Although not in the picture, there was another black cub. Tribal Wildlife Biologist, Steve Judd, said that cubs are normally born in January or February...and that around the end of March the Mother comes out of her den. The mother and her two cubs are presently living in the Omak District on the Colville Indian Reservation.

D-DAY STARTED FRIDAY, JUNE 29—Personnel from the Public Works Department worked together as a team to put up the "Indian Dome" for the Colville Confederated Tribes' Annual 4th of July Celebration to be held this year from June 29 to July 8 at the Circle Grounds, Nespelem, WA. As the years passed, the beams for the Dome gradually sank into the ground...causing the Dome to be uneven at different places. To correct this problem, the beams had to be taken down, and then reset. At the far end, the men on the bed of the truck see to it that side of the canvas goes into the beams' slots... the two men on the top of the scissor lift see to it that the bar they're holding stays in place so the three ropes can go up and down toward the pickup...and the man at the end of the pickup controls the wrench that he uses to pull the canvas toward him. There are ten (10) canvas sections, and each canvas is approximately 15-feet wide. As of early Wednesday morning, June 27, nine (9)-teepees had already been set up!

RODEOS—Margaret Condon, 95, was the "Oldest Woman" at the Colville Tribes' 2001 Annual Elders Day Dinner held on Friday, May 25, at the Nespelem Community Center. About 480 American Indians from the different states and Canada attended the Dinner. Some of today's Tribal Elders from the Omak District could tell you stories about Easter Sunday at St. Mary's Mission. After mass, most people had their lunch by Omak Creek, and then headed for Kartar Valley to attend or to participate in the rodeo put on by Margaret and her late husband, Smith Condon.

ALL AROUND CHAMPION—Shawn Best competes in the Saddle

Bronc contest held Saturday, June 9, at the "Yakama Nation 44th Annual All Indian Rodeo", White Swan, WA. After the two day event ended, the Colville Tribal Member was announced as the winner of the "All Around Cowboy" title. Shawn placed first in the Bareback Riding event, and took second place in the Bull Riding contest. Shawn won his first Bareback Riding title in 1987, won again in 1990 and 1992, and in 1996 was one of three performers who tied for first place.

University of Washington Faculty visit the Colville Indian Reservation

NESPELEM, WA.—University of Washington Faculty Members arrived by bus here on Thursday, June 14, at the Catholic Longhouse to have lunch with Tribal and BIA Officials from the Colville Indian Reservation.

The delegation consisted of 30 full time faculty members and librarians, who have been at the University of Washington for three years or less.

This trip marked the fourth time that the University has held a Faculty Field tour, and its purpose is to introduce the new faculty members to how different each part of the state is in regards to the people, businesses, size of towns, etc.

The five day tour started on Monday, June 11, and the first day covered 285 miles (Seattle to Vancouver); 2nd day—Vancouver to Yakima; 3rd day—Yakima to Spokane; 4th day—Spokane to Winthrop; and the last day— Winthrop to Seattle. The tour covered approximataely 1,021 miles.

Terry Knapton of the Colville Tribal Enterprise Corporation (CTEC) gave a brief presentation on the history of CTEC, mission, and the relationship that exists between the Tribe, Colville Business Council, and CTEC. Terry is the Chief Operating Officer and Vice-President for CTEC.

Some of the things that Terry mentioned were: CTEC has provided jobs for nearly 1,500 people...in 1999, the payroll was nearly $10-million, making the Colville Tribe the largest employer in North Central Wash-ington...pay $4-million in payroll taxes every year...and that last year 24-students each received $1,000 scholarships. He also mentioned that when you combine both of the University of Washigton-CTEC and the Tribe, that they're the single largest year-round employer for a four county area (Ferry, Grant, Douglas, and Okanogan).

LYNN PALMANTEER-HOLDER

On hand to greet the UW group was Colville Tribal Member, Lynn Palmanteer-Holder. Earlier this year, she took over the position of Director

Okanogan Region Community

Lynn's office is at Wenatchee Valley College-North, Omak, WA Her position was created to fill part of UW's mission, which is to conduct research, offer higher education, and to serve rural communities such as Okanogan County.

NESPELEM, WA.—Four members of the Colville Confederated Tribes' Business Council lost their positions during the Primary and General Election held this year.

The first one to lost his seat was Omak District (Position #1) Councilman Ted Bessettee during the Primary Election held on Saturday, May 5. Shirley K. Charley with 194 votes and Dale Clark with 186 votes beat out Ted who had 158 votes.

After the Absentee Ballots for the General Election were finally counted after a long day on Thursday, June 28, it was discovered that three more Councilmen weren't elected. Losing their seats were: Lou Stone who lost his seat by 66 votes to former Councilman Joseph A. Pakootas for Position #2 Inchelium District...John B. Stensgar had 67 more votes than Oscar "Doc" Mellon in the Keller District...and finally JoAnne C. Leith, a former Council person, had 370 votes to Mathew Dick Jr.'s 274 votes for Position #1 Nespelem District.

The three Council people who retained their seats on the Council were: Kevin Rosenbaum, Inchelium District; Gene Joseph, Nespelem District; and Margie Condon Hutchinson, Omak District.

The new rookie on the Council is Shirley K. Charley, who beat out former Councilman Dale Clark, 326-307 (votes), for Position #1 Omak

On Thursday, July 12, the present members of the Council will meet for the last time to take care of any unfinished business. After that, there will be a break, and then the remaining Council members will reconvene the Regular Session meeting. The seven people who won a seat during the General Election will then be sworn into office.

WELCOME—The Chairperson of the Colville Business Council, (L) Colleen Cawston, greets faculty members of the University of Washington as they arrived for a luncheon held at the Nespelem Catholic Longhouse on Thursday, June 14. The Faculty members were on the fourth day of a Field tour of Washington State that covered over 1,000 miles.

COUNCIL CORNER

that they had lost children to car

Indian Country By Mike Marchand

Supreme Court Tax Decision:

On May 29, 2001, the U.S. Supreme Court made a strong antitribal sovereignty ruling on the tribal government's power to tax non-Indians. The case is called Atkinson Trading Co. v. Shirley et al. In a previous case, called Montana v U.S., the court ruled that with two exceptions, tribes lack civil authority over the conduct of nonmembers on non-Indian land within a reservation. Montana set up a legal framework to test tribal sovereign powers in a case by case basis which balanced the rights of the non-Indians. This Montana case concerned the tribe's right to regulate non-Indian fishing within the reservation. In this case, the Navajo Nation had been imposing a hotel occupancy tax on non-Indian owned resort, called the Atkinson Trading Company, located within the reservation on fee lands. The resort owners protested and brought their case to court. The lower courts agreed with the tribe and supported the right to tax. But the Supreme Court was unanimous in its rejection of the tribe's sovereignty in this case and based its findings on the precedence set up in the Montana fishing case.

Montana Exceptions: Unless there is a specific power granted by treaty or federal statute, civil regulatory powers fall under the framework set forth by Montana, and now the Atkinson Trading Co. case for taxation issues. One, there must be a consensual relationship. For example, anyone doing business with a tribe could be required to consent to the tribe's laws and regulations as a prerequisite to doing business. Or when a tribe grants a right of way for certain uses, it could specifically retain jurisdiction if it drafted the document the right way, probably. The second exception is that a tribe may exercise jurisdiction over non-Indians on fee lands when that conduct threatens or has some direct impact on the tribe's political integrity, economic security, or health or welfare. In this case, the court ruled that neither exception applied here. They stated that the guests staying in the hotel did not consent to being taxed. They also ruled that the second exceptions did not apply either. This is a very narrow interpretation of the existing laws. The court has been very anti-Indian in recent years, but I think the case is still surprising in its narrowness to many people. This strikes a big blow against tribal sovereignty and directly affects future policies of tribes. Normally, taxation is a fundamental tool for governments to operate. This case strips away

Buying Land is Even

More Important Today: The bottom line, is that with the anti-Indian legal environment that is a reality in the US Supreme Court, that it is even more important for us to step up our land purchase programs here at Colville. I have always been an advocate for this anyway, but I think this case should make it apparent to everyone that the only way we can guarantee tribal sovereignty and survival is if we own all of our land base. If we own all of our own land then we don't have to worry about having to prove anything to anybody. The court does not question our power to rule over our own lands and our own people.

Arrow Lakes Land Purchase: A press statement was released on May 24, 2001 announcing the tribe's acquisition of approximately 11 acres of land in Canada. This historic purchase marks a major turning point in the history of the tribe. The majority of the Colville Territory was actually located across the border in Canada. Establishing a claim to get these lands and right back have been the issue of concern for many of our people for over a hundred years. Canada takes the position that our people are either extinct or that our rights were rubbed out when the border was created. We have always differed on the interpretation and have been researching this claims case for a number of years. One of the recommendations of our claims attorneys located in Vancouver, B.C., is that we should establish a formal land base in Canada to give us a stronger legal standing in the Canadian legal system. That is why the land purchase was made. The legal struggle ahead still remains a long and difficult one, but this land purchase was and important step. This Vallican site is one of the largest and most ancient of the historic Arrow Lakes region and lies and the confluence of the Slocan and Little Slocan Rivers. Originally, the Arrow Lakes territory extended from the Revelstoke region down to the Kettle Falls area. This is a large territory. The Canadian government wrongly declared the Arrow Lakes people to be extinct in 1956 and arbitrarily took away the reserve. We have been fighting against this decision and are working to get it reversed and to get our traditional homelands returned to the tribe. The land is important to tribal spiritual concerns, and is also important from the standpoint of hunting and fishing and to other natural resources. These are our lands and our people should time goes on. Mary J. Marchand

Memorial Pow-wow:

