Dude's owner has been making the cut for 24 years

■ Best Barber Shop: Straight (razor) talk from the owner of a Gold-winning shop.

By Kathleen D. Bailey
Special to the Union Leader

If Gail Henry has a favorite part of her job, it's shaving. "I love shaving," the owner of Dude's Barber Shop in Hooksett said. "I love the feel and the sound of hair coming off with the straight-edge razor. I literally have guys fall asleep in the chair."

Henry's shop was named a Gold winner for Best Barber Shop in this year's Readers' Choice poll.

She will hang up her straight razor in May 2027 and is looking for a buyer for the shop. She took a few minutes to reflect on the profession she loves.

A safer way to work

Henry trained as a women's hairdresser, and spent the first part of her career cutting, coloring and perming. She took barber training and received her license in 2000.

"It was partly because of the chemicals," she explained, citing the number of potentially cancer-causing chemicals used in women's salons.

In contrast, "you walk into a barbershop and all you smell is aftershave, or cologne."

She is dual-licensed in both fields, she said.

The difference between the two professions? A barber is trained to do straight-razor shaving, a hairdresser is not. A hairdresser is trained to do nails, a barber is not.

She began her barbering career at a shop in Exeter. When two of her former classmates bought what would eventually become "Dude's," they recruited her.

"We started out in a tiny shop in Manchester, at the corner of Webster and Walnut," she recalled. "After six years, we were bursting at the seams. We squeezed three chairs into space for two. For walk-ins, there was an hour wait."

They moved into a space big enough for five barbers, then knocked down a wall to accommodate two more. When a neighboring business moved out, they moved in and added two more barbers until they were up to 10.

Henry eventually became partner, then bought the two original owners out. She now has a staff of nine barbers, including herself.

The current shop is a reflection of Henry's style and taste. The barber stations are gleaming wood with curved edges. Her antiques dot the room, including a case of vintage shaving mugs.

When she discovered that her collection of patches from local law enforcement was showing wear, she enlisted her late father-in-law to craft cabinets for them. Free coffee awaits walk-ins or regulars.

There's also a TV, but it's rarely on, except for some sporting events, Henry said. Her customers prefer to talk.

Yes, guys talk in the chair. "They enjoy coming here," Henry said with a shrug.

Over the years she's shared milestones with her clients — births, bereavement, job woes, medical issues. "Over 24 years I've watched their children grow up, and now they have children of their own," she said.

The kindest cuts of all

Dude's has won awards before, and Henry said it's due to her staff's attention to detail. "We do sharp edges, really crisp cuts," she said. "It's not common for barbers to go to as much detail as we do."

She also credits her team, noting, "This is the best team I ever had. They're so talented, they all get along, and they're there for each other."

The staff will cut women's hair, but it's not a priority, she said. They will work on women with short hair, but not long.

As a woman, Henry faced criticism starting out.

"It was considered a man's turf, and at first I heard all these little digs."

That usually ended, she said, after one of her shaves.

For a young person considering barbering as a career, she urged them to "Go for it! What you put into it, you get back."

Dude's is located at 1328 Hooksett Road in Hooksett.

A family campground – built for families – passed down through families

■ Best Campground: It's impossible for kids to be bored at Friendly Beaver campground in New Boston.

By Kathleen D. Bailey
Special to the Union Leader

Robert Charest Jr. likes to joke about growing up in the Friendly Beaver Campground in New Boston. “When we were young, we couldn’t get away with anything,” Charest said. “It was a family atmosphere, and everyone knew everyone else.”

His father, Robert Sr., bought the campground in 1979. The younger Charest, current owner/operator, points to that family feeling for the campground’s success, culminating in being named a Gold winner for Best Campground in this year’s Readers’ Choice poll.

Welcome “home”

As Charest relaxed in one of the snack bars, he said one of the reasons campers keep coming back is that close-knit feeling. “People know each other,” he said, adding, “We get a lot of families from the Boston area. They know it’s a safer environment.”

When Robert Sr. bought the business, there were 12 campsites. The facility now has 300 sites, for both tents and RVs.

Over the years, the Charests have added fields or courts for nearly every sport. “Kids love sports,” Charest explained. There are rec halls for children and adults, an outdoor playground, three outdoor swimming pools and one indoor pool.

The complex also includes a petting farm, which is especially popular with his city customers, Charest said.

