Bodycam video shows altercation that led to shooting

By DAVID RUPKALVIS
The TriPLICATE

The Del Norte County Sheriff’s Office released bodycam footage from an incident that left a man dead after he was shot by deputies. The sheriff’s office said the investigation into the incident that occurred August 25 is ongoing, but the bodycam footage was released so the community has all the available information related to the incident. In the two videos released by the sheriff’s office, deputies are shown talking to 38-year-old Robert Anderson after deputies and the California Highway Patrol responded to Parkway Drive and Sherwood Lane after receiving a 911 call. In the longer of the two videos, deputies and Anderson had a conversation that went on for several minutes. Early in the video, Anderson told deputies he had a knife, which he pulled out of a hoodie pocket. “I’m just telling y’all, I’ve got a knife in here,” Anderson said. “I’m just letting y’all know.” A deputy responded, “Can you put it on the ground,” and Anderson did, placing the large knife next to where he was standing. Both Anderson and the deputies were calm during most of the video, as deputies urged Anderson to move away from the knife.

“We all should have rights to stand where we want to stand,” Anderson told them. “I understand, we just want to get you away from the knife,” a deputy told him. While he moved a few feet away, Anderson remained close

Scientists looking for answers to climate impact along coast

By DAVID RUPKALVIS
The TriPLICATE

As the ocean changes due to climate change, the pressure is on scientists and others to find a way to determine how the ocean will adapt and if people can help protect it. During a discussion with the Oregon Shores Conservation Coalition last week, Mark Carr, a professor of marine ecology in the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology at the University of California Santa Cruz, said the challenge is immense. “In my humble opinion, climate change is the greatest challenge in our current time,” Carr said. “It manifests itself in many ways.” Carr said as the ocean warms up, especially near the coast, there are clear changes in currents, sea levels, acidity as well as temperature and precipitation. To prepare for a changing coastal ocean, scientists like Carr must be prepared. “How can we best prepare coastal marine life and human communities for the impact,” he said. When looking at a species in the coastal ocean, Carr said there are three questions that must be answered. First, the likelihood of exposure. Second, sensitivity to change and finally, adaptive capacity. “Those three factors ultimately determine the vulnerability of a particular species,” Carr said. To prepare for the changes, Carr and a team created a climate vulnerability assessment. The assessment is not easy, but is could be effective.

California Gov. Gavin Newsom easily held his seat as voters across California voted to retain the governor during a recall election Tuesday. In the latest results released by the California secretary of state’s office, no votes, or votes to keep Newsom in office, were leading with 63.9% of the vote. Yes votes, or votes to recall Newsom, were at 36.1%. The final results won’t be known for weeks, but with a lead of 2.6 million votes, Newsom easily retained his seat. In Del Norte County, the results were flipped as the more-conservative county voted to recall Newsom. Final voted released by the

Del Norte County reports 21 COVID deaths

By JULIE AKINS
For the TriPLICATE

Del Norte County has among the highest incidence of COVID-19 in the state with an average of 30 new cases every day. 21 have died of COVID-19 in the last three weeks, according to Sutter Coast Hospital, which presented its findings at the weekly Del Norte County COVID-19 Surge update Thursday. Of those deaths, 100% were unvaccinated. This is against the backdrop of Del Norte County pacing at 44.6% vaccination rates. That’s about 13% less than the California average. “Del Norte County has the highest rate of transmission according to the Centers for Disease control,” said Public Health Official Dr. Aaron Stutz. “Early detection is important. If you’re having trouble breathing, if your symptoms are possibly COVID related, get help early.”

Seventeen of the 21 deaths were in the hospital. That means four people didn’t make it before getting care. Part of that reason, according to Stutz, may be that people are unaware that their symptoms are COVID related or they have resistance to the notion that COVID can be deadly. “A large portion of our unvaccinated patients in critical care are younger,” said Sutter Coast Hospital Spokesperson Ellie Popadic. People between 18 and 49 were especially hard hit with 1,777 new cases. Dr. Stutz reported that the surge of COVID began in August and he expects it will take two to three months to fully resolve. Meantime, he urged cooperation. “People who are unvaccinated make up 100% of the deaths,” he said. “We’re hoping to see that vaccination rate go up. But also, please avoid large gatherings and wear your masks.” Superintendent of Schools Jeff

