

50-plus years of roofing and siding excellence

For 52 years, Allen Roofing & Siding has been serving homeowners and homebuilders in the St. Louis area. Lee Allen founded the company in 1972 and built it into one of the largest roofing and siding companies in the metropolitan area. The company is headquartered in Ellisville, Missouri, and has offices in St. Peters, Missouri, and Caseyville, Illinois.

Allen Roofing & Siding's unwavering commitment to outstanding customer service and quality workmanship has earned the company lifelong customers and a strong reputation in the market. Whether it's new or existing residences, businesses, schools, churches or public buildings, the company believes no job is too large or too small to handle. High-quality products are the first components of an outstanding renovation. The second is having the experience and equipment to install them properly. With Allen Roofing & Siding, customers get both.

"Our goal is to build relationships with our customers by instilling confidence in our work, the products we use and our expertise," explained CEO Stefan Sigurdson. "Our focus is always on the satisfaction of our customers."

Allen Roofing & Siding believes that being a good corporate citizen is very important. The company is frequently recognized for its support of local charitable efforts and its membership in many civic and service organizations.

The company is also recognized or certified by local and national industry best practices organizations.

"We'd be proud to supply your roofing, siding, gutters and tuckpointing needs!"
