Women's History Month luncheon honors visionaries

By Jessica Ricks
@jessica_ricks25

GREENBELT — County Executive Angela Alsobrooks hosted the 34th annual Women's History Month Luncheon on March 24 celebrating visionary women in Prince George's County.

Opening her speech with Maya Angelou's poem "Phenomenal Woman" as she stepped onto the stage in front of a sold out crowd at Martin's Crosswinds in Greenbelt, the audience burst into applause at the fitting introduction that described the women being celebrated at the event.

"I'm a woman, phenomenally," she said. "Phenomenal woman, that's me."

The luncheon, hosted for the first time by a woman, continued as the hundreds of county and state leaders and members of the community came together for food, speeches, performances by county native chart-topping singer Raheem Devaughn, awards and more led by award-winning WUSA9 anchor and master of ceremonies for the event Leslie Foster.

"We are intelligent, and we are strong, we are beautiful, we are phenomenal. And so many of those women are right here in this room in Prince George's County. Women are the backbone and the fabric of this world, this nation, this state, in Prince George's County," Alsobrooks said.

"It's through women that life comes into this world, through women the social issues are highlighted and then addressed. It's our unique perspective and our keen eye that gives light to the rich culture, values and principles that we all enjoy."

U.S. Congressman Anthony Brown (D-Md.) acknowledged the amount of female leaders in Prince George's County right now such as Prince George's County Public School Interim CEO Monica Goldson, State's Attorney Aisha Braveboy and Clerk of the Circuit Court Mahasin El Amin. Brown said he is excited to see so much talent and commitment to the county.

"I'm excited about the leadership in Prince George's County," he said. "I'm excited that we have the first woman to serve as county executive and Angela Alsobrooks is just do-

BOE discusses school construction, approves heritage month

By Jessica Ricks
@jessica_ricks25

UPPER MARLBORO — The Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) Board of Education discussed the use of on-call architects, approved Arab-American Heritage Month and listened to comments from the public at their latest meeting on March 21.

Upon the request of Board of Education (BOE) Member Raaheela Ahmed, the BOE approved the recognition of National Arab-American Heritage Month.

"To my knowledge, this is the first time that this school district has ever recognized Arab American Heritage Month," said Ahmed.

The approval of the proclamation comes a week after the attack on two Mosques in Christchurch, New Zealand where so people were killed, and many others were injured.

According to Ahmed, with the growing hatred towards Arab Americans and Muslim Americans, the recognition of Arab-American Heritage Month speaks volumes.

"This is a statement of support for the Arab American community, as much as it is a statement against bigotry, hate, and Islamophobia," she said.

During the meeting, the board approved expenditure requirements for April totaling about $151 million that mainly go towards payroll and reassignment of about $500,000 in funds within the fiscal year 2019 budget, but they hit a wall when it came to approval of on-call architectural and engineering services.

PGCPS previously issued a Request for Proposal and 49 companies submitted. Of those, 29 pre-qualified on-call contracts for architectural and engineering services were chosen to perform site approvals, feasibility studies, systemic design projects equal to or under $10 million in value, design renovation and additions school projects of up to $20 million and design replacement or renovation along up to $50 million.

These on-call contracts are usually issued when the Department of Capital Projects requests design services and allow the school system to quickly repair, alter, modernize, maintain and construct school buildings. They are chosen through an application and interview process.

The board was divided when some members raised questions about the cost and specific projects associated with the proposal and suggested the item be tabled until the next meeting to discuss it further

Zero-sum politics in Trumpworld

By Paul K. Schwartz
@PKSpaul

In our current political environment of zero-sum politics, for every winner there is a corresponding loser; for every dollar spent on any particular government program or project, there is a dollar not spent on another government program or project.

The Constitution placed not only the responsibility to appropriate money to be spent on government programs, but the responsibility to actually spend the money, with the executive branch, also known as the president.

A while ago on the South Lawn of the White House, as I have mentioned in previous columns, I did pose the question to the president "Which Department of Defense programs or project would go unfunded if money is reprogrammed to pay for your wall under a declaration of a national emergency?"

The response from Trump was "there's plenty of money!" That response, of course, did not answer the question asked, but we are now at the point where we are at least getting a glimpse of what money is being moved to pay for his wall and, as a result, what government programs will feel the pinch of lost appropriations.

In late February, the White House provided a document that identified nearly $8.1 billion that the administration considers available for that wall. In addition to the $1.375 billion already appropriated by Congress, the administration claims that it has access to $3.1 billion under other statutory authorities and $3.6 billion in military construction funds available under a national emergency.

The issue of whether there is a true national emergency, as intended under the National Emergencies Act of 1976, and whether that Act was intended to be used to circumvent Congress to appropriate funding is currently the subject of much debate.

Clearly, the Act was designed to provide the president with emergency funding when the emergency was so immediate that it did not allow for going through the usual appropriations process with Congress. It certainly was not intended to find funding that Congress had already NOT appropriated through the regular appropriations process.

However, rather than focus on that aspect of the debate, I would like to take a closer look at what initiatives will see less money as a result of reallocating funds to pay for a campaign promise of a wall across the entire southern border that will do very little to stem the tide of Central Americans seeking asylum or, as is often misrepresented, the smuggling of illegal drugs.

According to the White House, $601 million of the $3.1 billion claimed by the president under the non-emergency statutory authority will come from the Treasury Forfeiture Fund in two installments. The amount of $242 million will be made available immediately, and $359 million will come from future anticipated forfeitures.

What is the Forfeiture Fund, you ask?

Basically, when law enforcement agencies combine efforts to solve crimes and prosecute those responsible for the crimes successfully, the agencies share in the forfeiture of the ill-gotten gains of the criminal.

See Paul Manafort and his loss of his real estate holdings for an example. That is money used by these law enforcement agencies to supplement their budgets. So much for Trump portraying himself as the "law enforcement president."

Also, according to the White House, up to $2.5 billion will be available from the Department of Defense funds that will be "transferred to its FY 2019 Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities account." The construction to support counter-drug activities, it is noted, will be used on land already owned by the federal government.

I suspect that might make land not owned by the federal government more vulnerable, but that would only be if illegal drugs were smuggled between ports (not points, Mr. President) of entry rather than through ports of entry which is actually through which they are routinely smuggled and for which a border wall does little to prevent.

On the issue of drug smuggling, let me clarify.