Harris, pointed to a problem with parents sending symptomatic kids to school. “1.5% COVID positive people result in a 12% quarantine rate” said Harris. Right now Del Norte schools have 313 people out on quarantine. Harris asked that parents keep a closer eye on their kids. “Children walk into school symptomatic. If your child has symptoms, keep them home,” he said. Stutz agreed, saying that wearing a mask and staying home if you’re sick is the best hope for keeping kids in school which he described as the “utmost importance” for overall public health and benefit. “If we figure out how to do this, I really feel this is the way through the pandemic,” Stutz said. He also pleaded with those infected to get early treatment with Monoclonal Antibody Therapy. “It’s a needle stick. It gives your body the antibodies to fight the virus,” Stutz said. Among the grimmer questions asked in the weekly meeting from the public was about a refrigeration truck in front of the mortuary in Crescent City. The rumor on social media sites has been that the truck was part of the city’s posturing to frighten people into getting vaccinated. “It’s really being used. There are currently 27 cases at the mortuary. It’s normally six to seven cases. The mortuary is unable to keep up with the deaths,” said City Manager Eric Wier. Rural counties throughout California, especially those in Northern California, have tended to be less vaccinated and have higher rates of infection according to California health officials, but according to the tracking data of new cases, Del Norte County is among the hardest hit in the state.

to the knife while carrying on the conversation.

“What are y’all worried about,” Anderson said. “I’m worried about everything. I just lost my home. This is the matrix we’re living in. We’ve been lied to, all be lied to.”

At one point, Anderson was asked to step back, which he did, but the knife remained at his side.

“Don’t worry about the knife,” he told deputies. “Y’all got gun, tasers.”

Near the end, he began yelling to a woman who was behind the deputies. He asked the woman if she was recording things, then he reached down, grabbed the knife and began running toward a deputy, swinging the knife as he approached.

The deputy was able to step away from the knife, and Anderson continued running toward others when multiple officers opened fire. He fell to the ground several feet away, and law enforcement attempted to handcuff him.

Even after being shot, he resisted being handcuffed and it took several deputies to hold him down to put handcuffs on. As soon as he was restrained, deputies began looking for the injuries, while people were crying and screaming in the background.

Deputies located several gunshot wounds and began offering medical treatment before the video ended.

According to the sheriff’s office, deputies gave Anderson first aid until an ambulance arrived. He was declared dead after arriving at the hospital.

This still frame from a bodycam video shows Robert Anderson after he picked up a large knife and began running toward Del Norte County Sheriff’s deputies. Anderson swung the knife at a deputy before he was shot.

OBITUARIES

Vincent James Crandell

On Wednesday, August 25th, Vincent James Crandell suddenly passed away at the age of 57. He is now free from all hurt and pain the world is currently experiencing and enjoying his time with his family and friends who have also passed on.

Vincent was born to Wayne and Irene Crandell on February 1, 1964, in Baltimore, MD. He enlisted with the US Air Force at the age of 18 in August of 1982 and served until May of 1992. In February of 1994, he joined the Department of Corrections, where he was employed until he retired after 26 years in August of 2020.

Ricky Graves

Ricky Graves (62) Crescent City, CA
Deceased August 26th, 2021 From COVID-19

Rick was born May 6th, 1959 in Denver, CO to Vernal and Madean Graves, the youngest of four siblings. During his early years, Rick was active in the church where he played the drums, sang in a traveling quartet with his father and accomplished many achievements in the Royal Rangers. Rick was married forty years to his beautiful wife Kipp in Glenwood Springs, CO on the “12th of never” on a “September morn” 1981. Rick and Kipp then moved to the Sacramento Valley, where their oldest son Lucas was born. Rick became a correctional officer with the CDCR and his first assignment he fondly referred to as Wackyville. He worked there until a new prison opened in the far northern corner of California. Before they moved, they welcomed Katie. In Crescent City, Rick enjoyed his job at Pelican Bay. He ran recycling; he oversaw visitation; he was responsible for recruiting and commander of the honor guard, his absolute favorite. He retired as lieutenant after 30 years of faithful service. While living in Crescent City, Kipp told Rick that “you are going to have to have the next kid.” And so he did, they traveled to Russia and adopted two children Annie and Jesse. Rick enjoyed inventing and tinkering. He embodied the expression, “jack of all trades.” He loved doing theater, and got his whole family involved. Rick and Kipp traveled the world and saw over half the United States. Rick also loved the church. After 20 years, his passion for drumming returned. He was a leader, a servant, and a role model, whose life had an eternal impact. He was an incredible grandfather and his children’s best friend. He will be missed. He is survived by his Mother, Madean; his three siblings, Jerry, Leonard, and David; His wife, Kipp; four adult children; nine grandkids and one daughter-in-law and two sons-in-law that he treated as his own. I want to thank the Sutter Coast Medical team for all their hard work and perseverance, and BNaz for showering us with love, support, and prayers.

