Del Norte parents call in with more technical questions

By Dana Harris
The Triplicate

School officials expected some hiccups during the virtual learning logged online for the first day of distance learning Monday. However, technical assistance was delayed by parents waiting too long, according to Del Norte Unified School District Superintendent Jeff Harris.

“With 4,000 students on instant learning at the same time, our hotline has been a little overwhlemed,” Harris said. Harris is communitywide during his weekly vlog posted Monday. “In an hour in the morning alone, we received calls with only four questions on the hotline.”

He estimated the hotline was the number 377-464-7005 for parents or students. Harris still encourages in use even after a high, a column at the first day.

“If you can’t get right through away, leave a message. Our guys will let more than happy to get back to you as soon as they can giving everybody individualized attention,” he said.

Harris said the Triplicate questions were going through by the first day. “I’ve been telling everybody, whether they are in distance learning or in the physical building. In the physical building, we are getting a lot of help and that is all that matters. Be patient with us,” he said.

Bially, as of yesterday, we’re all new teachers. While there was some confusion with questions coming from families, by and large, yesterday went well. Today was a little bit smoother. We expect to refine and get better as this becomes more routine, more predictable it will all go on more like regular school.”

Harris updated the district’s status on providing devices for kids to log in to distance learning. He said as of the first day, DUSD handed out 1,200 distance devices, leaving a gap of 1,800 students. He added through donations and families with their own devices, about 400 students are still without devices.

Harris said a big culprit for the shortfall was not receiving or. The administrators ordered another 700 Chromebooks in March and April. Of those 1,200 were delivered and another 150 that were “lost in shipping.” Harris said.

At the end of June and July, the administration ordered another 700 Chromebooks, which were not received by the end of the August as promised.

“We’re working with that vendor to get them here ASAP,” Harris emphasized.

Volunteers take pride in keeping the town clean

As Crescent City’s senior park and building maintenance work, Dustin Loudahl said he has a dozen members on his crew. Loudahl said he takes pride in keeping Crescent City looking its best.

“I know everything I do every day makes my grandmother happy,” he said.

But due to personnel cuts and departures, now he and a crew of only three are responsible for the upkeep of more than 80 acres around town.

However, Loudahl said he has helped over the last eight weeks — volunteers from Pride in Community (PIC) group.

Del Norte County Supervisor Rogeruiltin said he has been high of areas Crescent City’s streets looking unkempt, with weeds growing unchecked. So he took action as part of the county’s First District and threw in on his volunteer cap to form PIC.

“The city has been severely hurt by COVID. I know that staff’s has been limited, so I let City Manager Eric Whitney know I was willing to help,” Gillis said.

Using public funds, Gillis put a call for volunteers and the community has gotten together. Volunteers have met twice a week to trim, shovel and blow. Eventually, businesses started chipping in to sponsorships to the cleanup efforts, including Ocean World, Lee School Sand Beach, Crescent High and Tel-Carrington.

“He takes pride in his volunteer cap to form PIC. It’s a good idea, especially with the city on money, to get volunteers willing and able to do something,” Gillis said while taking a strong time to the cattle town’s other Pride in Community. “He helps keep the community clean.”

Fewer COVID-19 cases reported in Del Norte County for week

The Triplicate

Del Norte picked up only two new cases of COVID-19 over the past week. As of Thursday morning, the county reported three active cases, 121 inactive cases and one death. There have been three hospitalizations, but none are current. Crescent County broke its winning streak on Sept. 1, reporting the first positive case since Aug. 19. As of the deadline for this edition, the county reported two active cases, 19 recovered cases and zero deaths.

Del Norte County and Del Norte counties reported increases in testing over the past week. The week-to-week increase in Crescent County was 57, bringing the total to 1,339 as of this week’s test deadline, with a total of 133 negative results. Del Norte’s number is higher, in part because there were included staff and distance from Pelican Bay State Prison. The week-to-week increase was 285 with a total of 7,310 tests, of which 7,188 appear to have been negative.

