Rockville Cop Pleads Guilty To Assault

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

A Rockville Police Officer pleaded guilty to assault charges on Monday five months after he started a drunken brawl at a local restaurant.

As part of an agreement with prosecutors, John Ferguson pleaded guilty to two counts of second-degree assault for the December incident at Clyde's Tower Oaks Lodge in which Ferguson sexually harassed a woman, threw a glass at her husband and slapped another woman in the face.

"He is embarrassed, ashamed and sorry for any harm he caused anyone that night," said Ferguson's attorney, David Martella. Ferguson declined to speak to the press.

Prosecutors in the case recommended an 18-month suspended jail sentence, two years of supervised probation and the dismissal of two of the four assault counts. Under the recommendations, which the judge will consider during a sentencing hearing next month, Ferguson would also have to undergo a substance-abuse evaluation and anger-management treatment, and would be prohibited from working in law enforcement.

Martella said while Ferguson pleaded guilty, he does not remember specifics about the incident.

1 PTA cluster on the hunt for $200K

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

Members of the Richard Montgomery PTA Cluster are trying to raise $200,000 for improvements to the new Richard Montgomery High School, which has not even been completed yet, leaving some parents to wonder why the county council recently announced it moved state money for school construction to other areas of the budget.

"The Capital Budget needs of Montgomery County Public Schools are extensive and expensive," wrote Janis Sartucci, a former Churchill PTA Cluster Coordinator, in an e-mail to the county council. "Please do not rob our children of Capital Budget funds. Any Capital Budget funds, no matter how insignificant they may seem, will go a long way to make a better learning environment for county children."

The council recently learned that the county would receive an unexpected $12.4 million of extra state aid next year for the school system's Capital Improvement Program, the funds used for school construction. The council is expected to take $7.85 million of that money and put it toward the school's operating budget next year to help bridge a longstanding budget feud between County Executive Ike Leggett and the school system, said Neil H. Greenberger, spokesman for the council.

Some councilmembers said they were worried about taking money away from construction funds, however.

"How we feel about our children is really conveyed through our school buildings," Councilman Marc Elrich said at a budget hearing on Tuesday.

The school system does not keep records of PTA fundraising activities, but funds raised in excess of $50,000 for school improvements must be approved by the Board of Education. Glenda Rose, administrative secretary to the board, said that this had happened "only twice."

"It is a boatload of money," said Margaret Chao, a coordinator for the Committee to Upgrade Richard Montgomery High School, the taxexempt entity created by the PTA for fundraising. "It's something that the school board feels is extra. But it's something - we met with Mr. Carrasco [principal of Richard Montgomery] and the school - and they said that this is what we need...It's not something extra. These are things the school has told us we need."

The money Chao and others hope to raise will be used for two purposes. First, Chao said that the PTA wanted an LCD projector in every classroom. Each projector costs about $1,000, and there are about 100 classrooms in Richard Montgomery, Chao said.

Second, the PTA wanted a foreign-language lab to be added, Chao said. A foreign-language lab is a room with computers and other equipment to help students learn foreign languages, and it can be used for other

County gives farmbill lukewarm support

Each week, The Sentinel revisits a memorable story from our archives.

The Montgomery County Council on Tuesday voiced lukewarm support of the pending Farm Land Assessment Bill, after brushing aside proposals that it seek amendments to shrink the leeway afforded property owners who would benefit by the proposal.

The board acted after lengthy debate, during which Mrs. Stella B. Werner tried unsuccessfully to obtain approval of two separate proposals which would have the effect of terminating tax benefits extended to owners of farm land under conditions of inflated land values.

The measure House Bill 391, now pending before the Legislature provides that land actively devoted to farm or agricultural use shall be assessed on the basis of such use, and shall not be assessed as if the land were subdivided. Sponsored by Del. Blair Lee, III, it amounts to reenactment with corrective amendments of a similar bill ruled invalid by the Court of Appeals last year.

Termination Suggested

As a means of averting tax revenue loss from agricultural property deemed suitable for development, Mrs. Werner first proposal that the law be amended to terminate the agricultural assessment on land upon its inclusion within a sanitary district. The accessibility of public sewer, she contended would automatically increase the value of the property since it would be potential subdivision acreage.

Councilman Stanley B. Frosh expressed doubt that "farm land would cease to be farm land merely because of its inclusion in a sanitary district," but he said he would support Mrs. Werner's motion in principle. It was defeated, however, by a 5-2 vote.

Alternative Rejected

Mrs. Werner then proposed an amendment which would terminate the agriculture assessment "when farm land ceases to be farm land," the criteria to be determined in language prepared by the county attorney. This motion, however, failed to draw a second.

The decision to support the present bill came after the council rejected a suggestion by Frosh that it take no position on the measure pending further study for the purpose of drawing up an "effective" farm land assessment measure. He proposed that the county attorney be sent to Annapolis to inform the Senate Finance Committee merely that the council is "interested" in the proposal.

This brought an objection from Councilman David Cahoon, who said he could see no justification in spending public funds to send a representative to Annapolis unless the council were prepared to either endorse or oppose the bill.

Telegram Drafted

The upshot of the long discussion was a decision to send a telegram to the Senate Finance Committee (which conducted a hearing on the proposal yesterday) informing the group that the farm land proposal creates "an important tool for the development of Montgomery County."

In a formal vote on the proposal, which came from Councilman Joe M. Kyle, Mrs. Werner dissented.

The council's action was rapped by Darius V. Phillips, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Fair Taxation, which had advocated amendments to prevent the speculators from benefiting from the low agricultural assessment.

A funny thing happened on the way to the forum...

by Roger Mursick

Well, I'm back in Amsterdam. So far so good. I haven't been hit by a trolley car, bicycle or a person. I have been hit with a few insults though. One of them was from a deli owner as soon as he heard me speak.

"Americana!" he cried.

I thought he was guessing my favorite Starbucks drink. He guessed that I was an American as soon as I said hello. It's funny how everyone here knows that I'm an American as soon as I open my mouth. Maybe because it's the way I said "Hi!" with an American accent.

He introduced himself as being from the country that destroyed your president Buussch. I replied, "You're American too?"

He looked puzzled - or more puzzled than he already looked when I walked into his shop. An older man walked in behind the storeowner and me, and he immediately began conversing in Farsi. All I understood was "Americana." Right away the old guy gets in my face and begins telling me how many languages he speaks.

"I speak five languages, all fluently!" he shouted.

I said, "Great! Then you'll understand me when I say, 'Get the f#@$ out of my face!'"

His assault continued as he claimed, "Americans don't even speak English properly. You're yak, yak, yak! I'm from Neww Yorrka!"

Now there are more guys coming out of the back room of what I thought was an empty deli/terrorist cell. They're all talk-screaming whatever it is they speak. I'm in the middle of my own mini war of words with these filthy bastards and I'm holding my own, too. I'm not budging one inch.

All the while I'm taking potshots at their former hero Saddam and his lovely progeny. I'm asking them why they're hiding in Amsterdam and not back at home making Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs) like the rest of their clansman. I guess it's so they can look at all the porn they want to look at without having their eyes pulled out of their sockets.

In fact, I'll take an espresso and three IEDs to go, Hadji! Hurry up, you cowards. Run away from your own country and leave the heavy lifting to the Americans, will you? Hah!

Well, I'm on to Finland tomorrow. And I hope there aren't any cowards living there as well.

I noticed when I went through security at Dulles that the people we're looking for are the very same people doing the screening. If we can't find them when they're standing in front of us, then we're never going to find them.

Well, I'm on business and a bit of a vacation, so I'm closing this out. See ya when I return next week. Your ambassador-at-large, Roger

Powell tosses hat in the ring for Rockville Mayor

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

Citizen activist Drew Powell announced his candidacy for mayor of Rockville Monday afternoon, criticizing in the process his only opponent, Rockville City Councilwoman Susan R. Hoffmann, as well the city's planned development policies.

"For some who have bought into another vision, the loss of Rockville's hometown character is a necessary sacrifice to external pressures," Powell said. "It is increasing clear that such a sacrifice will come with costs to Rockville citizens, not only of the burden of increased taxes and fees to support the development industry, but also the cost of destroying our community as we know it today, while gaining little in economic or environmental sustainability."

Powell, who is current director of Neighbors for a Better Montgomery, a non-profit political action committee, said his campaign would not accept donations from the development industry.

"I'm not anti-developer or antidevelopment," Powell said. "I truly believe that developers, for example, have every right to contribute to campaigns and every right to be involved in every level of government, just as citizens do. I don't believe that they should have a greater voice or should be granted more access than regular citizens. I think that what we've lost in Rockville to some extent is the arms length relationship that we need to maintain with the development industry. I believe that the relationships are a little too cozy, and there are conflicts of interest there as well."

Powell said that Hoffmann had a conflict of interest between her day job in Silver Spring and her role as an elected official in Rockville.

"I believe it is a conflict of interest, perhaps not a legal one, but it is a conflict of interest in the sense that my opponent, Susan Hoffmann's day job, is to promote the interests of Silver Spring," Powell said.

Since 1995, Hoffman has been a manager of marketing and communications at the Silver Spring Regional Services Center, which functions as a source of government services for the Silver Spring and Takoma Park areas. According to the Rockville city Web site, "The Center includes the Silver Spring Redevelopment Office, established to implement and monitor the redevelopment and revitalization of downtown Silver Spring as a 'town center.' She collaborates daily with the development team, governmental agencies, and other key private sector players such as the Powell did not offer any specific evidence of a conflict of interest but said Hoffmann's job required her to help Silver Spring compete for the same county money as Rockville.

"I think those two jobs are in conflict with each other, especially when it comes to county and state resources," Powell said.

Hoffmann said her work in Silver Spring held no conflict of interest.

"It's not a conflict of interest because nothing that I do with Silver Spring has anything to do with Rockville, and nothing that I do in Rockville has any overlap or impact in Silver Spring," Hoffmann said. "I have no interest in how the budget is spent; that's done by the council. I'm not a political appointee, I don't serve at the pleasure of anyone; I'm a merit employee. I have no impact how the budget is spent...I'm just a cog."

