By DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

The extended filing period for open public seats closed at 5 p.m. Wednesday, clarifying the election races heading into Nov. 3.

City Council

County Registrar Alissia Northup said several people filed election papers in the race for Crescent City Council.

Incumbents Mayor Pro Tem Heidi Kime and Councilmember Alex Fallman did not file for re-election. Incumbent Jason Greenough and five others filed for three seats to be on the ballot. Others filing were Herman Rinkel, Ray Altman, Alex Campbell, Eric Gill Port and Beau Smith.

County Board of Supervisors

Voters will cast ballots in a runoff election for Del Norte

County District 2 Supervisor between incumbent Lori Cowan and challenger Valerie Starkey because neither garnered more than 50 percent of the vote in the March primary.

Del Norte Unified School District

Incumbent Frank Magarino will face challengers Billy Hartwick and Sheryl Steiruck in Area 3. Meanwhile, Charlene Mazzei is running unopposed in Area 4. Mazzei was appointed to the Board of Trustees in March to replace Roger Delay who moved out of the area.

Crescent City Harbor District

There are three seats open this year for the Harbor District Board of Commissioners. Incumbents Wes White and Brian Stone are officially seeking re-election. However, Jim Ramsey failed to submit his paperwork by the Aug. 7 deadline. Crescent City resident Harry Adams has applied to run for an open seat.

Del Norte Healthcare District

Chairman Dr. Kevin Caldwell is seeking re-election, Tonya Percy has filed and incumbent Dr. Greg Duncan is not seeking another term.

Ozzie's release draws crowd

By DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

The Robertson family couldn't have picked a better time to take their regular vacation in Crescent City.

As big fans of Northcoast Marine Mammal Center for their work rescuing harbor seal pups and sea lions, the Robertsons — parents Kathy and Paul with their teenaged sons Tommy and Dan — got to witness a release in person Aug. 7.

Kathy said the family tries to come to Crescent City from American Falls, Idaho, every three years since their honeymoon and stopping by the Northcoast Marine Mammal Center or at least donating online for their fundraisers.

This year, however, the center was closed due to COVID-19 restrictions. But they were excited to be invited to the release.

Among the trio of seal pups released on the beach behind Ocean Front Lodge was Ozzie Octopus.

Ozzie was rescued May 21, emaciated and dehydrated at the Mad River Beach, at just 10 days old, weighing 15 pounds and measuring 2.4 feet long.

"He was literally a bag of bones," said Karen Helms, executive director of the Crescent City

Ozzie Octopus takes one final look back to shore after his release Aug. 7 before heading out to explore the wild.

At release, he weighed a healthy 47 pounds and was 3.1 feet long.

Joining Ozzie in his recovery were Notorious Blub and Shark Wahlberg. Notorious Blub was rescued on June 4 at three weeks old, 16 pounds and 2.4 feet, suffering from puncture wounds and abrasions. Upon release, he beefed back up to 47 pounds and 2.8 feet. Shark Wahlberg was rescued May 23 at about four weeks, 21 pounds and 2.2 feet, with wounds in both rear flippers and an infection in his right flipper. At the release, he bulked up to 41 pounds, 3 feet. "All animals are examined by our veterinarian Dr. Dennis Wood and we do a full blood panel to make sure they are healthy before release," Helms said. She added it is usual to rehab and release seal pups together to aid in their recovery and reintegration back into the wild. Each seal is given a progressing meal of fish bites to eventually full fish, re-learning to eat and chasing down their own meal in the facility's pool.

Once given a clean bill of health, volunteers carry the pups down to the water's edge in dog crates. Once doors are opened, and the crates tilted, the pups need little encouragement to enter the water.

Helms said the volunteers hang around for little while to ensure the pups do not return right away to land and human activity.

Speaking for the family, Kathy Robertson was thrilled to witness the event.

"It was amazing. They're so great. I love what these guys do. They're so cute, the seal pups," Kathy said.

She added they eventually plan to retire in Crescent City, and plan to volunteer at the mammal center.

"They have nothing like this in Idaho. I think what they do is selfless, and good," Kathy said. "They have wounded little animals, nurse them back to health and get them where they're supposed to be."

