County adopts commercial cannabis ordinance

By David Hayes
Staff Writer

Del Norte County has finalized its commercial cannabis ordinance with extended scope and reduction in setback requirements.

Deputy County Counsel Joel Campbell-Blair brought the reworked ordinance to the Board of Supervisors on Feb. 11. The new ordinance extends the county's Cannabis Business Combining District (CBCD) into Smith River, now allowing retailers to apply for shops north of Crescent City.

Campbell-Blair said the ordinance also reduces the required setback between commercial cannabis retailers from the state recommended 1,000 feet to a more accommodating 200 feet. This move came after a complaint last fall that a 1,000-foot setback created an unintended monopoly for existing retailers.

While the Board of Supervisors at the time did not give specific direction, the county's Environmental Review Committee recommended the new 200-foot buffer.

"The complaint or criticism we got is we accidentally created a monopoly for one business," Campbell-Blair explained.

The setbacks made it so whoever was the first retailer to set up shop, specifically Sticky Grove located just outside Crescent City limits was the only business allowed to operate. Campbell-Blair said reducing the setback down to 200 feet allows other businesses to operate within that space.

District 1 Supervisor Roger Gitlin appeared worried that a "community of stores" could all set up within close proximity.

Campbell-Blair explained the 200-foot setback only affects businesses on the same street. Once around the corner, the setback resets.

"Technically they could be 50 feet as the crow flies, but on different streets," Camp-

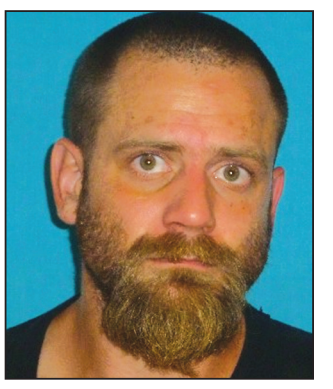
HERRING HERE

Amateur anglers hit the docks Feb. 12 upon word herring returned for their annual stay in Crescent City Harbor to spawn. Chris Hegnes, manager at England Marine, said fisherman travel as far as Coos Bay and Medford to catch their share of herring. The two preferred methods to catch them is by casting nets or sabiki rigs that have a series of up to six small hooks decorated as iridescent lures. Hegnes said herring is good for pickling, smoking or using as bait for catching lingcod. Photo by David Hayes.

Double-murder suspect in custody

Husband and Wife were found dead in home on Sunday

Casey Ryhn Potter, who was wanted on two counts of murder, was apprehended Monday morning, Feb. 17, attempting to get on a bus out of Crescent City.



CASEY RYHN POTTER

According to Cmdr. Bill Steven, Del Norte County Sheriff's Office spokesman, Potter was armed with a loaded gun at the time he was apprehended by sheriff's office deputies with the assistance of the Crescent City Police Department. He was taken into custody without incident, Steven said.

A murder warrant was issued for Potter on Monday after the bodies of two adults, a man and a woman, were found Sunday, Feb. 16, at a residence on Lesina Road, just north of Crescent City.

The victims were identified as Brian Gilbert Potter, 77, and Sherrie Lynn Potter, 71, the parents of Casey Potter.

The Del Norte Sheriff's Office is treating this as a homicide.

Potter was booked into the Del Norte County jail and bail was set at $1 million.

Steven said the Department of Justice Lab from Eureka arrived early Monday morning to process the scene.

Darrin Short is running for his hometown

Staff Report

Darrin Short is steeped in Del Norte County through and through. Born and raised here, he has devoted his time to serving the county including spending three years on the Crescent City council, 30 years as a volunteer firefighter and now running for the County Board of Supervisors District 1 seat.

Why is he running? This is his home, where he and his wife grew up, where they made memories as high school sweethearts, and where they raised their six children. He has watched the county change, the mills leave and Last Chance Grade slowly slide toward the ocean, and he cares about shaping his home's future.

"It's a great opportunity to be able to tell Sacramento the effects that they're having on our community — that we get lost in the shuffle down in Sacramento, that they pass laws that completely don't apply to rural communities," Short said.

Through sitting on the city council, he learned the inner workings of local government and grew passionate about local issues.

"It's just something that I think that I've just kind of been driven to do. Just finding another way to serve the community," Short said.

A few of the issues he is passionate about include: law enforcement officer's salaries, homelessness, and Last Chance Grade.

When Short served on the city council, the council worked to increase pay for law enforcement officers. Since a similar need has arisen in the sheriff's department, he wants to try a similar strategy for increasing their pay.

