Man recovering after being hit by vehicle

By DIANA BOSETTI
The TriPLICATE

A man struck by a car on Christmas night while crossing highway 101 near Cooper Avenue suffered three broken ribs and facial lacerations. Matthew Taylor was taken to

Sutter Coast by ambulance, where according to his aunt he was in ICU for several days before being released on New Year's day. According to Crescent City Police Chief Richard Griffin, 34-year-old Jedediah Hunt was driving the car but has not been found at fault, remained at the scene and will not be cited. "He (Hunt) was not speeding and attempted to swerve and miss him, but the subject was outside a designated crosswalk," Griffin said. The incident occurred at 10:45 pm on Dec. 25.

According to Taylor's aunt, who did not wish to be identified, her nephew is in his mid-thirties and is currently homeless. She added that she and her sister, who lives in Crescent City and is also Taylor's aunt, had attempted for several days to locate Taylor but were unsuccessful because he may have lost his cell phone, backpack and other belongings during the accident. On Jan. 5, Taylor was located by his family, and his aunt was able to provide food and temporary shelter.

Harbor asking permission to dredge swiftly

By DIANA BOSETTI
The TriPLICATE

Members of the Crescent City Harbor Commission may attend a North Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board in February in an effort to advocate for swift dredging of the harbor. On Jan. 4, harbor commissioners also reviewed a draft letter that would be sent ahead of time. According to that letter, harbor commissioners are seeking two outcomes: quick approval to use divers to dredge silt away from Fashion Blacksmith's synchrolift so the boat-repair business can move boats in and out of the harbor, plus a longer-term solution that calls for further dredging and relocation of previously dredged silt that's been sitting in the harbor's dredge ponds since 2013. "The CCHD has over 65,000 cubic yards of dry dredge spoils stored on harbor property in an upland disposal site by the US Army Corps of Engineers, with the original intent of having the soil removed to an off-site disposal," the letter stated. The dredged material has been identified as solid waste and can't go into a landfill. The letter further states that due to restrictive testing levels, the soil is too expensive to dispose of and has created a situation in which the harbor district is unable to complete maintenance dredging.

As a result, the harbor also has no upland disposal capacity and can't pursue emergency dredging. The latter issue has impacted at least one business owner. Fashion Blacksmith owner Ted Long has attended recent meetings to request dredging around his business, and has claimed that he could go bankrupt if no action is taken. According to Harbormaster Tim Petrick, the harbor district has applied for permits from the regional water board, but receiving them can take at least a year in some cases. The first permit application seeks a beneficial use of the soil that currently sits in the harbor's site dredge disposal ponds. "We have identified multiple projects on harbor property for which we could use the soil as fill for sea level rise mitigation," the letter stated. The second and most urgent project is emergency permitting for diver dredging of the area surrounding the synchrolift at Fashion Blacksmith. CCHD plans to employ divers with suction dredges to dredge material from around the pilings and under the lift depositing the material approximately 100 yards to the Southwest into a deeper area within the harbor.

Rice hired as full-time city attorney

By DIANA BOSETTI
The TriPLICATE

Martha Rice has been hired to represent Crescent City full-time. "I very much enjoy working with the city team, which as you are aware, is extremely talented and capable, and I look forward to many years of serving the city," said Rice. Rice has worked as both deputy city attorney and city attorney in Crescent City since 2009, though both positions were previously part-time roles. By bringing Rice on full time, her serviceable hours will more than double to 2,080 hours a year. "Ms. Rice is very talented, professional, and she has done an absolutely outstanding job, in my opinion, as city attorney for a number of years," said City Manager Eric Wier. "We are very fortunate. She is very astute at the various areas of law that we really need as a city. On several different occasions we've had things pop up where we needed an opinion and we needed it fast, and she has been able to accomplish that." Rice earned a juris doctorate law degree from Lewis and Clark Law School and has been practicing law for over 14 years at Crescent City-based Black & Rice, LLP. She has also provided legal services to the Crescent City Harbor District, Tolowa Dee-Ni' Nation, and the cities of Brookings and Eureka. By accepting the position, Crescent City will now be Rice's only client at an annual salary of $118,164. Prior to the city council's unanimous approval to hire Rice full-time, Mayor Jason Greenough asked how representation for the Del Norte Solid Waste Management Authority will be handled. "Are you going to have to step down from that agency, or is it as simple as the city billing the solid waste management authority for your services?" Greenough asked. "I think the Del Norte Solid Waste Management Authority is in a unique position compared to the other agencies, which I will no longer be serving," responded Rice. "Eric and I have a meeting next week with Mr. Ward (Director Tedd Ward) to talk about transitioning, and what those potential options are. The agency, which the city is a member of, will not be left without adequate legal representation."