There has been a change in reporting from Pelican Bay State Prison. The county now includes the prison's cases with Crescent County. Del Norte County ranks along with other areas of California as having “moderate” for COVID-19 transmission as of a map published earlier this week. “Moderate” is one of four rankings given to the states’s 58 counties. As of Aug. 31, only three counties received a “minimal” ranking, while nine were marked “substantial” and in the remaining 58 the virus is deemed to be widespread.

The new rankings were un- ched late last week as part of California’s new Blueprint for a Safer Economy and replace the state’s earlier county watch list.

The criteria are based upon 10 metrics to determine which sections of California’s economy can open up and when.

Ranking are as follows:

• Minimal: Least than one daily new case (per 100k) and less than 2% positive tests.
• Moderate: One to 3.9 daily new cases (per 100k) and 2-4% positive tests.
• Substantial: 4 to 7 daily new cases (per 100k) and 5% or more positive tests.
• Widespread: More than 7 daily new cases per 100k and more than 8% positive cases.

If a county’s case rate and positive rate rise fall into different categories, the county will be placed in the stricter tier.

Every county in California is assigned to a tier based on its rate of new cases and positivity. At a minimum, counties must remain in a tier for at least three weeks before moving forward. Data is reviewed weekly and tiers will be updated on Tuesdays. To move forward, a county must meet the next tier’s criteria for two consecutive weeks. If a county’s positivity worsens for two consecuitive weeks, it will be assigned a more restrictive tier. Public health officials are constantly monitoring data and can step to a lower tier.
PREPARING FOR A PUBLIC SAFETY POWER SHUTOFF

Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) is a statewide effort to prevent wildfires by proactively turning off power to communities when severe winds and dry weather conditions are forecast. While turning off the power helps prevent wildfires, we also know it will disrupt lives and cause hardship for our customers. That’s why PG&E does not make this decision lightly and will only call a PSPS to help keep customers and communities safe.

HERE ARE 5 WAYS TO PREPARE FOR A PSPS:

1. Make sure PG&E can reach you before a PSPS by updating your contact information at pge.com/mywildfirealerts.

2. Pack or restock your family’s emergency kit including food, water, batteries, masks, radio and a first aid kit.

3. Make preparations for anyone in your family who depends on electricity for medical needs.

4. Practice manually opening your garage door (if you have a garage).

5. Ensure any backup power sources are ready and safe to operate.

For translated support in over 200 languages, please contact PG&E at 866-743-6589.

To learn more ways to prepare for a PSPS and any emergency, visit safetyactioncenter.pge.com
The Smith River was hacked or hijacked. As of now, the passwords have been shared on social media. This means that students will have access to their school email accounts and be able to use their school email accounts to send messages to anyone, anywhere, anytime.

We took such disruptions seriously and are investigating the incident. We will take all necessary and appropriate action to ensure the safety and security of our students.

We also wish to express our gratitude to the community who has reached out to support our schools during this time.

It’s very beautiful. It’s a great location. It’s a great view.

"We love you! GO SKY!!! We believe in our class of 2020," said Skyler Moore.

According to Eldridge, the filming process of adding an appropriate disciplinary action was not easy.

"It appears a student who shared the inappropriate material has been suspended," Eldridge said.

Linda Sutter, who likes to keep an eye on government activities at the city and county levels, couldn’t stand the sight of weeds growing wild around town. This day, she was up to her ankles in thick copter- bents, also known as pig face or ice plants, that had overcome these few feet onto the sidewalk near the barbecue pit on Beach- front Park.

“Somebody’s got to do it,” she said, adding that she volunteered for each PCP event so “it makes the city have fun and do a job.”

However, Harris said about 350 students may not have access to the Internet for a variety of reasons.