A celebration of life will be held Friday, September 17th at 1:00 at Brookings Nazarene Church as well as online on their Facebook. Donations/flowers can be made in Kipp Graves’ name and sent to 1600 Chetco Ave. Brookings, OR 97415

Frank Rodney Dowd

September 1, 1954 - September 9, 2021

Roddy Dowd, legally named Frank Rodney Dowd, was born in Hoopa, CA on September 1, 1954. Roddy began his journey to the other side on September 9, 2021 in Crescent City. He was 67 years young.

Roddy was one of seven children born to Nummy and Puzzy Dowd. He began his life living in Klamath, Ca. After the 1964 flood, they made their way to Crescent City where he spent most of his life. He moved around to different spots in his early life but would always make his way back home to Fresno St.

He grew up being active in boxing, playing sticks, fishing, hunting, and running a muck.

Roddy began his own family early and kept his genes going strong for generations, having children ranging from 50 years old to 24 years old. "Chief Roddy" was married twice and was blessed with 9 children, 20 grandchildren, and one great grandson. His love for his family was undeniable. He had a unique relationship with all of his kids that they will always hold dearly. He had a true love for watching his family grow. Always excited for a new grandchild, niece or nephew; because that meant more babies to hold and more kids to tease. He would try his best to make it to watch his kids and grandkids play sports. He had a tight knit relationship with his seven siblings and their children as well. His nieces and nephews had a special soft spot for their "auntie" Roddy.

Roddy spent his life doing numerous jobs and was always on a hustle. He did labor work jobs such as construction on the bypass and the Klamath rock query. He was also active in the cannabis movement. But most notably he was a fisherman and gatherer. He spent every minute he could on the Klamath River gill netting for salmon or just having a good time. He learned to fish from his dad and his obsession for the river was indisputable. He was always outside and had a lot of knowledge about the land he grew up on. He enjoyed gathering indian tea, seaweed, berries, acorns, willow and spruce roots, and hazel sticks. He took honor in that he could help supply these things for his people to use to make baskets, to eat and to heal. Roddy was a proud member of the Yurok Tribe; coming from the descendants of Weitchpec and Pecwan.

Roddy lived a full life.. We have to admit that. He was the epitome of the saying "if you never slow down you never grow old." Anyone who knew him knew that he was a "fungi" with a hell of a lot of charisma. He was someone who would make you laugh and always have a joke or a wild story to tell. He was a smooth talker and a dancing fool. He could make friends with anyone and never passed judgment. He was good about helping people when he could and had friends all over the map. Many people can speak on his healing hands as well; being able to give healing massages. He could brighten up any room and would just randomly show up anyplace at any time. He was a car ass who enjoyed cruising and listening to music. Didn't matter where you were going, he was down to ride. Roddy enjoyed going to the casino and gambling with his friends and family. He was always ready to play crib or dice. With all of Roddy's radiant energy he also had a calming demeanor for people. He was a great listener and confidant. He was someone who would always be there for you if you needed him. Roddy was the type of person who if you met even once left a lasting impression.

Even though we feel that our Dad Roddy left us a few years early he'd say, "I'd rather owe it to you then cheat you out of it."

Roddy Dowd you will be forever missed by so many. The stories are endless. We will see you on the other side Pops, have the crib board ready. Chuu' Until we meet again.