Powell held a rally to launch his campaign, attended by about 25 people, in front of the County Office Building on Maryland Avenue on Monday. Rockville City Councilwoman Anne M. Robbins opened the rally for him.

"I see grassroots citizen activists, not big-money people, people who work very hard to be here," Robbins said. "Drew is a friend of mine and a citizen activist, and those are two words I don't use lightly."

Montgomery County Councilmen Phil Andrews and Marc Elrich also attended the rally, though they did not speak at the podium.

"He's definitely a credible candidate," Andrews said.

Elrich expressed a similar view. "He's got a more sensible view of growth," Elrich said.

County Executive Ike Leggett made a brief appearance at the rally, though only after Powell had finished speaking and many people had left. Patrick Lacefield, a county spokesperson, said that Leggett's presence did not imply support.

"Drew [Powell] is a friend and a supporter, but Executive Leggett is staying out of it [the race]," Lacefield said.

Besides Neighbors for a Better Montgomery, Powell is a self-employed telecommunications consultant. In addition his position on development, Powell also said that Rockville residents could expect a cap on property taxes if he is elected.

"It's pretty easy to get used to living that high on the hog, as I've stated in the past, and I think that we need to live within our means, and there are ways to do that," Powell said. "This is not just an election-year promise that I'm going to cut your taxes. There are things we will do that will cut your taxes."

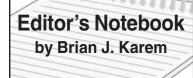

Jacques Gelian, a 39-year Rockville resident who attended the rally, said he liked Powell's stances on taxes and development, but that alone wouldn't get him elected.

"The fact that he's not Susan [Hoffmann] isn't going to get him elected," Gelian said. "She's got name recognition and a lot of money, and he has to get past that."

OPINIONS & VIEWS

The Ghost of Bryan

As the world goes mad genuflecting at the feet of recently departed Jerry Falwell, I can't help but be reminded of a similar situation involving the late William Jennings Bryan.

"The best verdict the most romantic editorial writer could dredge up, save in the eloquent South, was the general effect that his imbecilities were excused by his earnestness," H.L. Mencken wrote about Bryan.

True, Mencken knew Bryan well, and had covered many a story about the man. Mencken, you could argue, had a great vantage point from which he could separate the wheat from the chaff as it were.

"Was he sincere when he bellowed against war, or when he dreamed himself into a tin-soldier in uniform, with a grave reserved among the generals?"

Mencken asked it of Bryan, but just as easily could've been speaking about Falwell.

Yes, some editorial writers have described Falwell as a "General for the Right" and pontificate about the "Great man" and his position in history.

"We are deeply saddened but look forward to that great and glorious day when we will join him to sit at the feet of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, Jesus Christ. Dr. Falwell was a great Christian statesman, a visionary who recognized decades ago that Christians had the moral duty to be involved in our culture and that included the political arena," wrote Rev. Louis P. Sheldon, Chairman of the Traditional Values Coalition.

The talk of Falwell's sincerity fatigues me as much as the talk of Bryan's sincerity fatigued Mencken. If Falwell was sincere, "Then so was P.T. Barnum," claimed Mencken of Bryan.

Falwell will be remembered for his "Moral Majority" and what a mockery it made of real American Values. "The Moral Majority is Neither" was a popular lapel pin when I was a younger adult.

Over time Falwell acquired the role of elder statesman while never doing anything statesman-like.

His defense of so-called Christian values seemed anything but Christ-like. His ability to demonize his opponents was scary and seemed vindictive - from a Christian perspective.

But the eulogies continue to babble on about his great influence over the electorate.

On that score, facts do show that Falwell may have indeed bestowed a lasting effect on the populace, but like the aftertaste of too much Coca-Cola, it will soon fade at least those who desire logic can only place their faith in such.

The simple truth is that we've seen Falwell's type before - seemingly earnest, ready to preach peace and love while denouncing those who disagree with him.

The hardest part is that you cannot argue against a faith or denounce it without seemingly becoming the demonthe "Real Believer" preaches against.

Such is the fate of anyone, including myself, who wishes to look at Falwell's impact on society objectively.

His black and white, good versus evil, universe was one of fiction - and of the worst sort.

He seems, already, to be condemned to history as a man of absurd and obtuse beliefs - while at the same time a man who seemed always convinced in the righteousness of his own cause.

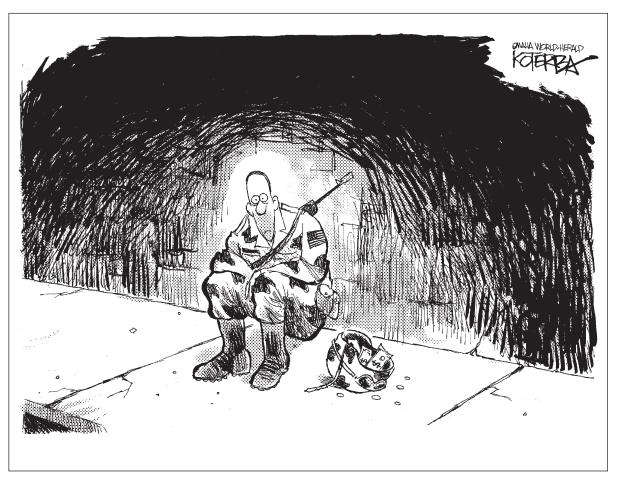

When asked by a reporter if he felt he was being used at times - after all politicians would play to the hard right and then modify their stance once in office - Falwell said he wasn't bothered at all. He merely would pick up the phone and call the right people to get things done.

That shows an unbelievable amount of faith in one's own power — and a lack of humility that is staggering.

The only other lobbying group I've ever heard with that much self-confidence is the N.R.A - and that's another story.

In the end Fallwell, like Bryan, couldn't be president, but "he could at least help magnificently in the solemn business of shutting off the presidency from every intelligent and self-respecting man," Mencken said of Bryan.

Again, he could just have easily been speaking of Falwell.

Celebrating the month of Older Americans

By Gloria Lawlah, Secretary of the Maryland Depart. of Aging Special to the Sentinel

May 1st marked the beginning of a month-long tribute to older Americans. For forty-four years, our nation has paused to honor older Americans during May. During this special month, the ongoing contributions of our older citizens are highlighted with a national proclamation issued by the President of the United States and with activities and events planned in communities across the country.

The State of Maryland joins the nation in observance of Older Americans Month. To officially kick-off the month, Governor Martin O'Malley has issued a proclamation designating the month of May as Older Marylanders Month in our state. The proclamation honors the more than 800,000 Marylanders, age 60 and over, for the many contributions they have made and continue to make to the progress and development of the State of Maryland.

Older Marylanders Month is an opportune time to re-emphasize Governor O'Malley's commitment to Maryland's older residents, and to enhance an awareness of the many resources available to them. More and more we hear that the overwhelming preference of our citizens is to remain at home for as long as possible and to be able to make choices as to how and where they live as they age.

In keeping with this commitment, a priority of Governor O'Malley and the Maryland Department of Aging is the promotion of preventive programs and services that postpone or prevent the need for costly nursing home care. These programs and services include: Senior Care, which provides coordinated, communitybased in-home services to seniors with disabilities; Senior Assisted Living Group Home Subsidy Program, providing low- and moderate-income seniors, who might otherwise be in a nursing facility, with access to assisted-living services in small group homes; Home Delivered Meals, for persons who are socially isolated and homebound; Congregate Housing Services Program, which combines shelter, daily meals and in-home services for frail older persons; and the Medicaid Home and Community Based Waiver Services for Older Adults, which allows services which are typically covered by Medicaid only in a nursing facility, to be provided to eligible persons in their own home or assisted-living facility. All of these programs and services enable older adults to remain in a community setting, even though their age or disability would warrant placement in a long-term care facility.

The number of older Marylanders is increasing. Individuals over the age of 85 are the fastest growing segment of the population. This number will grow statewide from 66,902 in 2000 to 164,975 by the year 2030.

Until recently, it was considered a rare phenomenon for a person to live to be 100 years of age. That has changed in the past several years as many more people are reaching the century mark. A surprising fact is that a number of these individuals live independently-which dispels the view that persons of advanced age are more likely than not to be institutionalized.

On May 10, 2007, 76 centenarians (the oldest being 108), along with their relatives and friends, were honored at the 15th Annual Marvland Centenarians Recognition Luncheon. The luncheon, co-sponsored by the Maryland Department of Aging, Social Security Administration, Baltimore City Commission on Aging and Retirement Education, Community College of Baltimore-Catonsville and The Beacon Newspapers, paid tribute to the many contributions the honorees have made to the State of Maryland and acknowledged these "oldest of old" who teach us how to age gracefully.

There are many views on how we can prepare for what will be a diverse wave of seniors, whose ranks are growing as a result of Baby Boomers who will begin turning 65 in 2011. The baby boomers will account for 23 percent of the State's population or an estimated 1.6 million seniors.

Point taken, but my son cuts my grass

To the editor;

OK seriously! As if reading the annoying letters from the protesters wasn't enough, now I have read of them torching the Day Laborer Center.

Three words... GET A LIFE!

Is this really what you are consuming all your time and efforts into protesting? As a life long resident of Derwood, I will tell you that nothing has changed since the trailer was built. It really makes me laugh to drive down the streets of Derwood and think these residents who more than likely are having their lawn cut or their home additions built by these day laborers are the same people crying over it being there at all. GET OVER IT!

To the editor;

I just want to say one thing about the day laborer center: Who cares?

That's music to deaf ears, unfortunately

To the editor;

Last summer I testified about the loss of chorus classes at the middle school level in Montgomery County Public Schools. Last summer the number of middle schools that would be without chorus teachers in the fall reached into the teens.

The natural consequence of that loss was predicted to be that high schools would then have no one to recruit for chorus classes and then their chorus programs would also disintegrate at the high school level.

Congratulations to Blair High School on their nomination for a Cappies Award in the National Capital Cappies program that honors high school theater programs. Blair is new to this award program and should be very pleased to have garnered a nomination. There are over 55 high schools in the National Capital Area that participate in the Cappies program.