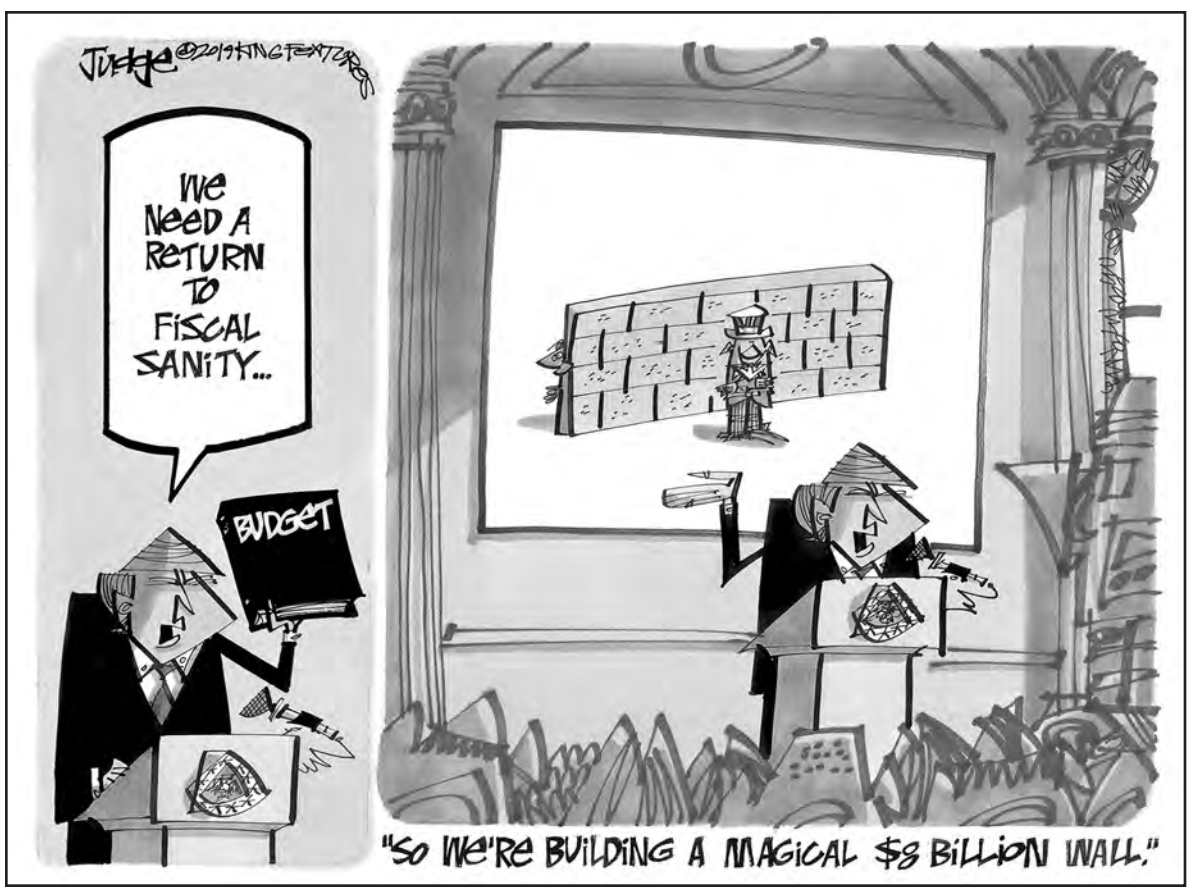

The reason a wall will do little to stop drug smuggling is because the goal of the drug smuggler is not to just get to the other side of the border.

That is the goal of refugees seeking asylum. The purpose of the drug smuggler is to penetrate into the United States.

By successfully smuggling the drugs through the port of entry, the smugglers now have free rein until the cargo container, of which literally thousands cross the southern border every day through ports such as Otay Mesa in California and Nogales in Arizona and Brownsville in Texas. All the many other ports along the border reach the port of destination which could be anywhere in the United States from Newark, New Jersey to Long Beach, California and all points in between.

Also according to the White House, the "national emergency declaration authorizes the Department of Defense to undertake certain military construction projects using up to $3.6 billion in unobligated military construction funding." The White House adds the disclaimer that "DOD will ensure that high-priority projects with national security implications remain funded and family housing projects will also remain funded." The White House goes on to state that "the administration will ask Congress for new military construction funding for the existing projects affected by this so that no projects will be canceled - only delayed."

Let me see if I understand this last piece of the administration strategy correctly, specifically as it relates to zero-sum. The administration, to circumvent Congress' rejection of full border wall funding, reallocates other funding and now will go back to Congress and request "new military construction funding for existing projects affected by this..." circumvention of Congress. The likelihood of Nancy Pelosi, "or as I call her, Nancy," falling for this ploy is as likely as her caving in on the next government shutdown created by Trump when he doesn't get his way and wants to hold the American people and their government hostage again.

District Council denies Bladensburg concrete batching plant

By Jessica Ricks
@jessica_ricks25

UPPER MARLBORO — After more than two years of hearings, appeals and community opposition, the District Council voted to deny Ernest Maier Inc.'s application for building a concrete batching plant in Bladensburg on March 25.

Fourth on the agenda for the meeting, At-Large Council Member Calvin Hawkins moved to deny the concrete batching plant and was seconded by Tom Dernoga (District 1). The members of the council then voted unanimously to reject the plant.

"This decision has been a long time coming," said Chris Melendez, a member of the Port Towns Environmental Action PTEA, who have led the opposition and long-time Bladensburg resident. "The community has been in active opposition to the special exception for two years. We are very pleased that the District Council has considered our challenge of the Zone Hearing Examiner's decision."

Calvin Hawkins

The application for the plant was initially approved by the Prince George's County Zone Hearing Examiner (ZHE) in 2017 after Ernest Maier, Inc. originally applied in 2016.

However, the PTEA, residents of the town, elected officials, businesses and nonprofit leaders were active in speaking out against the plant citing adverse effects the plant will have on the town of Bladensburg.

Throughout the process, they cited concerns about pedestrian safety due to the increased traffic the plant would cause in an already high-traffic area and the effects on nearby landmarks like the historic St. Paul's Baptist Church, the Bladensburg Library, Bladensburg Elementary School and the Chesapeake Bay Critical Overlay Zone.

They also brought up environmental concerns as Bladensburg was identified by the University of Maryland School of Public Health's "Environmental Justice Plan 2025" as an area with a disproportionate amount of environmental burdens and there are already four concrete and asphalt plants in the area.

Although the ZHE originally approved the plant, the District Council remanded it due to issues with the distance the proposed plant would be set back from commercial and residential properties and the ZHE's process in making the decision.

It was approved again by the ZHE on Aug. 23 with a list of conditions having to do with a limit on the amount of truckloads that can come into the plant per day, and a limit on operating hours and conditions that have to do with the upkeep of the town. The PTEA then filed an appeal of that decision, and the District Council held an oral argument hearing for the case on Feb. 11.

Attorney David Blitzer argued on behalf of the PTEA at the hearing, and PTEA Spokesperson Paul Howe said in a statement that his oral arguments presented the provisions in the Zoning Ordinance code "that are intended to prevent developers from skirting requirements to protect surrounding properties."

During the oral argument hearing, Dan Lynch, attorney for Ernest Maier Inc, said that the concrete batching plant would not be subjected to the 300-foot setback from surrounding properties that the District Council remanded them for and that it was instead only subject to a 100-foot setback.

He also argued that the adverse environmental effects that the PTEA and the opposition spoke of would not be an issue as it would be built on the existing property. Bladensburg Mayor Takisha James also advocated for the plant to be erected during that hearing.

"We feel that our case was very strong in demonstrating that the application was not sufficient," said Melendez, who lives within 1,000 feet of where the plant would have been built if it had passed.

"Our community has suffered from legacy pollution for many years, and we have other facilities close to us, and we did not need to have another industrial use adding to the cumulative negative impact to the community's health and well being."

The PTEA commended the District Council's decision as they kept in mind the safety, health and welfare of the Port Towns Community, Howe said.

