

Modern tech meets decades of design experience

Jason and Taira Price

For almost 60 years, Sunshine Draperies has brought beauty to homes through the greater St. Louis area. Now, new owners Jason and Taira Price are continuing that tradition and adding new life into the company's trusted offerings.

"Our new name says it all. We are now Sunshine Draperies, Blinds, Shades and Shutters," Jason said. The new name reflects changing times. "Over half of the window treatments we sell aren't draperies, even though we are the biggest and the best company in the St. Louis area for custom drapery.

"We have designers that have 30-plus years of experience in the window treatment industry. They know the styles and trends. They know how to help our clients choose the right window treatment, whether that is a hard treatment (shades, blinds and shutters) or custom drapes," Jason said.

Every window treatment is installed by Sunshine's team of experienced installers. Those includes custom draperies that are expertly crafted in the company's Westport workroom and hard treatments sporting user-friendly technology.

"Today's window treatments offer seamless convenience with automated systems that can be controlled with remotes, smartphones and tablets. Customers can view samples of our hard treatments and fabrics at either of our two main showrooms in Chesterfield Valley and in Sunset Hills, or schedule a complimentary, in-home consultation," Jason said. "We also have a small showroom in our Westport corporate office, as well as a custom workroom staffed by talented seamstresses. At each of our showrooms, customers will find friendly, knowledgeable staff and designers waiting to help them."