I just wanted to take this time to once again thank everyone for their support. There were so many people who helped out that it would take the whole tribal tribune to list everyone and to thank everyone, so please accept this thanks. A number of people also came up and told me have the right to return and live there and this trade will likely increase in the future and these territories will become more and more important to our businesses and economies as wrecks and to other causes. I just wanted you to know that you are in our prayers also and that I hope you consider this small event as an honor to you and your lost children also. Statistically, there are more young Indian people killed in car wrecks than for any other racial group and I know almost every Indian family gets hurt by these deaths. Many people donated a lot of time and work and many people donated cash to put this pow-wow and dinner on for the community. We had the Zotigh Singers from Albuquerque come to be host drum and everyone enjoyed their singing and I know they really liked the Colville Reservation and they appreciated the hospitality from everyone. Nine other drums also came and there were over a hundred dancers from all over. We didn't have a lot of big money to pay out, like with the big casino pow-wows, but everyone had a good time and a lot of fun. I personally exploited almost every friend and relative who couldn't run fast enough to get away to help out and everyone did a great job. Butch Stanger and Kim put in many, many hours as the emcee. Vaughn Eagle Bear did likewise. Florence Zacherle, Gail Zacherle, and others put in a lot of work as cooks for four days. Debbie Stanger helped out everywhere. Chairman Colleen Cawston volunteered to be head lady dancer. Dan Nanamkin worked as arena director. Again, there are just too many people to thank, who helped put on a three-day pow-wow, a dinner, and mother's day brunch, and also with the fun run that was held. Also, I wanted to thank the students. Many of her classmates and friends have been helping out. Antoinette Abrahamson took it upon herself to sponsor a shawl dance special at the University of Washington Pow-wow last month. Antoinette is a student and I know she is struggling financially like most students, but somehow she raised money on her own to put on a special for my daughter. I feel embarrassed to be responding to gossip, which is something that I don't normally do, but I heard someone was complaining that I was getting the tribe to contribute thousands and thousands of dollars to my daughter's memorial and to the UW Pow-wow. This is not true, I would never ask if they so choose. Currently, we are the tribe to do anything for me or also importing timber from Canada my family that was not available to everyone in the tribe. There have been many occasions where I could have helped my own family out with my influence as a leader but I have never done so. I don't think this is right, even though my family loses out probably. The support for Mary has been overwhelming and I am very appreciative. I only wish that she were still here. I don't understand why our young people leave like this, but I guess it was meant to be, and we have to struggle on and try to make things better. Graduation Season:

Hutchinson Report By Margie Hutchinson

Dear Tribal Members: I was approached by the Colville Tribal Artist's Association, to go with them before the Omak City Council, to request space in the East Omak Park. The reason they are requesting space is they are trying to raise funds to construct an Art Gallery near the Okanogan bingo casino. They have a design of the sculpture, which is a concrete base of 10 feet wide and 4 feet high. Atop the base are carved wood figures of animals from Indian legends, like the Coyote, Bear, Eagle, Salmon, Wolf, and others. The statue would raise money for the Art Gallery through sponsorships. Individual tiles at the base of the statue would be sold to raise money for the Gallery. The Omak City Council approved the request so now all the excitement, and carving begins.

We were asked to attend a National Foundation for Women's Legislators conference in Washington, D.C. during the later part of May. I chose to attend the Energy Natural Resources, and Agriculture Policy meeting, which was chaired by Rep. Pauline Gubbels of New Mexico. Staff from each of the listed departments came and gave us an overview of the current issues regarding Indian Tribes, and the rest of the Nation. I took this opportunity to inform them, that although we have the Grand Coulee Dam located partly on the reservation we still pay higher electrical rates than anyone else. Then we were given Bush cabinet briefings by: Gale Norton, U.S. Secretary of Interior; Larry Lindsey, Chairman of the National Economy Council; Ann Veneman, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture; and Ms. Leslie Westine, Director of the White House public

We received yet another chance to ask questions, and so we again informed them of the high-energy rates tribal members have to pay, and also to ask them to reach out to tribes to help meet our basic needs. They informed us they were proposing additions to low income energy assistance.

Then we met again with the National Public Law 102-477, (Indian Employment, Training, and Related Services Demonstration Act) to strategize on the takeover of State funding so that the tribe can administer those funds locally. There was much discussion on how to include rather than exclude clients, which I was very pleased to hear. The Feds are finally coming to realize that each tribe is very different, in their culture, geographical areas, governments, etc. Not many tribes have taken over these programs, so we are approaching this very carefully, so that we can streamline and offer more services to our members. One thing is for certain, we need to create more jobs, and so all this training will be beneficial.

Thank you

Spring is graduation time and we have many graduates. CONGRAT-ULATIONS! Graduating is a major accomplishment and your should be proud if your are graduating. You will find that many people do not have the courage and tenacity to finish something that they started. Many people like to sit back and make excuses and complain about everything and everybody from sun up to sun down. But for graduates, you have completed and important goal. Education is very important. Sad to say, many people in my generation are not educated. They gave up too easy. They even feel threatened by people who did have the courage to complete their education. I do not feel this way, because I think you should be proud of what you accomplished. Education is the number one best investment that you can ever make. No one can ever take it away from you. You may want to work for the tribe, you are welcome to try, but if you have a good education, you will have choices and you will have many places where you can live and work at if you want to. If you dropout, your choices will be more limited. I know education is not for everyone, and I know you may still have a good life with a self-education, but I have to say from experience that having an education liberates you and puts you in charge of your own life. So do the best you can. If you graduate from high school, look at college. If you dropped out, go get back in school. I know many, many people, who maybe did not graduate right away. But many of them have returned to school, maybe at an older age, but they saw the importance. The tribe will always have limited opportunities. The tribe will never be able to create the ideal job for everyone who needs one. So this means that you will have to be educated, skilled and self-sufficient to make it on your own in many cases. I feel very honored to be elected to tribal council. However, I realistically know that I probably won't get re-elected back into office forever. A lot of things that happen to the tribe are not in anyone's control, but the Council will likely get blamed. Also, there may be better candidates that come along. I accept that and if I get voted out, I won't feel bad, because I know I do the best I can everyday, and that's the way things are. But I also know that I have an education and I know that I was making a lot more money in the job that I had before, and I know that I can probably get a job somewhere else if need be. One problem that needs to be addressed is the need for a tribal college. In the near future, a tribal priority is the construction of a new school at Paschal Sherman. Another key priority is the construction of three health facilities in the Nespelem, Keller, and Inchelium Districts. Dollars for these projects are being amassed right now, so these are on the front burner, so to speak and these are top priorities. But as soon as these get built, or hopefully sooner, I hope we can address the need for a tribal college. Many of our people have a need for a tribal college and this need is not being addressed by the existing colleges.

Bessette Report By Ted Bessette

The recent financial performance of several of the CTEC enterprises has raised concerns about the precarious position of these entities. A business can afford to operate at a loss for only so long before jeopardizing jobs and assets. What is the plan of top-level CTEC administration, if any, to deal with this predicament?

The following table illustrating the profit and loss from CTEC enterprises for the four-month period from January thru April, 2001, shows that ten of these businesses have been operating in the red for a significant portion of this particular time, as indicated by parenthesis. Only the three tribal casinos, CTSC (construction), and Tribal Credit have operated at a profit during this period.

Annual seasonal slowdowns attribute to a portion of these financial losses, however, one of the primary tasks of enterprise administration and upper-level management is to ensure that a business is performing to plan. If business revenues decline during the winter months, perhaps, adjustments should be made in a timely fashion so as not to place the enterprise in jeopardy.

Too, diversification of the reservation economy is needed to level out the ups-and-down of the revenue steam coming to the tribe. Ir recent years, this has not happened. As a result a great degree of emphasis is placed upon existing enterprises to turn a profit so that, overall, the corporation operates in the black.

Historically, the three tribal grocery stores barely break-even over the course of the year. Yet, the single largest market area on the reservation, namely, the Omak community, lacks a tribal store. If a tribal store were established in Omak, overhead managerial costs and expenses could be amortized over four outlets instead of three, as is currently the situation. Buying power for the tribal stores could be increased significantly to lower cost-of-good for all four tribal stores and, ultimately, the customers in our reservation communities.

In general, with all the comparative advantages enjoyed by tribal enterprises, our tribal businesses should be performing more efficiently and effectively than they are at the present time. Many more jobs and economic opportunities would be realized if the tribe were to exercise more secondary commercial growth and development to go along with our primary industrial entities.

Thank you. Ted Bessett, CBC-Omak

Cawston Corner By Colleen F. Cawston

To the Tribal Membership,

This month I would like to discuss an issue that has been growing in resurgence with our Tribal Membership to exercise their rights of hunting and fishing and gathering off reservation at usual and accustomed grounds and stations. One of these sites is the Icicle River area near Leavenworth, WA. This area is the original homeland of the pisquouse or what is commonly known today as the Wenatchee people.

"Joe remembers many earlyday Indians of the Wenatchee tribe, which he said should be called the Pischouse tribe, and that the Wenatchee River should be called the Pischouse River, because the word "Wenatchee" is from a different language used by the Yakima and other southern tribes." (This is from an except of interviews between Joe Atkins and Bernice Greene, 1977-78)

There is no difference in the governmental status of Indian tribes who are recognized by Executive Order instead of a treaty. Although the Colville Confederated Tribes is recognized as an Executive Order Tribe, our people have recognized the importance of maintaining our off-reservation resources of hunting, fishing, and gathering traditional foods and traditional use plants. It also must be recognized that an Indian treaty is not a grant of rights to Indians, but a grant of rights from them. The purpose of a Treaty was not to give rights to the Indians but to remove the rights they had. I have always held that, although most of our ancestors confederated on the Colville Reservation were not part to any treaty, means that they never negotiated their inherent rights away.

I feel that this is a very important point that needs to be recognized and made. Presently, I have attempted to communicate with members of the Yakama Indian Nation regarding the mutual responsibilities that our Tribes have when managing our off- reservation resources in the Icicle River area. First of all, we need to recognize that both of our Tribes have Wenatchee or Pisquouse people on our reservations. We must also recognize that we need to work together to manage this common area. I have also talked with Senator Inouye regarding this matter. He responded by sending a letter to the Yakama, encouraging our Tribes to work together on this issue. "Indians of the Central Cascade Plateau did not need to go to Kettle Falls or Celilo to get an ample supply of salmon because the fishery at the forks of the Icicle River and the Wenatchee River, including Tumwater Canyon was literally alive with salmon going up to spawn, during early times. No fish bait was necessary or used. Chelan, Entiat, Wenatchee, Kittitas Valley and other Indians came to this area every year to get a year's supply of salmon." This excerpt is from an interview with Joe Atkins and Bernice Greene in 1978. Today, it is very exciting to hear of our people once again fishing in our traditional areas.

Many Indians have a federally protected right to hunt, fish and gather off reservation. This right is recognized in two different ways. First of all, Congress has reduced the size of Indian reservations without removing the Tribe's hunting and fishing rights on that land. Therefore, these rights remain enforceable by the Tribe. Secondly, Congress has expressly given a tribe the right to hunt and fish outside the reservation by Treaty. Some of our twelve confederated Tribes were involved with treaty negotiations. I wanted to provide this information to you, since this is one of the issues that I have been working on recently. I have also been working on lobbying for the management of Lake Roosevelt budget, Paschal Sherman Indian School, Inchelium Ferry and the overall Bureau budget. I have met with Secretary of the Interior Gayle Norton and the Secretary of Agriculture Ann Veneman. have also provided testimony to the Department of Interior regarding the BIA budget. I will try and provide more information on these topics in the future.

In closing, I want to congratulate all of our graduates! I want to thank all those who volunteered and made our Education Awards Banquet a success. Finally, the voice of the people will be released in conjunction with this letter, but to you who voted, thank you for your interest in our Tribal Government.

