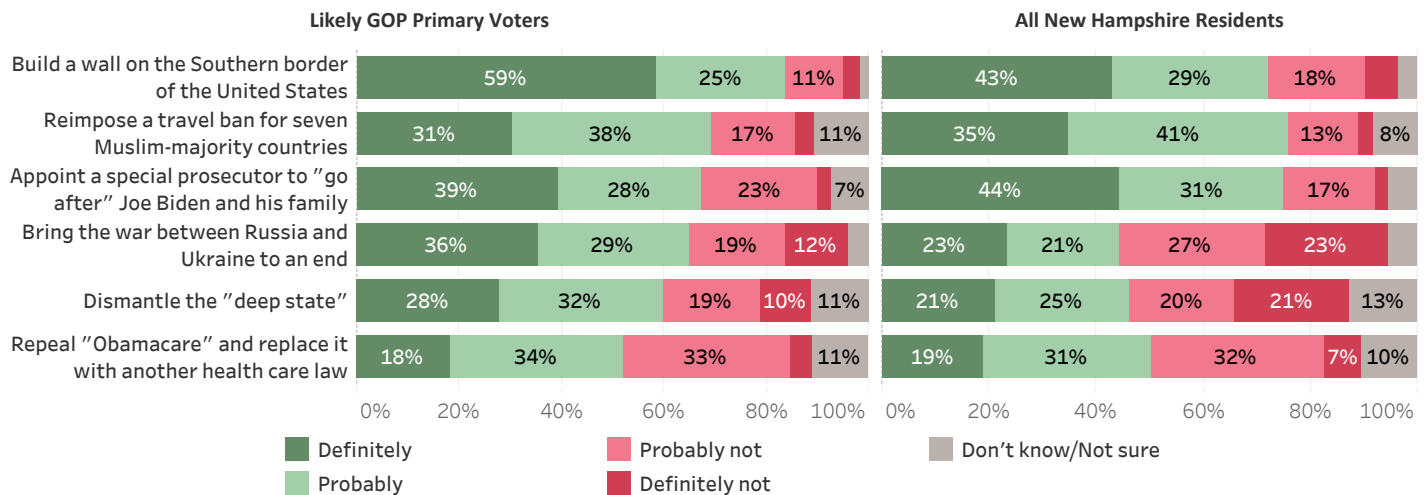

Assessment of Donald Trump

Donald Trump has publicly stated that he will try to do several things if he is reelected as president. Eighty-three percent of likely Republican primary voters believe that Trump definitely (59%) or probably (25%) will try to build a wall on the southern border of the United States, while only 15% believe he will probably not (11%) or definitely not (3%) try to do this. About two-thirds feel that Trump will definitely or probably try to reimpose a travel ban for seven Muslim-majority countries (69%), appoint a special prosecutor to "go after" Joe Biden and his family (67%), and bring the war between Russia and Ukraine to an end (65%). Six in ten (60%) believe Trump will try to dismantle the "deep state" while only 52% believe Trump will definitely or probably attempt to repeal "Obamacare" and replace it with another health care law.