"Our community and surrounding towns already bear a disproportionate share of industrial pollutants, and further contamination from another plant would have added to the degradation of both human and environmental health."

Melendez added that the way the community was able to come together to fight for what they believed in is a testament to the true power that the community has.

"It speaks to how important it is for the community to come together," she said. "It is the role of the community to contest uses that are not in its best interests."

Women's History Month luncheon honors visionaries

ing an outstanding job."

Keynote speaker April Ryan spoke about her childhood growing up in a lower class environment in Baltimore and the strength of her mother who raised her. She fondly remembered her mother's words of encouragement that she "would be great if I worked hard."

Now the only black female reporter covering urban issues from the White House as a White House Correspondent, a political analyst on CNN and an author, Ryan said she still falls back on those moments from her childhood.

Despite her success and the accomplishments of many of the women at the luncheon and beyond, she said there is still a problem having to do with women today.

"It's not easy being a woman in 2019," she said. "Yes, we have a woman county executive and her mom here, a lot of women who were elected into office, as congressman Brown said, we have more women in Congress now than ever before...in the workplace, we are still discounted and not making as much as our male counterparts."

Ryan described how women have been the backbone of the community's progress, particularly the progress of African American people. During the Civil Rights movement, she said, women encouraged marches, provided food, helped raise funds and took people into their homes. Yet women are still discounted.

The luncheon as a whole encouraged women to keep working hard, to keep working towards progress and to keep striving towards their best despite the obstacles they still need to overcome.

As part of that, several Pride Awards were given out at the end of the luncheon.

One of those was the Gladys Noon Spellman Award. Its namesake was a public servant in Prince George's County serving as an educator in the public school system, the president of the Prince George's County Council of PTA's and chairwoman of the National Mental Health Study Center.

Additionally, she was the first woman elected to the Board of Commissioners of Prince George's County, served on the county council and served as a member of the U.S. Congress.

Gloria Brown Burnett, director of the Prince George's County Department of Social Services (DSS), took home the award this year.

Having worked 28 years in the development, administration and evaluation of human service and child welfare programs, she has brought innovative strategies to the DSS to help them be more responsive to residents needs. She serves on other community boards such as the Prince George's County Workforce Investment Board and the Hillside Work-Scholarship.

Five other Pride Awards were given out during the luncheon; Prince George's Community College President Charlene Dukes received the Education Pride Award; the Business Pride Award was given to McDonald's franchise owner Mary Hopkins-Navies, and Economic Development Corporation Latino Small Business Liaison Rocio Tremino-Lopez; and the Nonprofit Pride Award was given to President and CEO of the Latin American Youth Center Lupi-Quinteros-Grady and Executive Director of The Training Source Inc. Evelyn Kim Rhim.

Finally, the Gladys Noon Spellman Scholarship Award was given to Dr. Henry A. Wise High School student Tamara Bethea, Oxon Hill High School student Kristen Briscoe and Ezinne Oguguo, who attends the Academy of Health Sciences at Prince George's Community College.

"So let it be said that the visionary women are here, they are accounted for and Women's History Month can continue because of each and every woman in this room, the visionary women of Prince George's County," Alsobrooks said.

Board of Education discusses school construction, approves heritage month while other members thought it was important to move forward with it at this meeting.

"I don't think that too many, and I won't speak for everyone, board members can really say that we are completely informed about what this recommendation is given the supporting documents...I certainly can't say with confidence, other than taking the administrations word for it, that this something the district does or doesn't need or that these are the right people to be working in our county or not," said Board Member David Murray.

However, Interim CEO Monica Goldson stressed the importance of moving forward with these projects because of the lack of time and the number of projects that need to be completed.

"What's unfortunate is if we were to table it, we don't get t come back to vote on this item until April 25," she said. "The reason that there are a lot of projects is, unfortunately...we have a $2 billion backlog and an $8 billion renovation project plan. We have aging systems, our buildings are 49 to 50 years old. Time is of the essence."

Director of Capital Programs Shawn Matlock added that having the on-call architects allows them to expedite the process so that construction projects are completed on time.

Despite the lengthy debate, in a close vote, the agenda item was passed.

The BOE also heard public comments on a variety of topics including transportation conditions, support for Saturday school and language immersion programs, special education and teacher compensation.

Bus drivers have come out for the past few BOE meetings to advocate for better working conditions in the bus lots, better pay and efforts to retain new hires.

"This is not just for the employees but is also just to hold everyone accountable for what they do. We also have to make sure we have better customer service on these bus lots because customer service starts at these bus lots," said bus driver Martin Diggs.

"The bus drivers, we're the first line to see some of the parents and see some of the kids in the morning, and some of these bus lots are unsafe. So we need to invest to make sure employees feel like their workplace is a safe environment for them."

He suggested that Goldson and the rest of the board come down to visit the bus lots to observe the conditions first hand so they can see the urgency that the bus drivers have.

"Our main concern is the low morale at all the bus lots. You have hired a group of supervisors that are running transportation down," said Lucinda Orange, another bus driver. "Because of lack of leadership, we are losing drivers daily. Transportation should be run with integrity, skill, understanding as well as providing direction, inspiration and guidance."

She said that these supervisors are driving away new hires, making things harder for the drivers who choose to remain.

Several students from Robert Goddard Montessori School came forward to voice their support for their Saturday school program and the benefits it has had on their education while Prince George's County Educators Association (PGCEA) member Michele Clarke came to talk about the needs of a teacher who are steps behind in pay.

"The overall common goal should be to create a positive school culture that supports that academic success of each student while incorporating the necessary engagement initiatives," said Dolores Millhouse who came to advocate for language immersion programs and positive change in the school system.

Driving program raises awareness of safety for county residents

By Jessica Ricks
@jessica_ricks25

OXON HILL — Prince George's County Council Member Monique Anderson-Walker (District 8) announced the official launch of #DrivingItHome, a driving safety awareness partnership initiative to change the driving culture in Prince George's County, during a press conference on March 22.

"One of the reasons we came out here today, and I'm so grateful to have the support of my colleagues and our great community leaders, and our county executive is that we want to make a cultural change," Anderson-Walker said. "This is not about the road, the road doesn't do it. It's people's decisions when they are on the road."

Following a series of horrific car crashes in Prince George's County, most notably a crash at the beginning of the year where a drunk driver hit a family car killing three children and leaving their parents critically injured, Anderson-Walker is saying enough is enough and paving the way for change.

With reckless driving, specifically along Indian Head Highway/210, causing numerous injuries and fatalities, #DrivingItHome hopes to raise awareness of safe driving focusing on six areas crucial to highway safety: seatbelt use, texting and driving, driver distractions, drunk driving, highway speed and aggressive driving.

"When you make bad decisions, it doesn't just affect you for a week, a month, a year and then you get over it," Anderson-Walker said. "Unfortunately that's not the case. These are lingering issues."

While #DrivingItHome is for everyone to take part in, Anderson-Walker emphasized the importance of involving kids.

At their impressionable age they are just learning how to drive and with high school students taking the initiative with movements like the March For Our Lives, "any cultural change that takes place moving forward is going to be a student movement," she said.

To involve high school students, Anderson-Walker met with about 800 students at Friendly High School that morning, and later with 300 students from Oxon Hill High School where the press conference took place.