Respectfully, Colleen F. Cawston

How's it going this month! Congratulations to all graduates and students! A BIG THANK YOU to our school systems for everything they do! Now get out there and have a safe, fun summer vacation! On May 17, we enjoyed a great day of environmental and cultural education with Nespelem School at Owhi Lake. We were glad to have Paschal Sherman 5th Graders and several Tonasket High School students join us this year. This was our 9th year and as always, we had a fun time! To allow room for photos, I'll try to keep the "talk" short.

Resource workshops for the day included: Cultural Plants, Parks & Recreation with Boat, Hide Tanning, Photo Drawing, Marshmallow & Spaghetti Fun with Fish & Wildlife, Poetry on the Point, Make A Tree, Forestry Fun, Geographic Information Systems, Tribal Health, History & Archives, Language & Storytelling, Washington State University Cooperative Extension & Planning Fun, Gonzaga University Insect Fun and Fish & Wildlife Boat Trip. We sure appreciated the EMS Ambulance coming up and we missed you, when you left to respond to an emergency.

We really appreciate all of you elders, workshop leaders, speakers, site coordinators, helpers and volunteers! You put in a lot of hard work to help make this event happen. THANK YOU for caring! A BIG THANK YOU to all you students, teachers, bus drivers and staff of Nespelem School for coming to the lake! A BIG THANK YOU to the Nespelem School lunch team for the tasty sack lunches! A BIG, BIG THANK YOU to the Nespelem Parent Education Committee and the Colville Tribal Enterprise Corporation for sponsoring the t-shirts!!

Thank you kids, for your willingness to enjoy some environmental and cultural education! This day is for you! Your smiles and your positive attitudes really make the day special! We look forward to seeing you again next year!

Another great May event is Nespelem School's 4th Grade trip to Lost Lake. Thanks for the good lunch, the forest hike and the ice cold swim! Have a great, safe summer everyone! Talk with you again next month. HAPPY FATHER'S DAY!

Saving Water with your Lawn or other Turf

In many areas of the Colville Reservation, water supplies will be low and in some areas they may be extremely low. Despite our record year of the most days with snow on the ground, lawns will be placed low in the list of priorities with regard to essential water uses.

However, all of your hard work may not be burned up by the summer sun, because grass plants can survive on a minimum amount of water. Besides, when water is plentiful most of us over water our lawns anyway. Turf grass roots generally do not go down more that 10-12 inches. Over 80% of the roots are usually in the top 2-4 inches of the soil. Although there are a few deep roots , these deep roots are a survival mechanism during periods of low soil moisture. When all available water is used from the surface 6 inches a few deep roots can continue to provide enough moisture to keep the plant from dying.

The following are recommendations for limited watering:

- 1. Moisten the entire root zone
 Cut a core down to 6 inches, if soil moisture is present reduce water applied. Replace only the amount that is used up.
- 2. Make sure all the water is available to the plant.

Turf with built-up thatch, compacted soils heavy soils and slopes will not accept water rapidly.

If no water is available for lawns:

- 1. Remove thatch from the turf.
 If the thatch layer is removed, any rain that does fall will be more apt to reach the deeper root zone.
- 2. Reduce fertilizer applications Fertilizer can be applied in the spring if there is enough rainfall to maintain good growth of turf grass. Fertilizers applied to dry turf will either not be activated or will create further damage, since the fertilizer will concentrate at the surface rather than being diluted and carried into the soil.
- 3. Increase the mowing height Root growth is usually proportional to top growth of turf grasses. If grasses are mowed short, the root system is generally shallow.

Colockum Range and Forestry Tour

In June, several Tribal members attended the WSU Extension Colockum Research tour in Malaga Washington. Participants gained hands on experience in vegetation management, integrated weed control and how to cook a chilli dog in the rain.

The WSU Colockum Ranch has several demonstration sites ranging from thinning timber sites, growing of different grasses in different soils and different types of watering systems for wildlife and range animals. This two day event was very educational and fun and part of the expenses were covered by the Tribal NRCS EQIP Project monies being managed by our Tribal Extension Office.

Look Forward to these Events:

Nespelem Parent Night Out

On May 17, the Tribal Birth to Three Program, Nespelem School, and WSU Cooperative Extension hosted a Parent Night Out at the Nespelem School. Ten parents and their children enjoyed a meal, attended informational workshops, and received door prizes for participating in the evening program. The event was planned by a committee consisting of Veronica Redstar, Birth to Three Program; Michelle Pakootas, Birth to Three parent; Stacie Redstar, Birth to Three parent; Judy Sprankle, Nespelem School Reading Specialist, Lee Chapman, Nespelem School Superintendent; Laura Jones-Edwards, Nespelem School Birth to Three Program; and Cathy J. DeSautel, Family Living Educator.

Informational workshops topics and presenters were: Importance of Early Reading, Judy Sprankle; Child Development, Laura Jones-Edwards; Cathy J. DeSautel, Early Brain Development.

Owhi Lake Kid's Day

About 100 middle and elementary school students visited Owhi Lake last week as part of the Lake Roosevelt Forum's Student Discovery Week Activities. The kids participated in a bunch of activities at Owhi Lake coordinated by Gary Martin. Gary pulled together a wonderful group of folks to come and visit with and teach the kids about what different resource people do in their jobs and some of the many natural resource programs going on around the Colville Res-

Gary Martin worked with groups of kids to form a "living tree" with each student acting as a different part of the tree. Loren Sam showed the kids how to teach each other all about Ponderosa Pine trees. Greg Tynan lead students on a short hike and inspired them to write a poem about it. Wif Thomas, Vance Cleveland and Greg Tynan showed students how to bore in a tree to find out how old it is and talked a lot about different aspects of forestry. Jim Nanamkin and Chris McCuen talked about fire management and what makes a healthy forest.

James Ives and Donovon Antoine with the Tribes' Fish and Wildlife Department showed everyone the electro fishing boat and talked about the importance of learning in school and after graduating from school too. James told the kids that learning to use computers was really important for most of today's jobs. Joe Thomas, Danny Conant and Dale Hicks showed everyone the Tribes law enforcement boat and talked about the type of work they do everyday. All of the kids also had opportunities to learn about traditional uses of plants from Sharey and Dana Cleveland. Kids also had a chance to check out Global Positioning Systems with Grant Timentwa.

The kids had a really great time and learned a lot too. Hopefully some of them will decide as a result of these visits to study hard and go on to get training to become fisheries biologists, technicians, foresters, or program managers themselves.

This year over 750 students participated in the Lake Roosevelt Forum's Student Discovery Week. As part of the week-long activities students from communities all around Lake Roosevelt visit different sites around the lake to learn about natural resources, culture, geology, history and much more. This is the third year the Lake Roosevelt Forum has hosted the weeklong event. The Forum organizes the different site visits, coordinates with area schools, and provides scholarships to help schools participate.

Many, many thanks to everyone who made the event a great success.

A Time For All~Seasons By Sheri Sears

Indeed there is a time for all things under heaven. The tradition of passing on the knowledge of good stewardship was once the responsibility of the entire extended family. From youth, the children were taught when to burn, when to gather, when to fish, and when to hunt. All these season were part of the cycle of life and part of the lives and culture of the people and the Tribes. They also understood the need for sharing, to use only what they needed and to leave some for those who lived upstream. And the wisdom to allow all animals to complete the cycle of life and give rise to a new generation maintaining the balance of nature.

For tens of thousands of years the local Tribes were salmon people. For nine months out of the year they relied on salmon for subsistence. Antelope and big horn sheep were occasionally hunted but, the habitat did not support the numbers of deer and elk found today. The tradition of hunting deer and elk has only been in existence for about 1500 years for the salmon people. It has gained even greater Tribal cultural importance with the loss of the salmon following the construction of the dams. As the salmon decreased the importance of hunting deer and elk for subsistence

Today the extended family is rare and finding the time with busy schedules to teach the children the traditional ways is not easy. Many parents today didn't have the benefit of traditional knowledge being passed down to them, breaking the tradition more changing society and culture forever.

Many hunt today without the understanding that when you shoot a pregnant doe you are killing two and often three animals. Deer commonly have twins. The way a pregnant doe carries its young makes it difficult to tell that the doe is pregnant until just prior to birth. Killing too many does reduces herd size for future years. Once born the young fawns are dependent on their mother for food and protection. If a doe, with a young fawn under three months of age, is taken the fawn will die also. Shooting a fawn less than three month old is a poor practice. Their meat may be tender, but there isn't much of it, providing poor subsistence. Allowing the animal to reach it's growth potential and reproduce will lead to larger herds, greater animal availability, and better hunting success.

Young hunters were traditionally taught that you don't hunt bucks is usually in mid-June, when most fawns are being born. Another saying is not to hunt doe until the tamarack needles turn yellow. This is usually some time about late September, which allows the fawns to develop enough to be able to take care of themselves and survive winter. Another reason for waiting for the tamarack to turn color, is this occurs when temperatures start to drop in the fall, so meat hung to cure at this time will not spoil or turn sour from the day's heat. The needle color is related to temperature not a specific date, so it works as a good indicator of seasonal change.

is during rut. For deer this usually starts in late October and peaks in mid-November. Elk on the other hand are in heavy rut in September. During rut the bucks and bulls may be very vulnerable, increasingly driven to mate.

Often in nature, length of day light triggers biological reactions. The retina at the back of a deer's eyes picks up on the decreasing amount of daylight triggering an increase in testosterone production, driving the need to reproduce. As the days become shorter the need becomes stronger. Until the daylight has become so short in December that testosterone levels begin to decrease and rut ends. Doe impregnated in late December or later do not deliver their fawns until late in the summer. Fawns born too late in summer are unable to mature sufficiently to survive the following winter.

Deer have several scent glands, that during rut become extremely swollen with hormonal chemicals. These convey messages to other deer near them about their condition, their location, how long they have been there, and other information. The smelly secretions from these glands, once on your hands, can contaminate and taint the meat. If you really need the meat and must take a buck during "The Rut" a white tailed deer is probably less offensive than a mule deer. However, hunters have an unfair advantage over any buck or bull during the rut and hunting at this time is discouraged so the herd will reproduce and continue providing food for future generations.

Since 1984, almost yearly an aerial survey is done during January and February to determine the trend of the deer and elk populations and the sex and age ratio dynamics of the herds. It is interesting to note that although the number of deer have fluctuated until their fur has turned red. This some over the years their numbers are not significantly different from 1984. What has changed consistently and dramatically over the years is the steady decrease in the ratio of fawns per 100 adults. This is true of both white-tail and mule deer. Elk data has been collected since 1980 and a similar trend in calves per 100 cows is seen. The following graphs demonstrate these decreases.