Roddy is survived by his love Angela Evenson. Children Israel & Kandis, Spaghe & Czarina, Rocky, Moonchay & Timber, Madison & Jake Flynn, Roxann, Nikki & Jeremiah, Guy & Marissa. Mother of his older children: Debra Earls. Grandchildren: Ryan, Justin, Collin, Ethan, Cecilia, Vinny, Dayton, Damian, Danner, Draidon, Myah, Farah, Autumn, Brody, Quespin, Little Rocky, Zaiden, Sa-miah and Jo-noah. Great-grandson Emile. Brothers & Sisters: Rhonda, Kathy, Ricky, Gary, Susie. Nieces and Nephews: Ch-mook, Sah-sep, Little Ricky & Rachel, Keshan, Numikoy, Thomas "Kahno" & Jessica, Kesi, Jake, Chelsea, Derek, Janie, Anita, and Jesse. Great Nieces and Nephews: Kit-Kah, Kaget, Kagama, Range, Gerald, Phoenix, Alonzo, Nateya, Sueveya, Addie, Johnnie, Tara Grace, Estelle, Eliza, Nummie, Eli, Denise, Kylmn, Kyha, Josie, Aaliyah, London, Brylynn, Ashley, Lynnea, Levi, and Jiriayah.

He is survived by many more family and friends. Far too many to name.

He is preceded in death by his parents Frank and Venola Dowd. His brother Davy Dowd. His daughter Misty Dowd. His granddaughter Waukela Dowd. Nephews Gerald, Tyler, and Kaget Dowd. And Niece Tara Gordon.

Pallbearers: Gary, Ricky, Izzy, Spaghe, Rocky, and Guy Dowd. Jeremiah Swain, Jake Flynn Timber Scott, Johnny Provolt, Little Ricky Dowd and Thomas Gordon.

Letters to the Editor

Don't burn pallets

This year, and in many years past, my wife and I and others have cleaned up after bonfires created out of pallets and other objects on or near the Lake Earl Wildlife Area. I'm not against bonfires done safely in the proper area. What I am against is the non-burnable objects left behind.

Perhaps people don't know/care that there are hundreds of nails in each pallet that remain long after the embers die. Those of us that drive, hike, run our dogs, launch our boats and generally recreate on in these public areas have to deal with those nails and other unburned objects. They are a hazard at many levels for humans, tires, boats, waders and animals. We've cleaned up thousands of nails in the last few years. It is a slow, tedious process and it's near impossible to collect them all. A brief call to the DNC Transfer Station revealed it cost 87 cents to drop off 20 pounds of clean pallets. Since most pallets emanate from local businesses or government entities, it is my suggestion/request to those groups to ensure that their extra and unneeded pallets make it to the transfer station rather than our public lands.

It appears some businesses are happy to have some pallets removed by folks for their use. I understand that need, but again would encourage businesses to ascertain that they will not become fuel for fires on public lands.

If you can't figure out a plan to help control the future location of your unneeded pallets, call me, I'm in the local phone book or call the DNC Transfer Station. They're in there as well.

My thoughts on meeting

In response to the comments from a couple of citizens during the most recent

City Council meeting, I have a few comments of my own:

Yes, Mr. Gitlin, the taxpayers may end up paying for mandatory testing programs. But who do you suppose is going to end up paying for days, weeks and/or months spent in the ICU for COVID-19 sufferers? Speaking as a taxpayer, I'd much rather end up covering the bills for testing to prevent COVID than the increased insurance and health care costs that will be the caused by the millions (possibly billions eventually?) of dollars spent to treat COVID patients. Remember that adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"?

Mr. Barnes, is it really true you consider it "lunacy" to mandate testing in an attempt to prevent COVID spread? Maybe you are old enough to remember rationing books during WWII? (During WWII ration books and tokens were issued to each family in the U.S. These dictated how much food, gasoline, tires, clothes and other items that one person could purchase.) Would you have been "astounded" and considered it "lunacy" to ask U.S. citizens to support the war effort by having their purchases limited? Fortunately, the majority of U.S. citizens willingly followed the directive of their president and accepted the sacrifice to benefit the war effort. BTW, in case you've lost count, COVID has already taken the lives of more U.S. citizens than WWII did.

Instead of continuing to fuel the great COVID divide in our county and our country, you might encourage your followers to at least give a try to the measures our elected representatives have adopted. It's possible you'll find that their mandates work at limiting the spread of this deadly and very costly virus.