Most Crescent City employees receive pay increases

By DIANA BOSETTI
The TriPLICATE

Several Crescent City employees received a 3.3% wage increase and will see another bump in pay of 1% to 3% starting July 1. The 3.3% wage increase has been retroactively applied, dating back to July of last year and will impact the city's budget by $104,700. The change was made, in part, because of California's minimum wage increase to $15 an hour for employers with 26 or more employees, and will equate to a $1 an hour increase per employee. "The primary purpose is for the city to be able to recruit and retain our employees," said City Manager Eric Wier, who added that as a service-based organization, city employees are Crescent City's greatest asset. The increase is also a "wage realignment" for all positions within the Crescent City Management Employees Association and the Crescent City Employees Association bargaining units, which includes just under 40 employees. The CCMEA mostly includes technical related positions (the information technology administrator, engineering project manager, finance analyst, etc.), and the CCEA includes public works employees - water, sewer, parks and street repairs. "We need to be able to offer competitive wages, especially given the employee market that we have now," said Wier. "Minimum wage has increased a dollar an hour for the last five years, so we as a city needed to evaluate and modestly adjust our wage structure to be competitive. We are hopeful this wage realignment helps us do just that as we have multiple positions currently open." During the 2020/21 fiscal year, all of Crescent City's employees agreed to forego salary increases due to concerns about how the pandemic would play out and impact the city's bottom line. "The city's general fund revenue is about 50% reliant on sales tax and TOT (transient occupancy tax)," said Wier. When COVID-related travel restrictions went into effect in 2020, Crescent City experienced a significant decrease in revenue over the first quarter from April to June. "However, we as a city responded concurrently by cutting expenditures and postponing one-time projects," Wier said. "The entire city staff also agreed to a status quo bargaining agreement, which did

California launches program to compensate survivors of state-sponsored sterilization

Continuing the state’s leadership to redress historical injustices, Governor Gavin Newsom recently announced the launch of California’s new program to compensate survivors of state-sponsored sterilization, created as part of the 2021-22 state budget package.

Beginning Jan. 1, survivors of state-sponsored sterilization can apply for compensation through California’s Forced or Involuntary Sterilization Compensation Program, which is being administered by the California Victim Compensation Board (CalVCB).

“California is committed to confronting this dark chapter in the state’s past and addressing the impacts of this shameful history still being felt by Californians today,” said Governor Newsom. “While we can never fully make amends for what they’ve endured, the state will do all it can to ensure survivors of wrongful sterilization receive compensation.”

The state is providing $4.5 million to be split evenly among all eligible individuals who apply, in addition to $2 million for administration and outreach for the program and $1 million to establish markers or plaques at designated sites that acknowledge the wrongful sterilization of thousands of vulnerable people. It is estimated that at least 600 survivors of forced sterilization are still alive today and eligible for compensation.

From 1909 through 1979, under state eugenics laws, thousands of people who lived in California state-run hospitals, homes and institutions were sterilized. Those laws were repealed in 1979. However, it was later found that forced or coerced sterilizations continued to be performed on people in custody at state prisons or other correctional facilities under the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation.

Assembly-member Wendy Carrillo (D-Los Angeles) proposed the program in AB 1007. The budget provided legislative language establishing the forced sterilization compensation program and appropriated $7.5 million to fund the program.

Fashion Blacksmith repairs boats in the Crescent City Harbor. If the harbor is unable to remove silt away from the business, it may be forced to close.