As you can see in these graphs the fawn and calf ratio per 100 females has dropped about in half since the data collection began. This trend needs to be turned around if the populations are to increase in number. Today deer and elk populations are A season to avoid hunting bucks below what the Fish and Wildlife Department has set as the "desired condition". The Department's goal is to "maintain viable populations (numbers and distribution of reproductive individuals) of native and desired non-native species of wildlife and their supporting habitats, while providing wildlife in sufficient numbers to meet the cultural, subsistence and recreational needs of the Colville Tribal Members"

Understanding of the seasonal and natural cycles of life is understanding that there is a time for all things and all things in their time. Hunting with this understanding demonstrates the traditions of tribal stewardship. For the Tribes to endure and thrive over time, tradition and culture must be maintained and passed from one generation to the next. This will insure that deer and elk will also be there for future Tribal hunters.

Ghost Lake Disappears

Ghost Lake is disappearing again, it has a history of going dry in low water years and is living up to its' reputation this year. Ghost Lake is better known today as Elbow Lake for its' bent shape. It is located north of Inchelium between Onion Ridge, Ant Mountain, and Dollar Mountain. This shallow lake most years averages about fifteen-and-a-half-feet deep. However, this year it is down to about eighteen inches with most of the lake left dry. The last time the lake was this low was in 1991.

Elbow or Ghost Lake is part of the Inchelium watershed. Onion Creek is the main feeder stream, which enters the lake on the west shore. A few other intermittent streams also feed into the lake from the north. The Lake's history of disappearing probably goes back to its' beginning about 12,000 years at the end of the last glacial age. The lake has an underground effluent, a hole that allows the water to drain out when the ground water table is low. Whether this is a single or multiple holes is unknown, it may also be soils in general are very porous.

Back in 1965 the Colville Tribes tried to learn more about the lake's water loss by tagging the water with a dye. Potassium permanganate was added but the tagged water did not show up in Banaby Creek, Hall Creek, or Lake Roosevelt. In an attempt to seal off the bottom of the lake and prevent the water loss the Tribes first detonated explosives in the substrate, the soils, rocks, silt, and gravels at the lake's bottom, then deposited bentonite to seal it. The attempts were unsuccessful and the lake level still drops as in previous dry years.

Catchable rainbow trout were stocked in some years in the latter half of the 1960's and early 70's. Fingerling brook trout were stocked annually during the same period. On several occasions adult brook trout were transported from the Owhi Lake spawning operation, in the fall by the Tribes. Some years no stocking was done because of the low lake level. In 1975 the lake again disappeared and all stocking was stopped.

In 1978 the Tribes Fish and Wildlife Department conducted a study to determine the lake's potential for future fisheries. Recommendations were made to do core sampling of the lake's bottom to determine its' composition. It was hoped that this information could indicate possible corrective action to reduce the lake's fluctuations. Other recommendations included placing clean spawning size gravel in the mouth of Onion Creek to provide additional spawning habitat, stocking rainbow trout fingerling annually, fencing off Onion Creek from Peppermint Meadow Road to the lake confluence to minimize the damage to the bank's soils from livestock and destruction of the stream coves and vegetation. A survey of the lake to provide data on surface area and depth contours and installation of toilets, picnic tables and garbage facilities were also recommended.

Creel studies showed that fishing by the Membership significantly increased when the lake was stocked. Although there was some potential for occasional losses during dry years, the benefit and enjoyment to the Tribal Members during most years was worth the risk involved. Not all of the recommendations were followed, but stocking of the lake resumed. Stocking was stopped occasionally during dry periods like this year because of the lakes dropping water level. Three years ago Elbow Lake was changed from open fishing to Members only status.

This year is listed, as being the second driest on record, when the current drought will end is anyone's guess. In the past, periods of drought have lasted from one to three years. So if your favorite fishing is at Elbow Lake don't give up the ghost, the lake will return. Stocking will resume when water levels are sufficient to support fisheries.

ATTENTION HUNTERS

If you are interested in applying for the Reservation Moose or the North Half Moose or North Half Bighorn Sheep Hunts for 2001, now is the time to do it. You must use the official application forms for the hunt you wish to apply for. You can get these forms from the Tribal Fish & Wildlife Department or you can use the form that is in the Tribal Tribune.

- There will be two Bulls only permits for the Reservation Moose hunt.
- There will be one either sex permit for the North Half Moose hunt.
- There will be either sex permit for the North Half Bighorn Sheep hunt. Remember, if you have drawn one of these permits before, you have to wait five years before you are eligible to put in again for the same hunt.

You must have your application post marked or into our office no later than July 27, 2001.

Drawings for the permits will be held in late August.

The Problem With Roads

While we all need roads for access for fire, timber harvest, recreation and hunting, having too many roads open and not maintained properly can create some serious problems for fish, animals and the future productivity of the forest or rangeland

Roads cause 80% of the sediment deposited into the streams and lakes. Erosion occurs from the cut banks, fill and bed of the road. If the roads are not adequately designed for good water drainage, the situation can get even more serious. On roads that are cut into the side of hills, or mountains (mid-slope roads), water can saturate a soil and cause deep gullies to form down slope or even instigate landslides.

When dirt roads become wet, the soil can puddle and form deep ruts, which can funnel the water downhill and accelerate erosion considerably. Once this process is started, it can go down to the bedrock, with tons of productive soil gone. The road becomes impassable and access is then block completely. Seasonal road closures make sense to minimize damage done by driving on roads that are too wet.

Each year brings new roads into existence with our timber harvesting activities alone. Without closing some of these roads, which did not exist before, the accumulative affects can be very costly. When too many small roads are in an area, this can add up to a surprising amount of land not usable for growing trees, or other valuable plants for people and animals.

Roads and the amount of roads, can heavily impact wildlife habitat. and the stress levels require increased Each mile of road per square mile of land greatly reduces the number of animals an area will support. All predators animals need their habitat to provide them with food, water, and cover from weather. The number of animals an area is able to support, is called the "Carrying Capacity" or sometimes referred to as "Habitat Effectiveness". The first mile of road per square mile of land reduces the carrying capacity or habitat effectiveness for elk by 40%, at 4.5 miles per square mile it is reduced by 70%, and after 6 mile per square mile it is essentially eliminated.

Open roads affect wildlife especially large ungulates (deer, elk, and moose). Habitat is fragmented, requiring animals to travel further to meet their needs. Increased access causes increased hunting and predator pressure. Animals react to this disturbance with avoidance behaviors and increased energy spent to stay alert. The severity of this is related to how frequent the road is used, how many roads there are, where they are located, and the presence or absence, of areas for hiding cover near the road. Hiding cover needs to hide 90% of the animal at 200 feet.

Different animals and species react in different ways to disturbance. White tail deer prefer more seclusion and cover, while elk and mule deer make use of more open areas. No matter how they individually react they all experience increased stress. The extra distance traveled to meet their needs, the increased energy demands from the high alert state energy use.

The animal must then take in more food to provide the required energy. This vicious cycle is repeated until the animal's fat stores are used up. If the negative imbalance continues the animal loses body mass and weight becomes increasingly susceptible to infection and disease. They are less able to reproduce, survive pregnancy, produce healthy offspring or take care of them when they do, Their ability to survive winter is decreased and the worse the winter the greater the impact

This is only one side of the issue: you can look at it in two ways. roads impact hunting too. Increased roads, increases your ability to have a successful hunt. Allowing you to cover more ground in less time. increasing your chances of finding more deer and increasing harvest. Of course hunter density is higher which makes it harder for deer to avoid hunters. The animals have less habitat and less cover, to hide from hunters and predators, and the land doesn't support as many deer. High road density also increases the chance of road kill. All of this adds up to less deer and eventually deer become harder to find and hunting less successful. Fewer roads can change this scenario, by allowing the land to support more animals, increase winter and predator survival, successfully reproducing and increasing herd populations. Fewer roads mean more deer and better hunting.

CAMP DUKE

Sports and Health Camp
August 14-17th, 2001
Twin Lakes Youth Camp
youth 3rd – 8th grades (8-13 yrs old)

Summer is here and youth all across the reservation are finding ways to spend time outdoors. WSU Cooperative Extension and Tribal Health Programs are working to encourage this by implementing the third annual Camp Duke to be held at Twin Lakes Youth Camp near Inchelium, August 14th-17th. Camp Duke is a Sports and Health camp that encourages teamwork and physical fitness through the use of fun and educational activities. It also provides instruction so the youth can improve upon the individual and team sports. If your child is entering the third through eighth grads and would like to attend this year's camp, fill out the application below and return to the address listed.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact:
Brian Zeitz at 634-2940 or

This is an educational experience which will develop leadership skills

We would also like to thank the community for their support in our children's education.

Truman "T.J." Covington, Jr.

There is no better Father's Day present I could possibly receive than to just see this in your next Tribal Tribune honoring T.J. I am truly the proudest dad in this whole world.

My son, Truman "T.J." Covington, Jr. (14 yrs. old) is not only an accomplished and outstanding athlete but also has systematically and persistently accomplished honor roll status throughout his schooling since day one, and next year he will be a freshman at Bridgeport High School.

Scholastically, in the 1996-97 school year at Bridgeport Elementary School, T.J. was chosen to participate in their "Highly Capable Program" a program in additional to the regular required school curriculum generated for academically gifted students not routinely challenged by regular class schedules. Further, early on in school he was honored as a Tribal Tribune super star achiever while at Keller School. As an indication of his own demeanor, while on visits to me in Cheney, at his own discretion, he participated in a Spokane youth group (Early Birds) which promotes self-image, self esteem thru alcohol and drug free activities while promoting his cultural heritage as a Native American.

In T.J.'s school activities, summer programs and his own leisure, he has excelled in such sports activities as soccer, basketball, baseball, boxing, wrestling, track and field, football, swimming competition, golf and bowling. As an example, I have T.J. on video tape winning a championship wrestling match as a nine-year old at Eastern Washington University; last summer the co-ed basketball group he played with went thru Spokane's Hoopfest undefeated.

. . keep up the good work T.J.!! I sincerely believe T.J. has earned and really deserves recognition and a pat on the back for all his achievements academically as well as extra-curricular activities in constantly providing or projecting a positive role to peers, friends, family . . congrats T.J. for a job sell done! Keep up the good work, love you son. Your dad,

TRIBAL VOICES

Just once it would be nice to see all of our leadership working together

Dear Tribal Members:

Stone, as in many other occasions, wrote a letter in an attempt to discredit tribal members of the Colville Tribes. Those identified in this letter are individual Colville Tribal members who have stood up to or publicly voiced their disagreement on an issue or issues with Stone.

In this letter, Stone attacks Loretta Pakootas as the lead instigator accusing him of buying 100 votes in the 1999 Tribal Council elections. There are many Colville Tribal members that have heard this rumor and would like to know the truth. This is why some of us have stepped forward and submitted our concerns in the form of a grievance to Chairperson Colleen Cawston and Executive Committee members Margie Hutchinson, Jeanne Jerred and D.R. Michel.