Darrin Short

"As a volunteer firefighter, I've kind of got my fingers in the public safety realm, and I believe that's the primary job of the government is to provide for public safety," he said.

"Hopefully we can… create a resilient workforce in our sheriff's department. I've got first-hand knowledge in our emergency medical and our emergency fire response, so keeping an eye on that and making sure it's the best for our community — I can do that."

Along the lines of safety is working on a Last Chance Grade solution. Last Chance Grade is a landslide that stretches three miles long on U.S. Highway 101 between Klamath and Crescent City. For 30-some years, Last Chance Grade has been sliding toward the ocean.

"The road has literally slid out of the right of way that we were originally given to make the road… and we just keep chasing it down the hill," he said. "I can remember how it looked a whole lot different than it does now."

Now finally the county has funds for a solution, and Short feels it is more important than ever to make a push for a solution.

"Our city and county leaders have worked hard and got that ball rolling, but we need to stay engaged," he said. "We have to continue that and just keep that momentum so we can get that project done or before ahead of schedule."

Finally, he wants to implement a temporary housing program for homeless individuals based on a program in Medford, Ore. The program, called Hope Village, is run by a non-profit and allows people affordable rent in a clean environment.

"They've been so successful that now Grants Pass is getting one in 2020," Short said. "So I hope to move toward getting that done."

Barrio Manouche part of DNACA Performance Series

Acoustic ensemble performing Feb. 21

By Stephanie La Torre
Special for The Triplicate

Del Norte Association for Cultural Awareness (DNACA) continues its 37th Performance Series with the group Barrio Manouche. The concert takes place at 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 21 in Crescent Elk Auditorium, 994 G St., in Crescent City

Barrio Manouche performs a repertoire of original compositions with an emotionally charged sound that is difficult to classify yet instantly recognizable. The acoustic ensemble is deeply influenced by a range of musical traditions, from the swing of Louis Armstrong and Sidney Bechet to the Hot Jazz of Django Reinhardt and Stéphane Grappelli, the Gypsy soul of Eastern Europe, the Nuevo Flamenco of Paco de Lucía and Camarón de la Isla, to the Avant-Garde sounds of Miles Davis, Ornate Coleman and John Coltrane.

Founder Javier Jiménez explains, "(Barrio Manouche) is inspired by the places we come from and the places we have lived, those that have come before us, and the nomadic Gypsy spirit. We believe that music is a primary form of expression and we use it to describe the world as we see it."

The group's international roots shine brightly in their music with members from Spain, Quebec, France, Brazil and California. Barrio Manouche has been recognized for its innovative style, complex technique, and passion for musical improvisations. Their latest collaborations include French Flamenco dancer Fanny Ara, African sacred dance Brazilian dancer Emaye Ama Mizani, as well as Colombian singer Iván Rondón.

Barrio Manouche plays what is perhaps the truest definition of World Music, taking their audience on a magical journey, with a unique fusion of cultures and musical backgrounds, for a joyous auditory and visual feast like no other.

CDFW warns of rise in distemper cases among foxes, raccoons and skunks

Residents reminded to vaccinate pets, remove wildlife attractants

The California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW) is reporting an unusually high number of canine distemper virus (CDV) cases in wildlife populations throughout the state. CDV can infect a wide range of domestic and wild carnivores, including some non-canids. Gray foxes, raccoons and skunks are the most commonly affected species.

Unvaccinated domestic dogs can potentially contract the disease through contact with food or water bowls that are "shared" with infected wild carnivores. Pet owners should be particularly vigilant in their efforts to keep their domestic animals from coming into contact with wildlife. CDV is not transmissible to humans.

"Keeping dogs up to date on vaccinations not only protects pets, it protects wildlife," said CDFW Senior Wildlife Veterinarian Deana Clifford. "Wild animals can spread distemper to domestic dogs, but unvaccinated domestic dogs can also spread the disease to wild animals."

Clifford noted that distemper is the most common disease CDFW finds as the cause of death in California's carnivores. Large outbreaks of distemper may temporarily reduce some local carnivore populations, thus wildlife biologists and veterinarians monitor reports of sick animals and confirm disease cases when possible to track potential impacts.

Transmission of CDV typically occurs similar to the common cold, via inhalation of infected respiratory droplets or direct contact with saliva, nasal discharge and tears. Occasionally other body fluids (feces and urine) contain the virus. Environmental transmission of canine distemper is rare because the virus does not survive long in the environment.

For this reason, CDV presents more of a problem for dense wild carnivore populations as close contact between animals is necessary to spread the disease. While distemper may occur at any time of year, CDV is more common in adult animals during the winter and is thought to be more common in juvenile animals in the spring and summer.