Now the bad news for next year. The Blair Chorus program has disintegrated due to lack of students and there will be no chorus classes next year.

What hope will Blair have for building their musical theater program and reaching for additional nominations in years to come?

As predicted, when the chorus teachers were taken away from the middle schools such as Silver Spring International Middle School (a school that feeds into Blair High School) the pool of students at the high school level dried up and the Blair Chorus program is gone.

We try to teach our children about the consequences of their actions. When will the adults learn?

J. Sartucci Potomac

That's innocent until PROVEN guilty

To the editor;

The police officer who shot the unarmed teenager should be removed from the police force and should be sent straight to prison.

How can anyone justify shooting an unarmed person - especially a teenager?

Why doesn't the chief of police do something about it now instead of waiting? Where is your outrage?

B. Salther Damascus

Maybe not you

To the editor;

What's the point of writing a column about baby boomers being ready for AARP? I'd rather read Roger Murisck. He's at least funny.

The last thing I want to be reminded of is my looming battle with adult diapers.

Please don't bother me with that horrible aging garbage again.

LEGAL MATTERS

Those pesky absentee votes

In recent years it seems that the courts have been asked more and more to intervene in the election process. Gore v. Bush, which went all the way to the Supreme Court and ultimately decided who would serve as our president, is the most famous example. But Maryland's highest court has also had to deal with such issues, as is demonstrated by the recent opinion in Fritszche v. Maryland State Board of Elections.

This opinion explained a ruling made a week after the November elections, upholding a trial court's decision to deny relief to a voter who sought to have her absentee ballot counted. The opinion states that Fritszche, a Maryland resident who was away at college, wanted to vote in the general election by absentee ballot. Fritszche said that she requested such a ballot in August, but the County Board of Elections had not mailed it in a timely manner. She received it on the day before the election but could not get it postmarked until Election Day itself, Nov. 7.

Under Maryland law as established by the State Board of Elections, an absentee ballot must be mailed before Election Day in order to be counted. The legislature empowered the board to establish regulations for elections, and the absentee ballot rules were adopted, including the mailing date requirement. The suit was filed on Fritszche's behalf Nov. 6, seeking an injunction that ballots mailed on Election Day be counted or that her ballot at least be preserved until the courts could rule on this challenge to the voting regulations.

The petitioner argued that her rights to vote under the Maryland and U.S. Constitutions had been violated. The trial judge denied the request, indicating that there was no sufficient evidence to interfere in the board's decision. She filed an expedited, but the Court of Appeals upheld the trial court's decision within a week. The court released its full opinion on the case last week.

The chief judge who authored the opinion noted that there is no constitutional right to an absentee ballot. He reviewed the Maryland statutes creating the Board of Elections and its power to enact regulations to protect the integrity of the electoral process. In order to show that the absentee ballot deadline was unconstitutional, the petitioner would have to show that the rule was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." It was clear that the board had acted within the scope of its authority in enacting its rules.

The court found that there was very little evidence of a problem with late mailing of the ballots - and indeed, the petitioner could only show that she received her ballot late. Under the circumstances, the court said it simply would not second-guess the decision of the board and compel it to count non-compliant ballots.

This illustrates the reluctance of the courts to intervene in the election process and the high standard a voter would need to meet to challenge vote-counting rules.

The FHA home mortage finally comes of age

Congress recently passed H.R. 1852, the Expanding American Homeownership Act of 2007. The act is a move forward for a 73-year-old program called the Federal Housing Administration, also known as the FHA. The recent legislation was devised in the spirit of the FHA and aims to assist millions to achieve home ownership.

The FHA mortgage program (administered through the Department of Housing and Urban Development since 1965) was created in 1934 when about 10 percent of Americans owned their homes. At a time when homebuyers needed a 50-percent down payment to obtain a three-year balloon mortgage, the FHA's progressive mortgage programs provided a spark for the nation's stagnant housing industry, according to Housing and Urban Development's website, www.hud.gov.

Through the years, the FHA provided progressive programs to assist those in need. The FHA took part in financing military housing in the 1940s. During the 1950s and 1960s, the FHA made funds available for adult, handicapped and low-income apartments.

When rising inflation and energy costs threatened many apartment buildings in the 1970s, the FHA made emergency funds available to assist in keeping these properties operational. In the 1980s, when lenders pulled out of oil-producing states because of falling home prices, the FHA offered mortgages to those who could not otherwise buy a home.

H.R. 1852 comes at a time when the mortgage industry is in crisis and home ownership is threatened for those who need financing alternatives. The bill expands the mortgage program to offer more financing options as well as increasing FHA mortgage originators.

Reforming the FHA mortgage program will expand the program and allow homebuyers who do not qualify for a conforming loan (Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac) to have access to subprime lending alternatives. The FHA mortgage program will be expanded by increasing loan limits, eliminating the 3-percent down payment requirement and implementing a risk-based pricing system.

When homebuyers do not qualify for a conforming loan, they turn to a sub-prime lender. Unfortunately, many sub-prime mortgages have high interest rates and other possible unfavorable terms. By increasing FHA loan limits in high-cost areas, these homebuyers would possibly be able to obtain more favorable mortgage rates and terms through FHA.

Additionally, many first-time homebuyers do not have the funds for a down payment or closing costs. These homebuyers are typically driven to the sub-prime mortgage market as well. However, eliminating the FHA 3-percent down payment requirement will allow many more homebuyers to obtain a FHA mortgage as well.

Many credit-worthy homebuyers who do not qualify for conforming mortgages due to mitigating circumstances are also forced to use sub-prime lending. Implementing risk-based pricing may allow many of these homebuyers to obtain a more favorable mortgage through FHA.

Presently many mortgage brokers do not originate FHA mortgages because of the restrictions and rigorous qualifications. However, increasing mortgage broker participation by reducing broker requirements and eliminating mandatory auditing would increase homebuyer access to the FHA program.

The expansion of FHA programs may seem counterintuitive in a time when the industry is in turmoil. However, these reforms to a venerable housing program are welcomed by many as being reminiscent of the FHA's legacy of commitment to home ownership.

FEDERATION CORNER BOE does poorly in court

By Wayne Goldstein MCCF President

G. began to wet her pants and had to wear diapers, .made violent and hypersexual writings, told her mother that she was hearing voices instructing her to harm herself, and struggled with memory and motivation... In a 58-page opinion, the ALJ [Administrative Law Judge] found that S.G. suffered from an emotional disturbance - namely, schizophrenia and that this emotional disturbance adversely affected her educational performance in a regular classroom... S.G.'s psychiatrist testified that S.G. and students like her with schizophrenia are not 'able to cope well with... the usual stresses in an ordinary classroom' and 'do best when they're in a low level stress, a lot of support, a lot of structure,' so that if S.G. were returned to the mainstream public school 'eventually, probably sooner rather than later, [S.G.] would be hearing voices again.'

"The Board [of Education] analogizes S.G. to a student with cancer and quotes its own witness for the claim that one would not 'treat schizophrenia with special education any more than you would treat cancer with special education."

Welcome to the Or-wellian world of the due-process hearing for the children of parents who claim that their children need special-education services. There is a dauntingly complex process to having children with various learning and other disabilities evaluated and placed in an appropriate educational environment. This can involve negotiation between MCPS and parents. When parents want more than MCPS is willing to offer, they can seek a hearing before an administrative law judge, whose decision can also be appealed by either MCPS through the BOE or by the parents to federal

Just this week, as part of the final budget work sessions for MCPS, one of the deputy superintendents talked about the issue of MCPS legal costs related to such hearings. She stated that her doctoral thesis done in the early '90s dealt with how four state public-school systems handled such appeals. She claimed that most such hearings these days involved parents who demanded that their children be placed in special private facilities that cost an average of $50,000 per year and could perhaps be placed there for as long as 12 years.

As with almost every claim made by senior MCPS officials these days, nothing should be taken at face value. However, even if this statement were shown to be true and MCPS could demonstrate that its solution was as good as a private placement, the individual case of S.G. stands out as a complete repudiation of this week's claim as to what these facts actually are. Initials are used for students caught up in this process to protect the student's identity, but this is the only protection this child has received from MCPS and BOE.

What comes across from this opinion, written by three judges on the U.S. 4th Circuit Court, is a school system willing to say anything - no matter how ludicrous - just to win, and a school system refusing to take no for an answer in a case that no reasonable person could possibly support. After the administrative law judge, a judge from the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland and the three judges from the U.S. 4th Circuit Court all ruled in favor of the child, MCPS wants all of the other judges on the U.S. 4th Circuit Court to now hear the case.

The decision calls for the child to remain in the special school that her parents placed her in several years ago. MCPS argues that the child can do just as well in a regular classroom because she did well right up to when she started hearing voices and received a diagnosis of schizophrenia. To suggest that the impact of a severe, chronic mental illness like schizophrenia on a student's education is similar to the impact of cancer is absurd in a number of ways, especially since the student has clearly benefited from the small, specialized class rooms that keeps the worst of the symptoms under control.

However, the shamelessness of MCPS, under the auspices of the BOE, is even worse in challenging the appeal made to the Maryland State Board of Education by the parents of special-needs children who oppose the closing of the special-education learning centers. I documented in my March 22 column what was said by MCPS to a special session of the County Council Education Committee with other councilmembers in attendance.

"[MCPS]' deputy superintendent on Thursday conceded that the district's hotly contested decision to cut self-contained learning centers for special-education students was made in the wrong way... The deputy superintendent apologized for the manner in which the public had been excluded from making the call on the sensitive budgetary matter. 'It was a huge mistake of the school system,' she said of the fact stakeholders have not been kept fully abreast of the proposal."

This confession was followed by justifications for this action by senior MCPS officials - whom no councilmember found to be credible. Nevertheless, these unsubstantiated justifications make up the response of the BOE to the parents' appeal, which also challenges the standing of these parents to make the appeal in the first place.