As his sister-in-law Dottie Charest scrubbed her hands at the sink, she said, “I have ‘chicken duty’ today!” The current residents are chickens and goats.

Some campgrounds cater to seniors and that’s OK, Robert Charest said. But the focus at Friendly Beaver is families with children. “We are not a ‘quiet’ park,” he said. “It tends to be active and busy here.”

The store contains everything a camper might want — or forget. There are campfire supplies, trailer equipment, canned goods, and even a selection of bathing suits. “People forget stuff,” he said with a shrug. There are coloring books and crayons — for both adults and kids — for a rainy day. There are Christmas lights and tent pegs.

And there’s a selection of Friendly Beaver merch, from an infant onesie to adult T-shirts and sweat-shirts.

Something for everybody

In the busy season, the campground offers a slate of programming, with theme activities

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY

Staff members Dottie Charest and Lauren Merritt visit with the chickens in the Petting Farm at Friendly Beaver Campground in New Boston.

every weekend. There’s Mardi Gras, Fourth of July, a Western weekend and a Hawaiian weekend. There’s Christmas in July and an early Halloween. Guests can decorate their cars and drive in parades, Charest said.

The campground offers two options, “Seasonal” and “short-term.” Seasonal campers contract for the entire year, park their camper, and come back whenever they want. Short-term campers sign up for a week or a weekend, then go their way.

There are also cabins for guests who relax that way, and 12 tent sites for guests who like roughing it.

On a recent weekday afternoon, Kristine Leone of Candia and her daughter Paisley showed another Candia family, the Chiccarellis, around the complex. Leone’s family are third-year guests. She said she especially liked the campground because of the slate of activities. “Their program keeps kids busy all weekend,” she said.

Looking to the future

The campground was

See Friendly Beaver, Page 17

originally called “Beaver Hollow,” according to Charest. His father knew that another campground had the same name, so he created Friendly Beaver and the logo. The logo is on everything from shirts to mugs.

Charest grew up onsite, accepting a variety of responsibilities. At 18, he went into the Air Force, serving for four years. When he got out, he pursued a career in software engineering.

But the corporate life was no match for the smell of pine trees or the crackle of the campfire, and Charest came home. He now owns the campground along with his brother Wayne and mother Christine Quirk.

The campground has been named a winner in the Union Leader poll several times, and Charest has a few ideas why. The campground is family-owned, not corporate, and allows the staff to be attuned to guests’ needs. “We’re flexible, we can modify for someone’s need,” he said.

The full calendar is also a draw, according to him. “People come to us from other campgrounds, and their main complaint is, “There was nothing to do.” At Friendly Beaver it’s rare for a child to be bored, he said.

In the 21st century, Cha-with a shrug. But at Friendly Beaver “they have them, they’re not glued to them.”

Plans for the future include expanding the playing fields to a sports complex.

But he has no desire to go beyond 300 sites, or to franchise. The personal touch would be lost, he explained. And he wants to pass the business down to a third generation, his brother Wayne’s children.

Family is a theme that runs through Friendly Beaver. Though his facility doesn’t aim itself at seniors, seniors do come, Charest said. “Often they camp here when their children are small, and then the kids ‘age out’ and they stop,” he said. “But then the next generation comes along, and the parents want them to experience camping, and the grandparents come back. It’s definitely a generational thing.”

And for many guests, Friendly Beaver is their happy place, Charest said.

“We had a man who was near the end of his life,” he said. “He only wanted to be here. And he passed away here.”

Friendly Beaver is located at 88 Cochran Hill Road, New Boston. For more information, go to friendlybeaver.com.

WOMAN-OWNED • SERVING NEW HAMPSHIRE FOR OVER 23 YEARS

A family tradition: Goedecke celebrates 102 years of design

■ Gold winner in five categories: At Goedecke, the client always gets the island – and more.

By Kathleen D. Bailey
Special to the Union Leader

Diane Soucy, interior design supervisor for Goedecke Paint, Flooring and Design, remembers one client who owned an historic home in Goffstown.

"We were doing a remodel, and she wanted a kitchen island," Soucy recalled. "But the kitchen was really small. Other designers told her it couldn't be done."

But other designers weren't Goedecke, Soucy added. "Herb Goedecke and I came out to the house, and we told her, 'We can do an island.'" The team figured and refigured, and after working out a design on the computer, the woman got her island. "She told us, 'Nobody else could see my vision,'" Soucy recalled.