As a nonprofit, Helms added the Northcoast Marine Mammal Centers operates on donations, and like most nonprofits during the pandemic, donations are down across the board. Donations can be made on the center's webpage at <https://northcoastmmc.org>.

Prison nurses vote 'no confidence'

By CLAUDIA ELLIOTT AND DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

Amid the tension related to COVID-19 and pressures on the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation to release inmates, the union representing nurses at the state's 35 prisons has filed a grievance alleging that the state violated their employment contract by requiring employees to work where an immediate and recognizable threat exists to their health and safety.

At several California prisons, COVID-19 has been rampant. The deaths of ten staff and 53 inmates have been attributed to the virus. But recent testing of inmates at Pelican Bay State Prison turned up no positive results, although the CDCR reports that 26 staff members tested positive. There have been no deaths tied to PBSP cases.

But earlier this week, members of Local 1000 of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU) handed out fliers and stickers to employees at the entrance gate indicating that prison nurses represented by the union had approved a vote of "no confidence" in CEO Bill Woods and his medical management team.

Slow turn-around of staff COVID-19 testing — while inmate test results were available quickly — was among the list of concerns described by union representatives.

Jerome Washington, president of the District Labor Council 749, and Laura Slavec, district bargaining unit representative for Local 1000 SEIU, said the vote on Thursday, Aug. 10, was the result of a toxic work environ-

"It's been going on for years, and it's gotten worse with the promotion of Bill Woods," Washington said. "It's been a pattern with management trying to get compliance with employees using threatening behavior." An SEIU officer, Washington is not a CDCR employee.

Slavec, however, is a dental assistant who said she has worked at PBSP for eight years. She said Woods leads by fear and intimidation.

James C. Tweed

March 20, 1988 – April 13, 2020

Medford resident, James Currie Tweed, born March 20, 1988 in Crescent City, California lost his hard fought 9-month long battle with cancer on April 13, 2020 in Medford, Oregon. James grew up in the coastal town of Crescent City, California. Which was perfect for James because he loved thunderstorms and the sound of the rain as it fell on the rooftop. He also loved the ocean beach, hiking, camping, and being in the Redwoods. Really, he just loved being in the outdoors and exploring. He enjoyed his time in nature, away from the world. James also loved his family and friends very much! He always made sure everyone around him was comfortable. You could not be with James and simultaneously be in a bad mood. He made sure of that. Whenever he entered the room, he would make sure to acknowledge everyone with a smile and a hug. If you received one of those patented

“James hugs”, you knew he meant it! You also felt safe because James was a giant teddy bear and could most likely wrap his arms around you twice. At 6’7” James was proud of being one of the very few people who could see eye to eye with his 6’9” Uncle Jim. James was also very proud of his beard and everyone would agree that it was glorious! Graduating from both The College of the Redwoods and Southern Oregon University, James was also highly intelligent, but he would never admit that. James would talk with you about anything large or small, no matter how insignificant. He would make everyone feel like they were special to him. That was just the type of person he was. The outdoor spirit along with his humble nature led James to some very exciting and selfless careers. James was an EMT, a Volunteer Firefighter with the Fort Dick Fire Department and a Wild-land Firefighter with Cal-Fire and other private companies. He also worked as a substitute teacher for Medford and surrounding communities. James truly loved helping others, and he showed that by his career choices. James is survived by his Father and Mother; Chuck and Carolyn Tweed. Siblings Charles Tweed (Jennifer Tweed) Christopher Tweed (Michelle Tweed) and Chelsey Smith (Tressen Smith) of Crescent City, California. He loved his nieces and nephews; Dawson Tweed, Gavyn Tweed, Emma Tweed, Riley Tweed, Brody Tweed, Allie Smith and Daxten Smith. Along with Juana’s nieces Karma and Brookie. He had countless cousins and extended family. He also treasured his best friend John Crawford among so many others. He loved them all. James also leaves behind the love of his life, Juanita Hernandez (Juana). In Juana’s words “ James was a simple and humble, he did not care about material things. he was a very private person. He knew everyone but called only a few of them friends. As a partner, he was very loving and affectionate. There was never a day where he did not show or tell me that he loved me. He was also very protective of me and made sure I always had everything I needed or wanted. He took care of me in every possible way.” James was the greatest son, brother, friend, and family member.

In his honor, we ask you to go for a walk in nature in remembrance of him.