I have found that legal documents that are submitted to judges often can tell a more straightforward truth than other kinds of documents because people and institutions usually are reluctant to insult the intelligence of judges by presenting poor arguments lacking persuasive facts. While I've not seen the BOE legal documents for the hearing or the parents' appeal, the responses of a series of judges in this case and the examples of BOE arguments cited in the appeal indicate that BOE may treat legal actions as behavior not subjected to public scrutiny, thus allowing it to say or do whatever it wants without fear of a negative community response. If BOE were required to post on its website its court submissions, the cost to appeal each case, and facts that show why fighting an appeal is appropriate from an educational and cost perspective, then we might see a change in what BOE chooses to fight and what arguments they make when doing so.

This could mean that one of our most vulnerable educational populations, special-education students, will have a more objective, equitable opportunity to get the educational services that they really need. This could also mean that greater accountability in the often-unseen world of the courtroom will cause greater accountability in dealing with stakeholders in the boardroom and elsewhere.

County looks to increase numbers of voters on rolls

By Payal Patnaik Special to the Sentinel

The county wants you.

Since May 5 the Montgomery County Board of Elections has been conducting voter-registration drives on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. until June 30 as part of an initiative including students that aims to reach more voters in the county. About seven to eight dozen people have participated in these registration drives the past two weeks, according to Gilberto Zelaya, the community outreach liaison for the Montgomery County Board of Elections.

This effort will enable voters to change their registration well before the next election. Many residents in the county have to update their registration because they have moved or need a party affiliation change, Zelaya said. When residents submit a request to forward their mail to their location, the post office is legally not allowed to give information to the Board of Elections to change information.

Rose DelBorrello, who previously lived in Prince George's county, picked up a registration form last Saturday from a voting drive in Damascus.

"We moved here so my husband and I have to change our registrations," she explained.

Voters like DelBorrello would be registered in Maryland but in the wrong precinct, which would keep them from voting for district-relevant positions.

"These drives facilitate voters who historically procrastinate to register," Zelaya said.

By conducting registration drives far before elections, the board hopes to reach people on the election off year and enhance a connection between voting and the community.

The major parties have already held forums to inform residents of the possible candidates for the coming elections, Zelaya said. Registering voters and informing them of the elections will bring awareness to issues long before the elections and relay updated information, such as that the primaries have been moved a month ahead of schedule to Feb. 12, 2008.

Students from grades six to 12 aid election registration with their parents - students can earn student service-learning hours while assisting their parents who have a license to register voters.

According to Zelaya, this type of future vote initiative will promote a community feel to the voting process.

"Voters have lost touch - voting is a responsibility. We hope to facilitate implementation through the kids who would be interested in how the process works and the parents could become involved," he said.

Akash Chandra, a sixth grader at Rocky Hill Middle School, volunteered at a voting drive May 12 at a Safeway Supermarket in Damascus. His father, Karam Chandra, said that in an information meeting, "Dr. Zelaya talked about how people need to register as they move county-to-county and don't follow up with their change of address. He said that in this state, some people miss voting day or are registered in the wrong county and never get notified."

His mother, Anu Chandra, found an announcement of the volunteering opportunity from a website and decided to inform her son of earning service hours through this drive. Her son was interested and signed up with his father to participate.

She said, "This will teach him about the elections process and how it works. I wanted him to volunteer but with a tie to education."

Akash Chandra enjoyed the experience and said, when nearing the end of his shift, "I would definitely do this again."

Police say no suspects in arson attempt at day-laborer center

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

There are plenty of accusations flying, but so far no one has been charged in the attempted arson of the Derwood day-laborer center.

Police say there are still no suspects in an action that has now been classified as a hate crime, Lt. Eric Burnett, a police spokesman, said.

"We're considering it a hate crime because it was probably done based on the services the center provides," Burnett said. The Derwood center is a doublewide trailer in the County Service Park off of Crabbs Branch Road. Similar centers exist in Wheaton and Silver Spring. They are paid for by the county to provide shelter for day laborers, primarily Hispanic workers, while they wait for employers in need of manual labor to pick them up.

However, some Derwood residents objected when this latest center opened on April 16 because of what they said was the county's implicit support of illegal immigrants, many of whom allegedly make up the centers constituents.

Brad Botwin, director of Help Save Maryland, one of the primary groups against the Derwood center, said he hoped the county would not "point any fingers."

Last week Chief Fire Marshal Mike Love, who is leading the investigation of the incident, said his team was still analyzing the flammable chemical poured on the center's wooden deck, which was ignited sometime in the night before Friday, May 4. Love said he hoped to trace the chemical, probably gasoline or kerosene, back to the store the arsonist purchased from.

Love did not return calls for update as of press time.

The husband, David Bourke, who was at the plea hearing, said he was satisfied with the terms of Ferguson's plea but that more people should have been prosecuted.

"Members of Rockville Fire and Rescue were responsible for a lot, and they got away scot-free," he said.

Montgomery County State's Attorney spokesman Seth Zucker said no additional charges will be filed in the case.

"Police and our office thoroughly investigated the incident, and at the conclusion there was not enough evidence to pursue charges against anyone else," said Zucker

Rockville Police Chief Terry Treschuk said Ferguson would remain suspended with pay until after the sentencing hearing and an internal investigation are completed. Ferguson has been suspended since February, when charges were brought against him, and is living near Gettysburg.

"He is working on starting his own private motorcycle repair business," said Martella.

The sentencing hearing is scheduled for June 6.

Hospital worker arrested

By Stephanie Maruca Special to the Sentinel

A part-time employee at Shady Grove Adventist Hospital in Rockville was charged with two counts of second-degree assault and two counts of fourth-degree sex offense after allegedly assaulting a female patient. Police arrested George Anthony Gravesande, 29, of the 400 block of King Farm Boulevard in Germantown, and charged him May 8, Montgomery County police said.

On May 6 at about 1:15 a.m., a man dressed in blue hospital scrubs awakened a 44-year-old patient, police said. The man claimed he was there to examine the patient. The man then began rubbing and pushing the victim's breasts and placed his hand between the patient's legs. The patient then pushed the man's hands away.

Police said the man left the room and returned about 20 minutes later, stated that he "needed to continue the breast examination" and sexually assaulted the patient a second time.

After his arrest, Gravesande was released on $15,000 bond, police said.

Gravesande worked as a respiratory therapist at the hospital, hospital spokeswoman Marissa Levine said in a statement. The hospital has placed him on unpaid leave pending the outcome of the police investigation.

"At Shady Grove Hospital, we are committed to providing excellent care, and the safety of our patients is paramount. We regret that this incident occurred in our facility," the statement reads.

According to the statement, Shady Grove Hospital is offering their full support to the patient and her family while taking necessary steps to ensure the safety of all hospital patients.

"We are providing our full assistance to the police as they investigate this serious matter," the statement reads. "We are also conducting our own internal investigation into this incident."

Changes in Planning Board traced to Clarksburg

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

Two years after inspectors found hundreds of building violations in Clarksburg, the Planning Board has changed the way it does home inspections in the upcounty town, according to county officials.

During a presentation last Thursday at the board's Silver Spring headquarters, county officials said new homes under construction are now inspected twice a month to ensure they are meeting the county's zoning codes.

Rose Krasnow, chief of development review for the Planning Commission, said since the new inspection guidelines were put in place, officials found one house in violation. She said the situation was fixed quickly.

"It was found to be higher than the 40-foot height limit," said Krasnow. "They took the roof off and lowered it immediately.

"That sounds like a good move," said board chairman Royce Hanson.

In May 2005 officials found hundreds of houses in Clarksburg Town Center that had either been built too high or too close to the road. Continued inspections uncovered more violations in other parts of the town.

The board, led by then-Chairman Derrick P. Berlage, who resigned last year, introduced dozens of reforms in response to the violations. The Montgomery County Council passed legislation to change how building plans are approved in the county.

Officials discussed the new inspection schedule at the end of a status report on development in Clarksburg. The report detailed plans for schools, residential and commercial areas, roads and other projects.

Three more schools, 15 parks, several roads and a two-story library are all planned for the town. In addition, nine more residential areas, including Clarksburg Village, are planned, though less than one-fifth of the homes have been built.

New Library picks up a preservation award

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

It's official. The new library is an award winner.

The new Rockville Town Center library received an award on Monday at the Rockville City Hall from Peerless Rockville, a historical preservation society, for enhancing Rockville's environment and quality of life

"It [the library] provides state of the art services, and a gathering place for community programs," said Peerless Rockville President Joan Zenzen. The library has been open since November 29, 2006. Its curving exterior walls and towers are designed to pay homage to the double helix of human DNA, according to the library's Web site.

County puts final touches on budget

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

After weeks of worksessions and public hearings, the Montgomery County Council is putting the final touches on its $4 billion budget for fiscal year 2008.

The council will vote informally on the budget on Thursday and will take a final vote May 24.

The budget will include money for numerous initiatives, including anti-gang programs and health care for the elderly, and will give the school system a record $1.982 billion.

County Executive Isaih Leggett submitted budget recommendations two months ago. His proposal cut requests from every department, including $20 million from the school system's requests.

"We submitted a budget that acknowledged the realities facing our county now and in the future," said Leggett.

The county is facing a projected $270 million shortfall next year. Combined with the state's projected $1.5 billion structural deficit, the executive said he felt obliged to cut requests across the board.

The county council on Tuesday proposed a revised budget for the school system that would approve all but $6 million of their request, or $14 million more than Leggett proposed.

"It is a revision on the county executive's proposal that goes a little farther toward meeting the needs of the system and the students," said Councilman Mike Knapp, who chairs the council's education committee. The school system's budget, which is roughly half of the total county budget, has been a matter of contentious debate.

"This was truly a budget where we had very, very difficult questions," said school board president Nancy Navarro. "It was really a barebones budget we sent to the county executive."

The debate over the school system's budget overshadowed most other aspects of the budget, which will include money for extended library hours and free Ride-On service for the elderly. It will also grant almost $2 million to the county's Montgomery Cares program, which provides health care to poor and uninsured residents, and $6 million for anti-gang initiatives.