"This is an initiative for everyone. The reason why we started out with students is because we know that those are the most compromised on the road," Anderson-Walker said. "The challenges we've seen and the number of accidents we've seen have been with youngsters, with 16- and 17-year olds...So what we want to do is make sure the culture shift starts with them."

Over the next few weeks, she said she plans to meet with students at Potomac High School and Crossland High School to get them involved by signing a pledge for safe driving and encouraging to join in a social media campaign. As an incentive, the person who gets the most likes on a post using #DrivingItHome will win a prize.

"The purpose of meeting with the students and presenting to them is to really get the culture to change," Anderson-Walker said. "As 16-year-olds that are just starting to drive, we want to really drive it home, which is why this is called a driving it home campaign, we want to drive it home that these are important things for them when getting behind the wheel and they have a responsibility when getting behind the wheel of a car."

During the press conference, Oxon Hill High School student and SGA President LaNia Mitchell signed her pledge for to commit to safe driving where she said she will not speed or be aggressive on the road, will not text and drive or drink and drive and will make everyone's safety a priority.

Other public officials attended the press conference such as Prince George's County Fire Chief Benjamin Barksdale, Deputy Chief Administrative Officer for Public Safety Mark Magaw and At-Large Council Member Calvin Hawkins.

Barksdale spoke briefly about how, despite the training that EMS personnel go through to prepare for such incidents, there is still a toll that dealing with car crashes caused by negligent driving has on first responders.

"That's what it's about, changing the behavior, changing the culture and explaining to the children that their poor decisions not only impact them, but have an impact far-reaching beyond them, the person that was in the car with them, the person that they hit and the first responder that provided help," he said.

MaGaw, who also served as police chief of Prince George's County from 2010 to 2016, echoed Barksdale's experience saying he has "been on too many horrific accident scenes, I've spoken to too many distraught and broken-hearted families" adding that when we get behind the wheel, everything else has got to wait.

"The biggest part is, enforcement is not the answer. It's a piece of it, but it is not the answer," Magaw said. "We all need to put our phones down, we all need to slow down, we all need to wear our seatbelts. Everyone of us has a responsibility to make sure that we are being safe behind the wheel and we all need to work together to pass that word."

Multiple studies over the last decade have shown that the National Capital Region is one of the most congested in the nation, and Marylanders face the second highest commuting times in the country. Today, on average, travelers have to navigate seven hours of traffic congestion daily on I-270. The duration is even worse on I-495 with travelers having to navigate 10 hours of congestion daily.

To address this congestion, the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and the Maryland Department of Transportation State Highway Administration (MDOT SHA) are completing the I-495 & I-270 Managed Lanes Study. This study is looking to provide a solution that addresses congestion, improves trip reliability, and enhances existing and planned mobility and connectivity for other modes of travel including transit. The study begins on I-495 south of the George Washington Memorial Parkway in Virginia, and includes addressing the serious regional bottleneck at the American Legion Bridge, and extends to west of MD 5 and includes I-270 from I-495 to I-370.

Since presenting the Preliminary Range of Alternatives in July 2018, MDOT SHA completed an initial screening which reduced the preliminary alternatives to seven recommended Screened Alternatives. Public workshops are being held to present the traffic, environmental, and financial analyses for the recommended Screened Alternatives along with the recommendations for the alternatives to be retained for detailed study in the Draft Environmental Impact Statement.

Laurel and Bowie 'Super Track' plans revealed as lawsuit is filed

By José Umaña
@Jose_M_Umana

BOWIE – The Stronach Group told the Bowie City Council that it plans to start construction projects at both their Laurel Park and Bowie Rack Track sites in October to establish a new "super track" system that can handle the addition of higher-profile races.

During the City Council meeting on March 18, officials confirmed the joint plan of redevelopment on both courses would take place after the Maryland Million race on Oct. 19 as long as the General Assembly passes two funding bills that can help support the project.

The redevelopment announcement comes as the Baltimore City Council, Mayor Catherine Pugh and city residents filed a lawsuit to keep the Preakness, one of the three horse races in the Triple Crown series, at its current site in the Pimlico Race Course.

According to the preliminary plans that were presented, construction would begin in October at Laurel Park which sits less than two miles outside the city of Laurel and on the edge of the Prince George's County borders inside Howard County.

The venue has gone through a $20 million renovation in 2016 when it finished improving the grandstand, updated entryway, new barns and the addition of self-serving betting machines.

According to Sal Sinatra, vice president and general manager of the Stronach-owned Maryland Jockey Club, the organization is looking to host the Breeders Cup first, and premier seating would need to be added at the 107-year old venue.

"Maryland racing has had somewhat of a revival," Sinatra said. "… I am a racing guy, and I am really excited about this; this has become my pet project."

Bowie Race Track would be a part of the redevelopment projects, reopening as a "world-class training center," officials say. The race track, which has been closed as a training facility since 2015 and has not hosted a race since the 1980s, would have newer dorms for jockeys and install newer racing surfaces for horses, including a synthetic track next to the dirt track.

"The need for Bowie arises whether Pimlico stays as a venue for the Preakness or something else happens there," Attorney Michael Johansen said. "Those horses need to come from somewhere including the ones currently at Pimlico; as Laurel gets developed, Bowie is the natural place for long-term training."

The plans presented could continue according to plan only if two State House bills pass before the session ends on April 8. The first bill sponsored by Senator Douglas J. J. Peters (District 23-Prince George's) would add Bowie as a facility eligible to receive state revenues from the Racetrack Facility Renewal Account (RFRA) for capital construction projects.

The second bill would allow the state to issue $80 million worth of bonds to Laurel and $40 million to Bowie to start the renovations. The bill, sponsored by Senator Pamela Beidle (District 32-Anne Arundel), would allow Stronach to pay back the state through slot machine revenues that would be used for improvements for the other race tracks in the state.

The total cost of the renovation projects would be $120 million, and it would be completed in 18 months. No permits have been applied for the renovations, according to Johansen.

"The state funding for a race track facility trickles in about $8 million a year," Johansen said. "To do a $120 million project in about an 18-month period, we are trying to push forward those funds, matched by the Stronach Group, in an effort to get those projects started and completed in that short period of time."

However, the lawsuit by Baltimore City officials may delay the process as they look to seize control of Pimlico, ask state officials to limit funds to Stronach and block any move of the Preakness.

According to the lawsuit, the city will be financially hurt and losing the race would be "detrimental to the city" if jobs are moved to Prince George's and Anne Arundel Counties.

The lawsuit also argues that the Stronach Group would be breaking state law that prohibits moving the Preakness because of the absence of a disaster or emergency. The Maryland Stadium Authority released a study in December 2018, stating if Pimlico was renovated, it cost of the whole project would cost $424 million.

However, the study did not say how the funds to do the project would be collected, who would pay for the renovation and no new updated training facility at Pimlico, said Johansen. The setup of the super track plan with Bowie and Laurel would be much closer for trainers and horses to travel compared to Pimlico and another track.

If the two funding bills pass, the provision blocking the move of The Preakness would be changed, and the projects would start as scheduled, said Johansen.