The Goedecke team has been helping clients achieve their visions for 102 years. The Bedford company was named a Gold winner for Best Interior Design Center in this year's Readers' Choice poll, in addition to the categories of General Contractor-Remodeling, Kitchen & Bath Remodeler, Flooring Store and Tile Store.

Peter Goedecke now runs the company along with his brother Herbert. "I grew up sweeping floors, cleaning toilets," Peter Goedecke said. By the age of 13, he was making area rugs for clients. He stayed on through high school, working in a variety of capacities. But at that time, the early '90s, the business wasn't doing well, and Goedecke explored options, ending up with a license to work as an aircraft mechanic. When the economy turned around, he came back to the showroom. "It didn't make sense," he said, "to work for someone else."

Herbert had the same idea, and the brothers teamed up. Herb has a gift for selling, Peter Goedecke said. "But he looked young, so he grew a beard." They specialized in flooring, with Herb selling and Peter installing.

Another turning point in the business was 1998, when the company moved from the building next door to its current quarters. "The old space had a 'Mom and Pop' feel," Goedecke recalled. "It was basically for people who knew our work." The new site has an antebellum Southern entrance with pillars and pediments, a gleaming show floor, and comfortable offices upstairs. Since the remodel, Goedecke said, "We've grown 25 percent each year."

They now offer three services: off-the-floor shopping for everything from bathroom tiles to a can of spray paint, installation, and hands-on design assistance. The Goedeckes employ 35 people in retail, installation and design. Brands stocked include Benjamin Moore Paint and Hunter-Douglas window treatments.

Soucy has been with Goedecke for eight years and supervises a team of three designers. "We each have our own style," she said. "But Peter and Herb make it easy for us to express our own ideas, or our client's."

During and after COVID-

19, most of the clients wanted kitchens in white and gray, she said. "Now they want to express their own personality, their own colors," she said, adding, "But there's still a demand for the traditional New England design, the crown moldings and the like."

The nostalgic touches are a reflection of home and safety to many clients, Marketing Manager Dave Smith said. "Our job is to make it happen."

A trunk and a truck

In the early 20th century, George Goedecke achieved “Meister Maler” or Master Painter for the Kaiser’s palace in Berlin, Germany. Inflation between the two wars affected his career, so he and his wife Anna sailed for the States, landing in Manchester in 1923.

George peddled his services, at first from a bicycle. He established Goedecke Painting and began to work with clients, sharing not only basic painting but the gold leaf and faux finishes he’d learned in Berlin. George’s son Herbert joined the firm in the 30s and expanded it to 20 employees. George kept the company going while Herbert served in World War II.

After college and his own military service, Herbert’s son Alan took over the company and added the design showroom, in addition to the contract work they did in homes. Peter and Herb are the fourth generation involved with the company.

The Goedecke brothers had seen photos of, and hoped to find, the 1942 truck their grandfather drove for company work. They didn’t find the original, but they located a similar model and traveled to North Carolina to drive it back. It’s a treasured piece of Goedecke family history, along with Anna Goedecke’s steamer trunk from the voyage to America, displayed in the foyer of the Bedford building.

Olive branches

Why Goedecke? For Smith, who started out installing floors with the company, it’s the personal touch. “At a big box store they don’t know you,” he said. “But here we make a space that works for you, and that’s why our clients are loyal.”

A recent client moved to New Hampshire from California and wanted to pay homage to his former home, Soucy said. “He wanted to tie his new kitchen to his old home, and he wanted a backsplash designed with olive branches.” The client sketched out what he wanted, and the Goedecke team made it work.

“I love the fact we could make his drawing become his backsplash,” Soucy said.

What’s next? Goedecke hopes to see more “healthy growth” for the firm. And in true Goedecke fashion, he hopes to see his children involved, “and pass it on to the fifth generation.”

Goedecke Paint, Flooring and Design is located at 284 Route 101, Bedford. For more information, go to goedeckedecorating.com or call 603-472-5221.

“Terrapin Tours is fantastic. In my opinion, it’s the only way to travel today... Plenty of things to do on the tour and also lots of time to enjoy and relax on your own. Entertained and informed and educated all along the way. Kelly and her staff, both in the office and on the tour, are attentive to your needs and quick to respond, very accommodating. ... I don't think I will travel any other way now that I have been with them.” ~ Pat S.