Welcome to Yosemite, the new Pyrocene Park

By STEVE PYNE

The Pleistocene epoch that began 2.6 million years ago sent ice in waves through Yosemite.

Glaciers gouged out great valleys along the Merced and Tuolumne rivers, ice sheets rounded granite domes, cirques sculpted the High Sierra. John Muir traced virtually every landscape feature of Yosemite to its legacy of ice.

Now the residual ice is melting, the streams and waterfalls are drying and the living landscape is burning. In 1990, the A-Rock fire closed the park for the only time in its history, so far. The 2013 Rim fire burned around the Hetch Hetchy reservoir; the 2018 Ferguson fire burned along the park's Wawona Road. Where the fires didn't spread, their smoke did.

Add in the industrial combustion of fossil fuels, with its climatic impacts, and virtually every management issue of Yosemite today traces back to fire.

Humans have always used fire: It's our ecological signature.

The end of the last glaciation allowed us, a fire-wielding species, to interact with an increasingly fire-receptive planet. Our pact with fire was mutual. Fire allowed us to flourish; in return, we have taken fire everywhere, even to Antarctica.

The pact had to operate within boundaries set by living landscapes. After all, fire was a creation of life, which furnished its oxygen and fuel and established ecological barriers. Then we discovered an immense reservoir of combustibles buried in geologic time. It was as though we had found a new world – a fossilized, "lithic" landscape – we could work the way we did living landscapes. The only constraints were those people chose to impose on themselves.

Add up all the burning that people now do in living, and it would seem we are refashioning the Earth with the fire-informed equivalent of an Ice Age, complete with a change in climate, rising sea levels, a mass extinction, major shifts in biogeography and smoke palls. Little on Earth is unaffected.

Fire is driving off the last vestiges of the Pleistocene, from its ice to its mammoths. We have been creating a Pyrocene for millennia, but binge-burning fossil fuels put the process on afterburners.

Fifty years ago Yosemite recognized that its fire scene was out of whack. The problem then was not too much of the wrong kind of fire but too little of the right kind. The park sought to restore pre-settlement fire regimes. Among targeted sites was Illilouette Creek, an elevated basin southeast of Glacier Point.

The park recognized that suppressing fire had stockpiled fuels from the foothills to the crestline, caused Yosemite Valley and the Mariposa Grove to overflow with invasive conifers that blocked views, and prevented the fabled sequoias from regenerating. The park introduced prescribed fire and learned to loose-herd wildfires. The Illilouette basin shuffled toward something like its former fire regime.

No place has the fire program it wants, but Yosemite seems better positioned than the national forests and private lands around it to cope. The issue is no longer to restore natural fire but to find the right mix of fires suppressed and prescribed, and of wildfires managed, to ward off the megafires that are plaguing everywhere else.

Yosemite deals with fires that can threaten small and not-so-small villages. Its specialty is working with wildland fire.

By Aug. 20 of this year the park had coped with 54 fires, 43 from lightning and 11 from people. Some were put out. Some were confined within natural barriers. And a few burning in Illilouette Basin were tweaked as nature's invisible hand massaged them into five decades of layered burning. The legacy of past fires had altered the conditions for the fires that followed, softening the shock of tougher, meaner burns.

Yosemite has long been celebrated for distilling into near-crystalline state the magnificence of the Western landscape. As it moves from ice to fire, it is showing that it may also serve as a proxy for some of what the Earth needs to do to survive our deepening fire age. There is no way we can't not manage fire.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

ADVICE TO GRADUATE LEADS TO MAJOR FALLING-OUT

DEAR ABBY: I have been in my second marriage for almost 20 years. My wife came with two grown children, who each have two kids. I have tried to be the best family man I could, and a father and grandfather who treated them like they were my own.