Del Norte Mission Possible recognized by Jim Wood for work with homeless

By SCOTT GRAVES
Wild Rivers Community Foundation and Building Healthy Communities

Nervous and unsure, the dirty, bedraggled man approached the Crescent City motel where showers and personal care items were offered weekly to homeless people. He did not have an appointment, but his friends who brought him there were willing to give up their spots.

"It was clear he needed a shower and it's my personal goal that anyone who comes looking for a shower is not turned away," said Daphne Cortese-Lambert, director of the nonprofit Del Norte Mission Possible. "Everyone deserves a shower and a chance."

The man emerged from the shower "looking like a new man," Cortese-Lambert said. He received a used pair of oversized shoes and pants that were too big and "walked off so proud and grateful."

"I have no idea what each person is going through until I begin to hear his or her stories," she said. "I am thankful for the lessons that the participants teach me each week."

It's true stories like this that inspired California Assemblymember Jim Wood this week to name Del Norte Mission Possible "Nonprofit of the Year" for his district, which includes Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino, Trinity and Sonoma counties.

"Given the critical need for resources and support for individuals and families who are struggling without a home or shelter, I'm honored to recognize Del Norte Mission Possible as Assembly District 2's Nonprofit of the year," Wood said.

Every year since 2014, Wood chooses a nonprofit that makes a difference in the lives of his constituents. "Under the dedicated leadership and commitment of Ms. Cortese-Lambert and the support of community partners and generous donors, people in Del Norte County have access to the support they need to improve their circumstances," he said.

The "Nonprofit of the Year" celebration was started in 2016 by the California Association of Nonprofits (CalNonprofit), which honors organizations selected by various California legislators. "The goals are to highlight the great work of nonprofits around the state, bring them into closer relationships with their legislators, and to elevate the nonprofits' profile in Sacramento," said CalNonprofits spokeswoman Christina Dragonetti.

In 2019, a record-breaking 102 legislators selected a nonprofit in their districts. Because of COVID-19 pandemic, the traditional celebration luncheon in Sacramento will be done online this year.

Del Norte Mission Possible was established in 2019 to provide shelter, case management, and connection to support services for the homeless. It is managed by one paid employee, Cortese-Lambert, and a volunteer board of directors. The nonprofit works closely with individuals, city and county agencies, other nonprofits and churches to develop locally based solutions that address the growing homeless epidemic.

In one week in July, Cortese-Lambert talked with 125 homeless people and offered at least 162 various services such as food, clothing and basic essentials, she said. The showers, located at Coastal Inn and Suites in Crescent City, "had 30 participants and continues to be an excellent opportunity for relationship-based case management," she said.

Cortese-Lambert's daily experience with homeless people is full of challenges, such as dealing with a recent drug overdose, domestic violence and COVID-19 issues. However, there are many successes, such as man who recently landed a new job and a place to live after receiving guidance from Cortese-Lambert.

As with many nonprofits, Del Norte Mission Possible works on a shoestring budget and is dependent on receiving help from many community partners. Wild Rivers Community Foundation has been a constant collaborative thinking partner, serving as a much-needed conduit for resources and has supplied deep technical assistance since the inception of Del Norte Mission Possible.

Earlier this year, the nonprofit received $15,000 in grants from the COVID-19 Response Fund established by Wild Rivers Community Foundation and Humboldt Area Foundation. The money helped supplement the shower program and helped address the need for increased services and management support during the pandemic.

The Department of Health and Human Services is a key supporter, providing reimbursement for staff time and the hotel room, and The California Endowment has provided a Small Grant for basic services. DNATL Community Good Council provides snacks and Starbucks provides coffee for the shower program.

Cortese-Lambert often collaborates with the Department of Health and Human Services and Behavioral Health to connect people to the longer-term help they need, and she has been working with Seven Angels Last Stop Services, a nonprofit organization working to create a transitional housing program in Del Norte County.

"It truly is a community effort," Cortese-Lambert said. "We couldn't do it without our community partners and supporters who join together to make this program a success."

Donations are always needed. Donations of money can be made online via delnortemissionpossible.org or by mail, and personal care items and small size men's clothing only can be left in the blue bin at 183 Lighthouse Way in Crescent City.

