

How to file a comment to PUC before the CCN is issued.

CCN - Certificate of Convenience and Necessity, the first step in the eminent domain process.

PUC has set up 5 official docket pages for comment in response to multiple email inquiries. There will be 1 docket number for each of the transmission lines for the Permian Basin Reliability Project.

Have all the information you want to record and upload ready in a word document, or a pdf. You cannot type your information into a box, it must be an unloadable file, which you will be prompted for at the end of the process. You are given 20 minutes to walk through this process, but it takes about 5 to 10. Your comments will go on public record.

If you have questions, you may call the PUC at 512-936-7374 for assistance.

Directions:

>Go to www.puc.texas.gov

>In the menu bar across the top, select Filings.