My wife's daughter "Diana" recently disrupted everything after I gave her daughter (my granddaughter) some financial advice after she graduated from college. Diana not only went off on me, but also lied to her children about me and has shut me and my wife out of their lives. I'm crushed and trying not to lose the relationships with Diana's kids. I don't feel I did anything wrong. The advice I gave was sound and nothing a professional would disagree with. Please advise. -- HURTING FROM HELPING

DEAR HURTING: You have my sympathy. This may be an unfortunate example of "no good deed goes unpunished." Because Diana refuses to discuss the matter, the breach she has created isn't fixable. If you are successful in maintaining a relationship with the grandkids, you may eventually find out what set your wife's daughter off. In the meantime, you and your poor wife must accept what has happened and do your best not to allow it to further disrupt your lives.

DEAR ABBY: Like a lot of people, I'm working from home. Today I was completing a complicated procedure between calls from customers and getting conflicting instant messages from my supervisor and manager. I exclaimed a cuss word and suddenly got an IM from the manager saying I shouldn't cuss. I'm at home, in my room, using my computer and on pause so I can't receive a call from a customer, and my manager is listening to me? Was I in the wrong here? -- CAUGHT IN TEXAS

DEAR CAUGHT: Yes, you were. If you did something during business hours that you wouldn't do at the office, you shouldn't have been doing it at home. (In the future, if you want to blurt out a few choice words, do it while you are well away from the microphone!)

DEAR ABBY: Unlike the rest of my family of omnivores, I have been a vegan for decades. Without fail, every time we get together and go out to eat, whoever made the reservation chooses a restaurant that serves nothing I can eat. So I end up eating just bread and a small dinner salad. I'm not asking that we go to a vegan restaurant (although I'd prefer that), just a vegan-friendly place. Advice? -- HUNGRY VEGAN GUY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR VEGAN GUY: Provide your insensitive relatives with a list of restaurants to choose from that are more accommodating to your lifestyle. In California, many restaurants cater to patrons with varying needs, so this shouldn't have happened to you more than once. Nothing will change until you speak up.

This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. OBITUARIES

Patrick Terrence Kearney

Patrick Terrence Kearney was born on November 27, 1954, in Long Beach, CA to John and Rita (Dwan) Kearney. As a child, he never met a stranger and would begin a conversation with anyone who would listen. He was always resourceful and hard-working, beginning as a pre-teen helping his brothers deliver newspapers and collect golf balls at the driving range.

He left home after high school to become a tree trimmer, then moved to the Sierra Nevada mountains and never looked back. He worked at the Truckee Tahoe Airport and volunteered as a firefighter with the Sierraville Fire Department. A move to O'Brien, Oregon resulted in a career change that was the most fulfilling for him. He became a counselor at the Bar-O-Boys Ranch in Gasquet, CA. Being a bit of a handful himself as a teen, Patrick thought he could relate to the young men and counsel them toward making wholesome choices in life.

Patrick retired in 2015 and relocated to Idaho to be closer to his sisters. He passed away on June 10th, along with his beloved German shepherd, Rock. He is survived by his siblings, John and Dennis Kearney, Karen Henriksen, Kristine (Nick) Tonsich and Erin Kearney.

He attended elementary school in Santa Ana, Calif., moving to the Sonoma, Calif. area in 1942. He attended high schools in Sonoma and Chowchilla, Calif., graduating from Sonoma Valley Union High School in 1949.

Dick served in the US Air Force from 1951 to 1955. After receiving an honorable discharge, he was employed by the state of California in Los Angeles from 1955-1959. He moved to Crescent City, Calif. in 1959 where he met and married his wife, Eugenia Flocchini. There were married July 2, 1961 in Reno, Nev. They moved to Gold Beach, Ore. in 1967 and then to Klamath Falls in 1981.

Dick worked in the plywood industry for 35 years, retiring from Columbia Forest Products Company in Klamath Falls in 1996. He enjoyed the Pacific Coast, especially ocean and river fishing in Norther California and Southern Oregon. He also enjoyed trips to Reno, bowling, and many other sporting activities, both as a spectator and participant.

Survivors include his sister-in-law, Edith (Flocchini) Lewis of Bellevue, WA; brother-in-law, Lester Flocchini of Medford, OR; brother and sister-in-law Gerald and Sharon Flocchini of Klamath Falls; as well as numerous loving nieces and nephews, great-nieces and nephews, and great-great-nieces and nephews.

“Climate change impacts are really complicated,” Carr said. “They have lots of feedback to the system that most of the vulnerability assessments don’t capture.”