“We’re working to put parking lot access points into the community, so folks can join in on these,” he said. “There are free locations, which hopefully will help during the current crisis.

In addition, he pointed out students need to get Internet at home for the school year, especially if they cannot easily reduce costs to find a link to more information on the district’s website at www.dnusd.org.

Globally, rates of suicide are increasing at an alarming rate. Suicide is the second most common cause of death among young people. For every person that dies by suicide, another 25 make an attempt. Research indicates that approximately one in five teens has, at one time or another, seriously considered taking their own life. But none of these dynamics will cause suicide directly. It’s important for family and friends to think of suicide not as a single event, but as a succession of beliefs, behaviours and impulses that if recognized in time, can be stopped.

WARNING SIGNS

Clear warning signs precede the vast majority of suicides. Never ignore or dismiss people who indicate any of the following:

• Wanting to die, disappear or do themselves harm. May be shared verbally, on social media or in some other fashion.

• Sudden loss of interest in activities they once enjoyed.

• Severely isolating themselves from friends and family.

• Dramatic changes in sleep or eating habits.

• Reckless or erratic behaviour.

• Use of drugs or alcohol.

• Sudden changes in personality. Suicidal teens may seem sad, withdrawn, irritable, anxious, indecisive or exhausted, although not necessarily all the time.

• A change in habits. May include altered school or job performance, withdrawal from activities, deterioration of social relationships or other atypical behaviours.

Most importantly, someone who’s already made a suicide attempt is extremely vulnerable. No matter how seemingly feeble or half-hearted the attempt was, the person in question is at risk — after all, they may be “successful” the next time they try — and should be given professional help.

HOW TO HELP

Parents and caregivers may mistakenly believe that only a professional can identify a child at risk for suicide. However, the reality is that parents are frequently the first to identify warning signs and are most able to intervene in a loving manner. The most important thing parents can do is encourage their teen to talk to a trusted adult.

Asking teens about suicide will not cause them to become suicidal. To the contrary, confiding in a non-judgmental person about their feelings and concerns can lead teens to consider constructive solutions to their problems.

Additionally, parents should undertake appropriate protective and preventive measures to help their kids. This might include:

• Restricting access to potential means of suicide

• Providing ongoing mental health care

• Monitoring their activities (without intrusion) for the purpose of ensuring their safety

• Encouraging physical activity and/or creative expression as a means to effectively deal with emotions

• Developing an ongoing discussion regarding mental wellness, including the benefits of therapy and medication in overcoming mental illnesses

• Exploring ways to manage particular problems the teen is experiencing

• Calling 911 for medical help or another form of intervention if necessary

There’s no quick fix for suicidal ideation. The road to recovery is slow and windy, but made better by enlisting the help of medical and mental health professionals. With proper care the vast majority of those who have considered or attempted suicide can live long and satisfying lives.

SCOPA By the Sea

Sea Cruise 2020 is a Go! With the help of the staff at the City of Crescent City and the County of Del Norte, the Crescent City/Del Norte Chamber of Commerce and the Northern Knights Car Club will once again hold this wonderful event. We will be modifying certain details to adhere to the State of California and local health department Covid-19 guidelines, such as, social distancing and facial coverings when we cannot socially distance, is a must. But hey, that is entirely doable, right? So stay tuned for more information. We will be reaching out to our community to help once again with sponsorships and donations to make this event happen.

Secondly, as part of our outreach for media coverage on our beautiful region of the world, we are inviting travel writers from all over the United States to come visit Del Norte County and write stories on what they see and do while here. Of a Chamber membership, we are looking for local businesses to host these writers. We need lodging, eateries, and attractions that are willing to comp the writers while they are here. If you are interested in being a part of this project please let me know and we will be happy to add you to the list.

Best of all you’ll be supporting your local Del Norte High School Media Arts Class and the Chamber of Commerce with this fun fund raiser. Call 707-464-3174 or stop in at 1001 Front Street, Crescent City.
