Goodfellas Pizzeria pulls out of Louisville

After long and hard consideration, Goodfellas Pizzeria must pull out of its intended project at 1244 East Broadway, Louisville, KY.

For many years, Goodfellas has been trying to find a home in the Louisville market, and had hoped they had found the perfect spot at the intersection of Broadway and Baxter Avenue. Unfortunately, this project has been extremely difficult to develop. The approval process has been considerably longer than originally anticipated, which included several approvals needed from various city committees. The landlord was becoming impatient and wanted payment on a property we didn't have city approval to operate. After investing over a year of time and resources, Goodfellas has decided it's time to back out.

Goodfellas is hopeful for the future, and we will continue the search for our ideal place in The Ville.