"Normally we would be talking about these things, but the school budget has kind of been the topic of conversation," said Councilman Phil Andrews.

Councilman George Leventhal said the debate over the school system's budget was fueled by bad communication and hoped it would not be as difficult next year.

"My plea for fiscal 2009 is that we not find ourselves in a situation where the county council is scrambling for resources," said Leventhal. "This could have been a less-problematic process."

Andrews warned on Tuesday that, despite all the difficulties the council faced this year, next year would be more challenging.

"Let's all remember that this is not a bad year," said Andrews. "Almost every agency has received an increase at about twice the inflation rate. Next year will almost certainly be harder."

Nine county cops suspended for double dipping

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

Nine Montgomery County police officers have been suspended after they were accused of working as security guards when they were supposed to be working for the police department.

Montgomery County police spokesman Lt. Eric Burnett said the officers have been suspended without pay while the department conducts an investigation.

"We were told that this might be happening, and those officers are on leave until we finish checking this out," said Burnett.

A few weeks ago Grady Management, Inc., a real-estate firm in Silver Spring, told police they thought some officers who were working part-time as security guards were "double-dipping," or getting paid by the county and Grady for the same hours.

The officers turned in their badges, guns and patrol cars on Tuesday and have been put on leave. Seven worked at the Silver Spring station, one worked in Rockville and one worked in Bethesda.

It is common and legal for county officers to work part-time to supplement their income. The entry-level salary for a Montgomery County police officer admitted to the academy is $42,000. A veteran with more than 10 years of experience earns between $65,000 and $75,000 a year. The county has approved more than 950 applications for private security work in the past three years.

"We know we have officers who are working part-time, and that's OK," said Burnett. "But if they're billing us and their other jobs at the same time, that's a problem."

Council bridges budget gap for schools

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

The Montgomery County Council has all but bridged the budget gap between County Executive Ike Leggett and Montgomery County Public Schools, finding a compromise that would give MCPS most of the additional $19.7 million it wanted for next year, said Neil H. Greenberger, a county council spokesman.

"Basically, they [MCPS and the county council] came to an agreement that they can both live with," Greenberger said.

The county council will close the budget gap in three ways, Greenberger said. First, it recently learned that the county would receive an unexpected $12.4 million of extra state aid next year. The council also learned that it had budgeted $6.9 million for this past year's budget that had gone unused, Greenberger said.

Finally, the council asked MCPS to make up the remaining difference.

Faulty refrigerator blamed in latest fatal county fire

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

Investigators think a malfunctioning refrigerator motor may have caused a house fire last week in Kensington that killed two people.

"That's the leading theory right now," said Montgomery County Fire Department spokesman Pete Piringer. "It's still under investigation at this point, but that's what investigators are leaning toward."

The fire, which killed Oskar Craig Reynolds, 88, and his wife Patricia, 84, started in the kitchen in the early morning hours of May 7. When firefighters responded to the house at 3914 Baltimore St. around 2 a.m., they found Oskar outside, steps away from the back door. Patricia was found just inside that door, a few feet away from her walker. Firefighters think Oskar attempted to help his wife escape when he died. An autopsy confirmed that Oskar died of a heart attack.

"Neighbors said they heard him yell out," said Piringer. "We think he was trying to save his wife and had a heart attack in the process." Piringer said Patricia, who was found in the kitchen under a pile of debris, died of smoke inhalation and burns.

The Reynolds were the third and fourth people to die in fires in the county this year. All four victims have been elderly.

"Since 2000 the elderly have accounted for about 50 percent of fire deaths in the county," said Piringer. "It's a disturbing trend."

The rate has been even higher in the last two years. Of the 13 people who have died in fires in Montgomery county since 2005, 12 have been 70 or older.

Historically, fires kill the very young and very old at higher rates than the rest of the population, said Piringer.

"It's the physiological differences," said Piringer. "Reaction times are slower, and in the elderly hearing and seeing gets worse," said Piringer. "Things get out of control before they can deal with it."

In response to the rising rate of fire-related deaths of seniors, Fire Chief Tom Carr and former County Executive Doug Duncan formed the Senior Citizen Fire Safety Task Force in early 2006. The 25-member task force is expected to release a report in the next few weeks that will recommend ways to reduce the rate of death and injury of seniors in fires.

"Any loss of life is tragic, but it is even more so when that death could have been prevented," said Carr. "Prevention and safety first is what this task force is all about."

Piringer said discarded cigarettes and cooking accidents are the two most common causes of fires that kill seniors. In the past two years, burning cigarettes have caused seven of the 12 fatal fires involving elderly victims.

"With cigarettes it can be so easy for something bad to happen," said Piringer. "A person is watching TV, drops the cigarette on their nightgown, and that's it."

Piringer said the elderly are often also at higher risk because they do not have smoke alarms or sprinklers in their homes. The Reynolds did not have smoke alarms installed in their house.

"They lived in that house for 48 years, before smoke alarms even existed," said Piringer. "It's a generational thing."

Piringer said as of last year the county requires all new homes to be built with sprinklers installed, and the county will give residents a one-time, 50-percent property tax credit if they install sprinklers in their older homes.

"The combination of sprinklers and smoke alarms almost guarantees survival," said Piringer.

Survey says: Life in Rockville .... ehhh not so okay

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

A survey of Rockville residents commissioned by the city council has been completed, and some of the news is not good.

According to the survey, Rockville residents feel less safe walking in their neighborhoods, fewer residents felt city employees were courteous and the average rating for overall quality of life decreased. In addition, residents east of Route 355 rated their quality of life significantly lower than the rest of the city.

"It's a real wake-up call," said Councilwoman Phyllis Marcuccio, who lives in east Rockville.

The good news is that almost all - 43 of 57 - categories surveyed, from ease of travel to appearance of city buildings, rated above the national average, and most of those ratings remained unchanged or were within the survey's margin of error, said Tom Miller of the National Research Center, the private company hired to conduct the survey, at a city council meeting Monday night.

"There weren't many changes," Miller said. "But where there was a change, the change was usually not up."

For example, the average rating for quality of life in Rockville was 71 out of a perfect 100, which is above the national average. But that number dropped from a 74 in 2005 and a 76 in 2001.

"Maybe on a national basis it's fabulous for Rockville, but that's still not acceptable," Marcuccio said.

Mayor Larry Giammo noted that areas east of Route 355 might be the cause of the downward trends. Those residents rated their quality of life below the Rockville average, at 65, compared with 73 for residents between Route 355 and I-270, and 75 for people west of I-270.

Giammo asked Rockville city manager Scott Ullery and his senior staff to conduct research - Ullery suggested focus groups as one example - on why the areas east of Route 355 rated so much lower than other areas, and to report back to the city council in three months with suggestions.

According to the survey, which has been conducted biennially in Rockville since 2001, citizens listed traffic, crime and safety, and redevelopment as the three categories most important to them. Residents only rated street lighting, a traffic-related issue that was "very high in importance" to them, at 54 percent.

Miller told the council that in many ways Rockville was already ahead of other cities his company performed research for because Rockville's ratings were mostly very high. But some categories, such as access to affordable housing, ease of travel by walking and bicycling, and walking alone in neighborhoods during the day and night, were below the national average.

"This survey doesn't give us a lot of answers," Ullery said. "But it sure does give us a lot of questions."

Rockville city council keeps pay unchanged

The Rockville city council won't get a raise after all.

The council voted 3-2 on Monday to keep their salaries unchanged, despite the recommendation of a special compensation committee that the council increase their own pay.

The committee's proposal would have raised the yearly salary for each councilmember from $20,600 to $30,000 for fiscal year 2008, then by $5,000 more in the two years after that. The mayor's salary would have increased from $25,750 to $35,000 in 2008, and then another $5,000 in each of the following two years.

"I think that's an inappropriate amount," said Councilwoman Susan R. Hoffmann, referring to the compensation committee's proposal. Hoffmann introduced the motion to reject the increase, which Councilwoman Phyllis Marcuccio seconded and the council later approved.

By city ordinance, a compensation committee must convene every two years before city elections to review the mayor and council's salaries. The mayor and council appoint the five-member committee.

Marcuccio and Councilwoman Anne M. Robbins noted the political sensitivity of increasing their own pay in an election year, and Marcuccio said she didn't want to have to "worry about it in a campaign."

Hoffmann said that part of the reason she rejected the proposal was that her salary as a councilmember had already more than doubled since she was first elected in 2001, when she received about $9,000 per year.

Mayor Larry Giammo and Councilman Robert E. Dorsey both voted against Hoffmann's motion.

"Rockville has changed a lot," Giammo said. "It's not a rural cow town anymore ... there's a lot of complexity in a city with a population of about 60,000 people and a budget of nearly $100 million."

Giammo, who is not running for re-election, said the salary increase would attract more, better-qualified candidates, and that it was fair compensation for a part-time job that he spent 20 to 25 hours a week on. He added that the pay raise might open the door for candidates that could not ordinarily afford to spend such a large amount of time away from their regular work.

Dorsey said that he had thought about proposing a motion to decrease the council's salary.

"I find this discussion, every time it comes up, to be awkward on both sides of the table," Dorsey said. "Maybe if everyone's unhappy with the decision in the end, that's a good thing." The Montgomery County Sentinel

The New Kid translates over distance and language

By David Cannon Sentinel Arts Critic

While the concept of an immigrant family adjusting to their new life in America is hardly a new theme, the current offering at Imagination Stage The New Kid treats this concept in a novel way. In the process, the play lets us see the story from the eyes of the immigrants in a way few other stories can.

Nick and his family have moved from Vietnam to America and playwright Daniel Foon has them speak English so we understand their thoughts and feelings. But the Americans they encounter all speak in gibberish – a language Foon made up that includes nonsense words and bits and pieces from English, German, French, and other languages. It is probably how our language sounds to a newly arrived immigrant – a mishmash of styles and words spoken fast and usually loud.

It's also an immediate barrier to trying to make friends or simply live in this new country.