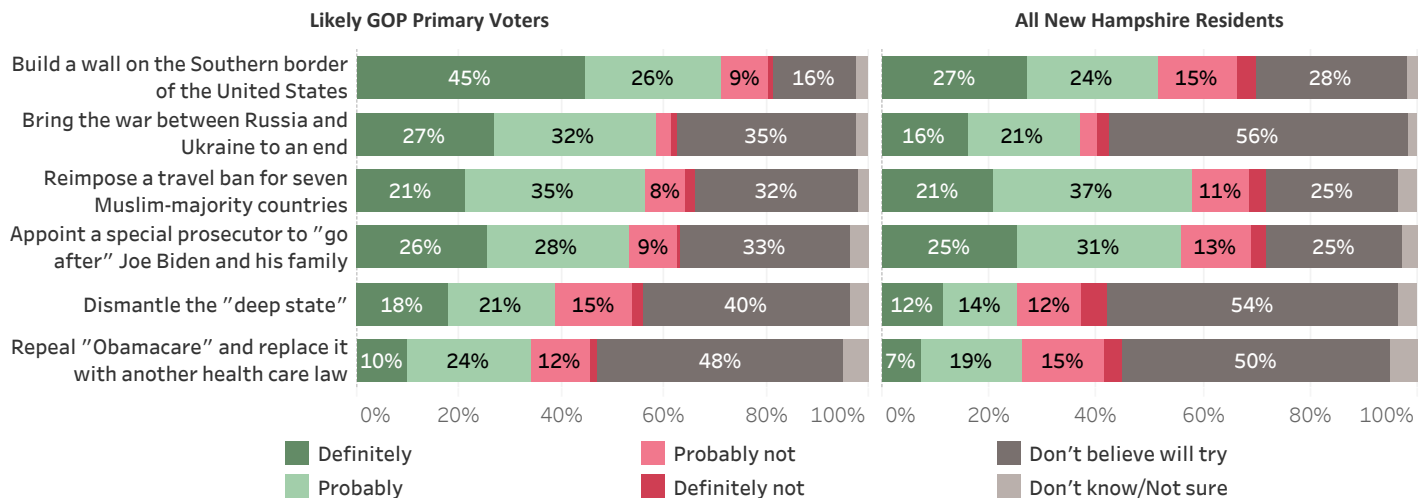

Granite Staters overall are less likely to believe that Trump will try to build a wall on the southern border (72%), bring the war between Russia and Ukraine to an end (44%), or dismantle the "deep state" (46%), while they are slightly more likely to believe Trump will try to reimpose a travel ban (76%) and appoint a special prosecutor to "go after" Joe Biden and his family (75%).

Believe Trump Will Try to Do - January 19, 2024

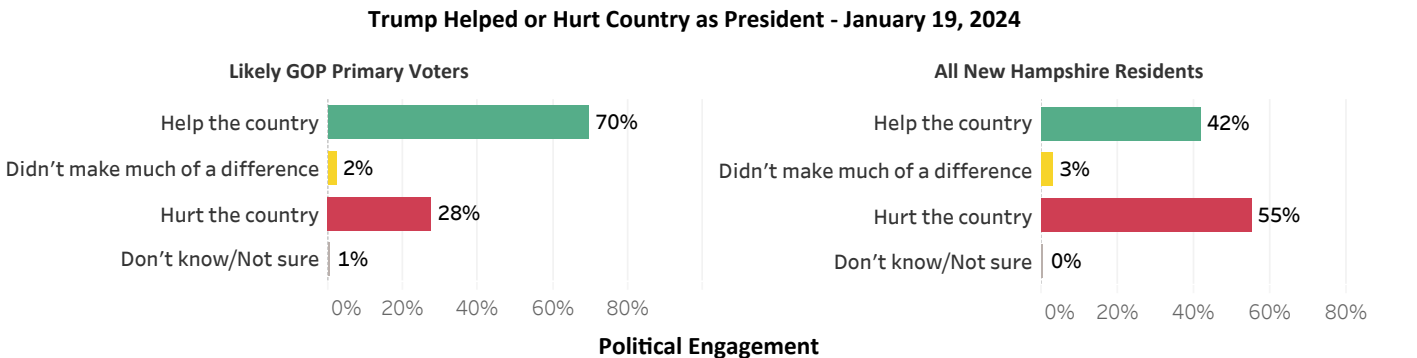

But while Republicans think Trump will try to accomplish these things, far fewer think he will actually succeed. Seven in ten (71%) likely Republican primary voters believe that Trump definitely (45%) or probably (27%) will succeed in building a wall on the southern border of the United States, 10% believe he will probably not (9%) or definitely not (1%) succeed, 16% don't believe Trump will try to do this, and 2% are unsure. Smaller majorities of likely primary voters believe Trump will successfully bring the war between Russia and Ukraine to an end (59%), reimpose a travel ban for seven Muslim-majority countries (56%), and appoint a special prosecutor to "go after" Joe Biden and his family (53%). Relatively few think Trump will definitely or probably succeed in dismantling the "deep state" (39%) or repealing and replacing "Obamacare" (34%). Granite Staters overall think it is less likely that Trump will succeed in building a wall on the border (52%), ending the Russia-Ukraine war to an end (37%), dismantling the "deep state" (25%), or repealing and replacing "Obamacare" (26%).