For more information call Daphne Cortese-Lambert at 707-954-7319. The address for Del Norte Mission Possible is 900 Northcrest Drive, PMB 74, Crescent City, CA, 95531.

Auxiliary Patrol officers will aid DNSO

By DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

The Del Norte County Sheriff's Office now has two extra sets of eyes and ears to help take a bite out of crime.

Don Krivanek and Robert Griffin are the first two Del Norters to volunteer for the DNSO's Auxiliary Patrol Program.

"This project has been a long time coming but it needed to be done the right way. Don and Robert are excellent additions to the DNSO and I'm thankful they've decided to volunteer," Sheriff Erik Apperson said. "This is a wonderful example of what makes Del Norte County so special. Quality volunteers are often the lifeblood of any small community."

In addition to their mutual excitement to join the program, Krivanek and Griffin share a lot in common — both have experience as volunteer fire fighters and extradition officers, commanding the Coast Guard Auxiliary Sea Cadets, and both are military vets (Marines for Krivanek and Army for Griffin).

Both successfully completed an application process that included a background check.

Apperson said both were ideal candidates to kick off the Auxiliary Patrol Program, which had been in the works for more than a year, but delayed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

"They already came with training, and just needed to be acclimated to building chain of command, equipment and radios," Apperson said.

He explained the Auxiliary Patrol will have a very specific duty to be the eyes and ears of the sheriff's office, reporting their observations in real time from problem areas within the county.

Krivanek and Griffin will patrol the county in an old DNSO patrol car that Apperson said is in decent shape thanks to Tom Kinney at California Auto Image. The vehicle has graphics on the side that read "Auxiliary." Apperson added they'll also be wearing a uniform they designed and acquired on their own.

While the duo will report any suspicious findings to dispatch, they will not take part in any other aspect of enforcing the law, including chases or apprehensions, Apperson said.

"However, they will not be driving around and waving," he added. "They will be geared toward problem-oriented policing, in the early and late morning hours. I'm proud to provide the patrol to the community. I certainly couldn't have done it without the support of quality people helping."

Apperson said his office, located at 650 5th St., is always looking for more volunteers for the Auxiliary Patrol Program. Several have already applied and are filtering through now.

"If you have turned an application in and haven't heard back yet, be patient," he added.

After 77 years, harbor district has proof of formation

By DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

Sometime after he was elected to the board of the Crescent City Harbor District in 2016, Brian Stone learned that the organization did not have possession of its charter documents.

"Nobody knows when it was formed," said Stone, who is now president of the board. "A 1931 election has been mentioned. But there's no form to prove it."

He began a search for the documents, which took on more urgency in late June when the organization needed produce the documentation as proof of the district's legal ability to purchase a small property on Highway 101. The Harbor District wanted to add the two parcels valued at $25,000 each the frontage to the harbor. Stone said harbor staff performed an exhaustive search of its then Del Norte County's files. No copy of the formation documentation could not be found.

"According to county records, the Del Norte County Court House was destroyed by a fire in 1943 and the public records in the County Clerk's office were destroyed," Stone explained.

Meanwhile the escrow company signed off on the land deal, with the caveat the documentation would be found. And Stone ordered the search to go statewide.

"Knowing the historical value and legal significance of the missing documentation, the district contacted the California State Archives Office in Sacramento," Stone said. Following a six-week search, the office of the California State Archives found the documentation that had been filed with the Secretary of State's Office on July 6, 1936.

"After 77 years, the formation documentation for the Crescent City Harbor District were found," he said.

On Aug. 6, Stone and Harbor Master Charlie Helms delivered a certified copy of the original piece of history.

"We have a lot of very old documents. I'm thankful they did all the work to get a copy of document

Happy ending for junior livestock auction

By DAVID HAYES
The TriPLICATE

As the Friday deadline approached last week to purchase an animal in the Del Norte County Fair's Junior Livestock Sale, Thursday was an eerie day for Fair Manager Kim Floyd.

"Thursday would have been the opening day of the fair," Floyd said. "It was extremely quiet."

In the wake of the fair being canceled due to the coronavirus pandemic prohibiting mass gatherings, Floyd and her staff did all they could to continue one of the fair's traditions — the Junior Livestock Auction. The event was transformed into a virtual sale. Youth advertised the animals they raised on the fair's website with a little biographical information about themselves. Buyers then contacted the youths with proxy letters and a minimum bid, based on the animal.

