

75 years of growing: More than a garden center

Hoffmann Hillermann Nursery & Florist in Washington has helped homeowners transform their indoor and outdoor spaces by offering much more than a traditional garden center.

"We are an all-inclusive, one-stop shop," said CEO Don Simon, who joined the business in 2022 when the Hoffmann Family of Companies purchased the nursery founded by Don and Bernie Hillermann in 1951.

Customers can shop for trees, shrubs, flowers, houseplants, bird feeders, gifts and home décor, and work with professional landscape designers who create customized plans, oversee installation and even provide ongoing landscape maintenance once the project is complete.

Hoffmann Hillermann Nursery focuses on quality, unique products and personalized service.

"We're an independent garden center," Don said. "We have more unique items that you're not going to find at chain stores."

One of the nursery's newest offerings is a collection of Amish-built patio furniture handcrafted in the USA and is built to last and can be custom ordered.

"We like to say, if you're getting patio furniture you would like to last for a lifetime, you're at the right place," Don said.

The nursery makes an effort to source American-made products whenever possible, offering customers higher-quality merchandise designed for long-term enjoyment.

Classes and Events are held at the Potting Bar, including creating a terrarium, kokedama, flower arrangement or combo planter. Customers can avoid making a mess at home and pot up their own planters anytime there is no class.

From landscape design and installation to unique gifts and outdoor essentials, Hoffmann Hillermann Nursery is a trusted destination for homeowners 75 years after opening its doors.