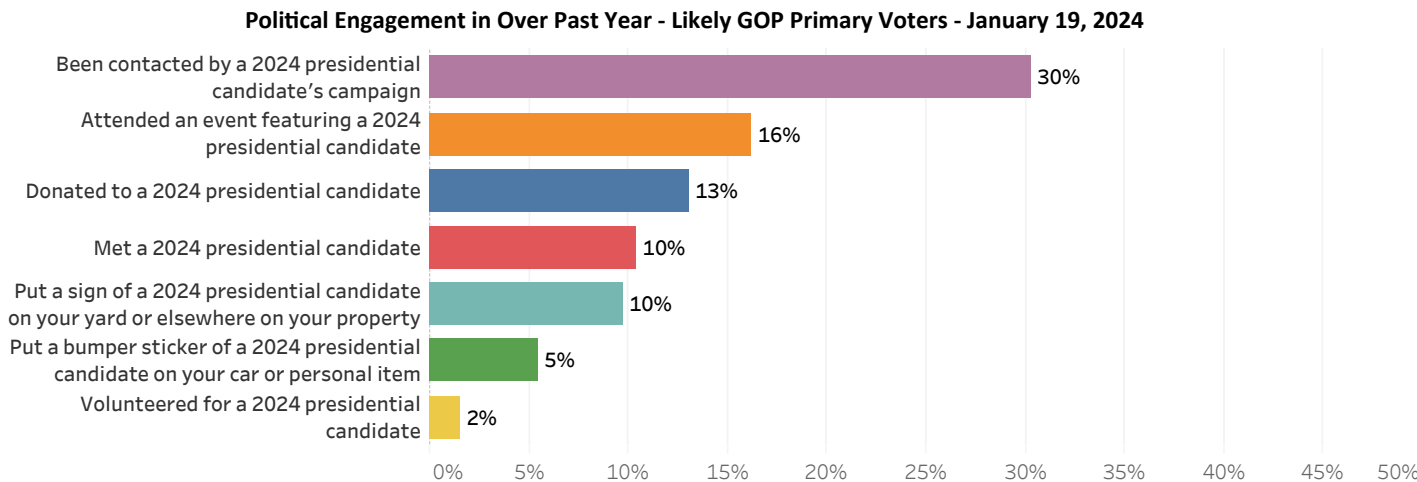

Believe Trump Will Succeed - January 19, 2024

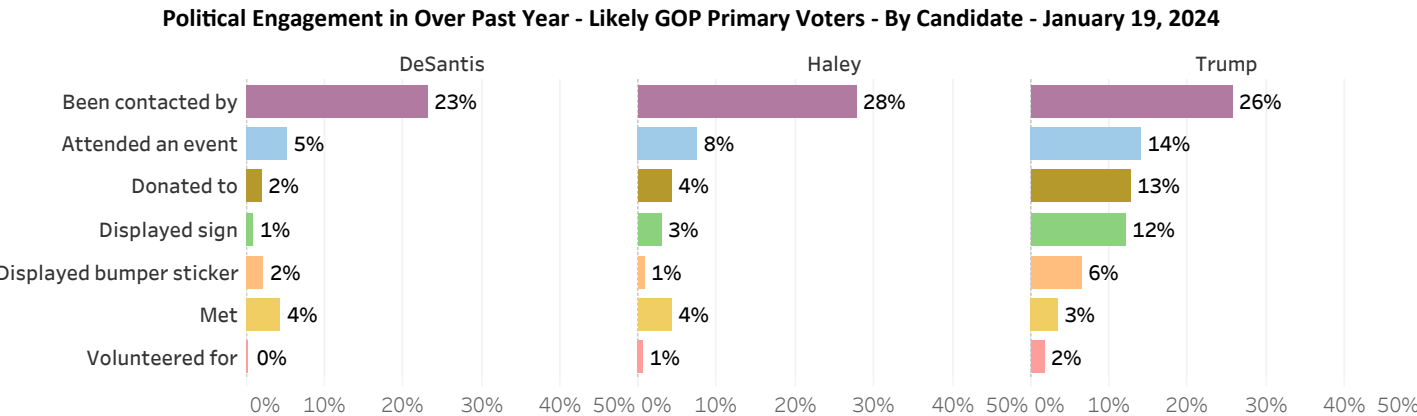

Overall, Republicans think that Trump’s time as President helped America. Seven in ten (70%) likely Republican primary voters believe that Trump did more to help the country in his time as president, 28% think he did more to hurt the country, and 2% think he didn't make much of a difference. Nearly all (>99%) Trump supporters believe he did more to help the country but only 30% of Haley supporters feel that way. Among all Granite Staters, 42% think Trump did more to help the country during his time as president while 55% feel he did more to hurt the country and 3% think he didn't make much of a difference.

Despite New Hampshire’s reputation as a state that votes based on retail politics and personal interaction with candidates, most voters do not actually see a candidate in the state. Only 30% of likely Republican primary voters say they have been contacted by a 2024 presidential candidate's campaign, 16% say they have attended a presidential event, and only 10% have actually met a candidate during the 2024 primary campaign. Few likely Republican primary voters have interacted with the primary campaign in other ways: only 13% have donated to a candidate, 10% have put a sign for a candidate in their yard, 5% have put a candidate's bumper sticker on their car or other personal item, and only 2% have volunteered for a presidential candidate. Young people are more likely to have met a candidate while older people are more likely to have donated money.

Likely Republican primary voters are equally likely to have been contacted by the Haley (28%) and Trump (26%) campaigns. However, likely GOP primary voters are more likely to have donated to the Trump campaign, attended an event, displayed a sign, or displayed a bumper sticker showing their support for Trump than to have done these things for the Haley campaign.