Floyd said the number of participants was down from previous years in the virtual format, but staff expected that with the allure of the in-person auction cancelled.

However, Floyd received a surprise just before deadline that transformed the unsettling day into a very special day.

"I had left the office to run errands when I got a call from a buyer," Floyd recalled. "He said, 'I want to take your rough day and make it a little better.'"

There were still eight unsold animals. The mysterious buyer bought five of them.

"He told me, 'I cannot keep going to the website and see all the kids not have a buyer," Floyd said. "I broke down and started crying."

By 4 p.m. Friday, the remaining animals also sold. Over the weekend, the youth dropped off their animals at the fairgrounds. Floyd said they kept safely socially distanced by remaining inside their vehicles. The animal's good health was confirmed, then they were taken to market to be delivered to buyers.

Floyd said the operation went very smoothly, thanks to a lot of volunteers. She especially thanked the members of the Junior Livestock Working Group, without whom the livestock sale wouldn't have been possible, including director's Kim Haban, Doug Wakefield, Steven Westbrook and Vanessa Alexandre; and leaders Robin Payne, Jessica Chamberlain, Jessica Phillips, Helen Ferguson and Heather Scott. Lastly, she thanked the many supportive buyers who went above and beyond minimum bids.

"We had a lot of first-time buyers who wanted to support the kids. Many even bought multiple animals. It was cool," she said. "I know a lot of people are struggling, but they opened their pockets to support these kids. The animals looked great. (The kids) did an excellent job raising their animals this year."

As an additional bonus, she added American AgCredit chipped in to each purchase amount for each participating youth.

While the livestock sale was carried off flawlessly, Floyd said she can't wait to return to normal.

"I'm very optimistic we'll have a fair next year. When we do have a fair, it's going to be big," Floyd promised. "I've learned our community is pretty stinking special. The support our community gave to these kids was huge. We have a great community. This is the reason why I love my job."

positive cases and nine recovered cases — a total of 14. As of the Thursday morning deadline for this edition, the county showed the total was up to 17, with three active cases.

According to Public Health Administrator Sherrié R. Ward, one on the new cases was reported by Curry General Hospital on Aug. 6 and on Aug. 11 a non-resident who was identified to be a close, prolonged, workplace contact of the positive case reported on Aug. 6 tested positive and was said to be self-isolating, along with his wife.

Curry's data is not as specific as that provided by Del Norte, and Ward does not include non-residents who tested positive while visiting in the county's totals. She also does not appear to have added the Curry County residents who tested positive in staff testing at Pelican Bay, so the actual number of people in the county who tested positive since March is not as low as the totals suggest.

An update for Curry and Del Norte counties is published on TriPLICATE.com and CurryPilot.com at about 8 a.m. daily.

Election

From A1

College of Redwoods Trustees

Northup said local voters will have a say in the College of Redwoods Trustee Area 7 race. A portion of the area is shared by Del Norte, Humboldt and Trinity counties. Incumbent Sally Biggin will face one other challenger out of Humboldt, Stephen Burbank.

Del Norte County Library Board

Three incumbents did not file election papers by the Aug. 7 deadline — John Roberts, Colleen Luttrell and Sierra Smith. Two other candidates did — Robin Fornoff and Marie Jondal. Northup said none of the community service district seats nor the fire districts will be taken to ballot.

She added that Richard Wier and Robyn Holt will be automatically re-elected to their seats on the Del Norte County Fairgrounds Recreation and Park District.

relationship. Because, you know yourself, as nurses, they went through the boards, they've been doing this a long time, they start to question their own judgment," Slavec said. "Is it me that's the problem?"

As a union representative, she said she unsuccessfully tried to resolve these issues at the lowest level with Woods, but hopes the vote of no confidence attracts the attention of officials at the state capital in Sacramento.

Woods did not respond to a request for comment. According to the CDCR website, he is the Health Care CEO and has been the Chief Nurse Executive at the prison for seven years. In 18 years at the prison he served in numerous supervisory and leadership positions. He succeeded Maureen McLean, a family nurse practitioner, in the top administrative position over Pelican Bay's medical department. McLean retired in 2017.