“My mom has taken a few trips through Terrapin Tours with friends and said the experience was always stress free. She booked a day trip for us and I can confirm it was so easy, just board the bus and they take care of the rest! We had a wonderful time, and I would recommend Terrapin Tours to anyone!” ~ Veronica

See more reviews on Facebook, Google or Tripadvisor!!

“A wonderful experience for sure. All the details are taken care of so all you have to do is sit back and enjoy your trip. ...The bus driver and both tour directors were spot on, everything went smoothly; the hotels were great, the tours were interesting, educational and entertaining. This was our first experience in a group setting and it was a fantastic experience....”

From Venezuela to the Queen City

How one woman found her Oasis — and built a thriving dental practice

■ Best Dentist:

Dr. Carlivette Santamaria has been a dentist for more than 20 years.

By Kathleen D. Bailey
Special to the Union Leader

Dr. Carlivette Santamaria remembers one patient who came in for dentures.

When the staff did a radiographic scan, they discovered damage to the man's aorta. "We could see he had stenosis from calcification," Santamaria explained. "We had the conversation, and he saw a heart specialist."

The man had no family history of heart disease, and his regular medical regime had not detected the condition.

"Thank God he had the scan done — he would have had a stroke," Santamaria said.

Santamaria is the owner and operator of Oasis Dental in Manchester, and Azure Dental in Waltham, Massachusetts. Her attention to detail and that of her staff earned them the designation of Gold winner for Best Dentist in the New Hampshire Union Leader Readers' Choice poll.

Santamaria credited the heart discovery to the Cone Beam, a panoramic sensor that covers the whole head, resulting in a 3-D image. "That way, the surgeon can plan the place to have the most impact," she said.

Santamaria moved to Manchester from Venezuela at age 11, so her mother could work toward a master of business administration degree from New Hampshire

College (now SNHU.) She attended local schools, graduating from Memorial High School and earning her undergraduate degree at Saint Anselm College.

She had always wanted to be a dentist, she said while leading a tour of her facility.

"Several of my family members in Venezuela were dentists, and I 'lived' at the dentist's office," she said. Her interest solidified when her aunt, an orthodontist, installed Santamaria's braces. She was fascinated by the process. "The staff was happy, and they enjoyed their work," she said of her aunt's office.

After Saint Anselm, Santamaria completed her doctor of dental medicine degree from the University of Connecticut School of Dental Medicine.

She practiced in Massachusetts, but found that family and friends were traveling to the Bay State to obtain treatment. So she opened Oasis in Manchester in May 2019. She also continues to serve her Massachusetts patients with Azure Dental, established four years ago.

She likes being back in the Queen City, explaining, "Here I know everybody." Since most of her relatives are back in Venezuela, schoolmates, church friends and neighbors have formed a family for her here, she said.

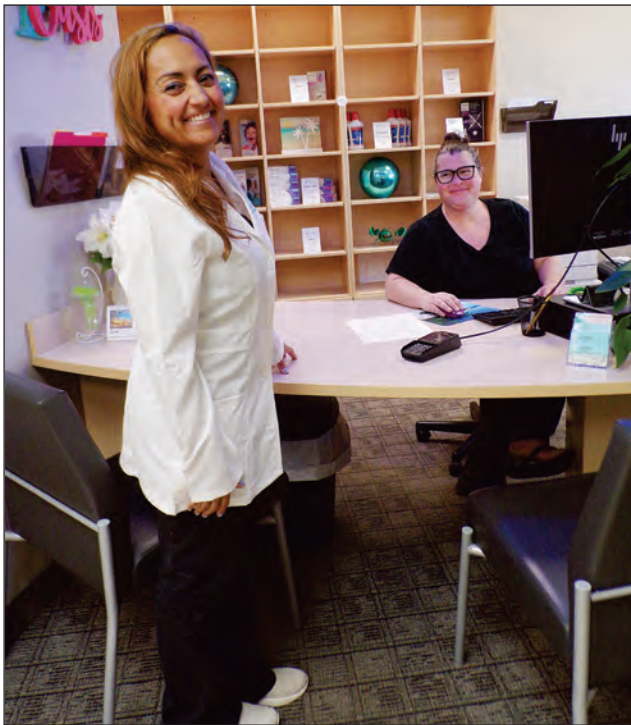

Having won "Best Dentist" awards before, she's reflected on the reasons. The environment at Oasis/Azure is one reason, she said.