Bowie City Council officials supports the redevelopment of the track and expressed the continued desire to be informed on the ongoing changes. City and Stronach officials also supported the idea of doing more at the Bowie site once the project is completed including using free green space for recreational uses and having silent firework shows on Independence Day.

"Horse racing is our history," Bowie Mayor G. Frederick Robinson said. "We want to work with you guys and hope that this develops into a world-class training center; that is the goal, and that is our standard."

New Carrollton suspect in three sexual assaults over span of 14 years arrested, held without bond

By José Umaña
@Jose_M_Umana

UPPER MARLBORO – A New Carrolton man was arrested on March 21 and is being held without bond after authorities say he raped three women, two of which attended Howard University, after posing as a student and sexually assaulting them at his home after allegedly drugging them.

Prince George's County Police arrested Julian Everett, 35, of Westbrook Drive in connection of three sexual assaults spaced out over a period of 14 years.

Before a bond hearing on March 22, Prince George's County State's Attorney Aisha Braveboy said that there may be more victims who have yet to come forward.

"We wanted first to reassure both communities that we have brought resolution to these matters," Police Chief Hank Stawinski said. "Second, we are concerned that this individual may have victimized other women in the metropolitan area."

Everett is being charged with three counts of second-degree rape among other charges, authorities, say. Everett will remain in custody without bond until his next scheduled court appearance. All of the accusers were underaged at the time of their incidents, Stawinski said

The case into the assaults was reopened in March 2018 after Metropolitan Police Department received an anonymous letter about two of three attacks that happened in 2015 and 2016.

The detectives were able to use similar motives and DNA to connect it to a third case in 2005, where a 16-year-old girl accused Everett of sexual assault after he gave her alcohol to drink. When he drove the accuser home to Virginia, Everett is alleged to have assaulted her in his car as well.

Prince George's County Police arrested Julian Everett, 35, of Westbrook Drive in connection of three sexual assaults spaced out over a period of 14 years.

Virginia law enforcement charged Everett, but investigators decided not to pursue the case, Stawinski said. In the 2015 incident, an 18-year old met Everett, who was posing as a college student, at a party and agreed to go out on a date. She began to lose consciousness after being given alcohol and was allegedly sexually assaulted during the encounter in his New Carrolton home, police say.

In 2016, Everett posed as a Howard student on an unofficial Facebook page for incoming college freshmen to ask the accuser, who was 17-years-old, out a date in August of 2016. They met up at the Signature Barber Shop on U St. NW where he works, and according to officials, Everett gave the victim alcohol that caused her to pass out. Everett is alleged to have taken her back to his house to assault her sexually.

After both 2015 and 2016 incidents, Everett returned the victims back to their dorms on campus, police said.

"He poses as a member of that community; he poses as a college student; he poses as a younger person as part of his method of operation," Stawinski said. "That was a sign to our detective to take a long at those cases with similar circumstances and using DNA to her advantage was able to bring those pieces together."

Everett's barber shop is less than half a mile away from the campus and is known throughout the campus community, authorities say. Howard University does not have a ramped problem with rape, but this incident is very alarming, Chief of Police for the Department of Public Safety Marcus Lyles said.

"As a parent and as a person who oversees safety and security of our campus, it hits home," Lyles said. "We have a rich legacy, one of which we work hard to provide a safe environment and our environment is safe, but it is hard."

There are still concerns about how many more people made contact with Everett because he posed as a younger person and used social media to lure potential victims. Stawinski announced that PGPD has created a dedicated tip line for possible victims to reach out to investigators.

"We take the allegations and the charges that the police have brought very seriously," Braveboy said. "We are working collaboratively to investigate these charges so we can determine how we move forward in our office but again, we ask if anybody was a victim or if you know a victim of sexual assault that was committed by or alleged to be committed by Mr. Everett, we ask that you come forward."

The Town Council of the Town of Berwyn Heights proposes to increase noncommercial real property taxes.

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Kennedy Center's magical production of 'Faust' is marvelous

By Mark Dreisonstok
Special to The Sentinel

"Faust" by Johann Wolfgang von Goethe is, quite simply, the magnum opus of German literature. Little wonder that German-speaking composers such as Beethoven, Schubert, Liszt, Wagner and Fanny Mendelssohn (Felix' sister) set the scenes, songs, ballads and ideas contained in "Faust" to music.

It is with a French composer, however, Charles Gounod, that "Faust" has become immortal in the musical world as one of the most popular of operas.

Indeed, Gounod's "Faust" is the opera that the "Phantom of the Opera" haunted, in both the original novel and, later, in the classic 1920s silent film. Happily, the Washington National Opera is now staging an outstanding production of the classic opera (phantom-free) at the Kennedy Center.

For those unfamiliar with the story, Dr. Faust is a brilliant medieval scholar whom we would now call existentially frustrated. Having mastered, according to Goethe, philosophy, law, medicine and even theology, he finds himself bored with the limitations of knowledge and indeed with life itself.

He thus summons Mephistopheles, an emissary of the devil (the devil himself, in some versions), who will grant Faust all of his wishes if our scholar will commit to later serving his infernal majesty in Hell.

Among Faust's wishes are youth and love, especially the love of the beautiful and uncomplicated woman Marguerite.

Though Faust loves Marguerite, he soon commences to destroy her life, leading the audience to wonder who is the more evil: Mephistopheles or Faust? And is Marguerite's purity of heart enough to save her and/or Faust from destruction?

The singing and acting in the production are superb. Erin Wall, who portrays the tragic figure of Marguerite, sings "The Jewell Song" (French title: "Je ris de me voir"). "Phantom of the Opera" silent film fans will recognize this as the song during which a chandelier falls.

Raymond Aceto plays Mephistopheles in superb voice, but it is his witty delivery of spoken lines, such as "with Satan, you must be more genteel" and "Don't you like my plume in my hat and my sword at my side? I'm a real gentleman!" which makes his character sparkle.

Aceto is also very entertaining as he chases and dodges Dame Marthe (an equally witty and agile Deborah Nansteel, herself in fine voice) – all in a parody of Faust's pursuit of Marguerite. Faust is well-represented by Marcelo Puente in his Washington National Opera debut, particularly towards the end of the opera as he expressively sings, gestures and cajoles Marguerite to escape while there is yet time.

Opera lovers will enjoy the popular "Soldiers' Chorus," one of the most memorable melodies of "Faust," performed stirringly by the orchestra and large cast. The opera's famous waltz is also performed. Alas, the sensuous Walpurgisnacht ballet music has been omitted in this production, as it often is from many stagings.

Given the Germanic story and French music, it is the director's call in staging "Faust" whether to accentuate French operatic tradition or Goethe's earlier literary retelling of the legend.

Perhaps this dilemma is summed up in a scene in Gounod's opera in which the townspeople discuss whether they should drink "wine or beer." "Long live wine!" is the response. As a result, wine, and the French musical tradition, usually win the day. In the current Washington National Opera production directed by Garnett Bruce, the German strands – and we suppose beer! – emerge as dominant, for references to German culture abound.

For example, when the tragic figure of Marguerite, movingly portrayed in voice and song by the talented Wall, sings the ballad of "The King of Thule," she does so not alone at her spinning wheel as is traditional, but instead by reading it to children out of a story book – as if reading a Brothers Grimm fairy tale set in the dark Germanic woods.