Dredge

In November, Plan-west Partners entered into a contract with the harbor district to apply for emergency dredging permits, which could be approved within the next four months.

The letter was not voted on because it was agendized as a discussion item, but Commissioner Brian Stone expressed concern about referencing Fashion Blacksmith.

“I don’t think we should be sitting here making comments and mentioning a specific business,” said Stone, adding that closed meeting discussions with the business further complicates the matter.

Stone also said he worries that putting pressure on the regional water board may backfire, and “raise red flags” that could cause the water board to wonder if there is a larger problem.

“You may not want to go down that road,” said Stone.

At least two of the commissioners disagreed, however.

“I’m totally happy about this letter,” said Commissioner Harry Adams.

“I don’t mind people looking at us,” agreed Commissioner Gerhard Weber. “It’s not just the harbor asking for this, this is for the whole community.”

Price gouging, not inflation

As people recover from the COVID pandemic, it is being used as an excuse to inflate prices and gouge customers.

Remember, California has passed an anti-price gouging law in April 2020 that was extended on Dec. 30, 2020. It is price gouging that is driving up prices not inflation. A local business tried to price gouge me, and I reported them to the state attorney general. If you believe a business is price gouging report them. Protect yourself. <https://www.communitypoweredresilience.org/resource/filing-price-gouging-complaint-state>

Entering the Tsunami Zone

It was about exactly two years ago when I started covering COVID in this column. I recall making a crazy prediction as cases rose dramatically that we might reach the unimaginable level of 50,000 infections per day in the U.S., yet we surpassed 300,000. Subsequently, we dropped back to that 50,000 number (which then frighteningly seemed an acceptable level). We’ve now easily surpassed the 300,000 level and it seems that we will likely exceed a million cases a day (probably already history by the time this goes to press).

And there’s a chance this level still may not be the big one. Case growth has drawn a classic parabola, a line straight up. And with this going on, as I survey the social landscape, I still see people packing football stadiums for bowl games (with nary a mask in the crowd) and marginally protected large New Year’s Eve celebrations everywhere, all this with over a half million cases reported daily. There’s something about headlines like “Expect a Tsunami of cases” which told me I needed to celebrate my New Year’s at home to make 2023 a more likely occurrence.

As with the Spanish flu, I’m guessing that eventually one half of the entire U.S. population becomes infected, that’s 150 million people. We already stand at 55 million and at the current daily rate that’s not far away. Additionally, a large number of cases are never diagnosed or reported.

Home tests are not recorded and many people will never test at all. This number was estimated at 17 million way back in June, it’s clearly much higher now. With Omicron, these numbers will rise dramatically. On the positive side, with Omicron there is a 50-90% (estimates vary) less chance you’ll require hospitalization and an 80% lower chance of dying.

South Africa has announced their fourth wave may now be mostly behind them. But, even with the dramatic jump in case numbers, they did not get the spike in deaths which was expected. What improves your survival odds dramatically? Vaccination. Even a 75-year-old lady on immunosuppressant medications after a double lung transplant has a less than 1% chance of dying of Omicron if fully vaccinated. Why wouldn’t you want those odds? Maybe most importantly, the numbers above suggest that half the people in this country never even need to get the disease. Clearly, everyone would prefer to be a part of that group. What works? Masking.

It amazes me that we still have ongoing studies checking into whether or not masks work. It’s just frightening that there is anyone who still needs convincing. Maybe they need an example they can understand.

If you dip yourself into shark infested waters with a deep cut on your leg and start thrashing around, the sharks are going to turn you into an appetizer. Now if you do the same inside the confines of a shark tank, where the sharks can’t pass in between the bars, you’ll be fine. Thrash away. MASKS ARE THE SAME. If you wear a mask which filters the viral particles (N-95) and fits securely to your face without leaks, you’ll also be fine. Is that such a hard concept? For heaven’s sake everyone, wear a proper mask! Sometimes I just fear for our world.