Distemper can cause respiratory, neurologic and gastrointestinal illness. Clinical signs may vary depending on the strain of the virus, the environment, the host species and the age of the infected animal.

Signs include (but are not limited to) depression, fever, labored breathing, diarrhea, anorexia, incoordination, moving in small circles, yellow to clear discharge from the nose and eyes, and crusting on the nose, eyes, mouth or footpads. There is no treatment for sick animals except supportive care.

Infected animals may or may not survive the illness. Animals with the virus may not show clinical signs but can still spread the virus for up to 90 days.

In addition to removing food and other attractants, CDFW urges the public to keep a safe distance from sick or injured wild animals, as animals that are ill or feel threatened may act aggressively. Please report the sick animal's behavior and location to the closest CDFW office and/or to a local animal control agency, as soon as possible.

Any wildlife encounter that is an emergency should be reported to 911. For non-urgent questions concerning wildlife, contact the CDFW Regional Office in Eureka at 707-445-6493 or your local animal control service.

Additional information about living with wildlife can be found on CDFW's website at wildlife.ca.gov/Living-with-Wildlife. If you are bitten or scratched by a wild animal, wash the wound vigorously with soap and water and consult a physician and/or contact the County Public Health Department.

Neurologic signs of CDV may not be distinguishable from rabies virus infection, which is a public health risk.

Do not handle carcasses of wild animals with bare hands. CDFW has protocol for safe handling and disposal of carcasses on its website.

For questions regarding distemper in wildlife or concerns about sick animals, contact CDFW's Wildlife Investigations Laboratory at 916-358-2790.

CANNABIS

bell-Blair said. "Our goal wasn't to create a mini-community, nor was it to space them out too much because we're working in this little space. It was the direction of the board to expand to allow more businesses to come in."

The new ordinance also reduces the setback between cannabis retailers and schools from the state guideline of 1,000 feet to 600 feet. Campbell-

Blair said this was recommended in the hopes that more areas with the CBCD will become available for retail and manufacturing.

Campbell-Blair said the 600-foot setback only affects zones around the Smith River School at First Street and Beckstead Avenue, and the Howonquet Head Start facility near the Lucky 7 Casino.

District 3 Supervisor Chris Howard asked Campbell-Blair if staff had better specified the definition of a school referring to a school at the Seventh Day Adventist Church on Northcrest Drive.

Campbell-Blair said the county council office is taking a broad approach to the definition of school. He explained that anyone seeking a use permit for a commercial cannabis operation can contest that opinion as well as school operators can protest a commercial cannabis business being located nearby.

"A school is a school whether it's accredited or private. The only limitations is if it happens inside a residence," Campbell-Blair said.

Del Norte County's CBCD also came attached with a Coastal Zone requirement that was applied to both the Smith River Community Services Boundary and the Crescent City Urban Boundary. Commercial cannabis activity is limited to existing structures and existing structures could be modified only if the building's footprint was not expanded.

In the end, the Board of Supervisors approved the ordinance 4-1, with Gitlin casting the only no vote.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

Separate sleeping quarters give loving couple peace

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 45 years. When she moved out of our bedroom, I was shocked. I thought she didn't love me anymore. Then I realized that both our sleeping habits have changed over the years.

She snores, and I toss and turn. She needs the room dark, while I like a night light so I can see while I walk to the bathroom. I wasn't around when my parents got old, so I didn't realize our sleeping arrangement was going to change. We still love each other, but just sleep in different rooms. Is this normal? -- WONDERING IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR WONDERING: The reason for the change is what's important. In your case, it's not because of discord or lack of love. While I would have suggested your wife try various kinds of sleep masks to block out your night light, your new arrangement is not an indication that there is trouble in your relationship. Many couples do this. So stop worrying about whether this is normal and be glad you have a solution that works.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and sister-in-law own a golden retriever. "Cookie" is their baby. The problem is, I live in a place where I can't have pets, plus I don't have a car. I'm disabled, so it's harder for me to get around.

I would love for my brother and sister-in-law to visit me for a couple of days. We live 2 1/2 hours apart. Well, my brother won't come and stay with me at all. He does visit, but only for about an hour or so because they refuse to put Cookie in a kennel.

What should I say to him without causing him to get mad at me? I feel he's putting that dog first, before his own sister. I miss seeing him and his wife. -- DOGGONE IT IN MICHIGAN

DEAR DOGGONE IT: Your brother and sister-in-law's goldie is also a member of their family. Demanding they put Cookie in a kennel is tantamount to telling them they must put their child in foster care for the duration of their visit with you.