Similarly, the scenery surrounding the cottage where Marguerite lives indeed evokes a somber Teutonic forest. Stage references to F.W. Murnau's 1926 German Expressionist film "Faust – A German Folktale" are everywhere in the production: a globe at Faust's first appearance, acrobats performing at a festival, Faust throwing down the cross in rejection of God and the lattice windows of Marguerite's house all appear to reference the Weimar Republic-era film. More broadly, German versions of "Faust" often contain a play within a play, and in this production there is a play during the festival which foreshadows what will be the eventual fate of Mephistopheles, struck down by God.

In summation, this reviewer strongly recommends the Kennedy Center's magical production of "Faust." The show is of highest quality in terms of both performances and staging. Culturally, it draws upon the best of both French opera stylistics and the story's Germanic cultural heritage. In his pact with Mephistopheles, Faust maintains, according to Goethe, that one of his conditions is to have a moment so sublime that he will "ask the fleeting moment to remain, for it is so fair." For those interested in taking this operatic ride through magic and tragedy, the moment will not last, as this production of "Faust" ends its run soon on March 30!

PRIVATE RESOLUTION OF DISPUTES

Judge NANCY B. SHUGER served for 18 years as an Associate Judge on the District Court of Maryland for Baltimore City, handling various civil and criminal matters. Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) offers a creative, positive alternative tot the cost and uncertainty of litigation for individuals, businesses, organizations and families. As a former judge, she can assist disputing parties to achieve reasonable results. ADR offers a way for her to help people discover common interests which can allow them to shape their own resolution to their disputes.

As a mediator, she acts as a private neutral. She emphasizes that mediation can be effective wether the parties desire to address differences in an ongoing relationship, or to reach a mutually agreeable solution to a single dispute, without trial. She uses mediation, arbitration and settlement conferences successfully for conflict involving personal injury (including auto torts and premises liability), employment, workplace conflict, child access, elder law, ethics, collections, contracts and other civil matters.

After a tough first half, DeMatha sophomore Dakota Eierman had a chance to redeem himself. DeMatha boys lacrosse survives late Bishop Ireton comeback

By Brooks Warren
Special to The Sentinel

HYATTSVILLE – All the DeMatha Catholic High School boys lacrosse team needed was one more goal to sustain their hard-fought win over Washington Catholic Athletic Conference (WCAC) foes Bishop Ireton on March 22.

After a tough first half, sophomore Dakota Eierman had a chance to redeem himself. The shifty midfielder dodged one Cardinal defender and released a quick shot. The ball whizzed past the head of Bishop Ireton goalie Nick Greve for the game-winning goal.

"I did not play well in the first half, didn't finish," Eirman said, "So (I) just wanted to go out there and get some shots on the goal."

The goal helped DeMatha escape with an 8-7 victory on March 22.

The Stags were led by junior attack Aiden Toles who finished with five points plays with a hat trick in goals while handing out two assists, followed up by a pair goals from midfielder Ricky Gloekler. The victory was DeMatha's (4-2) fourth in five games.

"We got a ways to go," DeMatha Head Coach Scott Morrison said. "We graduated 15 seniors (from) last year, and we are still at that point where we got to find out what everyone's role will be."

The Stags came out hot in the first half behind Toles as he orchestrated a masterful first 24 minutes. After scoring the first goal of the day, he fed a pass to a diving Evan Ostrowski for DeMatha's second tally of the game. The junior quickly found the net on his own for back-to-back goals right afterward.

The Cardinals (3-2) responded when junior Conor Casey scored on his second of three goals to narrow the score.

However, Toles reemerged, connecting with junior Ryan Pritchard who ripped a shot from nearly 15-feet away and gave the Stags a 5-2 lead as halftime approached. Torrential rain then came down moments later and delayed the game for a little under an hour, halting the momentum of the Stags.

After the delay was lifted, the Cardinals went on an incredible 4-0 run and took a 6-5 lead following the dominant quarter.

Bishop Ireton won all but two faceoffs in the quarter, had eight shots on goal and the Cardinal defense forced a shot clock violation against the humming DeMatha offense. The spurt was set off by junior Connor Slattery, who sent two bounce shots passed Stags goalie Matthew Taylor to bring Ireton back to within one.

"We stood tough, did not let our heads get down," Toles said, "We got to finish our opportunities off better."

Casey completed the comeback when during a one-man advantage after a checking penalty, the Cardinals attack unit whipping the ball around until Casey found the best shot and scored by the cage circle. Senior Sam Markle added another goal to give the Cardinals the lead going into the fourth quarter.

The Stags responded with their own stunning three-goal spurt early on in the final frame. DeMatha won the ensuing faceoff, collected the groundball and handed over to Gloecker to set up a momentum-grabbing quarter. The junior dodged one Cardinal defender and unleashed a shot from the right of the net to tie the game at 6-all.

Moments later, after Junior Harold Peters forced a groundball on the defensive side, DeMatha whipped the ball around, patiently waiting for an open shot until Gloecker unleashed a quick blast to give the Stags the lead they wanted.

DeMatha iced the game late in the fourth following their 12th faceoff win of the match. The Cardinals were able to score once more when with the clock winding down and the DeMatha defense let their guard down. That final goal left the DeMatha coaching staff with a bad taste in their mouth, delivering a message to their young team to finish all four quarters.