A spokesperson for the California Correctional Health Care Services did respond to The Triplicate's request for comment about the specifics of SEIU's allegations late Wednesday.

Regarding COVID-19 testing, Kyle Buis of CCHS said that there was a difference in the turnaround time for staff and inmate testing because inmate testing was done in-house and staff testing was done entirely by contract vendors.

"Due to the amount of tests, while accompanying high demand both statewide and nationally, some vendors in certain areas have experienced delays with test results," Buis said. "Testing for the patient population is conducted in-house and uses a statewide existing laboratory vendor contract."

Dr. Warren Rehwaldt, public health officer for Del Norte County, addressed the delay in the latest round of staff testing in comments to the county's Board of Supervisors Tuesday morning. He noted that there was disappointment all-around at the delay in results, which he attributed in part to the huge demand for laboratory services. Without quick results, Rehwaldt said, the value of contact tracing is greatly diminished. Often subjects will already be outside the recommended isolation period before results arrive.

"The big issue with COVID-19 and testing here is that the people who work in this institution live out in the community," Washington said. "So if you have an outbreak in a highly-populated area like Pelican Bay, it's going to quickly spread to Crescent City and Del Norte County. The medical system wouldn't be able to handle a big increase of positive cases here."

Rehwaldt, however, has previously commented that he has been more concerned about correctional staff taking the virus into the prison from the community and in early July expressed increased confidence in the ability of CDCR to keep COVID-19 cases out of the prison.

Other allegations

In an interview near the PBSP gate Monday morning, Slavec made three other claims that she said were among the reasons for the no-confidence vote:

- Turning away ambulances meant for staff to get inmates out first after a riot on May 24, 2017.
- Allegations of cross-contamination during the ricin exposure incident on July 23, 2019.
- Refusing to follow a Feb. 25, 2020, arbitration decision requiring clinic doors to remain open while seeing inmate patients.

May 2017 riot

As previously reported by CDCR, eight officers at PBSP were sent to the hospital with injuries following an attack by inmates on the Facility B maximum-security general population yard on May 24, 2017.

In a press release issued by the department at the time, it was noted that officers responding to an inmate fistfight were overwhelmed as inmates attacked them on the yard. Officers from three armed posts used their weapons to stop the attacks, firing a total of 19 .223 rounds from the mini-14 rifle and three 40-millimeter direct impact rounds.

Eight staff members were taken to an outside hospital with injuries; six were treated and released and two required hospitalization. Seven inmates were taken to outside hospitals, five of them for treatment of gunshot wounds. The press release did not specify the order in which inmates or staff were transported by ambulance.

Buis said Wednesday seat.

At the national level, U.S. Representative Jared Huffman is up against Dale Mensing in the 2nd Congressional District. And President Donald J. Trump seeks re-election against former Vice President Joe Biden.

Voters will also be presented with 1 cent sales tax increase measures from both the county and Crescent City.

that there is no record of any grievances filed at the local or headquarters level regarding the riot. Woods was the manager of nursing at the time, but was not the medical CEO.

Ricin incident

Regarding the allegations of cross-contamination during the ricin exposure incident in July 2019, Buis said he could not comment because the investigation into that incident is ongoing.

The Triplicate reported at the time that a joint statement from the Del Norte County Sheriff's Office, Office of Emergency Services, and Public Health said that suspicious envelopes were received at the prison on July 23, 2019. The location where the envelopes were opened was immediately quarantined, according to the statement, and three people were taken from the prison to a hospital for medical evaluations and later released. No injuries or illnesses were reported related to the incident.

In February of this year, an Eastern European man was indicted by a U.S. grand jury in San Francisco on charges of mailing two envelopes containing ricin to the prison. The man was a former California inmate who was deported to Belarus after his release. There has not yet been a disposition of the charges.

Clinic doors

Regarding the SEIU allegation that a Feb. 25, 2020, arbitration decision requiring clinic doors to remain open while seeing inmate patients was not be-

How to vote

Northup said all 15,339 county voters will receive their official and sample ballots by mail this year due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"If at all possible, vote with the ballots sent to you," she said. "If for some reason you can't vote and send it in, hang on to it and bring it to a polling location with you."

The 18 polling locations throughout Del Norte County will be listed on the ing followed at PBSP, Buis said that the arbitration decision rescinded a local memo that contradicted the Health Care Department Operations Manual, and provided a copy of the policy.