So kudos right off the bat to actors Tirnan Madorno as Mench and Dan Crame as Mug, the students in Nick's school. They speak this artificial language throughout the play, wringing emotions and involved discussions from it in a believable manner. Admittedly, some of this new language is easy to pick up – you quickly understand that "parkit" means "sit" and "Presidentes" is "dollars."

Still these two actors create two different and believable students (one befriending Nick, one stubbornly resisting) that interact with each other and other characters, all in this Esperantostyle language. They somehow make this involved theatrical trick look easy and easy to follow. You can always tell what Mench and Mug are thinking, even if you have no idea what they just said.

On the other hand, Brian Lee Huynh as a very sympathetic family unit. Yes, it does help that they are the ones speaking English, but the two actors work well together and make the family's plight something you can identify with. In a nice role reversal, it is the mother who encourages her son as they leave Vietnam and later the son who supports the mother more than once after they arrive in their new home Director Eric

Nick and Jen Plants

as his mother make

Director Eric Ruffin keeps the pace moving swiftly and the play never stagnates despite that artificial language. Elizabeth McFadden's set design imaginatively incorporates screens that are used for Oriental style shadow puppetry for quick scenes of flying airplanes or reminders of Vietnamese villages.

Sometimes theatrical tricks are there just to spice things up or to create an effect. Those effects work best in something like New Kid where they become indispensable to the show. A movie would give us subtitles or (worse yet) have everyone speak English and fake not understanding one another. New Kid exuberantly drops us right in the middle of a strange if rambunctious new world, and it feels as scary and exciting to us as it must feel for Nick and so many other immigrants to this country.

While there is still one more play in the current season (The Araboolies of Liberty Street), Imagination Stage has announced their 2007-2008 season. The season begins and ends with modern classics: Rudyard Kipling's The Jungle Book and Michael Ende's The Neverending Story. There will be the modern fairy tale Lost and Fondling and a new baseball-flavored musical Looking for Roberto Clemente. For the holidays, a new musical from the creators of Seussical called Twice Upon a Time, featuring adaptation of The Emperor's New Clothes and Dr. Seuss' The Lorgy

The New Kid continues at Imagination Stage in Bethesda through June 3. For more information on this show or the 2007-2008 season, call (301) 280-1660 or visit their Web site at www.imaginationstage.org.

 $\longrightarrow$  Dance  $\Longrightarrow$

Washington Ballet's pas de deux with Shakespeare

By David Cannon Sentinel Arts Critic

The best part of the 7 X 7 series at the Washington Ballet is that it is held in their England Studio on Wisconsin Avenue. This intimate space allows you to watch the dancers up close in a way the Kennedy Center never allows you to do. You can watch the dancers sweat and hear them breathe.

As usual, this 7 X 7 series has a theme for seven dances, each approximately seven minutes long. And this year, Shakespeare was the theme as part of the ongoing Shakespeare in D.C. festival. Interesting concept, even if one cannot possibly shoehorn The Winter's Tale into a seven-minute dance. These seven dances range from average to exceptional. The best

7 X 7 Shakespeare
The Washington Ballet

ones are the dances that stray the furthest from their Shakespearean roots.

In fact, the first three dances, all based on Romeo and Juliet, showed this 7 X 7 concept at its best and weakest. Thus Stephen Petronio's DeCapulet is not based on Shakespeare per se, but a recent book of Letters to Juliet, covering thousands on letters sent to Verona each year asking for romantic advice. Yes, I realize that Juliet is a fictional character and centuries old, and the ending of her story is not a particularly happy one – people still write to her asking for advice.

So as Luis Torres and Kara Cooper read these letters, four other dancers provide a counterpoint to their questions. Couples form and reform, and go on their solo way. It was a fascinating opening piece, as was the following The Sorrow of Lady C., where Brian Reeder imagines what Lady Capulet must be thinking after the events of the play are over. As other dancers re-enact portions of the famous story, Laura Urgelies quietly, and with minimal motion, shows us someone whose world has collapsed around them.

But if that was a psychologically insightful sketch, Lovers Speak was paper-thin. Basically just a pas de deux between Brianne Bland and Zachery Hackstock, it was well executed by the dancers but little more. It was a generic dance segment with a Bard title stuck on it, and it did not linger in one's memory.

But after intermission, two Hamlet-inspired pieces did linger in the memory. For this most psychological of plays, Gathering his Thoughts had four male dancers play off Hamlet's famous soliloquy "To be or not to be." It was the most fascinating "music" of the evening as choreographer Karole Armitage took Richard Burton's famous reading of the speech and processed it using lots of modern technology as a quartet of dancers worked in counterpoint to that. Meanwhile Cathy Marston's Whispers was another psychological segment based on Hamlet and his mother with other characters on the side.

That made the final piece in the first half the most interesting. Trey McIntyre bravely took on a play by the Bard rarely done even in theaters – Titus Andronicus. His two-part piece centers on Goth queen Tamora and her two sons, first in mourning and then plotting their revenge. Dressed in what can only be described as a Victoria Secrets bridal gown, Sona Kharatian went from sorrow to wicked ecstasy as the vengeful Queen. This might be a piece with a Shakespeare title stuck to it, but there was nothing generic about it.

The Washington Ballet has announced their 2007-2008 season, which will be in a variety of venues since the Kennedy Center Eisenhower Theater will be undergoing renovations. So at the Warner Theater will be full-length ballets such as The Nutcracker (Dec. 6-23) and Prokofieff's Cinderella (May 7-11) as well as Where the Wild Things Are in November. In their more intimate England Studios will be their next 7 X 7 series (Love Duets) in February and then Peter and the Wolf in March. The remainder of the performances will be at the soon to open Harman Theater next to the Shakespeare Theater.

7 X 7: Shakespeare continues at the Washington Ballet's England Studio on Wisconsin Avenue through May 20. For more information, call (202) 258-6394.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY DELINQUENT TAXES — NOTICE OF SALE

NOTICE OF TAX SALE
OF REAL ESTATE
IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY,
MARYLAND

Notice is hereby given that the following is a list of real property for which taxes, refuse charges, WSSC charges, special improvement levies, service charges, and other fees or charges are due and in arrears to Montgomery County, municipalities in Montgomery County, and to the State of Maryland. The property owners listed are those that appear on the County tax rolls at the time of publication. If these amounts, plus interest and penalty due, are not paid before Monday, June 11, 2007, the Tax Collector will, on Monday June 11, 2007, in accordance with the provisions of the laws of the State of Maryland and Montgomery County Maryland, proceed with the public sale and accept sealed bids for the tax liens pertaining to the properties and/or property groups listed below. The tax sale program enables the County to collect all unpaid property taxes, charges, and fees. When a property tax lien is sold and the total amount due is paid by the purchaser, the County's lien on the property passes to the purchaser. The list of real property upon which amounts are due and in arrears is arranged in random groups for the purpose of bidding.

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE BIDDERS/PURCHASERS

- 1. The Tax Sale will be held on Monday, June 11, 2007, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Eastern Time (ET).
- 2. The tax sale is open to the public. Prospective bidders should investigate the properties. There is no warranty, expressed or implied, that a property has a marketable title or that it contains the area of land which it is said to contain; therefore, the purchaser assumes all risks in that regard. Each tax lien pertaining to the parcel of property taken to tax sale will be sold as an entirety. No property tax lien will be sold for a sum less than the advertised price. Purchasers will receive a certificate of sale for each real property tax lien as required by law.

- 3. At the time this advertisement is prepared, all delinquent tax accounts from the various election districts will be divided into property groups consisting of approximately the same number of properties randomly selected. During the advertising period, May 17th through June 7th and up to the tax sale date, properties can be removed from groups predicated on payments received and other events deemed necessary by the County. Therefore, the final number of properties within each group can be less than advertised. The property groups will be numbered for identification.
- 4. In accordance with the legislation passed in 1998 by the Maryland State Legislature, the County utilizes a sealed bid process to conduct the tax sale. Bidders can bid on the tax lien in one property group, multiple property groups, or on any number of individual properties in the same or different groups. Bidders bidding on full groups will be given priority over bidders seeking to purchase individual properties.
- 5. All bids must include the following information to be considered:
- The name, address and daytime telephone number of the bidder
- The name to appear on the tax sale certificate.
- For group bids, the group number must be provided. For individual property tax lien bids, the tax account number of the individual properties as well as the associated group number must be provided.
- The bid must be expressed as a multiple (bid factor) of the full cash value of each property or, for group bids, all the properties in the group. For example, a group bid factor of 0.45 would indicate that the bidder is bidding 0.45 times the full cash value on all properties in the group. If a bidder bids on an entire group, then the bid factor must be the same for all individual properties within that group. If a bidder bids on multiple groups, then the bid factor may be different for each group. If a bidder bids on individual properties within a single group or multiple groups, then the bid factor may be different for each individual property.

6. Bids that do not include all the preceding information are not responsive. In the case where the bids are identical for the same group of properties, the winning bid will be selected by lottery no later than 9:00 a.m. ET on Tuesday, June 12, 2007.

