Brooking Park in Chesterfield is set apart from other senior living communities. The company is a nonprofit, faith-based organization, putting people first.

"As a nonprofit, a large percentage of what we earn goes back into Brooking Park," said Scott Kirchoefer, residency coordinator. "Instead of earning profits, we have a nicer facility, with quality features and better amenities for our residents."

Brooking Park provides services that include Assisted Living, Memory Care, Short-Term Rehabilitation and Long-Term Skilled Nursing Care. Each service offers caring compassionate, professional staff.

Assisted Living at Brooking Park provides customized around-the-clock care, personal assistance and daily activities.

"The beautifully renovated units offer spacious floor plans and stainless steel kitchenettes with granite countertops. Cable television is included," Scott said. "Residents are served from a restaurant-style menu with daily specials but also have additional choices," Scott said. "There is also a sweetshop with ice cream, shakes and treats. It has a jukebox that plays music from their era," he said. "There is a beautifully landscaped interior courtyard, exterior patio space and a wide-range of activities from happy hours to education classes, crafts and Bingo," Scott said.

Brooking Park offers those in Memory Care compassion and tender care. Staff are experienced in providing an environment that promotes an anxiety free state. They keep residents engaged with the use of "activities and interventions that stimulate the mind, body and soul," Scott said.

Through gentle care and understanding, seniors enjoy security, serenity and all that's needed for happy, productive living.

Those who need Short-term Rehabilitation, count on Brooking Park to provide the best in accommodations, services and amenities, including luxurious private and semi-private suites, collaboration with physicians, 24-hour skilled staff, chef-prepared meals, a computerized call system and more. "TVs and recliners are everywhere," Scott said.

Brooking Park's Long Term Care Center accommodations are designed to provide full-time nursing and medical services to seniors with special health needs. Nurses, therapists and other caring people provide warmth and companionship, medication management, personal care and three nutritious meals a day all designed around our safe and secure, lovely second interior courtyard.