The goals of the assessment plan created by Carr and his team are to identify vulnerabilities and adaptive capacities, empower communities for mitigation and adaption to climate impact and avoid unintended consequences.

After creating a framework for the assessment, Carr and his team at Cal Santa Cruz tested it by looking back a few years. They looked back at the devastation of the red sea urchin fishery. That event was brought on by two events, a marine heat wave from 2014 to 2016 from California to Washington at the same time that sea star wasting disease began eliminating most of the sea stars from the ocean.

The heat wave played a role by killing large portions of the kelp forest, which is the primary food source for urchins. Sea stars, the main predator of urchins, were eliminated at the same time. The result is red urchins were forced to move to deeper water and purple urchins, which reproduce faster, began to take over.

When looking at the assessment, Carr said they look at four areas - the resource of interest, in this case the red sea urchins, the ecological community, human users and the overall human community.

“It’s important to recognize each one of these domains impacts the other domains, either directly or indirectly,” Carr said. “Each of these feedbacks interact with the resource domain. Climate impacts are likely to impact all the domains.”

With the red sea urchins, the loss of kelp and a predator to control the purple urchins impacted the red sea urchins. As a result, the purple urchins reproduced rapidly, leading to greater loss of the kelp forest as the urchins ate. The human users, or the people who fished for and processed the urchins lost work, and the greater community suffered when there were no urchins to eat.

The impact was felt greatest from Port Orford into Northern California, where the water temperature climbed 2 degrees.

“That marine heat wave is thought to be one of the largest marine heat waves in the world,” Carr said. “In the absence of food and the absence of predators, the purple sea urchin just went crazy. They came out and fed on all the algae.”

Interestingly, the warmer water itself did little to hurt the red sea urchin, but the impacts down the line did.

“The sensitivity of the red urchin to the heat was minimal,” Carr said. “Rather, indirect ecological interaction in the kelp field impacted the urchin.”

Carr said the impact is being felt five year later because the kelp forests have not fully recovered.

“As soon as the kelp recovers from the heat wave, the red urchin will be back,” Carr said. “The marine heat wave only impacted the Northern California fishery. The Southern California fishery was not impacted.”

Carr said the people who fish for urchins had minimal impact as well because they were able to find other work. However, the processors did struggle.

Carr said going back and looking at a past event will help scientists prepare for a future one.

“If we have another heat wave, you could ask what’s going that going to do to the Port Orford fishery,” Carr said. “You could adjust this to get some answers. It requires local experience. It requires the knowledge of people in that system.”

Another question that can be answered is how long the impact will last. And it could be longer than expected.

“To this day, we’re now starting to see more of the kelp recover,” Carr said. “The prognosis of Northern California is pretty bleak. You need to change the urchin population in order for the kelp to recover.”

There is good news and bad news when looking at the 2014-16 heat wave.

“How often are we going to see the event,” Carr asked. “That will be a big key as to recovery. If we start seeing more heat waves that could shift the system.”

Phillip Johnson, the executive director of Oregon Shores, said Carr’s presentation is one of a series of events Oregon Shores is doing in 2021 as part of a celebration of its 50th anniversary.

“We potentially address any conservation issue along the Oregon coast,” Johnson said. “Anything that does threaten the Oregon coast, we do care about deeply.”

use it personally? No. But if they’re following the law, I don’t see an avenue to deny the permit,” Greenough said.

Mayor Pro Tem Blake Inscore affirmed the process as well. He said the ordinance which allows the indoor cultivation plant was given a lot of thought and the applicant is compliant.

“This wasn’t a rubber stamp. It was over a two year span vetted in public meetings. No one said don’t do it. If people were against it, that’s when the discussion should have taken place,” he said.

Council member Ray Altman was more blunt. “Do you want boarded up buildings and a shit hole or do you want to support businesses? We’ll have a business instead of a boarded up building.”

In the end the council upheld the planning commission’s approval for Ocean Grown LLC to create an indoor cultivation business on Front Street. It will have to remove the front windows, keep the sign at the back of the building and control odor. It cannot have light spilling out to the surrounding area and must have security as spelled out by the ordinance. It also cannot sell its product commercially on site but will have it removed by a licensed distributor.

The plant will employ roughly six people including the owner.

