

They answer, help and haul it away

Ben Boland and Jim Menner

Honest Junk Hauling, a local, family-run business, specializes in aiding individuals in downsizing and decluttering their homes, businesses and properties. Owners Jim Menner and Ben Boland have expanded their company through a dedication to exceptional customer service.

While their primary service involves removing furniture and household items, Honest Junk Hauling offers a broader spectrum of assistance for their customers. From relocating furniture within the house to tearing down fences or decks, and even providing demolition services to prepare for remodeling projects, they can handle any project.

Ben emphasizes their personalized approach: "Understanding diverse needs is crucial. That's why I personally engage with each customer to determine how we can best assist."

One of their popular services involves providing a container for customers to fill at their location, which is then hauled away. Ben highlights its usefulness: "Many opt for this choice to clear items gradually, making it ideal for DIY remodelers or families undertaking a gradual house clean-out."

Planning a move soon? Even if you don't need items hauled away, Honest Junk Hauling offers loading and unloading services. Our team can load or unload your moving truck.

Above all, their business focuses on exceptional customer service and catering to individual requirements. That's why you will speak directly with Ben when you call, unlike some national junk companies that route calls through a call center. "Feel free to give me a call anytime to discuss your next project."