Neither Loretta Pakootas nor Myra Aubertin had anything to do with the grievance written against any potential council involved. This grievance questions whether any council members had assisted an individual Tribal Member enroll a child who did not meet the minimum 1/4 Colville blood degree requirement as identified in the Tribal constitution.

The big question members want answered is why our Tribal enrollment process failed to catch the fraudulent action. How did this child get enrolled and able to receive the December 1999 per capita check the April 2000 181-D claims, and who knows how many other checks before the individual was dis-enrolled?

A former chairman of the Colville Tribe wrote me saying there had to have been at least two or three councilmen involved to get past the first step. There is a political price to pay for not acting to protect the Colville Tribe's constitution and those who have disrespected it will be forced to step down.

What I hear Stone saying is, "Irregardless of facts, if I don't like you I want an investigation on you." Stone seems to want people in management positions that have pulled strings attached so he can control every move of every person, manipulation techniques similar to those used by Adolph Hitler.

Let's look at what Stone has done since he has been in office. Let's start with Law suits: John Dick-Stone lost (the Tribe ended up paying John Dicks back wages when they lost this court case), Gene Nicholson-Stone dropped (after the Tribe spent 15 thousand dollars of tribal members money to hire a lawyer to represent Gene), Colleen Cawston-Stone lost, Jeanne Jerred-Stone lost.

Stone neglected his duty and obligation as a councilman. He is getting paid approximately $45,000 a year to spend your money on fighting our own Tribal members in Tribal court at whose cost? Is this the role of a councilman?

Just once it would be nice to see all of our leadership working together to enable and promote our Colville Tribal membership; to care for themselves and their families. Remember the saying, "Give and man a fish and you will feed him for a day. Teach him how to fish and you will feed him for a life time.'

Knowledge of OUR KNOWLEDGE

I am writing this as a result of some material that was sent to me in reference to the cohesion between "Madam Chair" and her little piglets that run around, whom before I thought was a minuet few but has been shown different, she so to speak is running the roost, everyone bowing as she floats by . . . under estimation, rather thunders by, showing her whatever we write and getting her okay, she in turn writes an article as well, in the same edition explaining/ defending herself, making it look to the membership that shes up on everything, and up and up with all of you, letting you know what she's up to and where she's been, and in fact defending herself-

It's putting that woman on a pedestal to you membership, when actually without this prior knowledge of OUR KNOWLEDGE - she wouldn't know crap.

Is this how the little people keep their minimum wages jobs by kissing up?? Come on guys lets unite to be a strong body to keep our reservation together for our younger generation instead of padding old hens pockets that could care less of the generation

Everyone of the council speaks of Unity, Strength and Trust, that a bunch of political b/s. When we as tribal members need something, we thrown aside like wet towels, until we can give you someone or you need something from us, were waling invisibles, of course until preliminaries were waved at and the works.

Why don't you members wake up . . Tribal council are regular people they are not gods and goddess' irregardless of how they label each other. Than none the less the peons that cater to these fools are nothing other than people to like us, they may be able to call shots but don't have the final word, and if they did they wouldn't be working for the Tribe rather would position themselves into a job which would require an education and higher political positions that way they could really ruin someone's environment. It's already shot the hell out of our this rez and rez entities. Crazy people, anyone can run for council it's obviously with the ones already seated. Then we have some runaways from crazy town having the audacity to think they can run for council, first explain to these fools the drama involved with making decisions about our future, when they can't and have proven can't deal with their own lives.

Shoot, this is not right - Wake up - smell something to shake your minds clear. I live off the reservation, and I can see it all, I'm far from being perfect and don't claim to know s—, but at least I'm for you people and will always call it like I see it, and strive to get what my kids as well as all of your kids what they deserve after were 10 ft. under.

Sincerely, Marlene Xhurape

Play an honest game and a fair game

To: Tribal Members

Most of you know of the incident happening at Mill Bay Pow-Wow, regarding the cheater that was caught during the championship game and the outcome of the incident.

On June 15, 2001 I was informed by a Tribal member that a meeting was being conducted at the Council chambers between our Councilmen, (a select few), outside non-tribal members and one tribal member.

This meeting is in regards to what happened down at Mill Bay Pow-Wow, the cheater being caught and the ruling that was handed down by the stickgame committee. Mind you, the three tribal members that were actually playing in the championship game were never informed or notified of such meeting. Why weren't our TRIBAL MEMBERS given a chance to give their side of the story? And why now, do the select few Councilmen get involved? Don't say you (councilmen) only knew of the meeting that morning.

Are we as a Tribe paying a Tribal Gaming Agent to play stickgame while on-duty at the Mill Bay Pow-Wow?

I know that between 8:30 a.m.-8:45 a.m. on June 3, 2001 that this TGA was checking in at the Security at the Casino, and overheard the security telling her she should have checked in a long time ago and the reply back was that "I know, I know". Again, at 10:00 a.m.-10:30 a.m. (June 3, 2001) this TGA was recorded again by Security as playing stickgame, (supposedly while on-

I was informed by two council members that the council doesn't get involved in this type of dispute (regarding the cheater that was caught), now that is why we have a committee and rules to go by during such an event. SO now you tell me why some councilmen are getting involved and even to go as far as to not inform our own Tribal Members of such meeting?

Is our TGA bound under Gaming Regulatory Rules as being required to be Neutral in any gaming function, was this TGA? I think not! Especially when this TGA took the cheaters side right from the beginning and still is as to this day. Why let this TGA be the Lead Investigator when we know that there is no impartiality there from the beginning? AND NO MY FAMILY IS NOT LYING!

I will not play this individual that was caught cheating or bet him and I would hope that other stickgame players would do the same throughout stickgame country.

We were all taught by our father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, uncle & aunt, Bughouse & Em Dick to play an honest game and a fair game. If you don't then you have no business playing!

Thank you. Dorothy Burke

Freedom of speech does not mean anonymous persecution

To the Membership:

The happiest day of my life was when I became a mother for the first time, surpassed by the joy I felt at the birth of my two grandson's, Raymond & Terry Yazzie. The saddest day of my life was when my first born, Rachael left me.

Life and death matters of family & heart, soothed by tears and humor, have made me the person I am today. Adversity only makes me stronger, not bitter. Growing up on the reservation as a full-blood native woman, I am blessed with a strong lineage of decent, hardworking, traditional folk, who served as Chiefs, healers, and community advocates. My family experienced the hardships of reservation poverty first-hand. I survived addictive behaviors, and broken relationships. I loved, lost and recovered: admitting my mistakes, and forgiving other's for theirs.

Despite lean times, we were raised to share whatever we had with those who might have a greater need. We are not a selfish family. Given the disruption into their own culture when they were young, my parents did the best they could. My folks taught us patience, perseverance, and compassion. If we wanted something, we were taught to use our own hands, and minds to obtain it. If someone hurt us, we were shown by example to forgive and to pray for our enemies. Times of deepest pain have made me only love stronger and laugh more. We were taught that Creator has a reason for everything, and in time, all things that go around, will come around.

I am very grateful for your support in the tribal elections. I believe strongly in you, I will advocate for you, and will do what I can to help you. I speak and write when the spirit moves me. If the greater good does not benefit, I will continue to ask questions. If a child cries in the night due to a cruel environment, I will gladly intervene. When we still have suffering children, hungry households, & neglected families, I will be seeking solutions.

I commend each and every council candidate who has the courage to enter what has turned into an ugly, mud-slinging, cynical, political circus. Freedom of speech does not mean anonymous persecution. The important issues effecting tribal people are smoke-screened by desperate, "touched" people. Anonymity "breeds' contempt. I express my condolences to those who walk in such embittered "acme moccasins." If the truth is from your heart, without malice, you'll never write anything you'd be ashamed to sign, that's not the Indian way. My number is (509)634-4900. Respectfully,

I'm Thankful For Having You At My Side Because . . . You helped me up

You were my strength when I was weak You were my voice when I couldn't speak

You were my eyes when I couldn't see clear You held me up when I couldn't reach

You gave me faith to walk on

I am who I am because you love me

I'm thank for having you at my side . . . I love you Sis!!

Thank you

Dear Family members, relatives and friends:

I am writing this letter to say thank you for taking the time to attend our annual family gathering this year June 9, 2001.

Preparing for this event took all year and was a long process, but we completed it. To my sister Nancy Hall who was a good guide for me, making sure I got things done as close to what we remember our parents did. She was old enough to remember the grandparents events so this helped bring something back. Being my first time, this kind of support was very important to me.

Thank you to my sister Elaine Emerson who helped on supplying what was needed to help get the gathering closer to being complete. She helped with buckskin, cedar, food, beadwork and supplies. Thank you for the beautiful speech you gave the audience in our Native language. For the prayer you shared with one of your students in the language class following along with you. This was very special. I checked the audience and I was very touched as well as very proud of all the young people that came to learn. No one was running around, everyone was very quiet and you could almost hear a pin drop in that gym. It touched my heart how all of your respected all the speakers, just like the old days. I could see that all the knowledge that was shared by the speakers was heard by all of you. No one can tell me that the young people left without learning something. Your faces told a lot.

Thank you to my brothers and sister in law for their presence, they are always there for us. For their donation to the gathering of gifts, and food. Helping with cleanup.

Thank you to Auntie Alva Andrew who said the prayers before the meal was eaten. Thank you to William Dick Sr. for his huge donation for next year's gathering. This was a very happy time for him as well. Two of his children and two grandchildren were born this day. Thank you William for your prayers and songs you shared.

Thank you to Archie Andrew, Tinker Watt, Tyson Andrew and my grandson Tyson Goujon who shared a song with us. It was good to see young boys sing for others.

Thank you to all my cooks, especially my niece Lettye Hall for the hard work done in the kitchen all night and into the next day. To all the cooks who helped prepare any part of the meal that was shared by

Thank you to Joan Wak Wak for baking all the huckleberry pies for me, and to Duffy for building the pie tray to carry them on, this made it so much easier to carry. The pies did not last long, they were great.

Thank you to all the people who bought raffle tickets to help with the extra expenses that was not planned for. 167 pictures were requested to be recopied, and the success of the raffle made it possible to get this done, also had enough to give my daughter and my grandchildren for gas and lodging when they traveled back to Illinois.

Thank you to Kenny and Rita Condon and Jr Williams for your prayers and closing prayers to close out the day. Thank everyone for your support and help. Hope to see you all next year about this time. We have 4 families already committed to try and be ready by then. Take care and bless you all.