7. Bids must be received between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. ET on Monday, June 11, 2007. No bids will be accepted before or after those hours. Bids may be submitted by express mail, overnight or courier delivery, or in person. Bids should be addressed to the attention of "The Tax Sale Administrator," Division of Treasury, 255 Rockville Pike, Suite L-15, Rockville, MD 20850. Bids may also be submitted via e-mail to taxliensalebid.finance@montgomerycountymd.gov. All attachments must be MS Windows compatible. Faxed bids will totalebid.finance@montgomerycountymd.gov. All attachments

8. All successful bidders/purchasers will be notified by telephone no later than 10:00 a.m. ET on Tuesday, June 12, 2007. Notification will include the tax sale amount and the amount due for the high-bid premium. Bidders who are subject to a lottery will also be notified at that time. The successful bidder/purchaser is required to pay the full amount due as advertised plus any high-bid premium for all winning bids with payment received by the County no later than 4:00 p.m. ET on Tuesday, June 12, 2007. The method of payment is electronic funds transfer. The County will confirm with its bank the receipt of the payment. Wire payments must be directed to Wachovia, ABA #0550-0320-1 for credit to Montgomery County Maryland Depository Account No. 2000001048768

- 9. The high-bid premium is 20% of the amount by which the bid exceeds 40% of the property full cash value. In the event that the computation results in a negative high bid premium, the premium amount will be set to zero.
- 10. Successful bidders/purchasers who do not make payment for the full amount due for all winning bids by the specified time are considered non-compliant and excluded from the auction. At that time, the County reserves the right to make the award to the next highest bidder until all tax liens are sold. The Collector reserves the right to take appropriate action under TP 14-817(a)(3) including but not limited to the right to refuse to accept bids that are not made in good faith and the right to bar a purchaser or holder of a certificate from participating in future tax sales held by the County. At the County's option, property groups and/or individual properties not sold will be offered for sale, at a later date, to the highest bidder until sold.
- 11. There may be properties sold for which taxes were paid prior to the sale date or other circumstances which render the sale invalid or void. The County reserves the right to invalidate or void a sale at any time. In the event the County determines that a tax sale is invalid or void the County will, as the exclusive remedy available to the purchaser, reimburse the purchaser the tax sale purchase price paid, without interest, and any applicable high bid premium paid, without interest. Events that may invalidate a tax sale include, but are not limited to, bankruptcy filings prior to the tax sale, transfer errors on the assessor's records that cause the failure of notice to the proper property owner or sale of incorrect property, payment of taxes prior to the tax sale, issuance of a revised bill by the assessor, value changes by the assessor, erroneous service charges, service fees, special improvement levies, WSSC charges, or refuse charges. The tax sale bidder/purchaser assumes all risks of any irregularity of the sale and has no other remedy against the County. The County is not liable for and will not pay the purchaser any interest, costs, expenses or attorney fees associated with any invalid or void sale.

- 12. Tax sales are complex proceedings and the County recommends that you seek legal advice prior to participation in the annual tax sale.
- 13. The owner or other person having an estate or interest in the property tax lien sold has the right to redeem the property tax lien at any time until the right of redemption is finally foreclosed by an order of the Circuit Court (Tax Property Article, Section 14-827, Annotated Code of Maryland).
- 14. For tax lien sale information, please visit the County website at www.mont-gomerycountymd.gov/taxliensale
- 15. By participating in the Tax Sale, the bidder/purchaser agrees to accept and be bound by all of the terms and conditions of this Notice of Sale.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, except water and sewer charges, will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, state and county transfer taxes, title insurance and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustees' Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied, unless otherwise required by statute, court rule or the Deed of Trust. In the event the Substitute Trustees are unable for any reason to convey title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be to request and receive a return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

Compliance with terms of sale shall be made within ten (10) days after final ratification of sale or deposit shall be forfeited to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above-scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Substitute Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaultant purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Substitute Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser.

Bronfman's virtuoso concert

By David Cannon Sentinel Arts Critic

For their final concert at Strathmore this season, the Washington Performing Arts Society hosted a very intriguing recital. Pianist Yefim Bronfman is one of the great soloists performing today, with a strong command of technical skills that are very lyrical and rarely flashy. Yet his program at Strathmore consisted of some of the most technically demanding and fantastically structured pieces out there. It was as if a Chopin specialist decided to perform a Liszt recital.

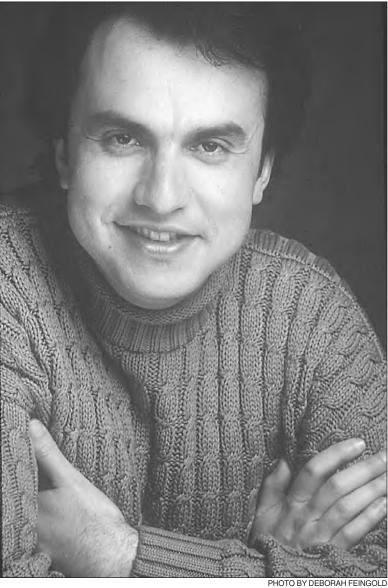

Yet Bronfman was a strong advocate for all these pieces. Start with the opening Beethoven Sonata in E flat Major, Opus 27 Number 1. This work is seldom performed, overshadowed by its sister work, Opus 27 Number 2, the world famous Moonlight Sonata. Yet the E Flat major work is individual in its own way: a quiet pastoral work with an attitude. The quiet opening suddenly erupts with a fast central section, and the flowing scherzo has these sudden, loud off beats. The slow movement is short, leading to a furious finale. These are four short and very individual movements, yet Bronfman kept the piece in focus and made it feel like a whole.

The second work was a change in the announced program, the Schumann Fantasie was replaced by the same composer's Viennese Carnival. But the Carnival is just as much a fantasy – the long opening movement is a rondo with this perky opening tune that keeps popping up throughout. Four very short movements follow this long opening – a mix of playful scherzos and intimate lyrical movements. Again Bronfman kept the rhythms sharp and this sprawling piece in focus, letting the short lyrical moments shine.

B o t h these early romantic pieces have their difficulties, but after intermission were two late Romantic pieces that are famous for their technical demands. The three pieces of Ravel's Gaspard de la Nuit are formidable works for the pianist, with Ravel often using three musical staves for all the passage work in these pieces. "Ondine" is typical impressionistic water music while "Scarbo" is a grotesque movement as one could imagine and Bronfman brought out the desolate mood of this piece very well.

Then another virtuoso show-piece – Balakirev's Islamey is famous for being so treacherous to pull off, and it is usually heard in its orchestral guise. Bronfman was in his element here – he made those fast outer sections with their endless repeated notes and rapid runs sound almost easy and that large central lyrical section really sang.

The Washington Performing Arts Society has announced their 2007-2008 season and it includes an expanded schedule at Strathmore, as well as other venues. At Strathmore WPAS will initiate a Piano Masters Series that will include artists such as Murray Perahia and Alfred Brendel. The Celebrity Series includes such artists as the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra (with Bronfman returning as featured soloist), violinist Gil Shaham, the Emerson String Quartet, and baritone Dmitri Hvorostovsky.

At other venues, including the soon to open Sidney Harman Hall, WPAS will host such acts as violinist Joshua Bell, the Merce Cunningham Dance Company, singer Eartha Kitt and conductor Kurt Masur leading the Orchestre National de France in Bruckner's Seventh Symphony.

You Only Get Better

by Connie Briscoe, Lolita Files and Anita Bunkley

By Terri Schlichenmeyer Sentinel Book Reviewer

They say that life begins at 40. They say that you're only as old you feel.

They say that women are like fine wine: they just get better with age.

"They" might be right – and then again, "they" might be wrong.

But in the case of the new book You Only Get Better by Connie Briscoe, Lolita Files and Anita Bunkley, life as a well-past-30-something woman is truly something to savor. Sometimes, though, it just takes a new life challenge to prove it.

Maxine wasn't in bed the night the phone call came. She was sleeping in the chair after another boring "session" with her husband. Curtis always fell instantly asleep, and Maxine couldn't spend another minute listening to him snore. But in the novelette "The Perfect Life" by Briscoe, the phone call jolted Maxine wide awake.

Aunt Cassie died and the funeral would be the following week. Could Maxine drive her mother to Newport News, Virginia? That was more than Maxine could handle because she knew Tonya would be at the wake.

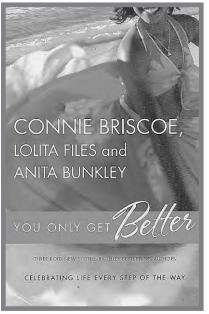

five years ago, Max's best friend and cousin Tonya stole Maxine's fiancé, and Max hasn't forgiven her yet. But when the ex-fiancé shows up and shows his true colors, Maxine sees that the life she's been mourning isn't so perfect after

Twenty-

In Three for the Road by Files, Lilibelle's husband Adam tells her that he's fallen in love with someone at work, and Lilibelle decides she needs to get away. Proving that she's not as high-maintenance as Adam claims she is, she jumps in her Mercedes and heads for Vegas.

But Lilibelle finds trouble that she can't handle. When a truck runs her off the road in Ohio, a Good Samaritan helps her out. The two of them discover they're headed for the same place, and they decide to drive together. But is being someone's "road dog" such a howling good idea?

For all of her 40-something years, Danika has had her eye on being Cranstar's first African-American executive, and now it looks like the job could be hers. With a new look and a new position, life is good. But in the novelette This Time Around by Bunkley, a friendly Texas takeover puts Danika in a tough spot. Will L-O-V-E be next on her resume?

Think you don't have time to read a whole book?

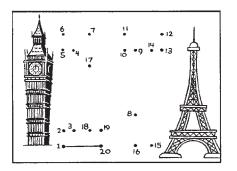

Think again. You Only Get Better is easy to finish because its three stories are easy to read and easy to enjoy. In just a few pages, Briscoe, Files and Bunkley write for the older woman who's been around the relationship block a time or two, but younger women will still love reading these novelettes. My only complaint is that – at about 100 pages each – the stories were way too short.

If you're looking for something breezy and fun and you don't have a whole lot of time, look for You Only Get Better. When it comes to light romances, it doesn't get any better than this.

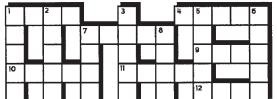

My only complaint is that — at about 100 pages each — the stories were way too short.

This horse race is considered one of the most important in the world, and the first of three major races in the U.S. held each year. The other two are the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes. AMELIA EARHART t's that time of the year when you might be spending more time on your bicycle. If so, make sure that both you and your bicycle are ready for the adventures that lie ahead. Here are a few safety reminders to get you started right.