Here are some other things that make very little sense. Think of them as “COVID theater.” Early in this pandemic the mode of transmission was uncertain. There were those early reports that the virus could still be detected on some surfaces of that original ill-fated cruise ship even after 19 days. We all remember the images of guys in dramatic Hazmat suits with large devices strapped to their backs, spraying down large public areas with a fog of chemicals to kill the virus on surfaces. No matter where you were in public, there was some guy hired to run around marginally wiping down every surface in site. Did any of this really make a difference? Probably not.

COVID is an airborne infection. Unless you are in the habit of walking through a COVID ward, touching everything in sight then sticking your fingers in your mouth, you aren’t going to get COVID from some surface. Where money could be better spent would be supplying the public with N-95 masks. Masks with better designs, which can actually be worn comfortably without cutting off the blood supply to the face of the user, additionally working on improving air filtration and circulation systems in all public areas.

What else is “good” about Omicron? As it turns out, the reason it’s less fatal is that it tends to cause much less damage to the lungs. Respiratory collapse has been the leading cause of death from COVID. Also, an Omicron infection protects you from Delta which is far more dangerous. Interestingly though a Delta infection does not provide Omicron protection. The current vaccines protect you from Delta but not as well against Omicron. However, all vaccines do protect against severe disease and death with both variants. Of the current vaccines, the scale of effectiveness is J&J being the worst, then Biotech, then Pfizer, with Moderna being the best of the breed. The best booster (Moderna) looks like it may offer only three months of protective coverage, but they promise new Omicron specific vaccine by early spring. And If you feel slightly confused by what you just read, you’re not alone. But that’s what we know so far.

Okay, let’s say that you have done all the right things and you get COVID anyway, now what?

You must turn your home into a COVID ward. Maintain mask use at all times, all members in the household. Those contacting you should use gloves. Practice social separation in your household, or better yet, find a designated room and stay there. Have someone deliver you what you need. Stay in isolation for five days after testing positive. Only break this isolation if you are clearly better after those five days. Have an air purifier in the room and open windows. Tell people you’ve recently contacted you’ve tested positive. This isn’t a time to feel ashamed or embarrassed. Monitor your condition, watch your temperature, monitor your oxygen saturation levels if you have a way. Treat yourself like you would any flu, lots of fluids, maintain nutrition, take vitamin C (and in this case D), take mucolytics, get rest.

Very soon we’ll have access to COVID antivirals, Merck’s Molnupiravir and Pfizer’s Paxlovid, both requiring a 5-day course and said to reduce the chance of a complicated course by 50-90%.

Days 5-10 are very important. If you are not better after five days and are developing severe respiratory issues, you need to see a doctor. Don’t delay this visit.

Unfortunately, most of the old monoclonal antibody treatments are not effective for Omicron. Regardless, your chance of surviving is very good. The vast number of Omicron patients do well with supportive care only, and especially if they are vaccinated.

The pandemic has currently evolved into something that can attack anyone. The difference of being vaccinated or not now lies in the odds of having a complex case and surviving. Consider this statistic: In Michigan, an overwhelming majority of patients admitted to hospitals for COVID are unvaccinated. The number is 98%. Just think about that. Hopefully, I’m preaching to the choir here, but as we watch the current cruise ship slowly sinking beneath the surface, modern science has tossed us this miraculous lifeline. It’s up to each individual to decide if they wish to swim without it.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

LONGTIME FRIEND BRINGS OTHERS ALONG ON OUTINGS

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend, “Tara,” I have known for a long time. Early in our friendship when we made plans, she would bring her boyfriend along (without asking or telling me she was). When she began dating her now-husband, it continued. I did grow to like him and appreciated the chance to get to know him, but I thought it could have been handled better (a planned event where we all hung out occasionally, not her dragging him along to everything we had planned together).

She’s married now, and a mother, and now every time we hang out, she brings along her rambunctious 6-year-old. Tara’s mother is older and lives with her, and sometimes she comes along with them. I’m the boy’s godmother (we are close, he calls me Auntie and I love him dearly) but that doesn’t mean I don’t want some alone friend time with Tara.

The child is not well-behaved, so taking him out in public isn’t always pleasant or easy. I am a planner. I dislike getting railroaded with babysitting when I’m anticipating a fun girls’ day out. Tara usually waits until right before we’re getting together to say he’s coming, changes our plans or waits until she’s on the way and says, “I hope it’s OK ‘Bobby’ is coming with me.” I find it rude and disrespectful of me and our time together.

