Notre Dame girls basketball head coach Vinny Falleti has his team playing some of its best basketball of the season. After a 3-3 start to the season, the Irish have won seven straight through Monday night's action. ND has held every opponent under 40 points during that stretch and won by an average of 36.5 points per game. The Irish have raced up the standings with their strong play, slotting as the No. 2 seed in a hotly contested Class D. Look for Falleti and Notre Dame to be a strong contender for the title in the classification when the postseason begins.