Bicycle Safety

- Number One Priority: the Helmet. Your helmet is the most important piece of equipment you will need other than the bicycle itself! The most common and the most serious of injuries that occur while you are riding your bicycle are to your head. Make sure your helmet fits right, keep it fastened, and for a fun addition, add some reflective stickers to it.
- Making your Bike a Lean Machine! That bike was probably sitting around most of the winter. Before taking it out, make sure that the seat, handlebars and wheels fit tightly and are adjusted to your size. Oil the chain, and inspect it from time to time to make sure that it is tight enough. Check your brakes. If they are sticking, adjust them. Do you have enough reflectors on your bike to make it easily seen, even in the darkness? Finally, check your tire pressure to make sure that they are inflated to the recommended pressure. Pressure guidelines are usually found on the sides of the tires.
- Dress Like a Professional. Wear bright clothes that can be seen. If they are reflective, so much the better. Wear shoes, even if it is a short trip to the pool. Riding gloves help you grip the handlebars and look cool, too! Avoid wearing headphones and listening to music. You might not be able to hear a car horn or shout that provides you a necessary warning.
- Ride Where It Is Safe. If possible, use bike lanes. If not, know where you should be on the street or on the sidewalk. Constantly check for cars that may be backing out of driveways. Don't assume that they see you. Finally, if you want to ride safely, watch out for big puddles (you don't know how deep they may be!), wet leaves, curbs, little kids and all those other things that pop up on your bicycle journeys.
- Road Rules. If you are riding in the street, you must follow the rules of the road. Follow traffic signals, use the right-hand side of the street, use your arm to signal when you are turning, call out when you are passing people ("On your left!"), and don't ride too close to cars so that if a door opens you won't be injured.

Riding your bicycle is a lot of fun, but being safe keeps it fun. Now, get going!

THE FOREVER AND EVER STAMP

On May 14th, the U.S. Postal Service increased the cost of their basic first-class stamp to 41 cents. That stamp will send a letter, up to one ounce, anywhere in the United States. They also introduced the "Forever" stamp. What's that? The Forever stamp can be used for sending a letter no matter what future stamp cost increases there might be!

Suppose that next year the Postal Service increases the cost of their first-class stamp again. You won't have to add the additional stamps necessary to put the correct amount on the envelope if you have the Forever stamp. Stick on the Forever stamp and pop it in the

Gaithersburg upsets Damascus 7-5

By Josh Bowman Staff Writer

It was supposed to be a matchup between the big bats of Damascus and Gaithersburg's ace pitcher Kevin Brady. But when the dust settled after the 4A West Region baseball quarterfinal game on Monday, Gaithersburg was the winner in a 7-5 upset that hinged on Brady's bat, not his arm.

The top-seeded Swarmin' Hornets,' who averaged 10 runs per game during the season, never got their hitters going and were hampered by errors in the outfield while the Trojans were lifted up by Brady's two-run single in the fifth inning after finding themselves down 3-1 early in the Hornets' Nest.

"We're not usually so good at getting back up when we're down," said Brady. "We tend to give up. But we didn't do that today."

Damascus scored four runs in the third and fourth innings to take a 5-3 lead and looked as if they would ride the momentum to a win. In the third,

Shane Boyd scored on a double by Mike Serafinas, and Kevin Molesworth brought Kenny Voight home on a sacrifice fly. Serafinas also scored on a single by Kevin Story.

In the fourth, Lee Hertel walked and was later brought in on a single by Story to give the Hornets the 5-3 lead

"It did look like Brady was losing a little bit of his heat in that inning," said Damascus head coach Jim McManus, "and we were able to get some runs in."

But Brady, who logged 13

strikeouts in the game, took his frustrations out at the plate in the fifth, tying up the score with a two-run single that brought in Kory Smigoki and Justin Burbank. Brady's pinch runner Lucas Mills later scored on a sacrifice fly by Nick Vergelli.

The Hornets put two runners on base in the bottom of the fifth, but Brady got out of it with two strikeouts and in infield grounder to end the inning.

"We're playing for ourselves right now," said Gaithersburg head coach Jason Woodward. "We didn't get a bye, and some of the kids were a little miffed by that. So we're trying to prove 'em wrong."

Watkins Mill edges R.M. in LAX opening round

By Drew Pierson Staff Writer

Watkins Mill attacker Grant Kaleikau, spinning and twisting like a flicked nickel, scored all four of the Wolverines' goals last Thursday in a first-round playoff victory against Richard Montgomery, 4-2. But Wolverines' coach Joey Collins said the key to the game lay elsewhere.

"He's [Kaleikau] done a tremendous job for us this year," Collins said. "He did score four goals. But tonight you've got to talk about the defense."

The Wolverine's defense made possible the team's lowest-scoring victory of the season. Wolverine defenders allowed a paltry 22 shots on goal for the entire game, a number their teammates had surpassed by halftime. Their strategy was no secret: the Wolverines played simple man-toman coverage, but they played it well.

Making things easier for them, the Rockets, 3-9 in the regular season, rarely created or capitalized on fast-break opportunities. One of their only two goals started with a simple face-off victory, which caught the Wolverines' defenders in transition. Junior midfielder Josh Gorsky scored that goal - the Rocket's last - only 10 seconds into the fourth quarter. Junior midfielder Michael Rosenthal scored earlier in the third quarter on a seven-foot shot from the goal.

That the Rockets' two goals came in the second half did not surprise coach Michael Reiter, who said that the team frequently played more aggressively in the second and third quarters.

"We do that a lot, unfortunately," Reiter said. "We come out flat and then pick it up, which is good; a lot of teams come out flat and stay flat. But unfortunately we have a tendency to come out and not give 100 percent.

Reiter continued, "They [his team] just looked at the scoreboard and realized we were down four nothing, and that's nothing. We scored four goals in two minutes before. They knew we could do it, and I guess the seniors started to realize that they had either 24 minutes left, or they had an entire game [against Gaithersburg in the second round] and 24 minutes left. I think that kind of energized them a bit."

While the Rockets looked revitalized in the second half, it was the Wolverines' turn to look sluggish.

All of Kaleikau's four goals came in the first and second quarters, two and two respectively. The diminutive attacker created space with an impressive array of speed, stick work and head fakes, and a behind-the-back shot attempt in the second showed an equally impressive confidence. The rest of his team showed little of Kaleikau's flair, however, and when he went cold, so did the offense.

Reiter took a moment with his seniors after the game to wish them well after graduation.

"Every season I just have to talk to my seniors at the end, just to tell them I'm proud of them, thank them for four years and wish them the best of luck in school," Reiter said. "I tell them to stay out of trouble, and that I love them."

Collins praised Reiter for his dedication.

"Mike [Reiter] does a tremendous job with those kids," Collins said.
"This is my first year coaching. We battled earlier in the season, and it was a close game, but we pulled away in the end. We have great battles, and I can't say enough about what he does with those kids."

Collins had to check his temper earlier in the game on what he felt was a non-call on a push in the back. The Wolverines were penalized by one of the referees for the outburst.

"That was a total blunder on my part, could have cost the team and everything, but the team stepped up and did a great job during that penalty," Collins said. "I'm proud of them."

Note: Watkins Mill would go on to lose against top-seeded Gaithersburg (12-2) on Saturday, 8-4. Gaithersburg won against Damascus on Tuesday, 12-8, and will play Westminster at home, 7 p.m. on Wednesday.

Twyman makes it official: Ball State and basketball

By Brandy L. Simms Sentinel Sports

After a stellar three-year varsity career on the gridiron, Sherwood senior Deontay Twyman received only one football scholarship offer. Division I-AA Liberty University was the only school that showed an interest in the 5-foot-10-inch quarterback.

During his tenure at the Sandy Spring school, Twyman was twice named an All-Sentinel first-team quarterback after leading the Warriors to a pair of state title game appearances.

After a spectacular basketball season in which he helped guide Sherwood to the 4A state championship, the two-sport star has signed a national letter of intent to play college basketball at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. Twyman said he also received scholarship offers from Robert Morris, Radford and Texas A&M-Corpus Christi.

In March, Twyman led the Warriors to their first state title since 1979. Last month, he was named to the Capital Classic All-Tournament team after scoring 16 points and recording a team-high eight assists in the Capital All-Stars 149-145 victory over the U.S. All-Stars.

Twyman joins a Ball State team coached by Georgetown graduate Ronny Thompson. Ball State finished last season with a 9-22 overall record and 5-11 conference record in Thompson's first season as head coach.

In leading Sherwood to the state title, Twyman averaged 17 points, eight assists, six rebounds and three steals per game in his senior campaign. During the postseason he averaged 20 points per contest and scored a game-high 26 points in Sherwood's 61-38 state championship victory over Magruder.

"Deontay is an explosive scoring guard," said Thompson, a D.C. area native who played high school basketball at Flint Hill Prep, where he was coached by current Montrose Christian head coach Stu Vetter. "Deontay knows how to compete. He can create and hit shots. I am excited to add Deontay to our program."

Gaithersburg rallies to beat Blair in opening round

By Brandy L. Simms Sentinel Sports

SILVER SPRING — After trailing Blair by a run through five innings, Gaithersburg erupted for 11 runs in the sixth inning en route to a 13-3 victory over the Blazers in a first-round playoff game last Friday.

Gaithersburg jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning before Blair scored a pair of runs in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead. Gaithersburg tied the score in the top of the third inning, but Blair jumped back ahead 3-2 in the bottom of the third.

The Trojans broke a 3-3 deadlock in the sixth inning when junior Kevin Brady belted a three-run triple into left centerfield to give Gaithersburg a 6-3 advantage.

"We were kind of down the whole game, but then we just got the rally started," said Brady, who no-hit Blair 1-0 during the regular season, "and once we get going, it's hard to stop us."

Gaithersburg's onslaught continued as the Trojans forced Blair to make two pitching changes in the inning.

"I think we imploded," said Blair coach John Macdonald, whose team finished with a 6-13 record. "We've had a couple innings like that earlier in the year."

Brady was sensational on the mound as he struck out four batters and gave up no hits in two innings. The Trojans also got solid pitching performances from Brian Dutka and Mike Harman.

At the plate, Justin Burbank went 3-for-4 with two triples, and Nick Vergelli went 2-for-3.

Macdonald, one of Montgomery County's longest tenured baseball coaches, said it was the worst season he's endured at the Silver Spring school.

"The 2,000 people that read it in the paper are going to think that we got blown out, and that's just not indicative of how the game was," said Macdonald. "We didn't dominate, but we led that game for every bit of the way until that one half inning."