The one dissenting vote came from Council Member Beau Smith who said he wasn’t on the council when the cannabis ordinance was passed and was “having a hard time with it.” Smith claims “a man ought to be able to do what he wants on his own property” but he didn’t believe the ordinance was a good idea. “I wouldn’t want my kid working there.”

In the end the motion for approval of the business was all in favor with Smith voting no. The business can go forward.

PREPARING FOR A PUBLIC SAFETY POWER SHUTOFF

During severe weather, high winds could cause tree branches or debris to contact electric lines and start fires. That's why PG&E may need to turn off power during severe weather to help prevent wildfires. This is called a Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS). While turning off the power helps prevent wildfires, we know it can be disruptive. We are working year-round to improve PSPS events for our customers and communities.

HERE ARE 5 WAYS TO PREPARE FOR A PSPS:

Make sure PG&E can reach you before a PSPS by updating your contact information at pge.com/mywildfirealerts.

Pack or restock your family's emergency kit including food, water, batteries, radio and a first aid kit.

2

Make preparations for anyone in your family who depends on electricity for medical needs.

3

Practice manually opening your garage door .

4

Ensure any backup power sources are ready and safe to operate.

For translated support in over 200 languages, please contact PG&E at 866-743-6589.

Boardwalk construction complete in Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park

California State Parks, Save the Redwoods League, Redwood Parks Conservancy and the National Park Service have completed construction on the 1,300-foot-long boardwalk through the Grove of Titans in Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park. Access to the Grove of Titans is now open, but limited while construction of the Mill Creek Trail continues.

The full restoration and realignment of the three-mile Mill Creek Trail, which provides access to the Grove of Titans spur trail, is expected to be completed by early summer 2022. The first mile of Mill Creek Trail is open from Howland Hill Road through the Grove of Titans boardwalk, forming an out-and-back trail. The remaining two miles of the Mill Creek Trail from the new boardwalk to the Smith River will remain closed for construction.

Due to the pandemic, road closures, wildfire and labor shortages, the full re-opening of the trail has been delayed.

On Nov. 6, 2019, construction began on a 1,300-foot-long elevated walkway through the Grove of Titans in Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park, part of Redwood National and State Parks in Del Norte County. This work is the first phase of a multi-year, $3.5 million project organized and implemented by California State Parks, Save the Redwoods League, Redwood Parks Conservancy and the National Park Service.

The project, first announced in November 2018, was conceived to provide environmentally sensitive access to the Grove of Titans and adjacent forest. Thousands of visitors have been finding their way on “social trails” or unofficial pathways since the location of the grove was first shared online in 1998, which has caused considerable damage over time.

The renovation project establishes official, safe access to the Grove of Titans, provides ecosystem protections for the trees, visitor services and amenities, including new restroom facilities along Howland Hill Road.

For park visitors’ safety, the Mill Creek Trail from the Grove of Titans boardwalk to the Smith River will be fenced off and closed during construction. Any park visitors in violation of the posted closure will be subject to a citation.

In addition to the Grove of Titans boardwalk, and Workers did the laborious task of moving and installing a 1,300-foot-long boardwalk in Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park.

open portion of Mill Creek Trail, park visitors may use the nearby Boy Scout Tree, Nickerson Ranch, Little Bald Hills or Stout Grove trails, which are accessible from Howland Hill Road. As always, please recreate responsibly by following park rules and regulations, including staying on trail, packing out your trash, and keeping your dogs off trails. The redwood forests depend on you to help protect them for the enjoyment of current and future generations.

Property taxes due by end of month

Del Norte County Tax Collector Barbara M. Lopez would like to remind taxpayers that unsecured property taxes for the fiscal year 2021-22 are now due and payable and will become delinquent if not paid or postmarked by September 30. After this date, a 10% penalty plus a $10 collection fee will be added.

Unsecured personal property tax is assessed on various types of property including business property, boats, boat slips, mining claims and possessory interests in leased property.

Each year, many tax bills are returned because the property owner moved and failed to notify the Del Norte County Assessor’s Office. It is the taxpayer’s responsibility to notify the tax collector if a bill is not received. Failure to receive a tax bill is not sufficient reason for non-payment.

The tax collector’s office urges anyone having questions to contact their office at 464-7283.