CNN New Hampshire Primary Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the latest CNN New Hampshire Primary Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Two thousand, three hundred and forty-eight (2,348) Granite State Panel members completed the survey online between January 16 and January 19, 2024. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 2.0 percent. Included in the sample were 1,242 likely 2024 Republican Primary voters (margin of sampling error +/- 2.8 percent). There were 1,210 unweighted likely Republican Primary voters. In addition to potential sampling error, all surveys have other potential sources of non-sampling error including question order effects, question wording effects, and non-response. These MSE's have not been adjusted for design effect. The response rate for this CNN New Hampshire Primary Poll is 38%. The design effect for the survey is 2.1%.

The Granite State Panel is a probability-based web panel of New Hampshire residents. Approximately 7,500 New Hampshire adults have been recruited from phone, text-to-web, or mail-to-web surveys sent to randomly-selected phone numbers or addresses. Panelists are then asked to participate in online surveys sponsored by the UNH Survey Center.

Data were weighted by respondent sex, age, education, and region of the state to targets from the most recent American Community Survey (ACS) conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau, as well as party registration levels provided by the NH Secretary of State and to 2020 election results in New Hampshire. Surveys were taken in English, all respondent data included passes Qualtrics data quality checks, and single-use survey links were used to prevent multiple submissions by respondents. The number of respondents in each demographic below may not equal the number reported in cross-tabulation tables as some respondents choose not to answer some questions. Due to rounding, percentages may not sum to 100%. All coding of open-ended responses is conducted by human coders.