I hate to lose a longtime friend, but I never know what I’m getting with her and am now hesitant to make plans with her. What would you do in this situation? -- SIMMERING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR SIMMERING: I would tell my friend that once in a while I don’t mind an occasional change of plans, but when I have “a fun girls’ day out” planned with her, I don’t appreciate what she has been doing. Your feelings are valid.

DEAR ABBY: I have been invited to a wedding. I’m close with the bride and want to attend. However, more than 400 people have been invited, and I’m not comfortable attending an event this large where social distancing will be impossible. While I can try to keep my distance and, of course, wear a mask, the seating cannot be arranged so guests can socially distance.

I’m torn between protecting the health of others and myself, and preserving my friendship because she’s a bride in love and I’m worried about hurting her feelings. In our state, gatherings of 100 people are allowed if they are outside and people wear masks and socially distance. She thinks the coronavirus is a hoax and God will have it go away completely by her wedding. I need to RSVP. Please help. -- UNEASY IN OREGON

DEAR UNEASY: Tell your friend that you are sorry you will miss her wedding, but that you are not comfortable traveling at this time or being in large groups while the COVID-19 virus is still an issue and the omicron variant is more contagious than delta.

The COVID virus is not a “hoax,” and none of us has such a close relationship with the Almighty that He (or She) will make it disappear so a bride can have a large wedding. The bride-to-be is entitled to her opinion, and you are equally entitled to yours, so send your regrets and the reason for them, and do not allow yourself to be sucked into a debate about it.

P.S. A nice wedding gift might “soften” the blow of your absence.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: David Kaylor Case Number: CVPB- 2021-7064

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of David Kaylor A Petition for Probate has been filed by: Colleen Kay Kaylor and Diane Johnson, in the Superior Court of California, County of: Del Norte. The petition for probate requests that: Diane Johnson be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This Authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: Date: February 4, 2022 Time: Dept.: 2 Address of the Court: 450 H Street Crescent City, CA 95531

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner: Henry T. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

First Map Consideration Hearing for the Establishment of Trustee Areas for the Governing Board of the Del Norte County Unified School District and County Board of Education

The Del Norte County Unified School District ("District") Board of Education ("District Board") is currently elected using a "hybrid at-large" election system, meaning that governing board members must live in defined trustee areas, but are elected by voters of the entire District. On August 12, 2021, the District Board adopted Resolution # D21-22-4, declaring its intent to transition to by-trustee area elections, where each Board member must reside within a designated trustee area boundary, and is elected only by the voters in that trustee area.

District Board members also sit as the Del Norte County Board of Education ("County Board"), meaning any change to the method of election to the District Board will result in a corresponding change to the method of election for the County Board. As a result, on August 12, 2021, the County Board similarly adopted Resolution # C21-22-2, declaring its intent to transition to by-trustee area elections.

On September 9 and September 23, 2021, the District and County Boards held two joint public hearings to receive input from the community on the trustee-area map creation process, pursuant to Elections Code section 10010, subdivision (a)(1).

Draft trustee area boundary maps will soon be published by the District's demographers for the public's consideration, and will be available to view on the District's website. Notice is hereby given that the District Board and County Board will conduct a joint Public Hearing to receive community input on these maps, pursuant to Elections Code section 10010, subdivision (a)(2). The first of these two public hearings will occur as follows:

Date: Thursday, January 13, 2022
Time: 4:00 pm
Location: Del Norte County Unified School District Education Center Building Boardroom 301 W. Washington Blvd.
Crescent City, CA 95531

In the event of public health, this meeting will take place both online and in person. We will post a link to the meeting on our website in advance of the meeting: <https://www.dnused.org/Page/1>.