As a promise to those of my generation and the ones to come

Dear Tribal Members,

I am writing this letter to address the people who have so called "issues" with my mother, Charlene Bearcub. My mom is one of the people to whom many of you turn to for help. Whether it be personal or professional you have the confidence to know that she wouldn't turn you away or tell the world of your problems. I am proud of my mom for all that she has done and all that she is. Whether it has been for the preservation of my family or to help all tribal members (even those who don't appreciate it) she has NEVER turned her back on anyone.

To you authors/editors of the Moccasin Tele Facs, or whatever, what makes you think that what you are doing is helpful? It seems to me that all you are doing is hurting your "good cause" by printing your truth and not the facts. And because you like to print the wrong sides of the half truths maybe that is why you spell facts the way you do. Sounds logical to me. Heck, if I thought what I was doing was so helpful and my opinions were going to change the reservation politics I'd PROUDLY sign my name in full. I'm pretty sure everyone else would too.

Mom, when you read this know that in my heart you will always be a Lady Warrior and I will always look up to you. You aren't afraid to do whatever it takes and nothing or nobody can keep you down forever no matter how hard they try!! I Love You. Just so you know whatever you do or have done, you have never shamed me once. You have only made me proud by how much you care about your family as others obviously do not.

As a promise to those of my generation and the ones to come, l will proudly follow in my mother's footsteps and advocate for healthy reservation. There will come a time when all the fighting amongst the membership will cease and everyone will be looked at as a whole. No one will be judged on their opinions, how they view certain issues, or because they belong to this family or that one. Only then will our Colville Confederated Tribes be once again respected by the rest of Indian Country, not laughed at.

With much pride, Lem-Lempt, Bethi "Micki" Bearcub

Who's right and who's wrong

I recently went to a meeting June 4, 2001, at Nespelem on Employment and Education preference 1 Tero law a personnel policies and procedures manual and I seen membership speak up in regards to this issue.

And I sat and listened to the CTRC general manager speak up in regards to the issues of 100% certification requirements and cuts and loop holes in TERO. And most important the whole general idea and meaning behind the tribal employment rights office and it's ordinances.

How are we to enforce something that the Colville Business Council couldn't even understand of approve of. It is hard see to enforce the TERO law because the council couldn't make up their minds and kept changing the rules of the game.

Who's right and who's wrong, both TERO and council are at fault for not working together as team united as one. Working for the of these changes. And stop blaming benefit and welfare of all, and TERO and staff are fighting a never ending battle. And you begin to feel as if you have lost your worth and power in trying to enforce Indian preference as we look back into the past and

Our tribe is into it's 3rd and 4th generation loggers. Does your CTRC have the knowledge to manage our timber and tribal members? Does CTRC have the experience and knowledge to assure they are putting tribal members first?

Does our upper management have the background to decide what is best for our tribes future.

Our Colville Business Council and department devoted to providing similar services, carrying out their duties and missions as far as training our enrolled members. Colville Business Council that had made all some of TERO, they only enforce the law.

When our tribal members seeking the appointment of council member's I'm sure there were a few of you that had mentioned how you would be for "the people", "the youth", and especially "the elders". Were those campaign words, words that you really meant? Here now is your chance to keep your promise that your made while seeking votes to become a policy make and seeking our council members to enforce the law, that some how guarantees the future employment right and perpetuates for the future generations to come that they will be able to say the same.

Concerned Tribal Member,

Ronald L. Zacherle

Just ask, instead of believing the rumors

To whom it may concern,

We are writing this letter in concern to the meth lab bust that was at Rocky Point on May 29, 2001.

We would just like all the concerned people to know that we had nothing to do with that meth lab.

A guy was the one who pulled those people up there and parked their camper right next to our tents. We asked him to move them down farther on the campgrounds because we already had tents in that sport; he was highly intoxicated, and paid no attention to us.

Yes, those were our tents and, yes our children were sleeping in them. And most of all Patty Smith did get arrested for an old warrant in Stevens

No we didn't have anything to do with the camper or anything that was in it. No we are not methamphet-amine cookers. No, we are not dealing drugs from the campground. No Bernadette Sandvig and Lana Swan did not get arrested. No we were not digging a hole for a meth lab.

For any of you, that might have heard any more nasty rumors feel free to stop by our camp at the point and ask us.

We do feel that our names have been slandered because of this.

There were many things that the Tribal Police should have done different. And to associate us with that is also a deformation of character.

All we want is our names cleared, so people will quit looking at us funny, and quit the rumors that follow us like a black cloud.

Tribal Police confiscated our tents cause they said they were contaminated, they took all the contents inside of them for contamination reasons, and not worrying about the kids that were sleeping in them being

Never once were we asked if we were all right. We had to call the Police station to find out what the symptoms were and then they didn't

It is now one week later and we still don't have any answers to our questions. All we have is accusations flying about being meth cookers and drug dealers.

We certainly hope we get our questions answered, and we invite any of you that must know to just ask, instead of believing the rumors that are leaking out of the creaks.

Thanks for reading our letter, Irene (Patty) Smith, Lana Swan,

Bernadette Sandvig, Shialah Smith and our family and friends involved

With dignity and respect for our loved ones

A BIG THANK YOU

To all family & friends of Robin Circle we would like to thank all who helped, assisted, donated, fund-raised to make Robin's Headstone setting, basketball, BBQ and giveaway a huge success. Robin has so many friends and family that we were glad for everybody that showed up on such short notice and helped out in any way possible. I would like to personally thank Carly Desautel for taking the lead in all of this, if it wasn't for her the whole day probably would not have happened. Everything turned out just great. Again, thanks to all of you, Robin's memories live in all of you she had such a full life in such a short time. Not a day goes by we don't think of her and miss her.

A Special Thank You

I'd like to say thanks to all the people that helped me during my mom's illness as well as her death, the day before Mother's Day. Thanks - Gerrie, Sis and Adrian for all the days you stayed at the hospital with mom. Duane & family, Dalene, Andy, Trina & Jim, Lola and a special thank you to her old friend "Zelda" for going to see her. Thank you to all the ones that called and send cards during her stay at Sacred Heart. Thanks to my partners that came to sit with me and a big "thank you" to Corey & Dorothy for making the cards and getting everything I forgot, to Carol & Tay for making the beautiful vail, to Alex, Sis & Tay for all the work in my moms yard. Thank you. I'd like to especially thank Mike Palmer and James for their financial help which I sure needed to get my mom going on her final journey.

Thanks to all the cooks that put out a great dinner (I heard) and to Seven Drums for all their prayers. A special "thank you" to her great grandson, Joe Abrahamson for playing his flute to her, I know she heard you. Thanks Neil for being here and for everything you've done for my family.

Of course I forgot two honorary people, Jimmy & Roni Monaghan, thanks for being there when we needed you most!

And to my ole friend Virg, thank you.

BIA ignores Council Resolution

Time has passed since the Council passed Resolution 1997-157. Colville Business Council by a vote of 10 for 0 Against, requested that the Secretary of the Interior waive the collection of forest management deductions for the allotee's land only. Since the date of this resolution Thousands of dollars have been taken from Allottee's payments from timber harvest. These funds are collected by the BIA; but not always spent on the Allotee's land. These dollars are spread over the reservation and used for administration, or not spent at all. Reasons given to justify this tax. Forestry needs it or we are not funded enough. Why should the allotee have to pay a tax. The use of these funds to supplement Federal appropriates

I call your attention to Jude Stensgar's letter, which was published in the March 1997 issue of the TURTLE. The letter had to do with the BIA 10% Administrative Fee, and whether this fee went against the Tribal Constitution.

taken to distribute our May Per Capita, also the April 181-D Claims payments. Having back to back payments, with one month to prepare for another is a lot of hard work. Talking from experience, I know what our Tribal Member's want from Tribal Enrollment, and keeping them content and meeting their needs and making them our first priority, is what they appreciate the most. Thank you Tribal Enrollment!!! You are greatly appreciated and I believe you deserve to be recognized as hard working, dedicated, and the overtime Tribal Enrollment employees have done, and to meet the needs of the Colville Tribal members. Not only are you dedicated to the Per Capita/Claims Disbursement, but also for all the Enrollment job duties that are required to be met for the Colville Tribal members and Colville Business Council in a timely manner. Your Gals are the BEST in my books! Thank you] once again. My appreciation to you ladies!!! Audi Palmanteer, Enrollment Tech.; Dianna O'Neil, Enrollment Tech.; Diana Adolph, (Workfirst) Office Assistant II; Veronica "Ronnie" Louis, Office Assistant II; Joanne Leith, Enrollment Tech; and Patricia L. Breiler, Enrollment Officer.

So thank you all for your dedication to the enlightenment of our youth!

I would like to publicly acknowledge the time and effort given by Arnie Marchand, Mel Tonasket, Brian Phillips, Cory Orr, John St. Pierre, Kanie St. Paul, Pat Breiler, Steve Aycock, Matt Berger and Jim Smith, as the Omak High School undertook it's second "Tribal Government" segment of the year. Once again the information gained from the presentations was very informative for all students.

We were able to provide this information to 75% of our senior class this year and I'm looking forward to reaching every senior class next year. Without the cooperation of the Colville Tribe and the willingness of each of these people, this project would have been impossible. So thank you all for your dedication to the enlightenment of our youth!

Sincerely, Vicki James

We received no fund from the Colville Tribe or CTEC financially. The family and friends of Mary J. Marchand supported and financed this event. We are planning another Pow wow for next year so mark your calendars.

Senior Report

Hard times are here again and it is time for our Tribe to cut back along with our State agencies. In the State our Governor believes it is the responsibility of the adult children to care for their elders in need. The Children inherit what their elders leave and should be there to pay them back for what they have received from them. It is also the Indian way.

I am very fortunate that my children, stepchildren and grandchildren have done a lot of work for both my wife and I. They were there to care for us when we recovering from operations and a stroke. Our yard and garden were well kept. Last year when I was recovering from kidney surgery and my grandson Ben was caring for my yard and taking a lot of pride in it. One of our Elders was complaining about our program not taking care of her yard and two little trees under her window was blocking her view. I went to see what she was complaining about. I then went and got my chain and truck, went back and pulled the trees clear out of the ground for her. This Elder has many children and grandchildren and could have the most beautiful yard around. We have many Elders that have no one near and are in much need of our help, they won't even complain. Those are the kind that is a joy to help.

You are aware that the power costs are going up. Here in Nespelem the cost will go up 92% that is almost double what we now pay. And in Ferry County it is going up 80%. Fuel will go up to about $2.25 a gallon soon and maybe even more because our government needs more.

Our Tribal income has dropped and our Tribe needs to cut all our programs back. Now our seniors need more help than ever from their children and friends. Many Elders already help each other. They way they put it, it is something to do. Some senior programs help their needy elders as a group. They will wash clothing, clean house and yard. For our Area Agency on Aging we will have to depend on the Tribal Community Service Program to help our seniors in yard work, snow removal and wood chopping. We did get by before our program started.