If your brother is willing to drive 2 1/2 hours (each way) to visit with you for a few hours, he IS showing his love for you. Can you suggest he arrange for a neighbor to look after Cookie for two days? If not, in the interest of family harmony, stop complaining.

DEAR ABBY: The last of our children has graduated and left the nest. My wife and I are now starting to go through years of boxes, mostly papers and photos. In the process, we have discovered several checks written to us that we never cashed -- mostly for Girl Scout cookies or other fundraising items and birthday gifts for the kids.

The checks are mostly more than 15 years old, but they add up to around $300. Would it be proper to ask the check writers to reissue their checks so long after they were written? We could use the money now. -- QUESTIONING IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR QUESTIONING: You should have been more careful with those monetary gifts. To ask that the checks be rewritten after 15 years would be an imposition and likely not well received. Furthermore, if they were intended for your children for birthdays, Christmas, graduations, etc., any replacement checks should be made out to them, not you.

CR trustees vote to support Proposition 13

The College of the Redwoods Board of Trustees voted on a resolution to support Proposition 13 at their Feb. 4 meeting. Proposition 13 is the Schools and Colleges Facilities Bond, and is the largest education facilities bond in state history.

The bond will invest $15 billion in making California children safer and school buildings healthy, safe and conducive to learning. Of that $15 billion, $2 billion will be spent on California community colleges.

"CR has worked very hard to keep college affordable for our community," said Danny Kelley, Vice President of the CR Board of Trustees. "We have deferred maintenance on older buildings to keep tight budgets balanced year after year. We are asking our students and community to support this ballot initiative on March 3 to provide our campus with access to a portion of $2 billion in facility renovation funding. Our administration is committed to finding a mix of creative funding sources including matching grant programs."

The CR trustees and the chancellor's office want to remind voters that California community colleges are the largest provider of workforce training in the nation. Seven in 10 of California's nurses receive their training at a California community college. Eight in 10 of California's police officers, firefighters and EMTs are trained at a California community college. One in four community college students in the nation attend a California community college.

The chancellor's office reports that each $1 billion in school facility infrastructure investments creates 17,000 middle class jobs. They add that Proposition 13 will not raise state taxes and state matching funds will reduce the need for additional local property taxes for college facilities.

Del Norte helps recycle five million mattresses

Five million mattresses have been recycled by the "Bye Bye Mattress" program in California since the program began in 2016, according to the Mattress Recycling Council (MRC).

MRC established a collection event or collection site in all 58 counties, with three collection sites in Crescent City that have helped MRC reach this number — Unincorporated Del Norte County Bulky Item Pickup, Humboldt Moving and Storage and City of Crescent City Bulky Item Pickup.

"We have program coordinators located throughout the state. [We're] working on building relationships with the sites," said Amanda Wall, manager of consumer communications. "It's worth it to recycle your mattress."

If the five million mattresses collected were laid end-to-end, they would span nearly 6,000 miles — enough to build a bridge from California to Hawaii and back — according to the MRC. By recycling these units, "Bye Bye Mattress" helped California save more than six million cubic yards of landfill space.

"California is a global leader in mattress recycling, as evidenced by this significant milestone achievement," said Mike O'Donnell, managing director of MRC, which operates the Bye Bye Mattress program. "We continue to build on this leadership by growing no-cost mattress recycling options statewide and helping ensure a greener California."

The five million mattresses recycled to date in California through "Bye Bye Mattress" equate to more than 168 million pounds of material kept out of state landfills and recycled into new products or diverted for other uses including:

— 84,318,480 pounds of steel
— 26,344,803 pounds of foam
— 26,853,401 pounds of cotton, quilt and other fibers
— 21,978,631 pounds of wood
— 8,883,028 pounds of other materials (cardboard, plastics, etc.)

"Up to 80% of a mattress is recyclable… [We're] doing a lot of work and how to make the recycling process more efficient," Wall said. "There's markets for the material, and it's not going into landfill. You're saving valuable resources as well."

When a mattress is recycled, it is cut open, the layers separated and interior materials organized by type for reuse. For example: the foam is recycled into carpet padding, the springs are used to make new appliances or other steel products, the fabric can be made into industrial filters and the wood from box springs is chipped for use as mulch or biomass fuel.

"Bye Bye Mattress" operates through a state-wide network of permanent collection sites, public collection events and collaborations with solid waste providers, nonprofit organizations and small and minority-owned businesses. Collected mattresses are then transported from these sites to regional recyclers that dismantle and recycle mattress components.