"This policy balances the privacy needs of patients with the safety of staff and the requirements of the State Fire Marshal," he said.

Nursing staff

Slavec said the concerns she described have a lasting impact on retention, adding that 10 to 12 nursing staff have left in the last year and the prison hasn't been fully staffed in the last three years.

"We can't keep nurses here. They're not staying here because of our package and pay. They're not staying here because of the way they're being treated," she said. "This lack of a safe work environment has permeated into the outside community, so qualified nurses are turning down opportunities to work at the prison."

Buis acknowledged many vacancies in the nursing ranks.

"Currently at Pelican Bay there are 45 RN positions authorized with 15 vacancies, and 27 LVN positions with nine vacancies," he said. "In addition to using registry staff to fill temporary vacancies, we are continuously working to fill available positions at PBSP with focused recruiting efforts in areas surrounding Crescent City."

Slavec explained that 80 percent, or about 28 staff members, needed to vote "yes" to achieve a vote of no confidence in Woods' leadership. She said they received 35 "yes" votes from nurses and another 180 from other correctional staff in support.

"Our staff have finally gotten to the point where they're done," she said.

The SEIU grievance

The statewide grievance filed on behalf of all represented CDCR and CCHCS employees by SEIU Local 1000 alleges that staff continued to be exposed "to a work environment that is resulting in uncontrolled COVID-19 outbreaks by continuing to allow inmate movement, and not fully enforcing all health and safety guidelines. Due to the present health crisis, Nurses are forced to work longer hours and to be redirected to other worksites."

The grievance also addresses inmate movement allowed at the end of May, resulting in outbreaks at a number of prisons including San Quentin, and alleges a number of health and safety violations including inadequate training, cleaning, distancing and lack of personal protective equipment.

At the deadline for this article there was no word on state response to the grievance. Copies of the grievance and SEIU hand-out are available at www.Triplicate.com.

Notice of Pacific Power's Request to Decrease Your Rates for the Energy Cost Adjustment Clause and Greenhouse Gas Allowance Costs and Revenues for 2021 (A.20-08-002)

OVERVIEW OF PACIFIC POWER'S FILING

On August 3, 2020, Pacific Power filed an application with the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) requesting an overall decrease to electric rates. This application will address the Energy Cost Adjustment Clause (ECAC), greenhouse gas (GHG) allowance costs, and the California Climate Credit. If this application is approved, this would result in a decrease of $5.9 million or 5.9%, effective January 1, 2021.

ENERGY COST ADJUSTMENT CLAUSE

The ECAC allows Pacific Power the opportunity to recover costs incurred when providing electricity to its customers. Those costs include fuel expenses, wholesale purchase power expenses and energy transmission expenses. Pacific Power compares actual and forecast power costs to the actual amount of revenue collected from customers to cover those costs. This application requests an overall rate decrease of $6.7 million or 6.7% for its ECAC rates. This decrease is due to power costs being less than the amount of revenue collected in current rates to cover those costs.

GREENHOUSE GAS ALLOWANCE COSTS

In this application, Pacific Power requests authorization to update the rates which recover the cost for purchasing GHG allowances as required by the California Global Warming Solutions Act described below. GHG allowance costs are recovered from all customers through a kilowatt-hour based charge on the monthly bill labeled Carbon Pollution Permit Cost. Pacific Power proposes an overall rate increase of 0.8% related to the change in GHG allowance costs.

RETURN OF GHG ALLOWANCE REVENUE AND CALIFORNIA CLIMATE CREDIT

The application also requests a decrease in the amount of the California Climate Credit (CCC) associated with the return of revenue from the sale of GHG allowances. The California Climate Credit is from the state of California's program to fight climate change and contribute to a healthy environment. GHG allowance revenues will be returned to eligible customers.* Eligible customers and the level of revenue returned to each customer type are determined by the California Legislature and the CPUC. Eligible customer types are:

- Emissions-Intensive and Trade-Exposed customers. These customers are defined and regulated by the California Air Resources Board (CARB). The credit to these customers will be paid annually.
- Small Business customers under 20 kilowatts. Pacific Power customers served under general service Schedule A-25 and customers under 20 kilowatts served under irrigation Schedule PA-20 will be considered Small Business. Small Business customers will receive a monthly bill credit that will be based on kilowatt-hour usage.
- Residential customers. Households will receive a fixed bill credit twice per year. The amount will vary from year to year.