This will be my last report. I will be leaving this program on June 29, the last working day of this Fiscal Year. We always have around 70 clients to care for in their homes, both young and old. We have lost many this last year and they are still dying all the time. This really stresses me out. When one dies there are always others to take their place. Many have family that cannot afford to move home to help them. Some have family that even live in their homes and won't help. Some elders will get a small trailer and move out to get away from children and still have to baby sit when they need help themselves. Some children sign up as guardians just so they can collect rent or Tribal payments and don't even buy new clothes or blankets for their mom and day. Or they will keep them home so they can collect their retirement. We now have an each month in each district. He will Adult Protection Person to deal with all types of abuse and I hope must of this will stop. That person will start in July.

Even with the generous amount of Tribal dollars with increases in cost to operate, the senior meals will have to cut back in order to keep going. Our senior transportation must be cut and our handy men must be cut back to one that will spend a week use our Tribal truck in order to save mileage for our program. My office is under staffed and we may need to cut hours here.

I will stop by your meal sites from time to time for a meal and a visit. For our clients in Case Management, I can only offer prayers for you and May God Bless you with love.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

LAKE ROOSEVELT REACHES SUMMER LEVELS BY NATIONAL PARK SERVICE The spring refill of Lake Roosevelt has reached the summer operating range for the reservoir according to officials at Lake Roosevelt National Recreation Area. As of June 14, the lake elevation was 1280'. which is 10 feet below full pool. The target elevation for July 1 was for the lake to be at or above elevation 1280' which puts the lake within the lower end of its normal summer operating range. "Given the low run off this spring, we consider it fortunate that the lake has reached this level this early in the season," said recreation area superintendent Vaughn Baker. Last vear. the lake elevation was 1265' on June 14.

At lake elevation 1280', 20 of the 22 launch ramps maintained by the National Park Service are useable. The launch ramps at Marcus Island and Jones Bay are in service at elevations 1281' and 1282, respectively. According to Baker, "At elevations above 1280', most facilities on the lake will be useable. There may be some swim areas with less water than normal and some courtesy docks out of the water, but otherwise lake users should find most facilities accessible with plenty of beaches available for camping along

Because of the need to provide adeguate flows for migrating salmon in the lower Columbia this summer, river managers expect to lower Lake Roosevelt over the summer to lake elevation 1278' by the end of August. This does represent a change from previous years when the lake did not go below elevation 1280' during the summer. The December 2000 Biological Opinion for the Federal Columbia River Power System directs that additional water be taken from lake Roosevelt during the low water years.

Boaters can call 1-800-824-4916 for recorded lake level information which is updated daily.

THREE NEW COLLECTIONS ADDED TO AMERICAN MEMORY WEB SITE

Edward S. Curtis's Photographs, The Irving Fine Collection, and Advertising in American

"Edward S. Curtis's: The North American Indian: Photographic Images," 'The Irving Fine Collection," and "Emergence of Advertising in America, 1850-1920" are the latest additions to the Library's American Memory Web site at www.loc.gov. Each collection offers a distinct view of American culture.

The North American Indian by Edward S. Curtis is one of the most significant representations of traditional American Indian culture. Issued in limited edition from 1907 to 1930, the 20-volume set is organized by tribes and culture areas encompassing the Great Plains, Great Basin, Plateau Region, Southwest, California, Pacific Northwest, and Alaska. The online collection presents all 2,226 published images, with comprehensive identifying data, including plate numbering, dimensions, and the original captions by Curtis. The source materials for this collection are housed at Northwestern University Library.

The digitization of Curtis's photographs and the advertising collection was supported by an award from the Library of Congress/Ameritech National Digital Library Competition. This $2 million, three-year program, which concluded in 1999, has made awards to 33 institutions nationwide to enable them to make their important American history collections

New Inchelium Youth Coordinator

Hello! My name is Gloria Finley! I have recently been selected to be the new Inchelium Youth Coordinator. I am very happy and excited that I have received this job. I feel that I am the best for this job because I love kids! A little about myself, I am 21 years old, and have a ten month old baby girl named McKennzie. I have lived here in Inchelium my whole life. I graduated from the Inchelium High School in 1998 and have had some college experience.

In the past, I have volunteered to help my mother with her powwows, which we held in our community. For the last two years, my sister and I put together a dance group for the kids. They danced at the varsity basketball games. I have done other odds and ends too. I think that my biggest accomplishments are being with kids and enjoy seeing the kids in July. We are also working with a get involved with activities in our community. I am tired of hearing that this town is boring, now is the time to get our youth involved with new and fun things! The Inchelium Community Center staff and I are already planning different games and fundraisers for Inchelium Days, held group called, "Rez Stop" from the Inchelium School. Our group will be planning summer field trips and various activities. If anyone has any questions or comments, please fell free to call me at 722-7032. Thanks the Inchelium Youth Coordinator

War Pony Racing
Allen Michel, 35, is a Colville

tribal member and a single parent raising one of his two children at his home in Inchelium.

This year he is in his ninth season of stock car racing. He is racing his modified Mustang, Number 65 called "War Pony," floor-boarding it to speeds up to 80 miles an hour around the tracks at Northport and Republic in Washington state.

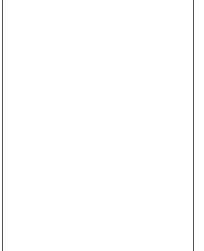

On the tracks, other racers have pit crews of up to five people. Not Allen. He is his own pit crew - the owner, builder, maintenance man, and driver. He is a one-man race team called War Pony Racing. And he's been winning! One June 2, 2001, Allen won first place in all three categories - the Trophy Dash, Heat Race, and the Main Event at Northport.

He doesn't have brake problems (because he rarely uses them), but he dos have other repair expenses and his family and fans are raising money to help out. He has a big race coming up soon - June 30th and July 1st - "Liberty 5000" at Northport that is being sponsored by KBS Radio Station of Trail, B.C. The season closes September 2, 2001.

At the last race (June 16) Allen said the power steering pulley broke and it took out the fan and radiator - damages were $300. Of stock car racing, he says it is an "expensive hobby" and he grateful for financial support from Raider Boats in Colville, Fire Pro, Incorporated, Colville's Copper Bowl, Twin Lakes Tavern and Crockett's Lounge in Addy. He is interested in finding other sponsors as well. By Chante Westerman & Yvonne Swan, P.O. Box 49, Inchelium, WA Travis Ray - 13

Each student described to the Council what they learned from the different workshops offered to them at Owhi Lake on Thursday, May 17. Five students hold an oversized T-Shirt, and it was an eighth grade student who did the design for the T-shirt. Holding the T-shirt are: (L to R) Jausa Sweowat, Brandon Trejo, Rhandi Morin, Charissa Birdtail, and Christina Saxon; and the students to Christina's left are: Ryne Palmer, Brittany Reed, Aaron Stafford, and Rachel Dick. The other students and Business Council members are: (middle row/L to R) Collen Cawston, Shelby George, Janessa Morin, Jory Vallee, Chauncy Cawston, Margie Hutchinson, Sue Dickey (school librarian), and Angela Iukes...(back row/L to R) Louella Anderson, Mathew Dick Jr., David Galler, Jeanne Jerred, Chance Epperson, Dale Batten, Doc Mellon, and Gary Martin (Forestry Department).

Colville Business Council Members Meet with Bush Cabinet

by Desautel-Hege Communications

Washington D.C. June 1, 2001-Colleen Cawston, Chairperson, and Margie Hutchinson, Colville Business Council member, were chosen to join with other Native Americans and prominent women political leaders from across the country for two days of meetings with Cabinet officials, Administration leaders, and policy experts, to discuss a wide variety of issues of importance to the people of the Colville Tribe. This marks the first time that Native American leaders have joined forces with elected national, state and local officials in the nation's Capitol.

The event, hosted by the national (NFWL), featured a wide variety of seminars and networking opportunities that will help better serve all Americans as well as help establish national contacts that are essential to Native American interests. Cawston and Hutchinson were selected to participate in a leadership analysis sponsored by the Gallup Organization that will be of assistance in preparing and promoting a legislative agenda in the weeks ahead. Colleen Cawston, Chairperson, Colville Business Council, presented her position on health policy issues before the chief staff of the Secretary of Health and Human Services. "Being involved in the political and national decision making process creates opportunity for the Colville Tribe and all members of the community and gives us a further voice on a national level. Being part of the discussion on health issues and challenges facing our nation is vital to the tribes."

Margie Hutchinson, Colville Business Council member, presented her position on agricultural policy before the national Agricultural Committee. "It is important to expand our political and national presence to effectively address issues Native Americans are facing today."

Cawston and Hutchinson met one-on-one with Bush Cabinet members, Gale Norton, Secretary of the Interior, Ann Veneman, Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, and senior staff of the United States Department of Health and Human Services.

Robin Read, President of the Foundation for Women Legislators Foundation, called the conference "an essential tool for ensuring that each Native American and elected woman official can represent their constituents most effectively. This is especially significant because Native Americans are becoming a new force to be reckoned with in national politics. The Foundation not only brings women of all political parties together but this conference will bring us together with a constituency no one can afford to overlook. We are bringing state legislators closer to federal officials, and we are serving as a focal point for ideas that may provide solutions to some of the major problems facing our states and our country." The fourteen member Colville Business Council is the governing body for the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation. Of the fourteen members, four are women.

CHIEF JOSEPH—(R to L) Darlene Wilder gets more information from Jerome A. Greene about the book he wrote that was entitled "Nez Perce Summer". Jerome on Thursday, June 7, at the Coulee Dam City Hall spoke about the different phases of the Nez Perce War that was covered in his book. The book contains sixteen detailed maps, and forty-nine historic photographs on the War that last 3-1/2 months and covered a distance of 1,700 miles. Many books have been written about this Nez Perce campaign of 1877, but there were book writers who praised Jerome Greene's book. One of these authors was Alvin M. Josephy Jr, who said: "There is no volume like this monumental account of the war by Jerome A. Greene". The money received for this book will be used to support the programs of the Nez Perce Historical Park.

NESPELEM, WA. – For almost a quarter of a century, Steve Judd, has been involved with the CCT's Fish & Wildlife (F&W) Department. He was the department's "Senior Wildlife Biologist".

A "Retirement Potluck Luncheon" was held for Steve here at the Tribal Longhouse on Friday, June 22.

The Director of the F&W Department, Joe Peone, said that Steve built a wonderful program that could be used as an example to show what needs to be done for a program to be successful. Joe also commented that Steve doesn't use a computer (Old School?). Joe also read a list that contained some of Stevens quotes that some of Steve's co-workers remembered. One quote was: "Even a blind pig gets an acorn one in awhile".

After lunch, Steve's fellow co-workers and friends held a "Roast", and gifts were presented to Steve.