Mattresses are also delivered to recyclers through Retailer Take-Back and Commercial Volume Pickup programs. Mattress recycling through "Bye Bye Mattress" is offered in all 58 California counties and 93 percent of residents have access to the program within 15 miles or less, according to MRC.

The program is funded through a recycling fee collected when a mattress or box spring is sold. MRC uses the fee to establish free drop-off locations and collection events throughout the state, combat illegal dumping and to further research that improves mattress recycling and develops new uses for the materials.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-19-869003-JB. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. THE COURT NARROWLY CONSTRUES SECTION 1125(a)(1) OF THE BANKRUPTCY CODE. OBJECTIONS TO THE PROPOSED DISCLOSURE STATEMENT ARE TO MAKE SURE THAT ADEQUATE DISCLOSURE WILL ENABLE AN IMPAIRED CREDITOR OR SHAREHOLDER TO MAKE AN INFORMED JUDGMENT ABOUT THE PLAN. OBJECTIONS TO THE PROPOSED DISCLOSURE STATEMENT SHOULD NOT INCLUDE OBJECTIONS TO CONFIRMATION, ALTERNATIVES TO THE PLAN, OR OTHER IRRELEVANT MATTERS. THE ONLY EXCEPTION IS THAT AN OBJECTION MAY BE BASED UPON A GOOD FAITH BELIEF THAT THE PROPOSED PLAN IS UNCONFIRMABLE AS A MATTER OF LAW. THE COURT WILL NOT TREAT THE ABSENCE OF AN OBJECTION TO CONFIRMATION AS A WAIVER OF SUCH AN OBJECTION FILED LATER WHEN THE PLAN IS READY TO BE CONSIDERED.

IF ANY OBJECTION TO THE PROPOSED DISCLOSURE STATEMENT OR THE SOLICITATION PROCEDURES MOTION IS NOT TIMELY FILED AND SERVED AS PRESCRIBED HEREIN, THE OBJECTING PARTY MAY BE BARRED FROM OBJECTING TO THE ADEQUACY OF THE PROPOSED DISCLOSURE STATEMENT OR ANY OF THE RELIEF SOUGHT IN CONNECTION WITH THE SOLICITATION PROCEDURES MOTION AND MAY NOT BE HEARD AT THE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT HEARING.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
CITY OF CRESCENT CITY
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held on Monday, March 2nd, 2020 at 6:00pm at the Flynn Center, 981 H Street, Crescent City, CA in order to discuss possible applications for funding under the Fiscal Year 2019/2020 State Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program and to solicit citizen input on possible activities to be included in these applications.

The General and Economic Development Components of the State CDBG program publish Notices of Funding Availability (NOFA's) each program year. The Department of Housing and Community Development (the "Department") has announced the availability of approximately $60 million dollars in federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding allocated to the State from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

This NOFA applies to CDBG-eligible activities funded under the Economic Development (ED) Set-Aside, Community Development (CD) sub-allocation, Colonia Set-Aside, and Native American Set-Aside. Eligible cities and counties may submit applications for CDBG funds under these NOFA's. This NOFA allows for eligible jurisdictions to apply for up to $3.5 million for a maximum of six activities. Typical activities funded under each of these predominately benefit low- and moderate-income Californians and include: Business Assistance (BA) Projects and Programs; Microenterprise (ME) Assistance Programs; Housing Rehabilitation (HR) Programs and Projects; Homeownership Assistance (HA) Programs; Housing Acquisition Projects; Public Infrastructure Projects; Public Facility Projects; Public Services Programs; and Planning and Technical Assistance Grants.

Eligible activities paid for with State CDBG funds must meet one or more of the three National Objectives listed in CDBG Federal Statutes as follows: benefit to low income households or persons (also called Low/Mod Benefit); elimination of slums and blight; or meeting urgent community development need (a need resulting from a State or Federal declared disaster).

The City of Crescent City anticipates submitting an application under this NOFA. The purpose of this public hearing will be to give citizens an opportunity to make their comments known regarding what types of eligible activities the City should be applying for under the State CDBG program. If you are unable to attend the public hearing, you may direct written comments to the City of Crescent City Attn: Bridget Lacey 377 J Street, Crescent City, CA 95531. In addition, a public information file is available for review at the above addresses between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

If you plan on attending the public hearing and need a special accommodation due to sensory and/or mobility impairment/disability, please contact the City at the above address or call (707) 464-7483 for accommodations.

The City promotes fair housing and makes all programs available to low and moderate income families regardless of age, race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual preference, marital status or handicap.