"We provide an environment that is caring and nonjudgmental," she said, "We provide our patients with options." The staff is also clear on payment options, and will work with clients to make sure their insurance covers the procedure. "My staff," she said, "is really good at getting insurance breakdowns."

She added, "Nobody goes into this blindly. Patients don't like that."

Santamaria employs two dental hygienists and an office manager. She shares the dental work with her brother, Dr. Felix Santamaria, and Dr. Jesse Lemoine, a periodontist.

Felix Santamaria also

KATHLEEN D. BAILEY

Oasis

provides dental services to prison inmates, so because his schedule varies he works per diem. Lemoine comes in monthly to do implants.

"He does the implants, I put the teeth on the implants," Santamaria said.

Her office provides everything from cleaning to surgery, she said.

Santamaria has worked as a dentist for 20 years, and has seen many changes. One is technology, she said. She enjoys being able to detect a cavity — or a heart condition — with the Cone Beam machine. She uses a digital scanner to fabricate crowns and implants.

While she likes the tech, she worries that components of the new methods will be affected by artificial intelligence.

"You can't interpret a radiograph reading on its own," she explained. "But AI only uses the radiograph, and it can lead to over-diagnosis of a condition."

Her dental suite is spacious and gleaming, with blue-and-white accents. She pointed out the sterilization area, in full view of the patients.

Santamaria has two sons and two stepchildren. She doesn't yet know if any of them will want to pursue dentistry. If they do, she'll probably find a place for them.

She's thinking of expanding, or even franchising.

"We get calls all the time about franchising," she said, adding, "People like the vibe here."

But she and her patients also like the spot in the South Willow plaza. Parking is free, a boon to older patients, and the mall has other shops to visit before or after a session.

In her 20-year career, Santamaria has heard many misconceptions about the dental process.

"People think, 'There's going to be pain, and it's going to be expensive.'"

The pain is manageable, with the newer technology, and Oasis/Azure staff will talk you through it. And the money can be managed, with the patient's own insurance or an option such as Care Credit.

Santamaria is determined that her patients will find their own "oasis" on South Willow Street. She came up with the name before she had a practice, she said.

"In school and life, things go awry," she pointed out. "I found my oasis in dentistry. I found stability and comfort in my work."

Oasis is located at 1525 S. Willow St. in Manchester. For more information, go to oasisdentalnh.com.

2026 UNION LEADER READERS' CHOICE BEST LANDSCAPER

Celebrating 10 Seasons of Serving Our Community

Ten seasons ago, my son Adrian Labrie and I started our own company. A & J Lawn Care was built on a simple idea: work hard, be honest, treat every property as if it were our own, and always be kind.

Today, being voted the 2026 Union Leader Readers' Choice – Best Landscaper is an honor beyond anything we could have imagined. We are truly humbled by the trust and support of the community that has allowed our small business to grow.

TO OUR VALUED CUSTOMERS

Thank you for welcoming us onto your properties and trusting us year after year. Your loyalty, referrals, and encouragement have made this recognition possible.

TO OUR EMPLOYEES

This award belongs to you as much as anyone. Your dedication, craftsmanship, professionalism, and pride in your work are reflected in every project we complete. Thank you for representing our company with integrity every single day.

TO OUR VENDORS, SUPPLIERS, FRIENDS, FAMILY & MENTORS

Thank you for your guidance, encouragement, quality products, and unwavering support throughout the years. Every conversation, recommendation, and helping hand has played a role in our success.

TO THE UNION LEADER

Thank you for recognizing local businesses and providing an opportunity to celebrate the people and companies that make New Hampshire such a special place to live and work.

We are proud to continue serving homeowners and businesses throughout Southern New Hampshire and look forward to many more seasons ahead.

Beyond the properties we care for, we believe in giving back to the communities that have supported us. We are proud sponsors of North Manchester Hooksett Little League and are honored to support the Gary Sinise Foundation, whose mission of serving our nation's veterans, first responders, and their families reflects the values we hold close as a veteran-owned business.

From the Bottom of Our Hearts...

Thank you for voting A & J Lawn Care, LLC the 2026 Union Leader Readers' Choice Best Landscaper.

We are incredibly grateful for your support and look forward to helping keep New Hampshire beautiful for years to come.

Thank you!

– Jordan Labrie (Owner)