John explained how him and Steve talked about putting elk in the Omak District on the Colville Indian Reservation, and the problems that occurred with the State of Washington when they heard about the Tribe wanting to put elk on the reservation.

John said that at the last moment, it was decided to put the elk in the Hells Gate Area. John was one of three Tribal officials who went to the Wind Cave National Park, South Dakota, to request that the Tribe be given 50-elk. The elk arrived on the Reservation on Jan. 12, 1977, and the first Elk hunting season was held in the Fall of 1980.

Tobacco Program/Colville Tribal Health

Grades 1st − 6th

Instead of using tobacco...

Paschal Sherman

What do you enjoy most about using tobacco? Some people like having something to do with their hands. Some like the feeling of a cigarette or chewing tobacco in their mouths. Many people say that tobacco helps them to relax. So they use it when they take a break or want to calm down.

When you quit tobacco, it's good to find new ways to get the same benefits you got from smoking or chewing. Here are some ideas from ex-smokers. Use them to enjoy your tobacco-free life.

Need something in your hand? Try this:

- A worry stone
- A paper clip
- Coins
- A hobby:
- Paint, draw, or doodle
- Whittle or carve wood
- knit or crochet

Need something in your mouth?

- Use a four-inch straw or toothpick
- Sugarless gum or mints
- Baby carrot sticks A bottle of water
- Sunflower seeds
- Gummy bears or licorice Fruit Popsicles

Need relief from stress? Try this:

- Four deep breaths A cup of decaf tea
- A crossword puzzle
- Exercise: walk, run, ride a bike
- A nap

Need to distract yourself? Try this:

- Rent a movie
- Look at a magazine Imagine your life as a non-
- smoker Pet your dog or cat
- Write a list of the benefits of
- being tobacco-free

Need to stay busy? Try:

- Call a friend
- Do anything you enjoy
- Start and complete a house project you've been avoiding
- Buy something special for yourself with the money you've saved
- Write a letter to a long-lost friend

Reward yourself each day for your progress. Each day you're tobaccofree is a major accomplishment.

May 31st was "World No Tobacco

Colon Cancer

What is colon cancer? Colon children) of a person who has cancer occurs when the cells in the colon grow out of control and form a small group of abnormal cells. These cells grow into a lump called a polyp. A polyp is a small, noncancerous tumor that sometimes turns into cancer. The colon is the upper five to six feet of the large intestine. The large intestine is the long, muscular tube that food passes through during digestion.

Who's at Risk? The exact causes of colorectal cancer are not known. However, studies show that the following risk factors increase a person's chance of developing colorectal cancer

Age - Colorectal cancer is more likely to occur as people get older. This disease is more common in people over the age of 50. However, colorectal cancer can occur at younger ages, even, in rare cases, in the teens.

Diet - Colorectal cancer seems to be associated with diets that are high in fat and calories and low in fiber.

Polyps - Polyps are benign growths on the inner wall of the colon and rectum. They are fairly common in people over age 50. Some types of polyps increase a person's risk of developing colorectal cancer.

Personal Medical History -Research shows that women with a history of cancer of the ovary, uterus or breast have a somewhat increased chance of developing colorectal cancer. Also, a person who has already had colorectal cancer may develop this disease a second time.

Family Medical History - First-degree relatives (parents, siblings, had colorectal cancer themselves, especially if the relative had the cancer at a young age. If many family members have had colorectal cancer, the chances increase even more.

Ulcerative Colitis - A condition in which the lining of the colon because inflamed. Having this condition increased a person's chance of developing colorectal cancer. Having one or more of these risk factors does not guarantee that a person will develop colorectal cancer. It just increases the chances. People may want to talk with a doctor about these risk factors. The doctor may be able to suggest ways to reduce the chance of developing colorectal cancer and can plan an appropriate schedule for check-ups. Recognizing Symptoms - Diarrhea, constipation or feeling that the bowel does not empty completely. Blood (either bright red or very dark) in the stool. Stools that are narrower than usual. General abdominal discomfort (frequent gas pains, bloating, fullness, and/or cramps). Weight loss with no known reason. Constant tiredness. Vomiting. These symptoms can also be caused by something less serious, like an ulcer, swelling of the colon or hemorrhoids. If you have these symptoms for the first time, talk to your doctor.

Prevention - Get regular screening tests beginning at age 50. Eat less red meat. Take a multivitamin with folate every day. By physically active for at least 30 minutes a day. Maintain a healthy weight. Limit the amount of alcohol you drink. Eat more vegetables.

The Immunization record is mandatory for entry into

ROOT DIGGING FIELD TRIP AND FIRST DIGGING-ROOT FEAST

On May 10, the Nespelem Head Start children went on a root digging field trip to Swawilla Basin. This year the children were honored for their first roots and a meal was set for them to honor and gift their first roots to the elders, parents and visitors that attended the luncheon on the following day, Friday, May 11.

It was a very touching scene to witness the Head Start children sit among the many visitors, parents and staff. Visitors from the Convalescent Center, the Language Program, Foster Grandparents, Grandparents, Aunts/Uncles and parents were represented. Tribal Tribune Editor, Sam Sampson, was on hand to capture the event in more detail along with Debbie Stanger of the Foster Grandparent Program.

Along with honoring the children with this meal, the Early Childhood Program presented a gift to Andy Joseph, Jr. For his donation of childsized diggers for Nespelem Head Start. Andy Joseph, Jr. was very humble in accepting his gift because he felt the visitors that came to join the children was reward enough for him. Our continued appreciation and thanks to Andy for such a beautiful gesture. Two representatives from the Language Program shared encouraging words for the Head Start children in their language. Agnes Davis in the Nimiputimki (Nez Perce) and Matilda Bearcub in the Nxamcin (Moses/Columbia) dialect. This was quite an honor for the children and participants as well.

The Nespelem Head Start cooks,

Margaret Green and Lisa Watt prepared a very nice meal that included fish, deer meat, turkey, ham and other delicious goodies! Ellen Moses brought in camas and included it with the bitterroots the children dug. Deer meat was provided for the children by George Smith and Hotdog Carden. It was very heartwarming to receive their contribution for this very important meal, knowing that it was in part in honoring George & Sheri Smiths' daughter, Koleby, who attends Head Start and where Sheri is a classroom teacher-aide. It was appreciated and enjoyed by everyone. The hard work by Nespelem Head Start staff, parent volunteers and our chairmadam, Colleen Cawston is recognized and appreciated. Our past Program Manager, Vicky Desautel and Education Specialist, Nancy Johnson rolled up their sleeves and did their share in the kitchen! The clean-up is always the hardest task and the Head Start staff did so much to close the event. All the tables & chairs were put away by Luther Leith, Faye Nanpuya, Carol & Jena.

It was nice to see some of the children in their little ribbon shirts and wing dresses, joined by parents who also dressed in wing dresses for the occasion. Thanks for your participation in honoring our children!

COLORAMA PARADE Saturday, May 12, 2001

A beautiful float was created by the Nespelem Head Start parents for the Colorama Parade. A number of parents turned out for the event and did such an awesome job in decorating that eventually won them first place title for their float. Great Job Parents!

The day was overcast, but very warm. With all the excitement and the crowd encouraging them with applause, the weather was not a problem. The children dressed in various outfits such as their cowboy/girl attire, two having stick horses, wing dresses, ribbon shirts, Nespelem Eagle basketball uniforms. The float was adorned with Pendleton blankets, shawls, two small teepees and banners that were created by the parents out of Indian designed material that spelled out Nespelem Head Start. Sonny George was the chauffer and a number of parents rode the float, walked with their babystrollers or walked with the children who rode bikes or their stick horses. So, our cowboy hats off to the parents for a job well done!

NESPELEM HEAD START HEALTH SCREEN

On Wednesday, May 16, 2001 the Nespelem Head Start health screen was conducted at the Indian Health Clinic. Out of 70 appointments, 32 children attended the screen. Physicals, Height & Weight, Developmental, Dental, Hearing, WIC, Lead Screen, Vision were completed on each child. Once children have completed their screens, notices will be issued for follow-up on referrals and assistance provided to parents to ensure visits

Each child received incentive gifts and door prizes were offered. The following winners of the drawing were: Moon Dance book - Noa Pakootas, Brown Bear book - Macy Bray, Wee Sign Games book & tape – Blade Desautel, My Keepsake Box – Kyla Davis, Seat Belt Adjustor – Mercedes Nanamkin, Thermoscan - Joshua Esquejo-Squetimkin, Playground Pool - Terrence Jim, Armchair - Corban Wilder, Leggo Blocks – Minoka Redstar. Thanks parents, aunts/uncles, grandparents for bringing the children through the screen!

PARENT NIGHT OUT May 17, 2001

Parent Night Out was held at the Nespelem School on May 17th. A meal was served and sessions held on topics: Reading (Books & Babies) Judy Sprankle, Communication - Laura Jones-Edwards and Early Brain Development - Cathy DeSautel. To close the event there were door prizes for everyone.

Child care was be provided in the gymnasium. This event was sponsored by the Nespelem Head Start parents, Nespelem School District and WSU Extension Office. The coming year will provide a number of parent/child centered activities at Parent Night Out! A planning meeting will be held this summer to schedule times & dates. So, parents if you are interested in participating in setting these up, give Early Childhood a call. We'll be glad to have your support in developing great ideas.

END OF THE YEAR NESPELEM HEAD START VOLUNTEERS

This school year parent involvement consisted of a number of parents who created activities and achieved some very rewarding goals for the children. It takes a true commitment of active parents who consistently look at what will be beneficial and fun for the children. One the primary goals the parents get actively involved in is fund-raising events in preparation for graduation and a pow-wow.

This year's recipient, Anna Saxon, was awarded the Parent Volunteer Award for her active involvement throughout the year, with a close second, Stacie Redstar. The Community Volunteer award was presented to Linda Simpson, with a very close (annual!) run for community volunteer was - Gary Martin. Gary has been named for a number of years as the community volunteer for his contributions of goodies to the center for the children. Yet, he continues to attend their events at the center or he seeks their participation, like the annual Alcohol

Anna was recognized by the program and presented a Pendleton blanket for her contributions to the Nespelem Head Start program. Anna was elected the Chairperson of the Nespelem Head Start parent committee. Thank you Anna for all your time and commitment this year. Linda Simpson, who was the community volunteer for this year contributed in a huge way by making knitted bags and knitted belts for all the Head Start children for the pow wow and other events that took place. Linda was on hand for parents ribbon shirts as well. Yet, Linda found the time to contribute to fundraising events by cooking goodies as well. Those who worked with Linda gained from her talents. Gena Redstar and Joetta Nanamkin would attest to that! They were happy to learn knitting from Linda. We appreciate all your support and the time donated to Nespelem Head Start. Thank you Linda!