For convenience, comments may be made via email in advance, and the District may provide a telephonic option for verbal comments. If you wish to address the Board, you may email your public comment in advance to: ashaw@dnused.org

Should you have any questions regarding this notice, call the Superintendent's Office at (707) 464-0200, ext. 10200

Recreational bag limits reduced for some rockfish species

The California Department of Fish and Wildlife recently announced multiple changes to recreational rockfish sub-bag limits which took effect Jan. 6. The emergency regulations were adopted by the California Fish and Game Commission in mid-December to align with federal regulations for the species. Changes to the sub-bag limits within the 10-fish daily Rockfish, Cabezon, Greenling complex bag and possession limit include:

- A decrease to the statewide sub-bag limit for vermilion rockfish (Sebastes miniatus) from five fish to four fish
- A new statewide sub-bag limit for quillback rockfish (S. maliger) of one fish
- A new statewide sub-bag limit for copper rockfish (S. caurinus) of one fish

The RCG complex has a daily 10-fish bag and possession aggregate limit, meaning that each angler’s catch can be composed of any combination of rockfish, cabezon or greenling, as long as total catch remains at or below 10 fish. Sub-bag limits within the RCG bag limit are implemented when harvest guidelines cannot accommodate the 10-fish bag limit being composed of a single species.

“New stock assessments conducted in 2021 for quillback and copper rockfish suggest severe population declines for these two species. Also, unsustainably high catches of vermilion rockfish have occurred each year since 2015,” said CDFW Environmental Program Manager Marci Yaremko. “For these reasons, new federal regulations were needed to implement reduced sport bag limits for these three species in 2022.”

Despite these changes, there are still numerous opportunities to catch other groundfish species with healthy populations in 2022 when seasons are open.

Anglers are reminded that when rockfish or any other species subject to barotrauma are released, use of a descending device is encouraged to return the fish to the bottom.

In an effort to better assist anglers with identifying rockfish species while fishing, CDFW is preparing new informational flyers to distinguish copper and quillback rockfish from similar-looking species, such as gopher and canary rockfish. The flyers will be available soon on CDFW’s Fish and Shellfish Identification page and the Marine Region Groundfish page.

Anglers should check CDFW’s website for the current regulations before fishing for groundfish, which include rockfish, lingcod and other species as defined in the California Code of Regulations, Title 14, section 1.91, as changes can occur in-season. Though the boat-based groundfish fishery is closed statewide as of Jan. 1, the fishery is open year-round for shore-based angling and spearfishing. The boat-based recreational groundfish fishery season dates and depth limits are expected to be the same as in 2021 and are as follows:

- In the Northern Management Area (the Oregon/California state line to near Cape Mendocino) and the Mendocino Management Area (near Cape Mendocino to Point Arena) from May 1 through Oct. 31, take is prohibited seaward of the 30 fathom (180 feet) Rockfish Conservation Area (RCA) boundary line. From Nov. 1 through Dec. 31, groundfish may be taken at any depth in these two areas.

- In the San Francisco Management Area (Point Arena to Pigeon Point) and the Central Management Area (Pigeon Point to Point Conception) from April 1 through Dec. 31, take is prohibited seaward of the 50 fathom (300 feet) RCA boundary line.
- In the Southern Management Area (Point Conception to the U.S./Mexico border) from March 1 through Dec. 31 take is prohibited seaward of the 100 fathom (600 feet) RCA boundary line.
- In all Groundfish Management Areas, the RCA boundary line for the established depth constraint is the series of connected waypoints defined in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 50, Part 660, Subpart C.

For more information on the new 2022 recreational rockfish sub-bag limits and to stay informed of in-season changes, please call the Recreational Groundfish Hotline at (831) 649-2801 or visit CDFW’s summary of recreational groundfish fishing regulations for 2022. For background information on groundfish science and management, please visit CDFW’s Marine Region Groundfish page.

Newsom highlights new laws taking effect January 1

Governor Gavin Newsom recently highlighted new bills signed into law in 2021 that went into effect January 1, including historic measures to expand worker protections, tackle the state’s housing crisis, redress historical injustices, increase voter access and more.

“In partnership with the Legislature, we’ve advanced hundreds of new bills this year to make meaningful progress on an array of issues that matter deeply to Californians across the state,” said Newsom. “I thank Pro Tem Atkins and Speaker Rendon for their leadership in advancing historic measures to improve the lives of Californians, including new tools to boost our housing supply, improve workplace conditions and build a stronger state. As we head into the new year, I look forward to our continued work to expand opportunity for all Californians.”