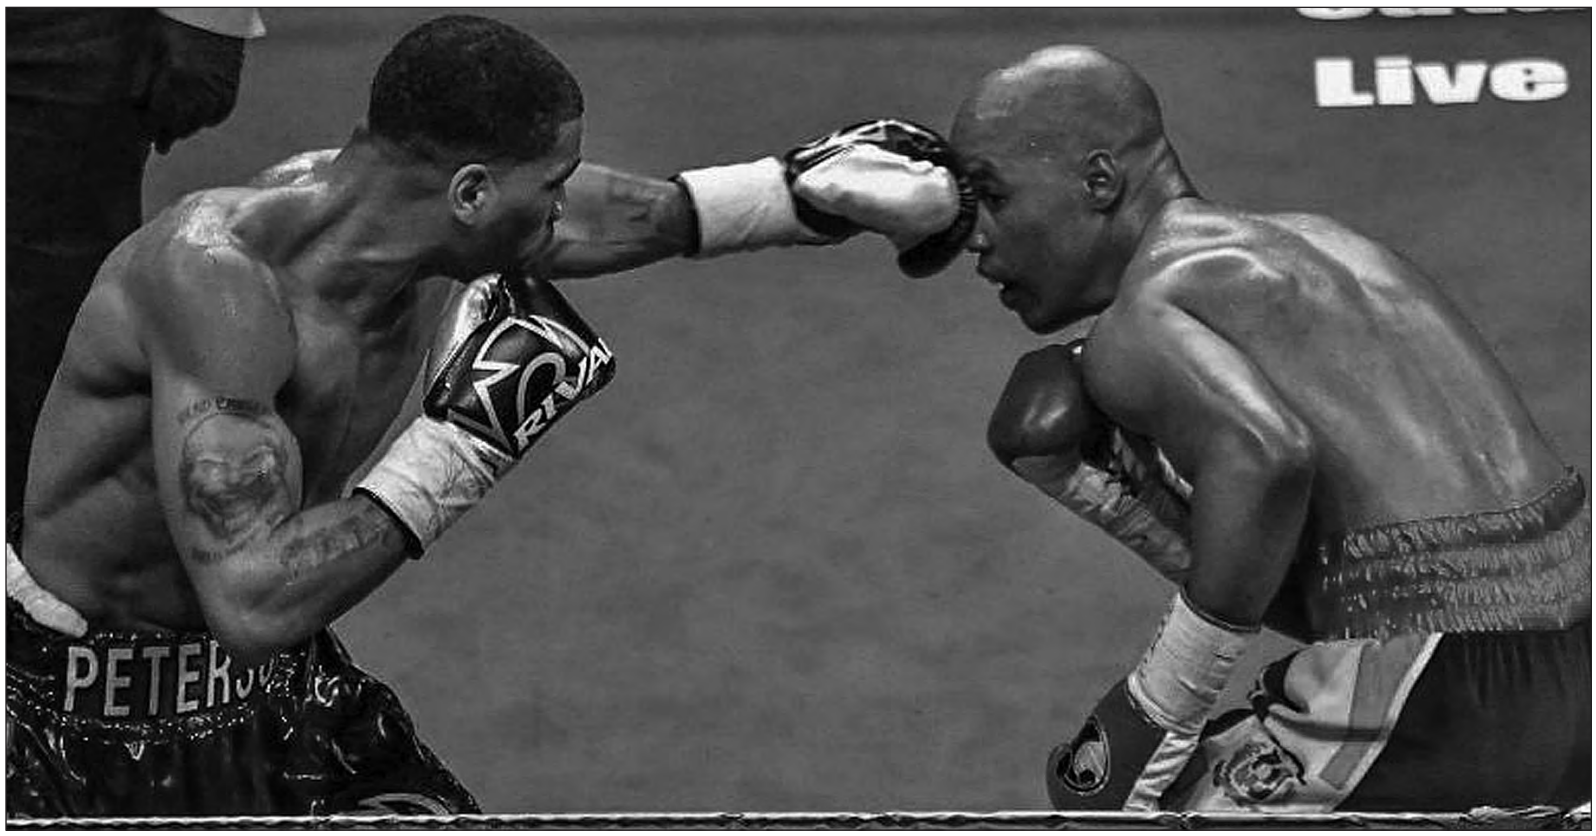

"It's a coaching cliché, but it's always true," Morrison said on his post-game message, "we're playing like seven-eight sophomores on a regular basis. We are very young, but that can't be an excuse for us."

DeMatha will look to continue their winning ways with a home game against St. Ignatius on March 24 and traveling to Florida to take on Lake Brantley (March 27) and Bishop Moore (March 29). They return to WCAC play on April 2 for a road game against St. Mary's Ryken.

A sad night for Lamont Peterson at MGM

Professional boxer Lamont Peterson (left) took the mic from longtime trainer and father figure, Barry Hunter, and told the large crowd at the MGM National Harbor that he is retiring after falling to Sergey Lipinets (15-1), after Hunter threw a towel into the ring ending Peterson's career in the 10th round on March 24.

NATIONAL HARBOR – Professional boxer Lamont Peterson took the mic from longtime trainer and father figure, Barry Hunter and told the large crowd at the MGM National Harbor, "It's been a long career but today is the day. I love everyone here, and I will always support this area. I am glad I finished my career at home," said Peterson. "This will be the last time you see me in the ring. Thanks for everything."

With that statement, the Washington, D.C. native closed out a brilliant boxing career with a 34-5-1 record with 17 knockouts and secured world championships in two weight divisions. It was a sad night for D.C. boxing fans on March 24.

He battled to the bitter end against Sergey Lipinets (15-1) until Hunter threw a towel into the ring ending Peterson's career in the tenth round as Lipinets was in the midst of hurting Peterson.

"It was back and forth, and we were hitting each other with some good shots," said Peterson. "It just came out of nowhere at the end."

Peterson was on the canvas and the towel flew in the air as if it was shot out of a cannon ending an era of excellent work in the ring.

Lamont's younger brother Anthony fought to a split draw against Algenis Mendez. The judges scored the fight 96-94 for Mendez, 96-94 for Peterson and 95-95, resulting in the split draw.

Many at ringside had Peterson winning seven out of the ten rounds. Mendez hardly threw any punches in the early rounds. Anthony showed good movement, a good jab and landed hard combinations.

"There were times I didn't engage cause of his countering," said Anthony. "I took my time and used my jab and moved."

"I can't be that disappointed because I didn't lose. I was happy to fight in front of my fans," said Anthony.

"I've been out of the ring for a long time, and I think I did ok, but if the judges saw a draw, they saw a draw. I'm not mad about it."

Anthony Peterson sports a 37-1-1 pro record.

The powers that be in boxing have not seen fit to give Anthony a title shot after all these years. It is hard to understand how and why that has happened.

Other local fighters on the card had mixed results. Mark Duncan from Clarksburg lost a split decision, and Kareem Martin (Clinton) won a split decision.

Alexandria, Va. native, Brandon Quarles dropped a split decision. Cobia Breedy, from Barbados but fights out of Hyattsville, won a unanimous technical decision over Fernando Fuentes when ringside doctors ruled that Fuentes could not continue due to an accidental headbutt.

Baltimore native Lorenzo Simpson,19, won his second pro fight over Jaime Meza who was making his pro debut.

It was officially announced that Accokeek native Jarrett Hurd will defend his three super welterweight belts on May 11 at Eagle Bank Arena in Fairfax, Va.

UMD men's basketball falls, Navy lax faulters, Lady Terps lax tops defending champs

BALTIMORE—The University of Maryland had the fourth-youngest basketball team in the NCAA this season, and the Terrapins may have done some growing this year.

Still, they ended the season with a painful 69-67 loss to Louisiana State University (LSU) in the second round of the NCAA Tournament on March 23 in Jacksonville, Fla.

Tremont Waters of No. 3 LSU drove to the basket and made a layup with 1.6 seconds remaining to break the tie and give the Tigers the victory.

Maryland Head Coach Mark Turgeon, when speaking to the media after the game, expressed how frustrated he was for his young team as they had worked so hard.

"They made coaching fun again," he said. "I was proud of them, and they represented our school all year in the right way. They're great kids, and I don't know why it didn't go our way…but they deserved better, and they can hang their heads high."

Maryland had just tied the game when Jalen Smith drilled a long 3-pointer. Then, Waters scored the game-winning basket.

LSU (28-6) appeared to have the game in hand when it took a 15-point lead early in the second half. But Turgeon went to a zone defense – and got a technical foul – which seemed to get the Terrapins started.

Smith topped the Terps with 15 points. Bruno Fernando had a double-double with 10 points and 15 rebounds. Maryland finished the season with a record of 23-11.

Navy Men's Lacrosse

Navy took the lead early in its March 23 home game with No. 17 Lehigh University. But the Midshipmen ran into trouble after that.

Lehigh reeled off six consecutive third-quarter goals that turned the game around, and the Mountain Hawks rolled to a 15-8 victory over Navy in a Patriot League match-up.

