Recent weddings featuring local couples

Sarah Cameron and Dutton Hughes

SEPT. 21, 2024

Dutton, a Navy officer, and Sarah, who works in financial services, grew up playing tennis and golf together throughout the summer at Southern Hills Country Club. A friendship eventually blossomed into love as the young couple moved 1,300 miles apart for college.

Dating all four years of college and later as they made their lives in different states, the couple finally closed the long-distance chapter of their romance in May 2023 once Dutton received a permanent assignment in Connecticut.

He popped the question during a weekend spent in Tulsa. The couple spent 15 months planning their wedding, which Sarah says was “elegant, timeless and happy.” Approximately 240 were in attendance. “Because we have both lived in so many different places, the majority of our guests were from out of town, and for a lot of them it was their first time to visit Oklahoma,” she says. “It made us so happy to show off Tulsa and everything it has to offer.”

Makenzie Nickel and Alex Bartovick

OCT. 26, 2024

Tulsa natives Makenzie and Alex wed at the bride's childhood home in front of an intimate group of family and close friends. "I loved having loved ones visit me throughout the day while I got ready in my childhood bedroom," she says. Both parents walked the bride and groom down the aisle, with the couple's best friend officiating the service.

The couple — he's an entrepreneur and she's an interior designer — met during the 2022 Christmas holidays and he popped the question during a special birthday event at Southern Hills Country Club. She loves that Alex is creative with a sense of humor and has an outgoing personality. He loves Makenzie's selflessness, kind heart and ability to make others feel loved.

Kaitlyn Wayman and Marshall Pritchard

NOV. 2, 2024

Neither Kaitlyn nor Marshall ever expected to meet their life partner while shopping the aisles at Natural Grocers. “It was the right place at the right time and the right person,” Kaitlyn says. A favorite date of the couple’s three-year courtship was feeding the squirrels at Woodward Park. “It’s difficult to choose what I love most about her,” Marshall says, “but I love how nurturing she is to everyone and every creature she meets.”

The couple’s wedding on the upper lawn of the Tandy Garden at Tulsa Botanic Garden welcomed 100 guests. Friends left audio guestbook messages for the bride and groom, a Cherokee marriage license was signed and the couple danced the night away. The evening ended with a celebratory tinsel wand send-off.