Among the new laws that took effect January 1 are protections for workers and important measures to increase the state’s supply of affordable housing, create a more inclusive state, expand voter access and protect consumers and the environment from harmful chemicals:

AB 701 by Assembly-member Lorena Gonzalez (D-San Diego) establishes nation-leading transparency measures for companies to disclose warehouse production quota descriptions and prohibits the use of algorithms that disrupt basic worker rights.

SB 62 by Senator María Elena Durazo (D-Los Angeles) ends the garment industry’s practice of piece-rate compensation and expands fashion brands’ liability for unpaid wages.

SB 8 by Senator Nancy Skinner (D-Berkeley) extends the provisions of the Housing Crisis Act of 2019 through 2030 to accelerate the approval process for housing projects and curtail local governments’ ability to down-zone, among other provisions.

SB 9 by State Senate President pro Tempore Toni G. Atkins (D-San Diego) facilitates the process for homeowners to build a duplex or split their current residential lot.

SB 10 by Senator Scott Wiener (D-San Francisco) creates a voluntary process for local governments to implement streamlined zoning for new multi-unit housing near transit or in urban infill areas.

SB 2 by Senate President pro Tempore Toni Atkins (D-San Diego) and Senator Steven Bradford (D-Gardena) creates a system within the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) to investigate and revoke or suspend peace officer certification for serious misconduct.

SB 16 by Senator Nancy Skinner (D-Berkeley) expands public access to police misconduct records related to unreasonable or excessive use of force, discriminatory or prejudiced behavior and other misconduct.

AB 338 by Assembly-member James C. Ramos (D-Highland) allows the placement of a monument in Capitol Park honoring Sacramento-area tribes, replacing the sculpture of missionary Junipero Serra.

AB 855 by Assembly-member James C. Ramos (D-Highland) removes Columbus Day as a judicial holiday and replaces it with Native American Day in September.

AB 600 by Assembly-member Joaquin Arambula (D-Fresno) ensures that crimes targeting people due to their immigration status are considered a hate crime.

AB 37 by Assembly-member Marc Berman (D-Menlo Park) makes permanent the measure implemented last year to send a vote-by-mail ballot to every active registered voter.

SB 389 by Senator Bill Dodd (D-Napa) allows restaurants, bars, breweries and wineries that sell food to continue offering to-go alcoholic beverages with food orders, building on state regulatory relief announced in June.

AB 1084 by Assembly-member Evan Low (D-Campbell) requires retail department stores to provide a gender-neutral section for toys and child care items.

AB 652 by Assembly-member Laura Friedman (D-Glendale) bans the use of toxic PFASs in products for children, such as car seats and cribs, and AB 1200 by Assembly-member Philip Ting (D-San Francisco) prohibits their use in disposable food packaging.

In October, Newsom acted on the final bills of 2021, which advanced his historic California Comeback Plan featuring the most robust small business relief package in the country, unprecedented direct financial and rent relief for Californians, the largest increase in homeless housing in state history, universal Pre-K and a historic $15 billion climate package to advance California’s nation-leading climate agenda.

Newsom also signed historic measures that took effect immediately this year, such as SB 796 by Senator Steven Bradford (D-Gardena), which authorized Los Angeles County to return Bruce’s Beach property to the Bruce family nearly a century after the land was wrongfully taken from them. Since then, the California Department of Parks and Recreation has amended the property deed, removing restrictions, and the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors voted to accept the amended property deed, officially allowing the transfer of the property to the Bruce Family. SB 65, the California Mommibus Act by Senator Nancy Skinner (D-Berkeley) will go into effect in August 2022, helping tackle racial and ethnic disparities in maternal health outcomes by improving research and data collection. And AB 101 by Assembly-member Jose Medina (D-Riverside) which – upon appropriation of funds by the Legislature – requires high schools to provide ethnic studies starting in academic year 2025-26 and make completion of a one-semester course a high school graduation requirement beginning with students graduating in 2029-2030.