Navy held a 5-4 halftime lead and went up two points early in the third quarter thanks to a goal from Jack Sweeney. However, that is where Lehigh made its run, scoring the six straight that gave the visitors a 10-6 advantage.

Lehigh (6-3, 4-0) later scored the first four goals of the fourth quarter and broke the game open.

"I thought we played hard, but it came down to they made, and we didn't," Navy coach Rick Sowell said. "Hats off to Lehigh, they played better than us."

Ryan Wade led Navy (4-4, 2-2) with three goals plus one assist. That was the second hat trick of his career, and he has now scored points in 32 straight games. He needs one more point to become the 35th Midshipman to reach the 100-point milestone.

UMD Women's Lacrosse

The No. 2 Maryland women crushed the defending national champions on March 24.

Maryland went down to No. 7 James Madison University and scored several early goals, took command and rolled to an 18-5 victory over the Dukes.

Jen Giles had four goals and two assists while teammate Kali Hartshorn added three goals and three assists. Meghan Siverson pitched in with two goals and two assists while Grace Griffin scored three goals.

The Terrapins jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead which they stretched to 9-3 by halftime. In the second half, Maryland (11-0) showed more of the same, scoring nine more goals as James Madison (7-4) could not stop the Terps.

Unbeaten Lady Raiders flatten Northwestern in Wildcats' season-opener

HYATTSVILLE — The Eleanor Roosevelt High School girls lacrosse team used a relentless first-half offensive attack to run away with a sizable away victory, 20-7, over Northwestern High School on March 23.

Camille Lorente was a crucial component in the Lady Raiders' scoring run in the opening 25 minutesof the game. The senior midfielder led the way with five goals and three assists as Roosevelt improved to 2-0 on the season.

"She's a captain for a reason," Eleanor Roosevelt Head Coach Charles Mills said, valuing Lorente's leadership. "She's a middie for a reason because she can play both sides of the field. And she's a leader for this team, and she does it on the field and off the field."

Also fueling Roosevelt's offense was senior attacker Olivia Joachim, who weaved through the defense to score all four of her goals in the first half. The Lady Raiders won a majority of the faceoffs and remained aggressive, scooping up most of the ground balls as well put themselves in positions to make scoring plays.

Roosevelt's ball movement and defensive communication, in particular, worked well for them early on, Mills said, as the Lady Raiders led 16-2 at the half.

"They're doing something very very well. There are other things we need to work on. They're still learning," Mills said of his team who are the defending 4A south regional champions. "They (Northwestern) have a very fast team that really puts pressure on you defensively and working together and communicating defensively helps out with that."

According to Lorente, Roosevelt's defensive efficiency has more to do with the team's chemistry and knowing everyone's locations on the field.

"I think we're all really like a close-knit team, and so we all work together, we all know each other on and off the field," Lorente said of Roosevelt's chemistry. "We've been working on our passing and our catching and our stick skills. And the chemistry on and off the field really helps us work together well."

In the second half, however, Northwestern came out more assertive and found more of a rhythm on both ends of the field, outscoring their opponent 5-4 in the final 25 minutes.

Midfielder Jennifer Flores used her speed and agility to position herself to score three goals, leading the way offensively for the Wildcats, who played two exhibition games before dropping their season-opener. Midfielder Heidi Chicas finished the game scoring twice while Nathalie Hernandez and attackers Carina Ruiz added a goal each for Northwestern.

"We needed somebody to be vocal and think positive, so I was kind of trying to get the girls to get on the same page and keep thinking that no matter what the score is, we're still in the game," said Flores, a senior captain.

"I think the goals that we scored kind of helped us believe that we were capable of coming back, and I think it did. I think we did pretty well the second half. The first half, we needed a couple of tweaks, but the second half I think we came out stronger."

Roosevelt totaled 32 shots on goal to Northwestern's 17. Wildcats goalkeeper Melissa Soriano had eight saves while Lady Raiders goalie Zosia Nicholson finished with nine. Isabella Gandolph, a junior attacker, also netted five goals along with three assists to help Roosevelt to the big win, and midfielder Jeanette Betke pitched in with three goals and two assists.

"As you saw in the second half, they really brought it together. First half, I think they were a little scared. They just had to get their heads in the game because it's our first official game, so they were a little nervous," said Northwestern Coach Jeremy Beller, who is in his first year as head coach. "We kept losing the draw. They (Roosevelt) get possession, and they kept running it up, and our defense wasn't set up correctly but (in) the second half, we fixed all that."

Eleanor Roosevelt's Camille Lorente was a crucial component in the Lady Raiders' scoring run in the opening 25 minutes during a high school girls lacrosse match against Nortwestern on March 23. The senior midfielder led the way with five goals and three assists to defeat the Lady Wildcats 20-7.

The Wildcats can use this loss as a learning experience, Beller continued. Collecting ground balls and passes and winning draws were areas that hurt Northwestern in the first half and must be improved moving forward, Flores said.

"Because if we had the possessions, we had more chances to shoot on goal," Flores said. "Some missed opportunities, but we'll work on it."

The Wildcats will take on C.H. Flowers next on March 25 at 5:30 p.m., then hosts Parkdale on March 27 at 5:30 p.m. Roosevelt hosts Laurel on March 25 before facing off against rivals Bowie on March 27; both games are scheduled for a 7 p.m. start time.

Terps shower in goals on No. 16 UNC Tar Heels

COLLEGE PARK – Career performances by sophomore Logan Wisnauskas (bottom right) and Anthony DeMaio (top left) were more than enough to lead the No. 4 University of Maryland men's lacrosse team to a thrashing 16-9 victory over No. 16 North Carolina on March 23 at Maryland Stadium.

After surrendering the first goal in the opening two minutes of the contest, Maryland (8-1) responded quickly with DeMaio scoring three goals in eight minutes, for his first hat trick in a Terps uniform.

The San Diego, California native added his fourth goal in the second half, establishing a new career high. DeMaio finished the game a career-high five points after assisting in two goals.

Meanwhile, Wisnauskas would be the catalyst for Maryland's seven goals in the second period. The Sykesville, Maryland native was unstoppable in midfield all game long, setting up his teammates for easy scoring opportunities and finishing up his chances as well. He scored two of his four goals during the Terrapins second-quarter run.

"Both of those guys are more dynamic this year," Maryland Head Coach John Tillman said, "so if you don't slide to them and you leave them one-on-one, they can make some things happen."

Wisnauskas added four assists, setting up a new career-high in points (8) for the sophomore. One of those assists went to senior attacker Louis Dubick who capitalized in converting two circus goals. The Churchill High School alum would give Maryland an eight-point advantage heading into halftime after scoring his second goal off an alley-oop play from Kyle Long with 19 seconds remaining. Dubick completed his third hat trick of the season with a goal in the third quarter.

After halftime, senior Timmy Kelly scored two of his four goals in the first five minutes to start a mini-comeback for North Carolina (6-3). The Tar Heels would also score three straight, unanswered goals in the first four minutes of the final quarter. However, Maryland continued its possession-based offense to give the defense rest and hold on to the win.

With the victory, Maryland has won three straight games and have defeated two ranked teams before starting their Big 10 Conference schedule. They will hope to continue their dominating play when they host No. 1 Penn State on March 31.