If this portion of the application is approved, residential customers will receive a semi-annual California Climate Credit of $97.23 in April and October 2021. Small Business customers will receive a monthly credit that offsets 50% of the GHG allowance costs they pay.

HOW WILL PACIFIC POWER'S APPLICATION AFFECT ME?

Pacific Power's request would result in a rate decrease for most customers. Below is a chart showing the impact to each customer class. This chart does not take into account the California Climate Credit explained above.

Customer Class	Current Rate (as of 8/1/2020) cents per kWh	Rate decrease cents per kWh	Proposed Rate (1/1/2021) cents per kWh	Percentage Decrease
Residential	14.1¢	-0.8¢	13.3¢	-5.5%
Commercial/Industrial	12.3¢	-0.8¢	11.5¢	-6.5%
Irrigation	13.1¢	-0.8¢	12.3¢	-6.1%
Lighting	21.0¢	-0.9¢	20.1¢	-3.9%
Overall	13.3¢	-0.7¢	12.6¢	-5.9%

If the CPUC approves Pacific Power's proposal, residential customers using 850 kilowatt-hours per month will see a decrease of approximately $6.58 or 5.5% on their monthly bill.

ABOUT CALIFORNIA'S PROGRAM TO REDUCE GHG EMISSIONS

In 2006, the California Legislature passed Assembly Bill (AB) 32, the Global Warming Solutions Act, which required California to develop regulations in order to reduce GHG emissions to 1990 levels by 2020. In 2017, the legislature extended the Cap and Trade Program through 2030. The Cap and Trade program, administered by CARB, is one element of the strategy to achieve this goal. CARB encourages the reduction of GHG emissions by placing a cap on the amount of GHG emissions a facility can emit. The Cap and Trade program is regulated through the use of GHG emissions allowances (permits).

*Excludes program administrative and outreach costs, and required clean energy program funding.

Under California's GHG reduction program, starting in 2013, CARB annually allocates Pacific Power and other California electric utilities GHG emissions allowances. Pacific Power is required to sell all of its allocated GHG emissions allowances at auction and return the revenue from the sale to its eligible customers, less some revenue to cover administrative and outreach costs. Pacific Power does not profit from the sale of these GHG emissions allowances. Pacific Power and other California utilities must also buy a sufficient number of GHG emissions allowances to cover their annual compliance obligation under the program. As explained previously, the costs for buying GHG emissions allowances are collected from all customers.

AUNT'S MEMORY ISSUES PUT HER FAMILY AT A CROSSROADS

DEAR ABBY: I'm part of a large, close-knit family. My mother and her sisters have condominiums in the same complex. One dear aunt is having a great deal of trouble with her memory and word retrieval. She recently stopped recognizing her daughter and no longer calls any of us by name.

The problem is, some of this aunt's children are in denial. They refuse to believe there's anything wrong with their mom and insist that she is showing signs of normal aging. They have that might alleviate her suffering, it is very hard to stay quiet. It may or may not be possible to reduce her symptoms, but it seems like it is elder abuse to her of the chance to try. Please advise. — CONCERNED FOR AUNTIE

DEAR CONCERNED: Close family members are typically the first to notice memory issues or cognitive problems, but often they are hesitant to say something even when they know something is wrong. A recent Alzheimer's Association survey found that nearly three out of four Americans say talking to a close family member about memory loss, thinking problems or other signs of cognitive decline would be challenging. Initiating these challenging conversations is important.

Discussion can enable early diagnosis, which has important benefits, including better disease management, more time for critical care planning and providing diagnosed individuals a voice in their future care. It also provides an opportunity to address concerns before a crisis situation arises. While our cognitive abilities decrease with age, your aunt's inability to recognize her own daughter is NOT a sign of normal aging.

Helping relatives understand the seriousness of the situation as well as the important health benefits of receiving a proper diagnosis may convince them. If your aunt's children find it too difficult to have the conversation, another close relative, a friend perhaps, or her doctor can take the lead.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 1-844-477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site http://www.stoxposting.com/sales-calendars/, using the file number assigned to this case 2020-04485. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.
